ESSEX, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 5, 1945.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 5, 1945.

Premier Drew in Broadcast Over Ontario Network.

As we stand at the threshold of a new year, each one of us is asking the same question. What will 1945 bring to us as individuals, to Canada as a nation, and above all to our magnificent young people in uniform who are locked in mortal combat with a still powerful enemy. The question is being asked with a new sense of realism. A short time ago many seemed to feel that the war was already won. Now the year closes with the news of the tremendous German offensive which has given us such stern warning of the power and resourcefulness they still possess.

We read of new order for munitions, of new demands for military supplies, of Britain drafting 250,000 men above their normal call-up in spite of the fact that they have placed greater demands on their manpower than any other nation at war, and of many other things which tell us only too clearly that as we enter 1945, our first concern for the months to come is the all-out prosecution of the war.

It is not a time for gloomy forebodings, however. The news has been bad for the last few weeks, but not long enough to justify lack of confidence in the future. In his Christmas message, Mr. Bennett said to the Canadian and other forces under his command that we are "full of hope and steadfast in our belief that soon we shall achieve our heart's desire." These are comforting words from a very great soldier who has justified our faith in his military judgment. They encourage us to look back and compare our position today with what it was at the beginning of other years throughout this war.

The beginning of 1940 seems a very long time ago. It was a period of unreality. We were all rejoicing over the sinking of the Graf Spee by much lighter British ships. We were talking freely of the French and British attacks which would be launched from the Marston Line in the spring. It was a New Year's Day of unreasoning optimism.

Then came the dark beginning of 1941. It had been a year of unparalleled military events. In April Germany invaded Norway and Denmark. In May the mighty offensive against France, Belgium and Holland carried into effect the German beast of their Blitzkrieg tactics. Denmark became a symbolic name. Holland and Belgium were overrun. France fell. German air attacks were launched against London and were beaten off by that small and supremely brave force of airmen among whom were many young Canadians. The year closed with the British still smouldering from the terrible fires which so nearly got beyond control. It was a year of unquenchable faith and courage who in those dark days could use these words: "We have become the sole champions now in arms to defend the world cause. We shall do our best to be worthy of that high honour." We shall defend our island home and with the British Empire we shall fight on unquenchable until the curse of Hitler is lifted from the brows of mankind. "We are sure that in the end all will come right." That was the authentic voice of Britain, of Canada, and of free men everywhere into the threat of a New Year of 1941.

That was another year of staggering events and carried the war to nearly every corner of the world. In June Germany turned on Russia and by this treacherous repudiation of their agreement of mutual support brought us a new and immensely powerful ally with a population nearly three times that of Germany. Then in December came the supreme act of treachery when Japan attacked Pearl Harbor and began a great offensive along the southern Chinese coast. The year 1941 closed with the tragic news for Canadians that our small expeditionary force to Hong Kong had been compelled to surrender on Christmas Day.

1942 began very badly on every front. The Japanese extended their offensive over a wide area. Singapore, the Philippines, and island after island in the Southern Pacific were accepted in quick succession until they stood at the gateway to Australia. Germany had driven far into Russia. Then as the months went on the United Nations gathered strength. The Russians held at Stalingrad in one of the epic battles of the war. The British launched their great attack at El Alamein and swept across North Africa. British and American forces landed at widely separated points along the Mediterranean and North Atlantic Coast of Africa. As the year closed, the United Nations held the initiative.

1943 was a year of greatly expanding strength on land, at sea and in the air. In the summer, Sicily was invaded. Mighty bomber raids from Britain were smashing the German war machine. Russia was driving the German armies back at every point along the Eastern Front. As the year closed, our men were fighting fierce engagements in Southern Italy. American forces were advancing from island to island in the Pacific. The enemy was being driven back surely but still slowly.

Then we came to New Year 1944. The expeditionary force for the invasion of France was brought together as one team under General Eisenhower and we all waited with hope and anxiety for D Day. So much has happened in the past few months that we have almost forgotten the grave concern and even doubt that a successful landing could be made against the strongly established German coast defences. It was the most difficult military operation ever undertaken. Its success was the greatest military achievement of all history. That we should remember because young Canadians took a great part in the land, sea and air forces which worked together in such perfect unity. And now the year closes with our forces on German soil and along the frontier in the west, with Russian forces closing in on Germany from the east and with the Japanese under constant and ever-increasing attacks.

I have recalled only a few of the events of the war years just to show how very different our position is today and how far we have come since those days of 1940 when the British Empire stood alone. Today as in 1940 — but with far more certainty — we can echo the words, "We are sure that in the end all will come right."

As we look to the year ahead and to the years beyond 1945, our thoughts naturally turn to the kind of life we will have after all the sacrifice and effort have brought us peace. Nothing should divert us from the desperate need for our utmost effort to support our fighting forces in these critical days, but it will help that effort if our young men and women have faith and confidence in their own country and have proved to us, to themselves, and to the whole world, that no finer youth has grown up in any country. To the question all of us are asking in this New Year season. The answer is only to be found in the future of Canada itself. What is our future as a nation after this long struggle in which we have so greatly increased our productive capacity in making our national contribution to the common cause?

There are those who paint a gloomy picture. They warn us of ten years or more of extremely difficult readjustment. Now what are the facts? Of course there will be difficulties ahead. There always have been and there always will be. There were difficulties, terrible difficulties, facing our lads who landed in Sicily, in Italy, and at the Normandy beaches. There were the grave difficulties facing our boys in the R.C.A.F. year after year, as they took off on their deadly missions in every fighting zone. There were cruel difficulties facing our young men who have been at sea continuously in every kind of weather from the Arctic winter to the burning heat of the Equator. They have faced those difficulties and surmounted them in the years of war. They will face and surmount the difficulties of peace with equal determination and equal success so long as they are not discouraged and denied faith in their own future.

Over and over again in this war we have seen the practical results of faith. There has been little more to sustain us than the mounting strength of the United Nations as they have marched forward step by step toward victory stands as proof of the value of sensible confidence in ourselves.

I would like to recall these words of a very gallant little Scotchman who greatly endeared himself to all Canadians. Shortly before his death, Lord Tweedsmuir wrote these words: "In my lifetime I seem to note a change which is a graver thing than our other disappointments, which indeed is a large measure the cause of them. The outlook of youth has narrowed, doors have been sealed, channels have been silted up, there is less choice of routes at the crossroads. . . . A young man seems to me to have fewer avenues open to him, and fewer chances in those avenues. I leave out of account the pre-eminence of mind or character for which we call genius, for that will always have out a course. I am speaking of youth of reasonable capacity and moderate ambitions, which seeks a calling with hope and daylight in it, which is capable of a great effort of patience but must have a glimpse of some obtainable goal. I have had much to do with young men on several continents, and I regard the shrinking of opportunity as one of the gravest facts of our age. It will remain an urgent matter long after the guns are silenced. Somehow or other we must make our social and economic world more fluid. It must widen the approaches so that honest ambition and honourable discontent may have elbow room. The world must remain an oyster for youth to open. If not, youth will cease to be young, and that will be the end of everything."

Those words state a great truth and offer a great warning. We have heard in these war years of frozen prices, of frozen wages, of frozen rents. This must never become a land of frozen opportunity. If we create a rigid society in which honest ambition may not move, then Canada will cease to be young. That need never happen. The simple truth is that Canada offers greater opportunities for all its people than any other nation in the world. Our day is tomorrow.

What we stand at this particular New Year season is a good healthy dose of confidence in our own future based upon a clear appreciation of our vast opportunities. No other similar number of people in the whole world have the solid basis for expanding prosperity than we have. We have the soil, we have the forests, we have the minerals, we have the power, we have the industrial capacity and skill for a very much greater population than we have today. This is still a land of broad horizons. Science and the new discoveries of war have opened ever-widening opportunities for peace. The one thing above all else that we must not do if we are to give our splendid youth the future they have earned, is to tie their hands by restrictions based upon a belief that we have come near the limit of our growth.

We can all play our part in building that great future which beckons us. Every government, every municipal body, every group and association, yes, and every individual should be thinking of new ways of employing the great resources which God has placed in our hands. It is not only our duty to ourselves here in Canada, but it is our duty to mankind, that we use these things in such a way that in building our own future we help to rebuild this war-torn world.

If we look to the future with that confidence which the facts justify, and instill a deep faith in Canada in the minds and hearts of our youth, then 1945 can really become a Happy New Year of victory, of peace, and of happiness in our splendid youth.

A New Year's Message to Canadians.

Life Insurance Officers' Assn.
By M. J. Smith, president of Canadian

The life insurance industry in Canada is successfully meeting and overcoming the various problems which confront it as the financial guardian of family life in the Dominion, said M. J. Smith, of Waterloo, Ont., president of the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association, in a New Year's statement issued at the Association's office in Toronto.

Mr. Smith announced that during 1944 casualties among the Canadian armed forces brought about the payment of substantial sums to beneficiaries. "Anticipating the heavy fighting ahead," he added, "it must be expected that such claims will increase further during the next few months."

Because periods of war, with their exceptional mortality rates, low investment earnings and other unfavourable factors, are not taken into account in fixing life insurance premiums, said Mr. Smith, the insurance industry has felt the strain of the past five years. "However," he said, "the life insurance companies in Canada are coming through the test well, as they have in the past. And looking forward to victory and peace the industry is well aware that the life insurance owned by Canadians is not only providing a healthy financial foundation for the nation now but also is building an accumulation of savings on which policyholders can erect their post-war plans."

Mr. Smith reviewed the federal legislation recently passed or pending to provide social welfare measures in Canada and expressed the hope that governments in Canada will continue to foster legislation to provide sound social security so that no Canadian will lack the necessities of life. The life insurance companies he said, "will always support such projects, provided that they are conceived on sound principles which will preclude disaster later."

For its own part, he added, the insurance industry regard itself as the institution by which Canadians as individuals, through their own initiative and their own thrift, can provide for themselves and their families according to their means and wishes. Reviewing the past year's operations, Mr. Smith said that new life insurance taken out in Canada during 1944 totalled more than $900,000,000 and that the total now in force is about $9,000,000,000 held by 4,000,000 individual policyholders — an average of more than $2,200 for each.

In addition, he said, the Canadian life insurance "export" by purely Canadian companies doing business abroad totals now about $3,500,000,000. It is held by about 1,000,000 persons living in 64 different countries.

Those "domestic" and "export" totals together mean, said Mr. Smith, that the total of life insurance under the Control of Canadian laws is now more than $12,500,000,000 — "almost equal to Canada's funded debt, and equivalent to nearly three times the total capital value of the farming industry in Canada."

During 1944, said the president, life insurance companies in Canada paid out about $140,000,000 to policyholders and beneficiaries in the Dominion. Another $20,000,000 received from policyholders was added to the funds accruing to meet future obligations to policyholders, as required by law.

In the Victory Loan campaigns during the year, Mr. Smith showed, the life insurance companies subscribed $340,000,000 and raised to $1,125,000,000 the total life insurance funds invested in Victory Bonds since the war began — an average of $280 for each policyholder.

WORLD SOVEREIGNTY.

By David Lister Routledge.

The words "national sovereignty," for all the paeany of their syllables, are words that, often enough, have had little relationship to dignity or justice. Too frequently they have been the cloak of aggression, the justification of the unjustifiable.

Quite recently Sir William Beveridge, the same Sir William Beveridge whose plan for social betterment has provided a pattern for a more generous world thinking, spoke out for a new concept of national sovereignty, whether represented in the government of its own people or in arbitrary action to ward off other nations.

The old concept of sovereignty as between nations was, generally speaking, a concept of supreme selfishness, all too often based on the jungle law of tooth and claw "that they should take who have the power, and they should keep who can."

Sir William Beveridge, in voicing a new conception of sovereignty that would be based on the true knowledge of God, has given a voice to the distant hopes that in recent days have been blossoming in the hearts and minds of people everywhere.

Dimly the people of the world have begun to perceive that a sovereignty that gives one nation complete independence in its actions, even when such actions may represent supreme disaster to other nations, must be an anomaly in a world that is dedicated to a hope of lasting peace.

In this new way of thinking, the conception of a national sovereignty that has known no law save its own selfish advantage must come to a subordinate itself to the advantage of the world as a whole. "It must mean sovereignty under the law, just as the freedom of citizens in an ordered community means freedom under the law. Within its own borders and in its own internal interests the nation is as sovereign as ever. But in international affairs it may not take the law into its own hands, any more than it would permit its citizens to take the law into theirs."

That hits very close to the core of our world problem: how to create a postwar order which will maintain peace among a multitude of conflicting interests and assure the sons of tomorrow that they will not have to face the same fate as faced their fathers and their grandfathers.

This changed, or changing, attitude in international thinking must reflect itself in our personal thinking if we are not to regress in a new generation, these old and bitter paths. We must also get a new concept of loyalty, not alone loyalty to a city, a province, or even a nation, but to a world of free nations of which we are a part. As our Ambassador to the United States has said: "Without this wider loyalty, the narrower, more intimate, more appealing loyalties to the people and things closest to us will be lost and frustrated in a welter of recurring bloodshed."

We cannot make a new world and use the old selfish patterns. We cannot find security in isolation in a world that has narrowed far beyond all believing in five brief years.

We cannot make distinctions between the great and the little for there is the seed of discord. We must find some workable system of collaboration between the great, the near great, and the small, or suffer the bitter fruits of disillusionment in a victory as empty of security as was the victory of a generation ago. Only a world sovereignty of nations loyal to a common purpose can make and keep whole the wounds of a suffering humanity. Liberty Magazine.

Racing Germs.

Meat specialists say that curing fresh pork is a race between the penetration of the salt and the growth of spoilage germs. To give salt time to penetrate meats, bones, and joints, fresh pork should be chilled promptly and kept cold (36 to 40 degrees F.) during the curing period.

Glorious Liberty.

Living in an era of aggressive campaigns against Israel, as well as his people nations, Isaiah comforted his people with promises of great blessings to follow their immediate afflictions. Exhorting the Israelites to fit themselves for the privileges they would enjoy when their day of triumph should arrive, this inspiring prophet pictures the glory of God's government and the power of the Messiah to bring joy and freedom to the people, asserting: "The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me; because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the broken-hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound" (Isaiah 61:1).

In his great work of setting the captives free, Jesus depended entirely upon mental or spiritual means. His mission was to bring to mankind the right understanding of God, so that it could be free from bondage to sin and suffering, and He gave ample proof that the true knowledge of God does free mortals from every ill, even death. Unfettered by limitation, He lived humbly yet mightily in spiritual nourishment. Although he was frequently misunderstood, and eventually crucified, His knowledge of God enabled Him to free Himself from death. He taught the eternal, divine law of being.

The call to a higher citizenship abounding in genuine freedom rings in these words from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Citizens of the world, accept the 'glorious liberty of the children of God' and be free! This is your divine right. The illusion of material sense, not divine law, has bound you, entangled your free limbs, crippled your capacities, enfeebled your body, and defaced the tablet of your being." — Christian Science Monitor.

The way to lower costs in the poultry industry is to avoid loss of the birds through lowered vitality, overcrowding, poor housing, poor feeding, and lack of good management, say the poultry authorities.

Cereal Menus and Combinations

By BETTY BARCLAY

More and more, in the home, on the train, at the club or in a cool hotel dining room, men and women are ordering cereal and fruit combinations for breakfast and lunch. It's much different than in the old days when a bowl of cereal and cream at breakfast was about all the cereal we consumed that day. Now, we know cereals have much to offer — those with whole-grain nourishment are included in the Basic 7 — that daily pattern of basic foods for well-rounded meals. There are many delightful cereal combinations, that are a welcome change from our usual breakfast and luncheon menus.

Here are two cereal combinations for lunch — followed by two menus calling for the combinations given. These in turn are followed by two delicious and rather unusual recipes showing how cereals fit into daily menus, in other ways as well as at breakfast-time. For something new, try them, and these delightful, healthful and satisfactory menus.

White on Socialism.

William L. White, son of the famous editor of the Emporia, Kansas, Gazette, visited the Soviet Union in the summer of 1941. His report, one of the latest, is being published in a book shortly to be published. Meantime, a condensation has been made for the Reader's Digest. Mr. White's observations are of the greatest interest to Canadians because in a few months' time, they are going to the polls to vote on a system very similar indeed to that of the Soviet Union. The American war correspondent, who is more interested in people than in forms of governments, gives an exceptionally straightforward account of his Socialist works.

In Moscow White missed the competitive spirit and condemned the dullness and cravenness of socialist life. He found that a Socialist belongs to his job and that his family usually sleep in an apartment house owned by the factory in which he works. The worker and his worker-wife usually eat in the factory diningroom while the children attend day nurseries, schools and educational movies in the factory's culture palace. When workers have vacations they go to worker's rest homes and resorts controlled by the factory, on trains designated by the factory operating staff. The job in the factory comprises most of the life of the socialist worker. A committee directs the factory through a communist and the State directs the committee. The standard of socialist living, White considered, was lower than that of Americans on public relief during the depression. "Sub-WPA standard" is the expression he uses.

With other Americans, White visited a socialist war factory — the one in the suburbs of Moscow which makes the famous Stormovik plane for the Red Air Force. It was selected by the socialist authorities as typical. Of the workers 55% are women; of the remainder a few are boys and girls under 18 who work only eight hours daily. For adults the day is likewise eight hours, but each day has three more hours of compulsive overtime — for which workers are paid time and a half. However, only six days are worked, so that the total time is 56 hours. Wages are from twenty to forty dollars weekly. Piece-work is a feature of production.

The factory premises, White saw, were poorly lighted and unbelievably dirty. The concrete floor was rough and full of holes. Piles of metal shavings littered the plant with no one bothering to clean up or cart away rubbish — though many workers stood idle while waiting for parts. Much of the handling of material within the plant was done by wheelbarrow. At other factories White visited he found similar conditions, though in the new industries of the Ural's there was considerable improvement in layout and technique. A curiosity was the socialist motor industry — where one factory for all Russia produced but one model which went, in that classless socialism, exclusively to top socialists, factory directors and officials. The socialist workers made them but not in a lifetime would he be able ever to possess one.

White saw that Socialism gave unlimited power to the bosses, especially power over the lives of the workers. He found nothing in socialism, in comparison with the free enterprise system, that compensated loss of liberty.

Gift Exchanges.

Regulations governing the time limits in which goods may be exchanged at retail stores have been rescinded by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and exchanges are now the sole responsibility of the store. Under former rules of the Board stores were not required to make refunds or exchanges unless it was their policy to do so. However, the regulations fixed a time limit in which the exchange must be made. This regulation has been cancelled.

Butter Rations.

Methods by which the new butter ration allowance was determined are outlined by W. Harold McPhillips, prices and supply representative for Western Ontario. According to Mr. McPhillips, the total supply of butter in Canada in January, the date the new ration came into effect, was three pounds per person. During the first four months of this year the total amount of butter produced will approximate five pounds per person holding a ration book. This makes a total of eight pounds per person. From this supply for the Armed Services, hospitals, the Red Cross, public eating places and other non-consumers must be taken. Every prisoner-of-war package contains one pound of butter. The total amount which must be set aside for non-consumers reduces the amount available to those with coupons to six pounds. This spread over four months permits a ration of a pound and a half a month.

Orange Subsidy Eliminated.

With the price of oranges now controlled in the United States the Canadian orange subsidy designed to control consumer prices has been discontinued. The orange subsidy was allowed two years ago when there was no ceiling prices on oranges in the United States. According to Board officials the discontinuance of the subsidy will not affect the supply or the quality of oranges sold in Canada. Substantial supplies of alternative sources of vitamin C including tomato juice and vitaminized apple juice will, it is anticipated, help control prices.

Protect Hog With All-Year Cabin.

Profit from hogs, like profits from most other lines, are largely affected by the size of the initial outlay. The hog does not need an expensive house but it must be clean, with the possibility of being kept clean with the least amount of labour. On a farm where a few hogs are reared or even where a herd of 100 sows may be kept, by cabins and box stalls for the farrowing sows built on the plan of what is known as the "All Year Hog Cabin." Such a cabin is useful 365 days in the year, no matter how small or large the herd may be.

By its construction, the all year cabin gives efficient protection in winter and summer. It is inexpensive and is built on runners so that it may be removed to fresh ground at any time. In summer, lack of shelter from the intense heat is more injurious to young pigs than the cold of winter. By the use of hinged doors, comfort both in summer and winter is assured, specifications for making the cabins are contained in the revised circular 121 (Publication 618) "The All Year Hog Cabin," which may be obtained free from the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Rationed Farm Machinery.

Power sheep shearing machines and animal clippers have been removed from the list of rationed farm machinery and no permit is required for their purchase. Western Ontario regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board remind farmers. According to officers many applications have been received during the past few weeks for permits to buy animal clippers. They point out that these may be purchased without any permit. Clippers and shearing machines were included with diamond, flexible and spring tooth harrows, cream separators, egg cleaners and brushes added to the list of rationed farm machinery and equipment some time ago.

Graft Apple Trees for Quick Fruiting.

The established method of grafting young and mature apple trees is known as "topworking." It consists of cutting back the scaffold branches severely, often to within a few inches of the tree trunk, and inserting scions of the desired top-variety in the cut ends of these branches or "hubs." In recent years, a new idea of grafting utilizes almost all of the top of the tree, only small laterals, spurs and undesirable branches being removed. This is known as "frameworking," for practically the entire framework of the tree is used to hold the scions. In contrast to "topworking" methods, "frameworking" takes more time per tree, but allows the converted tree to return to profitable bearing within two or three years, and the tree itself has been found to suffer far less shock than when the top has been cut back severely.

Framework grafting experiments have been under way at the Dominion Experimental Station, Kentville, N.S., since 1942, says Dr. R. J. Hilton, and these trials have already demonstrated the value of "frameworking" for bringing the grafted tree back to profitable fruiting in the third season after grafting.

In one of the experiments, approximately 500 Crimson Gravenstein scions, per tree were inserted at 16 inches apart in several 30 year old Stark trees, in May, 1942. From these trees, a crop of slightly more than four barrels per tree of fine quality fruit was harvested in September, 1944. Stark trees of the same age that were "topworked" in 1942, have borne no fruit, nor will they have sufficient bearing surface for a profitable crop for some time to come. Each of the "frameworked" trees took about 12 man-hours to graft, whereas a "topworked" tree could be done in a little less than 1½ hours.

Several framework-grafting methods have been used in comparative trials at Kentville, but any method that assures a close, firm contact between the cambial tissue of stock and scion will prove satisfactory. Scions may readily be placed in the stock of a cut-off spur or lateral, or they may be wedged into a clean cut into the side of any lateral or scaffold branch. When the bark is "slipping" in late spring, scions may be forced in between bark and wood of the stock, and tacked into place. At Kentville the average scion-take was over 95 per cent, a hot or "brush" wax having been carefully used to seal each graft union and all major wounds.

After-care consists chiefly of pulling out all sucker growths from the stock tree two or three times during the first season's growth of scions. Some thinning and heading back of scion shoots may be done at pruning time, but heavy cutting should be avoided.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 5, 1945.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES.

As expressively indicative of the significant reaction along Parliament Hill at this momentous time to the fierce fighting and seriousness of the situation on the war fronts, it can be intimated now that it has been known behind the scenes for a considerable period that the authorities in the capital were becoming weary gradually and their patience was being exhausted slowly with the importunate and repeated demands of many people throughout Canada for the complete removal of the relaxation of certain wartime restrictions whenever there was any measure of military success. These requests were urged with troublesome pertinacity. Of course, when the demands of the Canadians who wrote or sometimes came to the capital to press their claims, were refused in whole or in part, there was a loud and continued outcry against the authorities. However, it is hinted now in well-informed quarters in the capital that such serious possibilities or probabilities have always been recognized by the authorities in Ottawa so that the officials seem to be less shocked by the latest happenings on the war fronts than many other Canadians, though there is no pretense by authorities to minimize this dangerous period of the war and there is even a suggestion that it should be taken as a lesson for future reference, especially for proper understanding of governmental policies in the coming early months of 1945.

It has become known in Ottawa that some efforts are being considered by certain United States airline companies to obtain permission to operate between the capital of Canada and the United States capital, Washington, with one rumour saying that the Canadian Colonial Airlines, a subsidiary of the United States-owned Colonial Airlines and the Pennsylvania Central Airlines, are seeking such rights. But at the same time it is said that this right will more than likely remain with the Canadian-owned, Trans-Canada Airlines, though various stories of different plans are circulating without foundation.

Within a relatively short time there will be functioning no less than three Royal Commissions with authority from Ottawa to investigate and to report on a number of delicate issues. One Royal Commission, under the leadership of former Chief Justice Ives of Alberta, will undertake to find out two points about taxation which have proven quite perplexing and intricate including the question whether an annuity is a capital or income. Another Royal Commission, under Mr. Justice Carroll, of Nova Scotia, will probe the fuel situation throughout the country in order to settle this troublesome problem in a satisfactory manner for all concerned, if possible. The third Royal Commission, headed by Mr. Justice Errol M. McDougall, of the Court of King's Bench in Montreal, will endeavour to look into the taxation of co-operatives in Canada, including inquiries to determine whether the income tax excess profits tax acts should apply to co-operatives or not, whether the acts should be applied to persons doing business analogous to co-operative methods and so forth. There is intense interest in Ottawa over the operations of these three Royal Commissions during the coming weeks, judging by conversations on Parliament Hill.

Canadian exports in the previous month, with the exception of gold, reached a total of $312,491,000. This has been revealed in Ottawa by Canada's Minister of Trade and Commerce, Hon. James MacKinnon. Moreover, of this total, $118,914,000 and $109,214,000 went to the United States and Great Britain respectively, with $24,220,000 going to British India, $13,589,000 to Italy, and $13,501,000 to Russia, together with various amounts to different countries throughout the world that are open to trade or shipments. In the first eleven months of 1944, export of Canadian-produced goods, except gold, was $3,173,084,000 or an increase of $504,170,000 over the same period of the last year, 1943, when this amount was $2,668,904,000.

Several reports in Ottawa have stressed lately the great importance with which the affairs of discharged men from the armed forces is being regarded at this time as more requirements by Canadian universities have been reduced for the benefit of ex-servicemen. Whereas two foreign languages are needed as well as two sciences, the ex-serviceman will require only one foreign language and one science for the junior matriculation standards. Likewise, if the candidate has junior matriculation standing in either of these subjects, he will need only one foreign language or history general in order to satisfy senior matriculation requirements for admission to courses. Another report has revealed that the Civil Service Commission has agreed in principle with a suggestion that civil servants should be continued on leave from their duties if they wish to follow courses of study offered by the Government after their discharge from military service. Finally, a report has stated that quite a large expenditure has been involved in furthering of establishing new offices for the arriving staffs of the Veterans Affairs Department, including a story that about $120,000 has been used on such purposes already and that the personnel of this organization may be doubled within the next two years. This rapid growth of this organization has been interpreted along Parliament Hill as a sign of the steadily increasing number of men being discharged from the armed forces.

In face of the circumstances, yet activities amongst the inventors have been rising to new heights. At least, a most interesting report to that effect has been given by the Dominion Commissioner of patents, J. T. Murphy, who has disclosed in the nation's capital that no less than 11,227 applications for patents had been made in the past year or an increase in this respect of 12 per cent. Not only have the inventors produced articles of concern to the production of war machines and materials but also others in various fields, including such articles as synthetic resins, new motor fuels, processes of vegetable oils for food and paint, insecticides, synthetic vitamins, fluorescent lamp starters, photo electric card sensing registers, magazine safety razors, cowl fasteners, self-sealing gasoline tanks, gyroscopes, color photography, and numerous others. Moreover, his report indicated that the applicants living in Canada were 480 or six per cent and of the total over 80 per cent were from the United States. There was a decrease in copyrights of 345 over the previous year and these were 2,869 during the past year.

Two former Ministers of the Crown were seen lately along Parliament Hill and both were engaged in cleaning up their affairs before moving away as members of the Cabinet. Hon. C. G. Power, former Minister for Air, attended to routine matters in the capital and there was no confirmation to the rumour that he might become the President of the National Hockey League, though in his younger days he was a well-known hockey player for Lyola College and another Quebec team. Hon. J. L. Ralston, the former Minister of National Defence, was busy arranging his office affairs in the capital in preparation for going south for a well-deserved rest before returning to the practice of law in Montreal.

Two well-beloved characters along Parliament Hill have passed away suddenly. Harold J. Egan, a member of the messenger's staff of the House of Commons and at one time attached to the household staff of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, died suddenly in a store in Ottawa. Another whose sudden passing has removed a most popular and interesting character was Herbert D. Throop, who was the reference clerk in the Library Parliament, where he was known to all for the past thirty years. He had a famous collection of scrap books and clippings that were eagerly sought by leaders and others along Parliament Hill since these combined a wealth of invaluable historical information as well as most useful current reference. The appointment of Lester B. Pearson as successor to Hon. Leighton McCarthy as Canadian Ambassador to the United States has been accompanied by many stories, why the change had taken place at this time but usually well-informed observers in Ottawa insist that Mr. McCarthy had been anxious for a long time to give up the post for pure personal reasons. Color a Definite Aid to Medical Science.

The trend toward the use of color as a definite aid to medical science in modern hospitals is exemplified in the internal color scheme of Canada's newest hospital ship, the Letitia — hailed as one of the largest and most modernly equipped hospital ship afloat.

There was a time — and not so long ago at that — when plain white paint was considered the only correct thing for hospital wards and corridors. In recent years, however, the trend has been away from white and much research has gone into the choosing of the colors that are to replace it.

That research finds its expression in the Letitia just as it does in an increasing number of hospitals across Canada and to an even more marked extent in the United States.

So it is that the Letitia sails the seas today with her cargo of wounded soldiers lying not in the pitiless glare of all-white surroundings but in wards of soft green. They find the color more restful and more cheerful.

The seventeen wards of the Letitia are done in light green and the corridors of the ship are finished in a darker green by way of contrast. The men who chose that color scheme knew there is more than the physical side to consider making people well. They knew that the mental attitude of the patient plays a part in his recovery too.

Even the ceilings of the Letitia's wards have been divorced from the traditional white. Instead they are finished in a less glaring and more agreeable but paint.

The color schemes of many modern hospitals have gone further than that of the Letitia. While light and dark greens are the predominant note in the hospital ship many more establishments now have rooms — private and public — finished in warm creams, yellows, or coral and peach. Soft greys and greyed-down versions of other colors have been found soothing and suggestive of sleep.

As Dr. C. Harvey Agnew, secretary of the department of hospital services, Canadian Medical Association, has put it, color is an item of "major importance" in the psychological treatment of a patient. It is realized now that not only can correctly chosen colors promote serenity of mind, restfulness and cheerfulness, but certain colors can be utilized to produce specific emotions and reactions on the part of the patient.

The Letitia, of course, is designed to be a short-term resting place for the wounded men she hurries across the ocean to home. For that reason, her color scheme is one aimed at having the highest general utility, without going too deeply into the various color combinations and schemes designed for particular cases.

The military personnel who had the choosing of the Letitia's internal colors appear to have taken a middle course between the old-time all-white, and the trend toward a variety of colors for a variety of ailments evident in some modern hospitals. The Letitia, for instance, still retains the white walls and ceilings in her air conditioned and sound-proofed operating rooms, pantries and toilets.

Many hospitals still use all-white operating rooms, to provide a maximum of light reflection. Others have swung over to softer colors that still have a high light reflection value but eliminate glare by absorbing the harshness of the light. In the Letitia, incidentally, the modern color scheme has been combined with equally modern indirect lighting so that glare is reduced to a minimum in the quarters of the ship's personnel as well as in the actual sick wards.

It took thousands of gallons of paint to convert the Letitia from an armed cruiser into one of the world's most modern hospitals, just as it took thousands of gallons to convert her from the passenger liner she once was into an armed cruiser.

Although her color scheme is predominantly green inside, she still retains, of course, the white hull prescribed by International Law for the exteriors of hospital ships. Her white sides have three Red crosses painted on them, in addition to an encircling green stripe. She carries illuminated Red crosses on her funnel and a large Red cross painted on her deck and illuminated by flood lights for aerial visibility.

Basically, the exterior white paint is to make a hospital ship as conspicuous as possible, just as a variety of camouflage paints make other ships as inconspicuous as possible. Quite aside from the visibility aspect, however, the main function of paint on a ship is to protect her against rust and decay, for without her protective coating she would soon become a useless hulk.

This protection by means of paint is as old as paint and ships themselves, but the needs of war have brought out a new use for paint aboard modern ships — as a protection against fire. Two fire-resistant paints for ship use have come out of the war so far. One of them, for use mainly on steel, will discolor but will not burn when brought into contact with flame. The second goes a step further and actually acts as a fire extinguisher, by giving off a fire-smothering vapor when exposed to flames. It is used largely for the protection of the woodwork of a ship.

Efficient Vision Speeds Victory.

Has it ever occurred to you that eyes play an increasing role in war and defense?

America musters its might for defense. Millions of the nation's youth join the colours or stand vigilant for their summons to duty. Tens of millions — all the rest of us — pitch in to maintain our precious birthright the democratic way of life.

Everything we have is bent to the defense effort. Muscle and brain, mind and brain, and priceless VISION — most marvelous and useful of all our faculties. Vision vital is an emergency. The eyesight of the artillery man plotting the fire of his gun. The eyesight of the aviator, maneuvering his where it must go. The eyesight of the tank driver — without it his lugger would be worthless. The eyesight of the infantryman — as important as the weapon he uses. Yes, in every branch of defense from the plants that build equipment to the offices where facts are collated, where the vast files of our resources are assembled, eyesight plays a vital part. And today, our safety depends on it. And always Canadian eyes are ready as never before to do a real job — thanks to optometrical service.

A new world is waiting for all who have inefficient vision. A world in which daily tasks become easier, are more effectively performed. Eye fatigue, headaches and nervousness disappear and yet many people do not avail themselves of these opportunities. The one way to be sure that all the benefits and pleasures of efficient vision are yours is to have a yearly visual analysis made by your family optometrist.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN

Hydro Home Economist

Mello Homemakers! Whatever happens in this world, nothing can alter one little star from its appointed course. Nothing can prevent the season's rolling around; nor the wishes in the hearts of all from trying for their best fulfillment. You can't help getting the Christmas spirit. Everyone gets it. One tradition of this holiday is getting together around the family hearth fire to express this kindred spirit.

Festive food will contribute towards this joyous event. For the invitation to eat, pass a tray of fruit juice cocktail of raspberry or cherry juice or a combination of juices and a sprig of mint or green cherry for interest. The cheese tray is presented at the same time filled with all kinds of tidbits. Cheese, crackers with olive mixture spread, soda biscuits with minced sausage, relish, Zwieback, carrot curls, pickles, radish roses, celery curls, turnip sticks are suggestions.

The main course is served to the crowd buffet-style, too. Something deluxe and delicious, served in attractive dishes will contribute towards a successful evening. Remember, this is an occasion between Christmas and New Year and since everyone is somewhat tired and stuffed yet, we believe you should serve a light party lunch.

SUGGESTIONS.

Hot open LOBSTER SANDWICHES; JELLIED STAR salad of diced chicken, celery, green pepper in aspic; WEDGIES of 4 slices minced ham or bologna spread with cream cheese, grated onion and mustard, placed together layer cake fashion and cut into triangles; PORK PARCELS of a small amount of sausage-meat rolled in biscuit dough and with pieces of green pepper put in slashes the shape of a bow; CHICKEN FRICASSE or veal in wine in toasted bread cups; YULE-TIDE SALAD made of orange, grapefruit, apple sections in petal shape and the center made of cottage cheese, chopped nuts and halves of cherries; CREAMED MUSHROOM over diced turkey on toast.

Dessert is where you can provide something to maintain staunch friendship by a sparkling or aromatic dish. An easy dish to have ready is a steaming spiced sauce poured over warmed doughnuts and garnished with red and green maraschino cherries. If you are fortunate to have an electric refrigerator, the refreshing food to serve is a SHERBET or ICE CREAM cakes. MOULDED FRUIT in green and red gelatin flavoured with fruit juice. Rewards are high in favour if you garnish a FRUIT CUP with chocolate beads, steamed mixed peel or coloured honey. Graham wafers put together with marmalade and cheese are good if thoroughly chilled first.

Even if it's an after-theatre snack, the piece of CHRISTMAS CAKE may be served with a variety of beverages during the holiday week. Coloured ice cubes in chilled fruit juices, milk shakes, egg nog, sodas, iced tea or coffee are snaky hints.

TAKE A TIP.

1. When carving turkeys, first cut through the leg, crack the joint, and then disjoint the leg from the turkey. Cut the breast in medium thick slices, not in chunks. Use a sharp knife.
2. Turnips make an excellent garnish. Cut in slices and chill in electric refrigerator for an hour.
3. If you spill pumpkin filling over the edge of the crust it is likely to burn during baking. Avoid this by pouring only part of the filling into the crust, put it in the oven, then pour in the balance of the filling.
4. Mix a little powdered sage into the next batch of baking powder biscuits. Use them for creamed chicken shortcakes.
5. Grilled chicken livers with curried rice and pieces of broiled bacon make a supper dish that's a real treat.
6. Fry a slice of ham to a dark brown colour. Take it out of pan and, after taking out enough fat to make a thickening with flour, add 2 cups of milk. Season, add in flour and fat and stir until smooth. Serve with baked potatoes, pickles and scalloped tomatoes.

Emergency Shelter Administrators.

Administrators with extraordinary powers will be appointed under the emergency shelter regulations of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board to deal with housing problems in congested areas. While applications from any municipality considering itself congested will be considered in appointments of administrators, the metropolitan areas of Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Vancouver, Victoria have already been designated. An administrator will be empowered to prescribe how any premises capable of being used as a place of dwelling shall be used. He may require any person to rent any shelter and without his permission no landlord may refuse to rent to tenants on the grounds that they have children. To prevent further aggravation of the shelter situation no premises such as barracks, hostels, houses, apartments, rooms or flats may be closed or their use for dwelling purposes restricted without the concurrence of the administrator.

W de Heads.

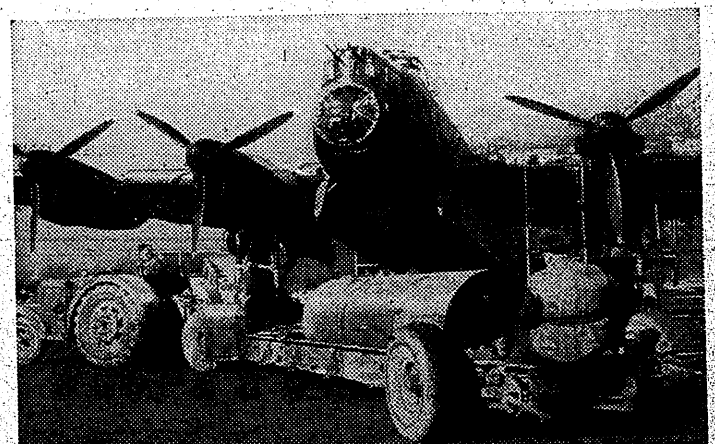

The old idea that cattle with wide heads and muzzles make the best gains in the feed lot is not founded on fact. Some wide-headed cattle do and some do not say veterinary authorities. The surest way of making gains in cattle, they say, is to observe which animals make the best gains, then follow through to keep others of the same breed.

Control Eean Weevil in Winter Storage.

Beans in warm storage are frequently attacked by a tiny light brown beetle—the bean weevil—which lives inside the seed and when fully grown emerges through a small circular hole made in the seed coat. It is widely distributed throughout Canada and is a common pest of beans. The weevil lives in a small chamber in the seed which it forms while feeding. Each insect makes only one such chamber but there may be many of these beetles feeding at the same time in a single seed and the beetles may live for generation after generation in the stored beans.

Infested seed should be treated as soon as the weevils are noticed, says Alan G. Duxton, Division of Entomology, Dominion Department of Agriculture. Unless this is done promptly the beans will quickly be unfit either for food or for seed purposes. All stages of the bean weevil are killed by the sub-zero temperatures, so during the winter months control may be cheaply and easily carried out by storing the seed in unheated out-buildings. Although death of the weevil may not be instantaneous, all feeding and development ends as soon as the insects are subjected to outdoor conditions which means that no further damage to the seed takes place.

Growers should be particularly careful not to plant beans containing living weevils, says Mr. Duxton, for not only will germination of such seed be low, but many of the weevils will escape to infest the new crop. The bean weevil may also be killed by fumigating the seed with carbon bisulphide. The process is slow and rather bothersome, however, and for this reason growers are advised to follow the simpler method as outlined. Full directions regarding fumigation will be sent to any one making application to the Division of Entomology, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

CUT ABSENTEEISM with SHUR-GAIN Laying Mash!

Empty nests are a bad sign in the poultry house. Empty nests mean lazy hens — not paying for their keep, and eating up the profits from hardworking pullets. Absenteeism means feeding methods are faulty, or else the feed has not been up to the job required of it.

Don't let empty nests show up in your poultry house. Rigid culling combined with proper feeding results in full-time capacity production. It takes a feed designed for full-time production to keep pullets laying right up to their best ability — and that feed is made by your local SHUR-GAIN Feed Service Mill. SHUR-GAIN Laying Mash is always FRESH for maximum palatability. It's an efficient feed, because of its high-quality ingredients, and it's an economical feed for its made close to home, saving expensive transportation and middlemen's profits.

It Took Four Days.

It took four days for factories, offices and transportation facilities to return to anything like normal following the snow blitz of December 12th.

Engineers of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario know because the storm caused a falling off in the demand for power in the Southern Ontario System to the extent of approximately 175,000 horsepower.

As citizens dug themselves out and business finally got "on the road back," the demand for power gradually increased and at the end of the fourth day loads were back to normal peak.

By BETTY BARGLAY

Resolved: To let the old year carry out our old empty dishes and the New Year feature new and unusual tastes, week after week. That's a resolution worth while, and here are some recipes to start you off properly.

Whipped Sweet Potatoes in Orange Shells

8 oranges
4 cups boiled or baked sweet potatoes
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons melted butter
8 marshmallows
Cut off tops of oranges and remove pulp and juice with a sharp knife and spoon. Whip sweet potatoes with salt, butter and orange juice to moisten to desired consistency. Use juice secured in preparing shells. Fill orange shells and top each with a marshmallow. Brown in moderate oven until heated through. (Serves 8.)

Wheat-Meal Chicken Loaf

¾ cup finely diced celery
½ cup finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons finely diced green pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups boiling water
1½ cups chicken broth
1 cup Grape-Nuts Wheat-Meal
¾ to 1 cup diced cooked chicken or giblets

Add vegetables, salt, and chicken broth to boiling water and cook until vegetables are tender. Drain; measure liquid and add water to make 3 cups. Bring liquid to a boil, add cereal gradually, and boil gently 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Add cooked vegetables and chicken. Turn into greased 9 x 4 x 3-inch pan. When cold, slice and sauté in small amount of fat until lightly browned. Serve with chicken gravy, or serve with onion, celery or mushroom sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Note: Three cups boiling water and 3 bouillon cubes (chicken flavor) may be substituted for 1½ cups each chicken broth and boiling water.

Spicy Holiday Froth
1 cup evaporated milk
½ teaspoon vanilla
Chinamen or nutmeg
4 cups freshly made, hot decaffeinated coffee

Chill evaporated milk. Add

50,000 New BLOOD DONORS NEEDED Now

A SAILOR writes:
"Our ship was struck; I know not how. I was in the water for six hours when I was rescued and brought ashore. I felt I was going to die but was determined not to. Almost immediately I was given a Blood Transfusion — altogether I had ten I owe my life today to Red Cross Blood."

A SOLDIER writes:
"Our great fear is always 'Will there be enough blood?' It takes so much these days, and the biggest battles are yet to come. Some men must have five or six pints of your strength before they have a chance to recover. They die except for your blood. In your arteries the power to give men a second chance to live."

An Airman writes:
"Just before leaving our last Station they had a big drive for Blood Donors, so 'yours truly' volunteered. They only took a pint, which was a good thing, as that was all I had with me that day."

FRIDAY, JANUARY 12, 1945.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES.

In tune with the hard fighting on the war fronts both Britain and the United States have adopted stronger measures in regard to manpower and industrial activities but so far there have been no concrete indications that similar measures may follow immediately in imitation of these measures in this country, especially on manpower problems. Of course, it is pointed out in well-informed quarters along Parliament Hill that the Government of Canada had only lately adopted stronger measures on manpower, including the famous Order-in-Council which made 16,000 men of the N.R.M.A. available for overseas service as reinforcements for the troops and other manpower for military as well as civilian needs. For a time, before the start of the hard fighting on the European fronts, there was so much talk in Ottawa and elsewhere throughout this country of post-war employment that people began to seek employment outside war work, even causing concern in official circles. The Department of Munitions and Supply in Ottawa is said to have started to assure its employees not to worry about post-war work but to concentrate on their present war tasks when employees began to look for other occupations; prominent employees in war jobs in the capital began to move out and back into their peace-time jobs at a surprising rate; when the Civil Service Commission advertised for positions to be filled by applications for 25 open posts, though applicants were supposed to be very scarce in this war period. All in all, the trend of the time seems to have changed now in Canada as it has in both Britain and the United States since it is realized that victory may not come as soon, nor as easily, as it had been imagined by a great many people, though some of the drastic measures taken by London and Washington have not been emulated completely in Ottawa so far in this period of crisis.

One of the mysteries in Canada's capital is why so many discharged personnel of the armed services have not applied for their war service gratuities, though it has been widely publicized by the Government that payments would be started in January of 1945. It is true that originally the War Service Gratuities Bill was supposed to come into force on October 1st, 1944, but it must be pointed out that later this date was changed in Ottawa to January 1st next after Hon. J. L. Ralston, former Minister of National Defence, had stated that it was doubtful if the machinery for paying gratuities and grants could be possibly set up by October 1st. When widely publicized, still the men did not come forth for the money to the extent that it had been expected so that one report in Ottawa disclosed that about one-quarter of the number of cheques would probably go out in January of this time. However, it is possible that the biggest payments in the largest numbers will not be forthcoming until close to the end of the war when more and more men will be discharged from the forces since payments of gratuities or grants are based on the length of service as well as the determining factor whether the man or woman served at home or abroad.

The bequest of $50,000 to Prime Minister Mackenzie King by the late Sir William Mullock is still a subject of much conversation along Parliament Hill for a number of reasons. One reason is that it has brought suddenly to the limelight a theory that Canada's Prime Ministers and some Ministers of the Crown do not get as much salary for their services as they should receive, this being emphasized by the fact that history has recorded that most of the Prime Ministers have been forced to seek other work and have been forced to publicize their need for money. Another reason is that this bequest has revived memories of the close relationship for almost 50 years between Premier King and the late Sir William Mullock, who had much to do with the start in public life of Canada's Premier. It goes back to the historic convention where the present Premier was only 17 years of age and the youngest candidate among those nominated for the leadership in succession to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, including the 70-year-old Hon. William Fielding, the 60-year-old Hon. G. P. Graham or Hon. D. D. MacKenzie, though Sir William Mullock's help had helped him along considerably many years before this important stage. Incidentally, a report in Ottawa has stated that this bequest may be tax-free and paid in full.

It has become known in the capital that a union, having membership in the C.I.O., that is the Committee for Industrial Organization, has made a demand upon the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation for free time on the air in order to create better understanding of labor relations in Canada. However, since this involves a matter of high policy for the C.B.C., it will be subject to consideration before the Board of Governors at their next meeting, probably in January.

Though it is recognized by the officials that present conditions may not warrant optimism for immediate results of a normal kind, yet the Department of Trade and Commerce in Ottawa is making extensive preparations at this time for a renewal as well as an expansion of Canada's external trade relations throughout the world, with an export division having been established. Indeed, just as soon as countries are liberated and shipping facilities are recommended, the activities of this important division may assume its important functions to an extent far beyond the imagination of the man-in-the-street, especially when the strict controls begin to drop more and more in the near future. Moreover, it is stated in Ottawa that general interest among businessmen in Canada in regard to imports is far greater than ever before, judging by the inquiries being made.

When the United States adopted drastic means "to prevent the use of critical materials, services and transportation until war conditions permit," by directing the race tracks to discontinue operations by January 3rd, 1945, it was considered that a somewhat similar race might follow in Canada and this was a cause for much thought amongst sportsmen in this country. At this time, it must be stressed that the conditions of this sport in Canada are connected with those in the United States but there are also differences, particularly in racing regulations here as well as the Federal authorities. The betting in the United States in 1944 amounted to $1,126,304, 645 but in Canada it was only $37,608, 199, though this latter figure was the largest in Canada since 1930 when the largest in Canada was $1,126,304, 645. In 1944, the Department of Agriculture supervised pari-mutuel betting at the tracks of 25 racing associations which held racing for 298 days only and involved much less in the way of employees or investment than in the United States during the same period of time.

Notwithstanding all rumours to the contrary, yet it is a fact that the only reason why Hon. John Bracken, leader of the Progressive Conservative party, who is now in Britain, was forced to cancel an address at Fort Coulong before his departure for overseas was due to all roads being blocked by heavy snow which it made them impossible for any kind of motor or sleigh traffic for any time. For some time there have been circulated stories that Canada's Minister of Public Works would resign not only as a Minister but as a Member of Parliament. However, Hon. Alphonse Fournier, Minister of Public Works, has no such intentions. He will remain in the King Cabinet and he will run for Parliament in the next elections as a Liberal. Being only a private in the Canadian Army, the award of V.C. brings with the honour a life-time gift each year of ten pounds, though this money does not go with the award for any officer. This information was revealed in Ottawa in connection with the winning of the V.C. by Pte. Ernest "Smoky" Smith. Dr. Hugh Kennedy, Canada's new Ambassador to Mexico and a distinguished official in the Department of External Affairs in Ottawa for many years, will move to Ottawa for his new assignment in January, 1945. The labor organization is moving into the capital. The employees of the famous Chateau Laurier in Ottawa have been organized as a union, to be known as "Capital Division No. 270" of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers. A report in the capital seems to reveal that R. A. C. Henry, formerly secretary to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, may resign his post as Deputy Minister of Reconstruction soon, though he will retain the chairmanship of the Air Transport Board.

Miss Edith Isley, daughter of the Minister of Finance, Hon. J. L. Isley, is a student of costume design and illustration at a school of fashion in New York. The new secretary of the Minister of National Defence, General A. G. L. McNaughton, will be a permanent force officer, Lieut. Col. H. L. Cameron, O.B.E., who served in Siberia in 1918 and he was secretary to six successive chiefs of "no beer" appearance. When the sign of "no beer" appeared during the holiday season it did not necessarily show a lack of beer due to government restrictions, but rather of greater consumption. This has been stressed lately in Ottawa.

Commercial Rental Regulations.

Tenants of commercial property including manufacturing space, offices, stores and other industrial and business places may be given a notice to vacate only for the reasons set out in the regulations, under a new regulation of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. The notice must be given at least three months prior to the end of the lease or three months if a monthly lease, and permission to give it must be first secured from the Board's rental appraiser and the landlord must require the property for his own occupation or for demolition or making of major structural alterations.

Revision in Used Car Regulations.

Regulations governing the price and distribution of used motor cars have been revised by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board which now requires the licensing of all used car dealers. Among the revisions is a regulation which provides that a dealer may not retain more vehicles for his personal use and for use as service cars than he operated in 1943. All other cars under his control must be offered for sale. The new order established two sets of ceiling prices for used cars. Ceilings announced last August now apply only to recent dealer sales. If a dealer sells a used car, whatever its condition, at least 10 per cent of the ceiling price or an amount equal to the estimated cost of putting the car in good operating condition must be deducted from the ceiling price.

Crop Adaptation and Culture.

Some crops may grow better on some types of soil than on others, but some types of soil than on others, but cultivation methods must be considered. The classification and mapping of soil types by the soil survey, provides facilities by which differences can be more systematically and closely studied. This allows for the securing of information on which to plan a more suitable cropping system and farm management program.

The crop productivity studies conducted by the Field Husbandry Division, Dominion Experimental Farms Service, following soil surveys in a number of localities, the production of potatoes, silage corn, sweet corn, alfalfa and Brome Grass has been relatively good on the lighter soils.

On heavy clay soils, some of these crops are not at all well adapted. But crops such as oats, barley, ed, but crops such as oats, barley, peas, timothy, alfalfa, usually are quite productive. It is fortunate that many areas fall into an intermediate group of loam soils. These soils when properly managed may be cropped to almost any of the commonly grown field crops with reasonable assurance that they will produce average or better than average yields.

With regard to cultural practices a great difference is necessary in the methods of managing various types. Sandy soils do not present many difficulties from the standpoint of cultivation, they are very friable, easy to work and ploughing or cultivation may be done almost at any time which may be convenient in keeping with good cropping practice and weed eradication. The maintenance of fertility, and moisture holding capacity of these may be improved by the addition of organic matter in the form of farm manure and crop refuse, and the liberal use of commercial fertilizers. The cultivation of clay soils on the other hand, is usually a more difficult matter. There is a right time to plough or cultivate soils. They must not be too wet or too dry. Fall ploughing is usually preferable to spring ploughing. The addition of organic matter, lime where needed to make the soil more open, porous and friable is usually necessary.

Fertility must be maintained but this problem is not so great as with sandy soils. Loam soils afford a considerable advantage from a cultural standpoint as they have many of the desirable features of both sand and clay without some of the undesirable ones.

Clover Silage for Dairy Cattle.

The use of clover silage as a feed for dairy cattle has resulted from attempts to preserve for winter feeding material comparable to good pasturing. Clover cut just before or in the early bloom stage and stored immediately in the silo will retain much of its high feeding qualities when properly insolated. The most satisfactory method of preserving legume or grass silage is by use of molasses at the rate of about thirty pounds of molasses (molasses weight about 13 pounds per imperial gallon) per ton of material, allowing a small stream of the molasses to run into the forage in the blower or by mixing the molasses with warm water and sprinkling on each layer in silo.

The average crude protein content in the dry matter of clover-grass silage ensiled at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Nappan, N.S., says C. D. T. Cameron, during the past three years was 13.4 per cent. Feeding silage of this quality will increase the amount of protein fed in the form of roughage and consequently reduce the percentage of this nutrient required in the meal. Clover silage may be substituted for hay up to one-half of the quantity fed, allowing three pounds ensilage for one pound of dry roughage replaced.

British Scouts Raise $150,000.

It is reported from England that British Boy Scouts raised $150,000 in one day campaign when every Scout was asked to earn one shilling to provide funds for sending Scout relief parties to liberated Europe. The relief groups of ten people work as a medical stores and transport units.

Guy Gibson, V.C., Missing. Wing Commander Guy Gibson, V.C., D.S.O. and bar, D.F.C. and bar, the British Boy Scout who visited Canada last year, has been listed as missing following a raid on Germany. Guy Gibson led the attack on the Mohrner and Elder dams in 1942 to earn him the title of "The Dam Buster" and the V.C.

SCOUT SAVES TWO LIVES.

Prompt action on the part of Bruce Weir, a 14-year-old Toronto Boy Scout, saved the lives of two Toronto children recently. Bruce fought through dense smoke and flames to reach two small children who had been trapped in their blazing home. "But for the heroic action of this 14-year-old Scout, Edna Johnston, aged 4, and his two-year-old brother Lorne, would have been burned to death or suffocated," District Fire Chief Percy Taylor said. Recognition of Weir's act was made at a meeting of the Toronto City Council.

He is suffering from a diseased hip bone which requires that he wear a cast all the time.

Used Musical Instruments Under Price Ceiling.

Whether for Junior's first music lesson or for five on the downbeat, used musical instruments sold in the last period of September 15th to October 11th, 1941, according to a statement issued by W. Harold McPhillips, prices and supply representative for Western Ontario. Prices must, in all cases, not exceed 80 per cent of the price of a new instrument sold in the same locality. Any estimated cost of repairing the instrument to place it in first class condition must be deducted from the 80 per cent maximum.

From now on gummed sheets of coupons used for the purchase of rationed foods will be endorsed by all those who handled them, according to an announcement by the Western Ontario regional office. The plan introduced in the new consolidated order on national regulations, is designed as a safeguard against the possibility of supplies getting into the hands of the "unscrupulous few." The Ration Administration may, as before, investigate any dealer's records at any time and without notice. In announcing the consolidated order Donald Gordon, Board chairman, said "our own direct war needs as well as those of our allies and liberated countries, make it urgent that available supplies do not get into the hands of the unscrupulous few. The Board has every intention of taking whatever steps may appear necessary to enforce these regulations in the interests of the public at large."

Empty nests are a bad sign in the poultry house. Empty nests mean lazy hens — not paying for their keep, and eating up the profits from hardworking pullets. Absenteeism means feeding methods are faulty, or else the feed has not been up to the job required of it.

Don't let empty nests show up in your poultry house. Rigid culling combined with proper feeding results in full-time capacity production. It takes a feed designed for full-time production to keep pullets laying right up to their best ability — and that feed is made by your local SHUR-GAIN Feed Service Mill. SHUR-GAIN Laying Mash is always FRESH for maximum palatability. It's an efficient feed, because of its high-quality ingredients, and it's an economical feed for its made close to home, saving expensive transportation and middlemen's profits.

CRATE REFRIGERATORS.

Transportation of food to the troops in India is carried out under difficult conditions, owing to the enormous amount of refrigeration material required. Aero-plane crates are being used as the basis of transportation. The crates are cleverly bolted to the chassis of flat trucks, and insulated with cork to keep the hot air out and the cold air in.

Howson-Wuerch Nuptials.

Essex Gospel Tabernacle was recently the scene of a very pretty wedding when Miss Elsie Wuerch, of Woodlee, and Robert Howson, of Colchester North, were united in marriage. Rev. C. B. Graham officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was beautiful in a floor-length gown of white brocade satin, the full skirt featuring panels of lace. The shoulders and yoke were also of white lace and the long sleeves had lace cuffs, forming points over the backs of the hands. She wore a finger-tip veil, held in place by a halo of white roses, and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Miss Edna Howson, sister of the groom, was matron of honour, wearing a floor-length gown of blue taffeta fashioned on princess lines. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place with red roses and she carried a bouquet of red carnations.

Miss Alva Collard, as bridesmaid, wore a floor-length gown of pink taffeta, her shoulder-length veil being held in place with pink roses and the bouquet she carried was of pink carnations.

Harry Wuerch, brother of the bride, acted as best man, and Jim Howson, brother of the groom, was groomsman. Arnold Howson, brother of the groom, and Ross Mills were ushers.

Miss Walderine Wuerch, of Windsor, cousin of the bride, played the wedding music, and Mrs. Steinger, sister of Miss Walderine sang during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where seventy-four guests, including the family and relatives, were entertained.

The happy couple are residing in Windsor for the winter months.

Leo Sylvestre, Reeve of Belle River, was elected Warden of Essex County at the inaugural meeting of the County Council, held in Sandwich, on Tuesday. Mr. Sylvestre defeated Alfred Lalonde, Reeve of Rochester township.

Essex Tax Rate Should Be Reduced Considerably.

Provincial grants to the Essex Public, Separate and High School this year will total $30,000.11, as compared to a total of $5,302.22 received in 1944. L. M. Frost, Provincial Treasurer, stated in addressing the Harrow and Colchester South Agricultural Society annual meeting, held in Harrow, on Thursday evening of last week. These figures are based on 1943 expenditures, so no doubt will be higher when 1944 expenditures are at hand.

The actual 1945 grants for the local schools will be as follows: Public School, $8,287.99; High School, $22,009.98; Separate School, app. $4,000. These compare with 1944 grants of $1,098.60; $2,592.23 and $1,611.39 respectively.

The government grant for the local Public School in 1945 will be $7,189.39 over the grant received in 1944, which should, allowing for increased expenditures this year, result in at least a Public School rate of 7 mills or a saving of 3 mills.

Our High School situation is even more rosy. In 1945 the government grant will be 75% of the total expenditures of 1944, viz., $27,380.51, or $20,535.39 plus $10 per pupil on average attendance, which was 247.46 or an additional $2,474.60, making a total grant of $23,009.99. In addition to the Provincial grant the Board will receive from the County its share of the 1944 operating expenses plus its share of debt service payment in 1944, or in round figures $17,760. Thus the Essex Board of Education will receive a grand total of slightly over $40,500 in 1945 for High School purposes.

This figure, of course, would easily pay the operating costs of the High School for 1945, without levying a rate on this year's roll, but it would not be found financially, so it is likely a rate of at least 3 mills will be levied, or a savings of 5 mills on the 1944 levy.

Full report of Mr. Frost's speech will appear in our next week's issue.

Last Week in "Clothes For Britain" Drive.

Monday, January 22nd, starts the last week of the Essex Rotary Club campaign for "Clothes For Britain." The drive so far has been successful, but more clothes are needed to reach the quota set for Essex and the nearby areas. The ladies, as usual, have done well in offering the old clothes from the closets and trunks, but the men's apparel has been very slow in coming in. So come on, men, don't let the ladies beat you, and especially don't let the men of the British Isles down.

During the week of the 22nd, the Essex Boy Scouts, under the leadership of Scout Leader Ted Strickland, Bill Wass and Bill Benton, members of the Scout Committee for the town, will canvass the entire town from house to house. Starting at 4.30 each afternoon and continue until 6 o'clock. The boys of the Scouts will call upon each home and ask for contributions in the form of clothing for the ladies, men and children of the British Isles.

This is the kind of clothes that are needed: Men's suits, overcoats, odd coats, sweaters, etc.; ladies' dresses, skirts, sweaters, overcoats, etc.; children's dresses, sweaters, skirts, etc. Any article given may be for winter or summer wear.

Monday, January 22nd, the following streets will be covered—From Center street down to the Intersection Road, on east side of Talbot.

Tuesday, January 23rd—From Center street to Maldstone avenue, on east side of town.

Wednesday, January 24th—Center street to Intersection Road, on west side of Talbot Road.

Thursday, January 25th—Open day.

Friday, January 26th—Center street to High School, on northwest section of town.

Saturday, the Scouts will not call for clothing, but the following stores will be glad to take your bundles and deliver them to the proper place—Night-Ingale's Grocery, Weller's Hardware, Neuhauser's Poultry House, Essex Dairy, and the Vanity Cleaners. Any one of these stores will handle it for you and all are conveniently located in the town.

If you are leaving your home before 4.30 on the day of the drive along your street, just bundle up the clothes and mark for the Boy Scouts, with your name on the bundle, and leave on your front porch, or with a neighbour, and they will be collected and you credited with the contribution.

For those living outside of the area of the Town of Essex kindly leave your bundles at any of the above-mentioned stores during the week. The people of the British Isles have been giving for six years, so now you give to them. This is a direct contribution to those people, not to any government or agency. It goes direct to the Jews and Jeans of Scotland, England, Wales and other areas making up the British Isles.

If you can't leave your bundles pick up a phone and the operator will take your name and address and a Boy Scout will call for it.

Good Roads Chairman.

G. W. Doyle, local Reeve, is to be congratulated on being selected by the members of the County Council as chairman of the Good Roads committee, possibly the most important committee of the Council.

County Council also appointed three members on the Essex Board of Education, viz., John Shuel, of Paquette, for 3 years; Perry Vanstone, of Essex, 2 years, and Glen McCreery, Gosfield North, 1 year. In the future due man will be appointed each year.

Rudolph Brush Dies.

Rudolph Amos Brush, a resident of Colchester North for over 40 years, passed away this (Thursday) morning, at his farm home at New Cassan, following many months of ill-health. Deceased was born in the Township of Malden, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Brush, in September, 1871, and had farmed all his life. In April, 1902, he married Miss Dolly Rupert, who survives, with six children. Lloyd, a prisoner of war in Germany, being captured at Dieppe, Randall, of New Canaan; Beulah (Mrs. Homer Waffle) of Windsor; Nina, at home; Jean (Mrs. Cecil Gee) and Ola (Mrs. Emerson Neice); both of Colchester North; also 12 grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Colin Craig, of Amherstburg.

Funeral services will be held at the family home, on Saturday, at 2 p.m., with interment in Kingsville Cemetery.

Posthumously Honoured.

The late David Henry Brown, L.S., R.C.N.V.R., V19206, was one of the many chosen for award in His Majesty's New Year's Honours List, being mentioned in despatches for distinguished service.

The citation accompanying the certificate and emblem, received by his parents, states the award, "is for gallantry far beyond the call of duty, shown when H.M.C.S. Valleyfield was torpedoed and sunk in the Atlantic. He assisted in setting all the depth charges on the quarterdeck to safety and thereby saved the lives of all his shipmates who managed to get clear, and probably the lives of those who had to come to the rescue." There were 38 survivors from the Valleyfield.

Leading Seaman David Brown went down with his ship. He was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown, of Roseland, formerly of Maldstone Cross.

Mrs. Wm. B. Henderson Dies.

Mrs. Lula May Henderson, wife of Wm. B. Henderson, of the Maldstone Colchich, Township, passed away in Grace Hospital, Windsor, on Tuesday. She was 71 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. Henderson moved to their son's farm, in Colchester North, a few years ago, from the United States.

Surviving besides her husband, is a son Ernest, of Essex.

Funeral services were held this (Thursday) afternoon from the S. L. Kennedy Funeral Chapel, in charge of Rev. C. W. D. Cosens, and the officers of the local Eastern Star. Burial was in Cottam Cemetery.

Mrs. Cora Jenkins Bunn Dies.

Mrs. Cora Jenkins Bunn, aged 77 years, of 1233 Myo avenue, Windsor, passed away on Tuesday in Hotel Dieu Hospital, Windsor, following a lengthy illness.

Deceased was born in Maldstone Township and had been twice married. Her first husband being the late Joseph Bunn, and her second one the late Mr. Bunn.

After farming in the Woodlee district for years, the Jenkins family moved to their new home on Brien avenue, in Essex, where Mr. Jenkins died. About twelve years ago she and her daughters moved into Windsor.

Surviving are two daughters, Miss Olga Jenkins, of Windsor, and Mrs. Gingerich (Mildred), of Chidress, Tex.; also a brother, Gordon Smith, of Woodlee.

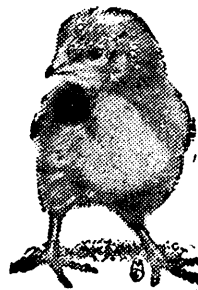

Funeral services are being held this (Friday) afternoon from the Morris Funeral Home, Windsor, at 2 p.m. Burial will be in Cottam cemetery.

Athletic Association Revived.

After four years of inactivity, the Essex County Secondary School Athletic Association has been revived. At a meeting, in Essex, on January 10th, Mr. Gleason, of Leamington, was elected president, Mr. Sider, principal of Amherstburg High School, vice-president; Miss Kellor, of Leamington, secretary-treasurer.

The Association immediately sponsored a basketball league, which will be made up of teams from Amherstburg, Kingsville, Essex, Leamington and Harrow High Schools. A home and home series of games will be played. The Intercollegiate trophy for boys' basketball, which has been held at Essex High since last competed for in 1940, will be at stake in this league.

The Nora Wilson Trophy for senior girls' basketball is also up for competition. The league opens this week with Leamington teams playing at Essex High, at 7.30, on Friday night.

Blood Clinic.

Congratulations to Cottam and other communities increased its numbers of donors despite drifted roads. Now, it is up to the Essex district to surpass all records, at the eighth Blood Donor Clinic, at the United Church, on Wednesday, January 31st. Our men at the front, on all sides, are making a herculean effort to bring hostilities to a speedy conclusion, thus exposing themselves to every danger. The demands for blood plasma are paramount and there is little excuse, at this season of the year, for any able-bodied person from 18 to 65 years of age, absenting him or her self from the clinic at this most critical time. Give your blood and save a life.

Pheasants Flock to Miner's.

With the ground covered by a foot of snow for several weeks in Essex County, hundreds of pheasants have made their way to get food and take shelter in the evergreens on the Jack Miner Sanctuary. Yesterday a group of sportsmen visited the Kingsville Sanctuary and estimated well over five hundred ring necks. So many that they eat ten bushels of corn daily which is provided by Jack Miner's sons.

During Jack Miner's lifetime he planted over fifty thousand evergreens which are practically the only evergreens in this most southern county and now are twenty-five feet high and makes a perfect shelter. The corn is left on the ears and placed in the limbs of the trees a foot above the snow.

Since the influx of pheasants their natural enemies have also concentrated and six or eight hawks daily are being shot and owls are caught in traps at night. If these enemies were not controlled, they would soon reduce the flock of pheasants. The only hawks shot are the ones attacking the pheasants.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES.

In view of Canada's attitude that smaller nations should have more authority in the proposed set-up of any United Nations' security organization in the world as hinted in the reaction to the disclosures at the historic "Dumbarton Oaks Conference," there is a most unusual interest backstage in Ottawa in the proposed meeting shortly to be held in Mexico City of the foreign ministers of the nations of this Western Hemisphere, especially since Canada's future role in the Pan-American Union is a live one capital at this moment. Then again, the increased activities of the Government in Ottawa in the political as well as economic spheres of this Western Hemisphere throughout this war and the favourable tendency of Latin-American countries to engage in reciprocal policies in the capital here have raised the importance of this meeting of foreign ministers. In fact, Canada's interest is keen since her stake may be heavy in the relations with her neighbours in the Western Hemisphere during the post-war period when this nation must obtain new markets for her vital export trade which is closely tied up in her diplomatic relations. The main-land across Canada may realize the point when it is emphasized that it has been estimated that this country has built up an industrial economy during this war that may provide in this time exports to be sent in other fields to the tune of over four billion dollars worth a year.

There is a peculiar story heard now along Parliament Hill and it seems to indicate that the grim events on the war fronts may cause an occurrence once again of the intense agitation for more and more effort in the war by the King Government in regard to manpower policies. While nothing official or open has occurred to back up this story, yet this inference has been drawn by some observers from the visit abroad by top men of the Progressive-Conservative party as well as the statements by Reference Minister McNaughton in his latest pronouncements on the subject, with the Minister stressing at one time that the "reinforcement and demand" and that "volunteers are coming forth" in far larger numbers than last year at this time. However, a calm reminder must be given now that, though it is true that changing conditions may bring forth changes in policies in wartime, yet the Government in Ottawa has the power at the present time to send more than the 16,000 draftees overseas authorized at the last meeting of Parliament, if such a need or decision should be made by the Government. The Government does not need the action of Parliament for such a move in the future, if this should be necessary in any emergency. Nevertheless, such plans and policies are tied up with stories which speculate on what will happen along Parliament Hill when the coming meeting of the House of Commons reopens amidst the evident flurry of intense action on the war fronts, including the possibility of a longer war than imagined by many observers when Parliament met in special session recently.

It must be stated that this veteran observer has found that figures are too often reported without proper explanation of their meaning or significance since statistics may mean less than nothing unless there is an experienced and intelligent understanding how to look at them in Ottawa. When the statistics are quoted that Canada's birthrate is going up by showing that in last year there was born in this country 233,035 as against 272,313 in the previous year of 1942 or 229,468 in 1939, it must be borne in mind that as far back as 1921 Canada's birthrate was 29.4 births per thousand population. The figures given for last year indicates a birthrate of only 24.0 births per thousand population or the previous year a mark of only 23.4. These comparable statistics tell the story and not merely figures for a few years. Likewise, when it was stated recently that there was an increase in unemployment insurance claims, being 11,798 for one monthly period as against 6,222 for the previous month, or 2,396 for the same month of the previous year, it must be borne in mind that the important part of the report was the stress that increases in such claims are quite within the expected happenings in Ottawa at this time of the year even if there was a little bigger trend in such claims beyond the seasonal trend. In plain language, the story behind the story must be known intelligently, if the statistics or figures are to be understood properly in their true light.

The Canadian Government has revealed that it has made arrangements with two plants to produce penicillin, the new precious drug for which so much is foretold possibilities. One plant is located at Commencon Laboratories, University of Toronto, in Toronto, and the other is the Ayerst, McKenna and Harrison Limited, in Montreal. Each has a contract for thirteen billion Oxford Units, a total of twenty-six billions of units, including continuing quantities as may be specified by the Government. However, it must be pointed out that it is said that the Government is not excluded from buying penicillin elsewhere and no directive exists excluding other companies from producing this new precious drug. In addition, the price to be paid for penicillin from these plants mentioned here is to be the proper cost of production, as determined by cost audit by the Treasury cost accountants, plus a fair and reasonable profit to be determined by the Government.

When it became clear from a report in Ottawa that consideration was being given to the proposal to send certain workers of an airplane factory in Canada to another similar plant in the United States, it aroused much curiosity across this country as it seemed a most unusual procedure in view of the labor conditions in regard to supply and demand of manpower. However, there is nothing new in this close co-operation between Canada and the United States on manpower problems from time to time as veteran observers recall how Ottawa allowed persons to go across the international border to work in the United States in the west when harvest requirements demanded such manpower there or Washington allowed Americans there to do similar service in Canadian harvest seasons. Then, again, the same reciprocal attitude was taken in both capitals when men from New Brunswick and Quebec engaged in lumber work in the section of Maine areas where such needs developed. In other words, whenever extra help was needed, by one or the other country and such aid could be given without doing any harm, exchange of manpower was effected with as little red tape as possible, this being the background of the latest consideration given to need of certain workers in an airplane plant in the United States from a similar factory in Canada, through a story in Ottawa has indicated that the Canadian officials are looking over the labor field for possible need of more workers in war industries in this country, estimates claiming that the need may go over the thirteen thousand mark as more United States orders are coming into this nation's factories due to the latest developments in the war.

One of the most popular representatives of another country in Ottawa, Sir William Glasgow, Australia's High Commissioner in Canada, is leaving the capital and returning home so that Australia's representative almost throughout the whole period of World War II will be badly missed here because it is whispered that no individual has done as much to cement relations between the two Dominions for future results as well as present accomplishments than this popular official. Another diplomatic ace in the spotlight lately is Canada's new ambassador to the United States, Hon. Lester B. Pearson, who made his first appearance in Ottawa when he came to pay his respects to the Governor General at a levee in the House of Commons. The president of the Canadian Pacific Railways, D. C. Coleman, was seen lately with his brother, Dr. Coleman, Canada's Under Secretary of State, as they walked along Parliament Hill. When a terrific fire occurred in the Robinson Building, on Sparks street, in Ottawa, the Wartime Information Office's industrial section was endangered, but its editor, David Peterogorsky, only 28 years of age, climbed a ladder, entering the second floor window to rescue the copy of "Labor Facts" which was ready for the press at that time. Dr. Leslie G. Kilborn, dean of Medicine of West China Union University, came to Canada's capital for a visit, and he disclosed that an inquiry has been received from the National Health administration of China in regard to what plans Canadian missions intend to use for the continuation or expansion of their medical work in China after the war. He indicated that the administration had offered to help by getting aid from the U.N.R.A. in order to repair, rebuild and re-equip hospitals destroyed during this war. Follow These Rules and Cut Poultry Losses.

Following are ten rules that if followed will cut down losses in poultry, says George Robertson, Dominion Poultry Husbandman, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

1. Buy chicks from a breeder or hatchery that uses eggs only from Pullorum free stock.
2. Bulk chicks from a source close enough home that the chicks are not too long on the road.
3. See that the houses in which the chicks are to be brooded have been thoroughly cleaned, scrubbed and disinfected.
4. See that the chicks are properly brooded — never over heated or chilled.
5. Have the brooder house sufficiently far from the old stock so that the chicks never come in contact with either the old stock or their surroundings.
6. Raise the chicks on clean ground over which no old stock has run for at least a year.
7. Do not allow the person who is handling the layers to tend the chicks. If this is impossible, then insist that he use rubbers before going into the brooder house or onto the chick ranges.
8. Do not allow strangers, especially those who are keeping poultry, to go into the flock without first putting on a clean pair of rubbers.
9. Remove any ailing chicks as soon as it is noticed and do not put it back in the flock even after it has apparently recovered.
10. Get the chicks onto good green range as early as possible and see that this range condition is continued throughout the growing period.

ROYAL BANK DIRECTOR.

GRANT MacEWAN, B.S.A., M.S., Professor of Animal Husbandry at the University of Saskatchewan, who has been appointed a Director of The Royal Bank of Canada. He will bring to the directorate of the bank a knowledge of farming and farmer's problems that is practical as well as academic.

Farm Expert Joint Royal Bank Board.

Appointment of Grant MacEwan, Professor of Animal Husbandry at the University of Saskatchewan, as Director of The Royal Bank of Canada, was announced this week.

Mr. MacEwan is well known throughout Western Canada as an authority on all phases of agriculture and is one of the country's leading judges of livestock. To the directorate of farming and the farmer's problems that is practical as well as academic. His parents pioneered in the Brandon district and Grant MacEwan spent his youth on the farm. His love of farming persisted and, after high school, he elected to pursue his studies at the Ontario Agricultural College from which he graduated in 1926. After a short period of service with the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture, he took a post-graduate course at Iowa State College and in 1928 joined the staff of the University of Saskatchewan as Assistant Professor of Husbandry. He became head of the department in 1934 and for the past two years has served as superintendent at the University farm. Since 1943 he has been president of the Saskatoon Exhibition Board.

Grant MacEwan has been greatly in demand throughout the west and on the Pacific coast as a judge of livestock and he is the author and co-author of several standard text books on agriculture and animal husbandry. He operates his own farm in Alberta, some nine miles from the famous E. P. Ranch.

Work that Protects Food from Insects.

Inspection of boats and storage premises are made every year by the Plant Protection Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, to prevent serious losses from insect damage to grains, cereals, flour, and similar food products in storage and before shipment overseas. In the fiscal year ended March 31, 1944, 431 ocean boats were inspected before cargoes of grain were loaded, and 35 of them required cleaning because of infestations of insects and mites. One hundred and sixty-six lake boats, used for winter storage of grain, were examined, and many of them required cleaning. Elevators, flour mills, and warehouses were also inspected, 38 of which required clean-up operations to suppress insect and mite outbreaks. The staff of the Stored Products Insect Investigation of the Division of Entomology co-operated in this project by identifying the insects and recommending methods of control.

Farmer, Chop That Tree.

If timber for pulpwood had to be felled in the fall or summer time many of Canada's allies might find it even more difficult to buy their daily papers than they do now.

The reason — during the war Canada has been the main Allied source of pulp and paper. And Canadian farmers have played a leading part in the pulp and paper industry. Each winter, when the harvest is over, many Canadian farmers go into the woods to cut timber.

But Canadian pulpwood is the raw material for many things than the morning edition of the Daily Times. Pulp is needed for explosives, plastics, substitutes for metal, for rayon in tires and parachutes. Paper board containers are used to pack shell cases, ammunition, gun barrels, machine parts, blood plasma, food and medical supplies. Building board substitutes for lumber in building barracks, hospitals, munition works. Paper is needed for maps, charts, blueprints, towels, Victory Bonds, and war savings certificates, as well as newspaper.

Through the efforts of Canadian farmers and other Canadian workers, this country has been able to increase her exports of wood pulp from 700,000 tons in 1939 to 1,581,000 tons in 1943.

THE ESSEX FREE PRESS, ESSEX, ONTARIO.

A Room for the 'Teen Age Girl.

One of the fondest dreams of the teen-age girl is probably that of a room of her very own. If you are in the fortunate position to be able to make that dream come true, make sure the castle of dreams has a color scheme that is worthy of it and its young occupant. And above all, allow the young miss herself to have some say in the matter of choosing color scheme and furniture for it.

The color scheme of the young girl's room will depend, of course, on the individual type she happens to be. The very feminine young thing will probably lean towards pastels and fluffy ruffles — and what could be nicer? — while the sports-loving girl who was a tom-boy short months ago will incline more towards bold and bolder decorations.

Here are a couple of samples, one for the feminine missy, one for the extrovert boy. Maybe you would like to try them out verbally on your daughter and see how they fit in with her own individuality.

The first is a harmony of coral and ivory. The walls are painted deep ivory which serves to give emphasis to gay colored prints on either side of the window. The furniture, of modern design includes a low square cabinet large enough to hold all manner of things, a desk and three tiered table, and a dressing table with bench. All of these things are painted ivory, a shade or two lighter than the walls and trim.

A studio couch, with a soft coral-colored slip-cover piped with ivory fits in an alcove at one end of the room. This alcove is made by the built-in cupboards and bookshelves which flank the couch at either side. The bright rich colors of the color covers add touches of deeper color to the general harmony of the room.

Bookshelves, cupboards and the small radio are all painted the color of the furniture. Floor length draperies over the ivory-painted Venetian blinds, are of coral color like the lighting. Lamps on the glass-topped dressing table wear ivory shades; and a small rug, also ivory colored — is spread before the couch.

A room in a different mode, charmingly informal and youthful, is that based on a length of plaid gingham. The colors predominating in the gingham form the color harmony for the room. The upper walls and ceiling are done in one of the lighter tints, with the woodwork painted either to match or to contrast with them.

The furniture, painted the same color as the woodwork, has gingham cushions for their backs and seats; and the bedspread is of plaid color with a border and appliqued figures to form a pattern in the centre. Or if you prefer a studio couch for a living room effect, the slip cover of the couch and the pillows may be of plaid.

The windows could be attractively framed either in crisp white draperies bound with gingham or with curtains of transparent white material with overdraperies and valances of gingham. For the rug, it is well to match the darkest color used in the plaid.

More feminine is the effect obtained with a color scheme reminiscent of a spring hillside. In this, the walls and ceilings are painted pale pink; the woodwork pale green and the draperies of pink chintz have figures printed in green. A light green homespun rug with a peach and deeper green border covers the floor. Most of the furniture is maple, but one wing chair is upholstered in a deep peach material quilted in green, and plain green chintz covers the slipper chair and dressing table stool. Chintz-pattern porcelain lamps in pink and green stand at either end of the dressing table mirror to add one last touch of daintiness and charm to the room.

Yellow and white form the basis for yet another room which is not too fragile to please the practical-minded girl and yet is dainty enough to satisfy the most fastidious maidens. Walls are painted a soft daffodil yellow are topped by a white ceiling. White draperies of a textured material match the bedspread.

Report on the 1944 Sugar Beet Crop

ONTARIO'S 1944 sugar beet crop, harvested from 14,472 acres, totalled 131,328 tons, an average of over nine tons of beets per acre despite weather conditions which were far from ideal owing to the long period of drought in the latter part of the summer. Sugar content averaged 18.54% over the entire crop but showed considerable variations in different sections of the territory.

The average value per acre to growers, taking in all fields — good, bad and in-between — was $112.50 for factory delivered beets, or $103.75 for beets delivered at outside points. Even after paying for hired labour to do thinning, second hoeing and harvesting, growers averaged over $75.00 per acre for their beets.

Segmented Seed:

About 70% or more of segmented beet seeds contain but a single seed germ. Over 5,000 acres were planted to this seed in 1944 and it proved satisfactory in most cases. The segmented seed fields showed good stands of beets yet the work of thinning was much reduced. Indications are that more growers will ask for segmented seed in 1945.

Labour:

The 300 German prisoners of war quartered near Chatham were a great help in thinning and second hoeing the crop. In the main they did good jobs. They were not needed for beet harvesting as there was plenty of regular skilled beet labour available for this work. The prisoners, however, were most useful in helping with other crops and were much in demand all through the season up to the end of October. The prisoners are anxious to return to Southwestern Ontario this year and the farmers want them back — and more of them, preferably scattered in several camps instead of centralized in the one compound.

Sugar:

Almost forty million pounds of sugar was returned from Ontario beets in 1944 — over twice as much as in 1943. Farmers can easily double or triple this amount in 1945. A HUNDRED MILLION POUNDS OF HOME-GROWN SUGAR WILL HELP A LOT. The industrial sugar ration has already been cut and leading sugar authorities are emphatic in stating that the future sugar situation is a critical one.

Mechanical Unloaders:

The Company has invested over a hundred thousand dollars in mechanical unloading equipment to give growers quick and easy unloading of their beets. We are out to get all the additional equipment of this type which the United States will release to us this year. Our ultimate objective: Mechanical unloading for every farmer's beets!

Mechanical Beet Harvester:

The Company secured and tested a John Deere beet harvester and a loader in 1944. Some difficulties were encountered with the harvester owing to the extremely dry, hard condition of the soil which prevailed last fall. The mechanical loader did an excellent job but some modifications are required in the harvester to adapt it to our conditions. However, there is no doubt that we are on the threshold of a new era of mechanical handling of sugar beets.

Growers' Comments:

The most frequent statement we heard from growers was: "I wish I had put in more beets this year!"

Sugar Beet Acreage in 1945

The Company is prepared to staff and equip both the Chatham and Wallaceburg refineries for 1945 full-scale operation if the farmers will grow the beets. Sugar is the one crop of which there is no possible danger of overproduction in 1945!

Used Car Hoarding Banned.

The recent order governing the sale and distribution of used cars prevents dealers from withholding from sale any car owned by him and not being used for personal service purposes. According to W. Harold McPhillips, provincially representative for Western Ontario, the regulations also prevent dealers from keeping more personal and service cars than were used for these purposes in 1943.

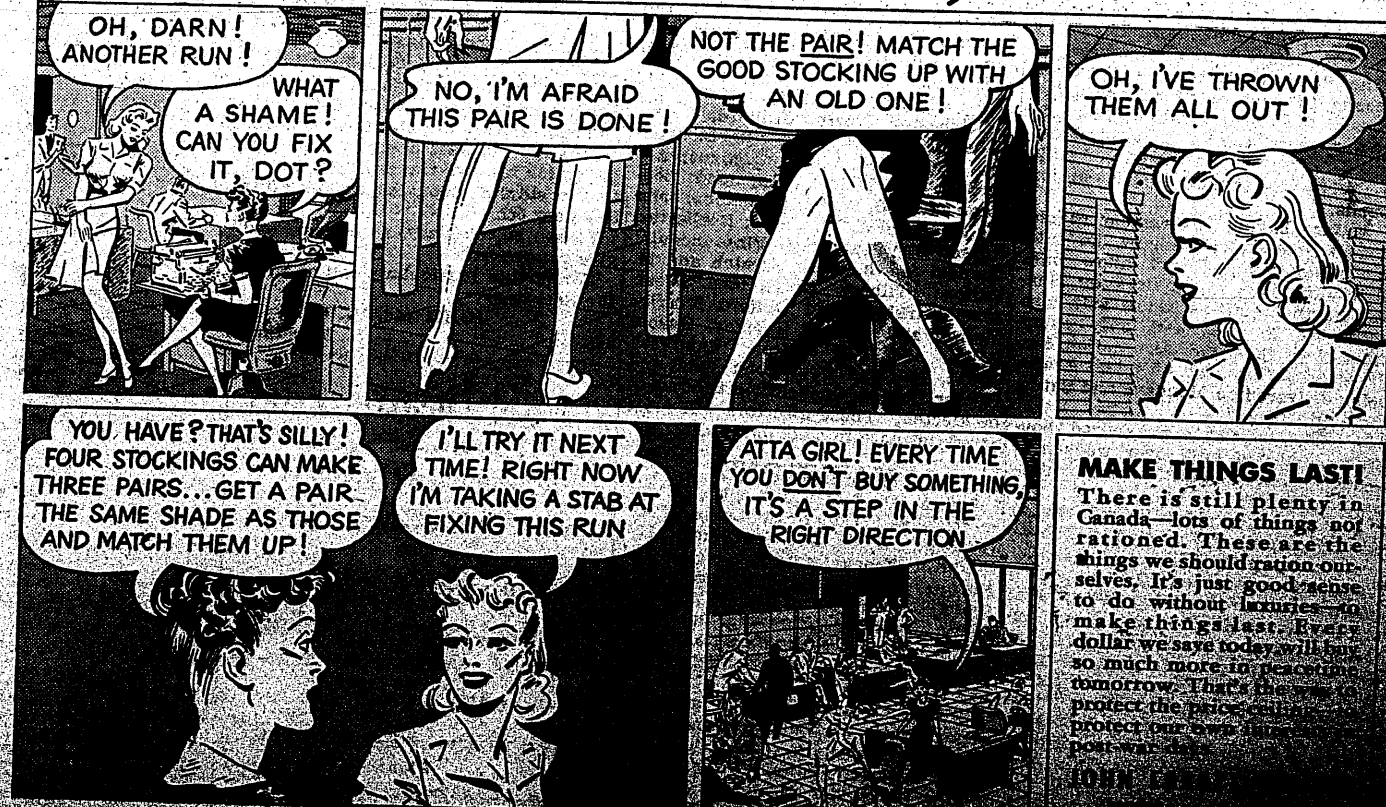

In addition to preventing the hoarding of used cars the new regulations require dealers to obtain permits to carry on business, to keep records of all cars they own on and after December 30th, 1944. These records must include the price paid for the car and now, when, to whom the price was paid, as well as details of the car and its accessories.

Basic period weights of nickel and dime packages of hard boiled candy must not be decreased under a ruling of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Five cent packages must not weigh less than two ounces and 10 cent packages must weight not less than four ounces.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

On Friday night last, at the High School, students gathered to watch three basketball games between the Red and Gold houses.

The Red and Gold Junior girls played for eight minutes, then rested, while the senior girls played for the same period of time. This was repeated until the four quarters were completed, with the following results: Golds won the junior game by 21 points to 15, but in the senior game the Reds came through with 23 points to the Golds' 13.

Worthy of note is Betty McDougall, of the senior Reds, who got 10 points, and Ellen Rogers, who scored nine points. But the Golds were not to be outdone, for they, too, have a star, June Andrew, who was credited with 11 points.

You may be interested to know that these three stars are playing together on the school team, which will be playing other school teams. This Friday night we will be playing against Leamington and, these star forwards with the loyal support of their guards and substitutes, hope to defeat this school team.

The boys' basketball game was the closest of the three. The Reds got off to a fine start, and were leading 19 to 13 at the half. In the last half, however, the Golds surged ahead and in the closing minutes of play Eddie Paschion tied the score. In a few seconds, however, Barnewall, forward for the Reds, was awarded a free shot, which he sank as the whistle sounded. The final score was Reds 26, Golds 25. Don't forget the basketball games, starting at 7.30, at the High School, this Friday night. Admission 25c.

50,000 New BLOOD DONORS NEEDED Now!

A SAILOR writes:

"Our ship was struck, I know not how. I was in the water for six hours when I was rescued and brought ashore. I felt I was going to die but was determined not to. Almost immediately I was given a Blood Transfusion... altogether I had ten pints of my life today to Red Cross Blood."

A SOLDIER writes:

"Our great fear is always 'Will there be enough blood?' It takes so much these days, and the biggest battles are yet to come. Some men must have five or six pints of your strength before they have a chance to recover. They die except for your blood. In your arteries is the power to give men a second chance to live."

An Airman writes:

"Just before leaving our last station they had a big drive for Blood Donors, so 'yours truly' volunteered. They only took a pint, which was a good thing, as that was all I had with me that day."

You'll be proud to wear this badge of service

New BLOOD DONORS are NEEDED as never before!

Cleanings From Ottawa.

Notable Canadian.

Few doors in Washington are closed to Lester Bowles Pearson, O.B.E., newly-appointed Canadian ambassador to the United States. His affability and keen wit are well known in the White House and many a humbler dwelling in the capital.

Pearson replaces Leighton G. McCarthy, K.C., first Canadian Ambassador to the United States, now 75, who is retiring from diplomatic life.

No admirer of spats and gardenia diplomacy, "Mike" Pearson has a background that fits him for the strenuous post at Washington. Here Canada's expanding diplomatic force has a job of vital importance and one that will grow rather than diminish.

Fourth Ambassador Pearson is perhaps Canada's most popular diplomat. He is credited with a remark in the last war that characterized his disregard for the exigencies of diplomacy. "Well, win the war," he prophesied, "if we don't run out of carbon paper."

The Manchester Guardian, one of Britain's best regarded daily newspapers, in full-blown praise of Pearson on his departure from Britain, said, "He is shortly exchanging London for Ottawa, to the regret of all who have had experience of his flair for making formal conferences human and for clipping red tape. He is indeed the exception which proves the rule that diplomats — for diplomacy is his sphere — are tall, austere, meticulous in attire, and evasive in speech."

"Mike" Pearson, brisk, jovial, with a head of unruly hair and a habit of direct speech, is 47. He was born in Toronto and educated at the University of Toronto. He did post-graduate work at Oxford University, and taught history at the University of Toronto. One time hockey player, laborer in the Chicago stockyards, ambulance driver in the First Great War, Pearson's excellent academic background has been mellowed by frequent brushes with the somewhat harsher realities of living.

His career of diplomacy began in 1928 when he entered the then small Canadian Department of External Affairs. From 1935 to 1941 he was attached to the Office of Canadian High Commissioner in London. In 1942 he was appointed minister-counselor of the Canadian Embassy in Washington. Extra-curricular jobs in Pearson's career include: chairmanship of the United Nations Interim Commission on Food and Agriculture, the supplies committee of United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration and chairmanship of the Second Conference of UNRRA in Montreal last summer.

McNaughton and North Grey Bye-Election.

There is some speculation as to whether, should Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton be defeated in the North Grey bye-election, there may be an appeal to the country by the King government. Some well-informed observers believe that Premier King might regard the defeat of his minister of national defence as calling for a national vote in which the electorate could express their confidence in the government. There has been no official indication that Mr. King holds this view. Reports reaching Ottawa indicate that General McNaughton is likely to be elected. There are indications that the Progressive Conservative party in beginning to regret its decision not to concede Gen. McNaughton an acclamation. If, as expected, Gen. McNaughton is elected, the Progressive Conservatives will have only lost another political battle, should be defeated, it will amount Parliament at a critical stage of the war. Some Progressive Conservatives do not regard this as a possibility which will prove of any national service or enhance party's popularity. One move was made toward withdrawing the Progressive Conservative candidate, but this has been dropped. It is believed that, had the Progressive Conservative party not entered a candidate in North Grey, the C.C.F. would also have agreed to an acclamation. This would have left Gen. McNaughton free to devote his full attention to war prosecution and getting reinforcements overseas, and would have ensured his early appearance in the Commons where he could be fully questioned at all times on war progress and policy.

Restrictions on the amount of poultry which may be packed in tin containers have been removed by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board to take care of supplies of poultry in excess of fresh poultry needs.

New Commissioner

GORDON M. HUTT, of Winnipeg, recently appointed development commissioner of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company with headquarters at Montreal. For the past 13 years Mr. Hutt has been assistant development commissioner with headquarters at Winnipeg.

"Ambition"

No bird soars too high if he soars with his own wings.—William Blake.

He that resolves upon any great and good end, has, by that very resolution, scaled the chief barrier to it.—Tryon Edwards.

We want an aim that can never grow vile, and which cannot disappoint our hope. There is but one such on earth, and it is that of being like God.—S. Brooke.

The very fruit of the gospel is aspiration. It is to the heart what spring is to the earth, making every root bud, and bough desire to be more.—H. W. Beecher.

What grander ambition is there than to maintain in yourselves what Jesus loved, and to know that your example, more than words, makes morals for mankind.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Resolve to be thyself: and know, that he Who finds himself, loses his misery.—Matthew Arnold.

Testing Times.

Encouraging in these difficult days are the numerous accounts of men and women everywhere who, when in great danger, have turned to divine help and found deliverance. Their prayers have been answered in a manner which has seemed miraculous to an astonished world. We can all claim stability, courage, and intelligence in any emergency, because these qualities belong to the man who is the image and likeness of God, the true selfhood of each one of us, the reflection of God, the one Mind. Nothing can separate us from this Mind, which is Love. The Psalmist wrote (Psalm 91:9-10): "Because thou hast made the Lord, which is my refuge, even the most High, his habitation; there shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling."

There is no hardship, temptation, or danger which can separate us from Love's outstretched arms. We have our means of deliverance always at hand, if we will only remember that God is with us and not allow our thinking to become confused by the pressure of fear or loneliness. In Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures (p. 393) Mary Baker Eddy writes: "Rise in the strength of spirit to resist all that is unlike good. God has made man capable of this, and nothing can vitiate the ability and power divinely bestowed on man."

How straightening and encouraging it is to know that "God has made man capable"—capable of successfully resisting "all that is unlike good." No evil influence can prevail against such resistance or withstand reliance on God, good. This is the unchanging eternal truth about man, the image and likeness of God. Each one of us can claim his spiritual birthright and so gain freedom and dominion.—Christian Science Monitor.

Brushes containing hog or pig bristles still require an export permit when shipped from Canada to any destination.

Surplus Hay May be Commandeered.

Facing an immediate need to get hay into districts of Ontario and Quebec, where there are serious shortages, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board is prepared "if necessary to commandeer supplies from available surpluses" in other parts of the two provinces. According to a statement issued by the Board chairman, Donald Gordon, there are serious shortages in some areas of Ontario and Quebec with supplies reported in other areas. Board officials state that the sources of available supplies are known to the board and necessary action will be taken to speed up shipments if supply is not forthcoming. It is unlikely that export permits will be issued for it is the attitude of the Board "that the first obligation on domestic supply is to meet domestic requirements."

Family Allowances Stimulate Employment.

This is not as charitable as it seems, although it only conforms to the objective to which most thinking Canadians subscribe — that benefits from Canadian social measures should be shared impartially by all. The fact is that a good deal of the money which goes to corporations in Ontario and Quebec, and which contributes to federal revenue collected in these provinces, is paid by residents of other sections of Canada. It is paid in insurance premiums, mortgage interest, purchases of goods and equipment made in the wealthier provinces and in other ways. It is not regarded as unfair by fiscal experts, therefore, that some of this money should be returned to other parts of Canada in the distribution of family allowances and in other ways. Mr. Claxton predicts that children's allowances will result in great improvement in the health of all Canadian young people. He also stressed the great economic advantage of the allowances plan. Purchasing power it provides will help keep industrial workers employed and will enable Canadians to purchase more largely of farm products of all kinds. It will, he says, help to stimulate prosperity for people in all parts of the dominion, in both rural and urban sections.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

Hello, Homemakers! City paths and country lanes have been knee-deep in snow, the appearance of homes is quite different. It looks as if cotton batting had been tenderly tucked around each house to protect the human souls from suffering — suffering from loneliness sometimes.

At this time the folks within your house or the next door neighbour may be cheered by a cup of stimulating tea and tasty doughnuts.

By the way, have you tried making fresh doughnuts or fritters recently? They do save the butter inasmuch as this rationed product is not an ingredient of the batter, nor is it necessary for serving with these cake or scones substitutes. Those who are shy of butter will want to try these tested recipes.

Sweet Milk Doughnuts.
2 tablespoons shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/2 teaspoon lemon extract.

Beat the eggs till very light, add the sugar and when foamy add the melted shortening. Sift the baking powder, salt and nutmeg with one cup of flour and stir into first mixture, alternating with the milk. Add the lemon flavouring and just enough flour to make a soft dough which can be handled. Roll out three-fourths inch thick on a lightly floured board. A soft dough makes light and tender doughnuts when cooked. Fry in deep fat (360 to 370 degrees) and drain on unglazed paper.

Apple Fritters.
1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon sugar, 2 eggs, salt, 2 cups flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder, apples.

To the milk add the well-beaten eggs, yolks and the sugar, then the flour mixed and sifted with the baking powder and the salt. Then fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Add sliced apples, being careful to get the batter all over them. Drop by spoonfuls into deep fat (360 to 370 degrees) and fry two to three minutes. Serve with powdered sugar or foamy sauce.

Banana Fritters.
6 bananas, 2 tablespoons sugar, 3 tablespoons orange juice, fritter batter.

Peel bananas, cut each in two and split each half. Place the pieces in a bowl with sugar and orange juice and let them stand for one hour. Drain the fruit, dip in batter and fry in deep fat (360 to 370 degrees) from two to three minutes. Serve with powdered sugar or fancy sauce.

Crullers.
1/2 cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 3/2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon grated nutmeg, 1/2 teaspoon salt, flour.

Cream the shortening. Add the sugar; then the well-beaten eggs. Sift the baking powder, nutmeg and salt with one cup of flour and add alternately with the milk to the first mixture. Add additional flour to make a dough stiff enough to handle. Toss on floured board, roll one-half inch thick and cut into strips. Twist and fry in deep fat (360 to 370 degrees). Drain on unglazed paper and when cold roll in powdered sugar. This recipe makes about three dozen crullers.

TAKE A TIP.
To shape and fry doughnuts—Put one-third mixture on floured board, knead slightly, pat and roll out 1/4 inch thick. Shape with a doughnut cutter, fry in deep fat, take up on skewer, and drain on brown paper. Add trimmings to half remaining mixture, roll, shape and fry as before; repeat. Doughnuts should come quickly to top of fat, brown on one side, then be turned to brown on other. Avoid turning more than once (except sour milk doughnuts). The fat must be kept at a uniform temperature (370 degrees). If too cold, doughnuts will absorb fat. If too hot, doughnuts will brown before sufficiently risen.

To sugar.—Cool doughnuts and roll in powdered sugar or put sugar in paper bag, add doughnuts, 2 or 3 at a time, and shake until well coated.

APPLIANCES SHORT IN 1945, PREDICTS OTTAWA OFFICIAL

TORONTO, Nov. 14 — Mark Lowe, Price Board administrator of electrical equipment and supplies, today made this statement before the Electrical Appliance Dealers' Association: "Manufacturers have not been able to produce in 1944, the number of electrical appliances authorized by the Board because of shortages of labor and of materials and because of difficulties in obtaining component parts. Electrical appliances will continue in short supply in 1945. Mr. Lowe added that restrictions on the manufacture of many electrical appliances had been removed in 1945. Production figures would be between 35 and 50 per cent of normal."

"Say, how about telephones?"

Here's the situation: Makers of telephone equipment have been busy on orders of all kinds for the armed services. For them, the time to start reconverting still lies ahead. Even after war needs have been met, these manufacturers must make a major change-over before they can resume normal production of supplies for civilian use... Which means that we must continue to defer many requests for telephone service, awaiting the day (we hope it may not be too long delayed!) when materials in adequate volume and skilled manpower again become available. The applications on our waiting list will be filled as promptly and fairly as possible, on a first-come-first-served basis.

Empty nests are a bad sign in the poultry house. Empty nests mean lazy hens — not paying for their keep, and eating up the profits from hardworking pullets. Absenteeism means feeding methods are faulty, or else the feed has not been up to the job required of it.

Don't let empty nests show up in your poultry house. Rigid culling combined with proper feeding results in full-time capacity production. It takes a feed designed for full-time production to keep pullets laying right up to their best ability — and that feed is made by your local SHUR-GAIN Feed Service Mill. SHUR-GAIN Laying Mash is always FRESH for maximum palatability. It's an efficient feed, because of its high-quality ingredients, and it's an economical feed for its made close to home, saving expensive transportation and middlemen's profits.

SHUR-GAIN LAYING MASH Saves you Money.

PUCE

Some of the district men who were out hunting for rabbits recently, came upon wolf tracks, and his lair, in the snow, in a clump of bushes. The nest was still warm though the hunters didn't see the wolf leave it. This was north of the C. P. R. tracks, near the Wallace Line. A posse of hunters went out one day since but were unable to locate their prey. This wolf is probably the mate of the one shot practically in the same district a few years ago, and which was on display at the Driving Park Hotel in Windsor.

The poster reads: "Yesterday's accidents and injuries are history now. Yesterday's accident showed there were hazards to be corrected. Someone else need not be hurt if yesterday's hazards have been corrected."

Raymont-Hickmott Wedding

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the United Church parsonage, Cot-tam, by Rev. S. R. Johnston, on Saturday, January 20th, when Dorothy Mae, daughter of Orville and Mrs.
Hickmott, of Cottam, was united in marriage to Donald Earl Raymont, of North Ridge.

LAST CALL.

This is the last call to the citizens of Essex and surrounding townships to the Eighth Blood Donor Clinic, in the Essex United Church, on Wednesday, January 31st. Every day brings news of new victories, but victories cause casualties. Medical science and blood transfusions have saved the lives of thousands of our heroic sons. Blood must be donated by our men and women of good health between the ages of 18 and 65.

At this season of the year many new donors can spare the time to come to Essex for this laudable purpose.
Send or phone your name to H. R.
Johnston at once, so you may be notified of the time of your donation. Cooperation of the men and women in combat and those at the home base will hasten the day of "unconditional uniform to their homes."
Make the Eighth Clinic the best yet.
Give your blood and save a life.

Clothes for Britain Drive.

Saturday, January 27th, ends the Essex Rotary drive for Clothes for Britain. The campaign has been a great success, thanks to everyone who took part. Next week a list of the articles received will be published.

This week the Boy Scouts of the town, tried to call on each house for clothes, but due to the bad weather and the large amount of clothes given, perhaps your home was not solicited.
It is asked by the committee, that if the Scouts do not call on you by Friday, January 26th, please phone your operator as early as possible Saturday morning, and a Scout will call on you before 6 o'clock. However, if you are coming up town, please leave them at the Vanity Cleaners. It is optional whether you pay for the cleaning or not.

Regardless of the success of the drive so far — we need and can use more clothes — so, tonight (Friday) dig down and get them out and bring them, or call, and we will do the rest.

Harry George Bell Passes.

The sad news was received last Wednesday evening of the sudden death of Harry G. Bell, resident of this vicinity 35 years ago, having lived with Mr. and Mrs. George Blight for several years when a boy.

A native of London, England, he was born in 1892. He had been employed at the Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit, for 30 years. He passed away at his work. He was a member of the Hudson Twenty Year Club, and had been foreman in charge of inspection for 20 years.

Surviving besides his wife Gertrude (Mero) of 650 Manistiquie avenue, Detroit, are a daughter Marie (Mrs. Bill Head) of Detroit; a grandson, Donald; three sisters, May (Mrs. Alvin Sweet) of Essex; Bessie (Mrs. Harry Kessel), and Nellie (Mrs. Leslie Lookwood), both of Detroit.

Funeral services were held on Saturday at 2 p.m., from the Verheyden Funeral Home, 16300 Mack avenue, with burial in Forest Lawn Cemetery, Detroit.

The floral offerings were beautiful and numerous, a token of the esteem in which he was held by the many who knew him.

Haskell-Williston Wedding.

At a candle light service, in the chapel of Westminster Church, Detroit, on Friday, January 12th, Gladys Williston, R.N., daughter of Mrs. John
C. Bailey, of Cottam, and the late John C. Bailey, was united in marriage to Frank Haskell, son of Mr. and Mrs.
Dufferin Haskell, of Detroit. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate families, by Rev.
Robert M. Freise.

The bride wore a pastel blue suit with a shoulder corsage of double pink Camilleas.
Following a wedding dinner at the home of the groom's parents, the young couple left on a short honeymoon, and on their return they will make their home in Detroit.

Another Tragic Death.

Mr. and Mrs. John Torich, who reside on No. 3 Highway, about 2 miles north of Essex, were grieved for the second time within four months, on Saturday last, when their 8-year-old son, Henry John, was struck by a passing auto, about 3:30 in the afternoon, and died in Grace Hospital, Windsor, to where he was rushed, at 10:52 the same night.

He suffered a severe head fracture as well as a broken leg.

Peter Zaharchuk, of Ruthven, was driving into Windsor, when the young victim, who was walking south along the westerly side of the highway, with his sister Catherine, aged 10 years, dashed directly in front of his car, after allowing two southbound cars to pass. Zaharchuk, in his unsuccessful attempt to avoid hitting the child, ditched his car.

A sister, Mary, was fatally injured on the evening of September 27th last, when struck by an auto while standing beside her bicycle talking to a car of young people who had stopped to see if she was in trouble.

Surviving, besides his parents, are two sisters, Mrs. Betty Carmendi, of Delhi, and Catherine, at home.
Funeral services, in charge of Rev.
S. L. Kennedy, Funeral Chapel, on Tuesday, with burial in North Ridge cemetery.

Leonard Fuerth Passes.

Following an illness of about three years, during which time he had undergone a serious operation, Leonard Fuerth, a lifelong resident of Maldstone Township, passed away at the family home, on Wednesday, in his 57th year.

Deceased, who farmed all his life, is the first born in a family of ten children. Surviving besides his widow, the former Josephine Lachine, and a son, James, at home, are his widowed mother, Mrs. F. B. Fuerth, five sisters, Christine (Mrs. A. Mousseau), Agnes (Mrs. Ed. Mousseau), of Woods-lee; Sister Augusta, of St. Joseph's Hospital, London; Lucy (Mrs. U. Le-mire) of Maldstone Township, and Miss Clara Fuerth, of Windsor; four brothers, Anthony, of Windsor, and Otto, Charles and William, of Maldstone.

He was a member of the Holy Name Society and of the Knights of Columbus of Belle River.

Funeral services, in charge of Rev.
Fr. E. G. Doe, will be held Saturday morning, at St. John's R. C. Church, with burial in the church cemetery.

Joseph J. Carder Passes.

Joseph J. Carder, aged 75, a former resident of Albana, passed away at Leamington, on Monday.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs.
Florence Savage and Mrs. Verner C.
Wigle (Thelma) of Windsor, and one son, Cecil Carder, of Kamloops, B.C.
Also surviving are six brothers, Thomas, Edwin and Wilbur, of Albana; George and James, of Windsor, and Robert, who lives in the United States.

Essex Farmers Ltd. Have Fine Year.

At the annual meeting of Essex Farmers Ltd., being held this (Thursday) afternoon, another fine report was presented to the shareholders.
The firm had total sales of $918,786.34, with a net profit of $45,628.74 after allowing for depreciation. They had circulating assets of $212,275.65, including $19,143.74 cash, $100,300 in Dominion of Canada Bonds and $46,730.78 notes and accounts receivable, as against current liabilities of $52,786.60, $25-873.70, of which is a reserve for Dominion income and excess profit tax.
A dividend of 1.10 per share was declared on the 1,150 shares outstanding, par value of which are $25.

Essex Sets Record.

The Town of Essex no doubt set a low attendance record for a nomination meeting, on Friday evening, when only one ratepayer showed up for the meeting to nominate two members for the Essex Board of Education, to be elected for two years.
The only ratepayer to attend was P.
W. Lee, chairman of the Board for 1944, and he had to call in S. E. Hill off the street to second the nominations.
There were only two papers filed with the Returning Officer, W. E. Beaman, viz. Wm. Andrew and Rev. J. H.
Whealan, both of whom qualified.
We think both of these men are highly qualified for the position and should make excellent members, however, it is high time the ratepayers of town took more interest in their municipality, when one considers the Board of Education will spend better than $40,000 this year and the Town Council in the neighbourhood of $100,000 a total of $140,000.

Canada Life Assurance Co.

Hold Annual Meeting.

Summary of General Manager's Address.

Another very satisfactory year of progress in 1944 was reported by S. C. McEvenue, general manager of the Canada Life Assurance Company at the 98th annual meeting, held at Toronto, on January 18th. An improvement in almost every phase of operations was shown.

New policies issued and paid totalled 88.9 millions including additions and revivals but excluding dividend additions and annuities. New retirement income bonds issued and paid, including additions and revivals, guaranteed total maturity benefits of 8.4 millions.

These figures represented 16,293 life policies, 1,680 annuity contracts; 4,738 group certificates—an average of 75 per working day.

Net new annual premium income amounted to 1.94 millions and single premiums totalled 2.62 millions.

Assurances in force were increased to 87.7 millions in 1944. Maturity benefits under retirement income bonds not yet matured reached 8.8 millions, while the reserve value of immediate and vested annuity contracts (providing for payments to annuitants of 3.7 millions annually) was 32.9 millions.

Mr. McEvenue reported that these figures represented 237,507 life policies; 20,997 annuity contracts and 111,638 group certificates.

Since 1941 a reduction in unit operation costs of 11.5% had been achieved.

Announcing that the rate of interest earned by the company in 1944 was 4.4% compared with 4.27% in 1943, Mr. McEvenue pointed out that the explanation for this increase at a time when the company is investing millions of dollars in government war bonds issues at low rates, lies mainly in unusually high farm mortgage repayments.

During the past year 37 more members of the company have entered the armed services bringing the total to 406, Mr. McEvenue reported. A total of 24 have laid down their lives in this war.

"We are naturally looking forward with keen anticipation to the time when we will be able to welcome home our associates who have been on active service," said the general manager. "Each case is being considered individually and special pains taken to ensure that in re-establishment not one of them shall suffer from the standpoint of seniority, by reason of his absence."

At the close of the business meeting, a period of recreation was enjoyed, under the leadership of Fred Totten and Weldon Findlay, after which a lunch was served by the Women's Association.

How Leamington Got It's Name.

Since publishing in our last issues of the Free Press, the origin of the names of the municipalities in Essex County, we have been given the origin of the name Leamington, which apparently the one who wrote the article 41 years ago, could not find out at that time, Leamington was named after the Town of Leamington, in England, by Squire Ralph Foster, one of a committee of five, it being his home town in the Old Country. Prior to this the settlement was called Gainsburg, after a man by the name of Gains, but as it was found there was already a place by that name in Canada, the name was changed to Leamington. This was about 120 years or more ago.

Congregational Meeting.

Members and friends of Essex United Church assembled in the school room to hear annual reports of the various organizations of the church and to elect elders and stewards for the years 1945-46-47. The minister, Rev. C. W. D. Cosens, acted as chairman, and conducted devotional exercises, while E. Richardson recorded the proceedings.

Elders elected for three years were: Robert McDowell, Dr. A. E. Benson, H. W. McGill, E. J. Hicks, Geo. How, G. L. Duffin, and Chas. Markert in place of A. E. Milne, who was made honorary elder.

Stewards elected: J. R. Linton, Bruce Beam, A. A. Inkster, C. J. Totten, George A. Noble, S. L. Kennedy.

J. A. Dowswell summarized the reports for 1944, which were of a most encouraging nature. Envelope gifts increased $269, loose collections by $166, donations by $147, and the balance carried was increased from $124 to $407, for 1945. The indebtedness on the church has been decreased by $2,000, and on the parsonage by $209, of $2,400, and on the parsonage of $1,200, making the present liabilities $3,600.

The total membership now stands at 622, of whom 52 are non-resident. The number of members in the Armed Forces is 49. The number of baptisms during the year was 15, the marriages 21, and the burials 12. The Sunday school contributions increased by $66, missionary gifts from all sources amounted to $1,913 as compared with $1,815 for 1943. Bank balances for all departments aggregate $1,125. The Young People's Union contributed $100 to Missions and $70 to the local church, while the W. M. S. and the Wilson-Russell Evening Auxiliary each raised approximately $300 for missions.

A very active year in the Women's Association enabled them to contribute $100 to the General Fund and $700 to the Building and Organ Fund. The efficient leadership of the minister and a fine spirit of co-operation on the part of the officials and congregation contributed to the outstanding accomplishments of 1944.

At the close of the business meeting, a period of recreation was enjoyed, under the leadership of Fred Totten and Weldon Findlay, after which a lunch was served by the Women's Association.

It was reported that shut-ins and sick members were remembered at Christmas with gifts and handkerchiefs.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Mrs. James Rushlow reported on the activities of the committee, which prepared and sent boxes to the men and women in the services, announcing that 37 birthday and Christmas boxes were mailed by the group during the year, money for the project having been raised by afternoon and evening parties, a movie showing and an apron sale.

By Dean Wilson.

The intensification of the war on various battlefronts has been instrumental in bringing about drastic changes in British and United States undertakings on the home front and these moves have caused reports of various sorts to be circulated about Parliament Hill about the most likely effects of these Allied moves upon the Canadian war effort at this time. One report has claimed that similar to the action taken in Washington, there might be a re-examination of certain men in Canada who had been already placed in low medical categories either as permanent cases or as temporary cases, with this re-examination process of some cases being considered as distinct possibility in Ottawa. Another report has claimed that Canada might be in favour of some kind of compulsory military service in the line with such contemplated action in Allied countries but there is nothing specific on this point in Ottawa at this moment where concentration is on current military problems rather than post-war affairs, though it is recognized that compulsory military training is favoured by certain element of the Canadian population who have been advocating such a policy as a post-war measure. All in all, it is apparent along Parliament Hill that some effects of the moves in Washington and London in the intensification of the war at this point may be being forth some similar action in Ottawa, but nothing of the unexpected is considered likely at this time. In regard to the war in the Far East, it must be emphasized that Canada has been playing a significant role in such plans, with a Canadian representative having been on the Pacific War Council in Washington meetings where representatives there included high officials from the United States, Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, China and The Netherlands. Indeed, Canada's military staffs in general in Washington have been increased greatly in this war and they have taken part in some important meetings of joint military staffs of Allied Nations. Of course, such new actions in the economic sphere as meat, sugar, canned vegetables, butter, and other rationed articles in the United States or Britain are not necessarily to be followed by the same or even similar moves in Canada because the situation in distribution or production is quite distinctly different in various countries. In other words, it is whispered on Parliament Hill that some new effects of the intensification of the war on various battlefronts may be considered in Ottawa but that these will not necessarily strive to equal or to vie with decisions in Washington or London.

While well-informed quarters in Ottawa have taken cognizance of the proposals in some sections of the country for the calling of a Dominion-Provincial Conference at this time, yet it is known in the capital that the prospects for such a conference in the immediate future are poor because it is felt in political circles that the Federal Government will not change its mind about waiting for such a conference until after the next general election which is most likely to be held in 1945. The wise men insist that neither Premier Duggan of Ontario, nor Premier Maurice Dupont of Quebec, are probably to prove to be in harmony with certain policies of the Federal Government. Likewise, the Federal Government is not likely to see eye to eye with these Provincial Government leaders. Moreover, there are many extremely important matters of taxation, social service, financial and other matters to discuss in post-war relations between the Provincial and Federal Governments that it is deemed that only a Federal Government with a fresh, long mandate can properly act in such momentous a meeting of the authorities.

In the background of the hints of a great struggle on the international scene in regard to policies for aviation's future, an experienced observer along Parliament Hill can detect that there is unusually deep interest in Ottawa now in the disclosure that the last international air conference at Chicago almost broke up completely since the representatives of various nations seemed determined to press their own national claims rather than approach the problems as international in scope. In fact, it is reported that this struggle for airway control or traffic is terrible behind the scenes in several capitals of the world, though it is suggested indirectly in Canada's capital that this country and the United States may get together shortly in an effort to formulate a practical working arrangement for such important traffic in the air between these two neighbouring countries.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, has come forth with a statement that, if the Administration in Washington is unwilling, it is proved with the famous St. Lawrence waterways and power project, then the State of New York should undertake this project in co-operation with the Dominion of Canada and the Province of Ontario. Since this project involves a tremendous economic or financial statement, this emphatic and clear statement by the New York Governor at the opening of the Legislature for 1945 at Albany has aroused widespread interest in Ottawa. However, it must be pointed out that there are some grave obstacles in such undertaking at this time. One obstacle is that wartime conditions would not encourage such a move at this critical time. Another obstacle is that, without the co-operation of Washington authorities, it is not likely to stimulate action in Ottawa. Then again, there may be legal obstacles for the State of New York to proceed in such negotiations without the sanction or aid of the Federal authorities under certain circumstances. In the past, the United States Congress has not given its approval for the huge project.

There is considerable talk along Parliament Hill at the moment about concrete action being taken by the Department of Trade and Commerce in Ottawa in order to regain and expand Canada's external trade as the lifeblood for Canadian economic recovery after this war. Therefore, it has been known in well-informed quarters along Parliament Hill that the officials have been preparing for immediate action just as soon as territories are reopened for trade, with France being the latest territory of such action at the moment as reports in the capital indicate that France is most anxious to purchase Canadian supplies of all sorts, including raw materials, food, etc. One report has stated that about eighty France's industries are about eighty per cent unemployed in face of the war but there is a sad need of raw materials of all kinds so that, if France can get such materials or equipment and if shipping can be arranged, her industrial capacity would be greatly aided, perhaps, brought back to normal.

Britain's energetic Minister of Agriculture, Hon. R. B. Hudson, paid a quick visit to Ottawa during his important conferences in Washington. When he was in Ottawa, he held a press conference and he made some deep impressions by his declarations as well as his refusal to discuss certain post-war matters, particularly when he declined to discuss possibilities of marketing Canadian farm products in Britain after this war since this was now under consideration of the British Government and no definite policy had been defined. Likewise, he refused to make any commitments in regard to the import of Canadian wheat to Great Britain after the war, remarking that "wheat can be produced cheaper in Britain to day than in Canada." Among other things, he disclosed that the British Government had in mind to train about 100,000 veterans of this war for farms in the Old Country, though he had to admit that Britain had an unfortunate experience after World War I, when they placed ex-service men on small holdings because the experiment was not satisfactory and most of these veterans of the First World War lost their money.

Pt. Lt. W. A. "Bill" Switzer, of Edson, Alta., returned to this country on account of injuries, is one of the four R.C.A.F. Typhoon pilots who were credited with doing their part in the fatal wounding of Field Marshal Rommel in France. When Canada's Parliament met in special session from November 22nd to December 7th, this veteran observer heard many whispers of action on Parliament Hill regarding the possibility that members and senators would not receive payment for this sudden return to the capital where the cost of existence for such representatives is so expensive nowadays. However, now many of these members will be happy again because a report in Ottawa has shown that they will be paid at the rate of $20 per day for their services in that crisis. For their services in that crisis, Mr. Oliver Russell, a graduate of Toronto University, will devote himself in aiding members of the women's services in rehabilitation and she has been engaged for such purpose by the fast-growing Veterans' Affairs Department in Ottawa. Two sons of Cabinet members now in the armed services, Pte. Jean Michael and Alvin Mitchell, sons of Hon. J. E. McArthur, and Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, respectively, were brief guests in the capital. The Russian Soviet ambassador to Canada, Madame Zoroukine, entertained at dinner in honour of Canada's Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, with some members of the Federal Cabinet being present at this gathering in Ottawa. If you will hear Mexican programmes over the networks of the CBC in the near future, you will know that the reason for this move is based on an arrangement made by Donald Manson, assistant general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, who has just returned to Ottawa after visiting his personal friend, Emilio Azcaraga, his personal friend, Emilio Azcaraga, owner of Mexico's biggest radio network.

Veterans and Pensions.

Canadian veterans, or their dependents, were enriched by more than $300,000 during the three-month period, October 1st to December 31st, as a result of the efforts of the Legion dominion headquarters service bureau, R. Hale, headquarter's officer of the Legion, in his quarterly report.

Claims successfully adjusted, including veterans of both the present and the last war or their dependents, totalled 273, with 102 of the adjustments going to present war veterans, were brought about as the result of 315 interviews and government officials.

At the end of the year Mr. Hale's report said, 4,254 active claims were being investigated and adjustments sought. Of this number, 1,785 were claims for dependents' allowance.

His report, Mr. Hale pointed out, did not include claims adjusted by Legion provincial commands.

MATCHES HAVE CAUSED SERIOUS FIRES IN OVERSEAS MAIL...

WARNING!

NEVER PACK ANY INFLAMMABLE MATERIALS IN PARCELS...

MATCHES AND LIGHTER FLUID in overseas parcels have started serious fires. Think what this means. Thousands of bags containing letters and parcels lie deep down in a ship's hold, lurching in a rough sea.

If matches or lighter fluid take fire—AND THEY DO—that means that brave seamen must go into the smoke-filled hold and risk their lives. Thousands of parcels may be destroyed—thousands of men disappointed.

WON'T YOU HELP?

We know that you would not knowingly endanger lives and mail. So think—and then don't put matches or lighter fluid in Overseas Mail.

Need of Paint on Farm Buildings.

"Anyone who travels the rural districts of the Dominion cannot fail but notice the great need there is for paint on farm residences and buildings," remarks Hardware and Metal. "In many cases, property looks as though it had never seen any paint, and in others, lack of attention for a few years has resulted in a run-down appearance to many farms."

The Magazine notes that for some years now, farmers have been improving their finances. Higher produce prices have prevailed and farm income has been steadily on the upgrade. Agriculture in Canada is on a more solid financial basis than for many years.

Hardware and Metal figures that under those circumstances, the time has come for a general paint-up in rural Canada.

"When one considers the type of residence and buildings which stand on some farm property," the article says, "it is not surprising that the agricultural industry was researching, before the war, for means of keeping the younger generation interested in remaining on the land."

"Paint can do much to make farming more appealing. Buildings, well painted, are not drab and unattractive. They look comfortable and well kept."

FRIDAY, JANUARY 26, 1945.

Speech by Col. Drew, on Tuesday, January 16th.

The following speech of Col. George Drew, Premier of Ontario, given at a banquet tendered him, in Chatham, by the Sugar Beet Growers of Ontario, on Tuesday, January 16th, we think should be of great interest to the farmers of our district, so we are publishing it in full.

Mr. Chairman, Gentlemen: But first of all let me express my personal thanks for the very kind welcome of your Mayor and naturally it would be very rude of me to disagree with him at the outset, in the remarks that he has made. I won't do so any more than this, that I am prepared to say that I think that this is the second best county in Ontario naturally I cannot go beyond that. Now I want to carry to you a message from your friend Tom Kennedy, who would have been with me today were it not for the fact that it was necessary for him to go rather suddenly to the hospital for an operation. He is getting along very well, however, and will soon be back with us, fit and perfectly well again, but when I spoke to him yesterday, he did ask me to convey his very best wishes to you and the hope that on some other occasion in the near future he would have the privilege of being with you. I might also say that the reason that Tommy Thompson is not here today is that he is acting Minister of Agriculture in addition to his other duties and a rather large meeting was taking place today which has been arranged for Colonel Kennedy which was necessary for him to be there and that is the reason he is not with you. Now in these remarks to you today I thought I would like to speak about the particular purpose of this Association. What it is and what our objectives are for the future. There has been a great improvement in the sugar beet industry since I met the officials of the Ontario Sugar Beet Growers' Association a year ago. I need not tell any of you that the industry was threatened with extinction in 1943. That year beet production had declined to a mere 66,500 tons from 400,000 in 1940. This was a matter of serious concern for everyone in Ontario no matter where they lived. For that reason we took steps to establish a price which your Association assured us would increase production. The result fulfilled your expectations and in spite of an unfavourable season, 131,328 tons were produced in 1944 from 14,500 acres.

Many people do not realize how important that was all over Ontario. 40 million pounds of sugar became available which otherwise would not have been on hand. This sugar arrived on the market in the nick of time when supplies were at a critically low point. It had another important result. Farmers received $1,615,000 for their beets. Factory workers were paid $640,000. Various transportation agencies received $235,000. Another $415,000 went to the industries furnishing supplies. This crop, therefore, had a direct value of nearly $3,000,000. But its indirect value must be added to that, without the assurance of increased supplies much of our fruit could not have been preserved in the homes throughout Ontario.

It needed more than a subsidy to produce that result. One of the greatest difficulties was the shortage of sugar beet workers. The Ontario Minister of Agriculture, Colonel Kennedy, made vigorous representations to the Dominion Government and received their co-operation. 200 prisoners-of-war were moved to a camp near Chatham, and I think you will agree that they were of great assistance in harvesting this very important crop. These prisoners were useful also in the neighbouring counties where they were transported to help in the culture of other crops.

The result for 1944 has been very satisfactory but we need a much larger crop for 1945. In the two plants at Chatham and Wallaceburg the Ontario Sugar beet industry has a refinery capacity of over 100 million pounds of refined sugar annually. Ontario requires all of that sugar to meet the threatened shortage. There is no reason to hide the fact that the general situation outside, as well as inside Canada, is becoming increasingly acute. Industrial and private users of sugar in this country face a critical shortage of sugar unless there is greatly increased production. In Ontario there is only one answer. We should have 40,000 acres of sugar beets this year.

This is an important part of our war effort. The sugar supply in Canada is tied in with that of the United States and Britain. The situation in those countries makes it clear that the disappearance of supplies and the shortage of shipping make it necessary for us to increase our own production very greatly unless we are to face the possibility of a very serious shortage next fall.

I do appreciate the difficulties which must be faced in reaching that production. There is a great difference between harvesting 40,000 acres now and before the war. There is far more than enough suitable land. That is not the problem. Other crops are easier to harvest. Farm labour needed for this work is difficult to obtain. Many other crops seem to offer better cash prospects, but you have the plant capacity available to produce the 100 million pounds of sugar which the country needs this year.

Quite apart from any other consideration this is a war job. Sugar is in such seriously short supply all over the world that every additional pound of sugar produced is of definite help to the war effort of the United Nations. It is a vital energy food in itself which is needed to meet the extra strain put upon the nerves, strength and morale of our people by the stress of war. It will also be needed in greatly increased quantities this year for the industrial and domestic canning of our fruit and vegetable crops. Already the fruit prospects look very good and unless increased sugar supplies are available much of our fruit will rot when it is so greatly needed at home and overseas.

If the 40,000 acre objective is to be reached there must be the utmost co-operation between your association, the sugar company, the Dominion and the Ontario Governments. The growers must have assurance of adequate farm labour and maintenance of prices. There must also be an educational program to emphasize the need of this crop.

We have started negotiations which I hope will make it possible to announce the definite plan very shortly. We are determined to see that the price is maintained at a point not lower than it was last year. We will do what we can to arrange for a larger number of prisoners-of-war. I have no reason to doubt that the number can be increased this year to at least 1,000.

In achieving this result I know we will have the co-operation of your association, the growers and the company. I might add that 40,000 acres in crop will mean $5,000,000 to the farmers of this district.

Great credit is due to those who helped our war effort in 1944 by increasing production as they did. With a larger supply and with the assured price, it is my hope, and I feel that it will be the hope of people throughout Ontario and Canada, that the 40,000-acre objective will be reached this year, and it certainly will be of very great importance to the war effort of Canada as a whole.

Now there is a wider significance to the effort that you are being asked to make. We are extremely fortunate here in Canada. After all, it does not help, perhaps, sometimes, very much, to merely emphasize that fact but it is wise for us to realize just how different conditions are in most parts of the world today and how close here would be the conditions we know here would seem to hundreds of millions of people in Europe, in Asia and elsewhere throughout the world.

Not long ago I had the opportunity to see something of what the dislocations of war means. I was in France in September. I was also in Belgium and I saw what the effect had been there of the occupation by the German troops and of the control over their domestic economy, but it was also necessary to remember that both France and Belgium were infinitely better off than most of the other countries in Europe which had been under German occupation, far better off than the countries forced to come under their control. Even then, however, you saw just what it meant and sometimes there is a tendency to misunderstand the picture which you see.

Why? you arrived in Normandy where our men drove up the beach-heads in June, you are surprised to see the farms comparatively normal. You are very definitely surprised to see the number of animals. The herds were not nearly so depleted as you would have expected. That, of course, was not due to any softness of heart on the part of the Germans. It was due to the tremendous speed of the advance of the allied troops.

As you go forward along the roads of either Normandy or Brittany toward Paris, the appearance except for the cities and towns which have been destroyed by bombing and gunfire — except for that — the countryside looks comparatively normal but underneath is a paralysis which is creating, even in that land of plenty and — there are few richer areas of soil anywhere in the world than in Normandy — there is a paralysis there due to the complete breakdown of their transportation system. In Paris itself I saw the full effect of it. It was a thrilling sight. I arrived there only a few days after the Germans had been driven out. There were still tiger and panther tanks on the Champs Elysees where they had been firing only a few days before. There were field guns in the Tulleries Gardens along the Seine; there were barricades across the streets; there were burned out motor vehicles; there was, in fact, every evidence of the fighting which had taken place there only a comparatively few days before but as compared with London, it came almost as a shock to see how little Paris had been damaged. In fact every evidence of the fighting which had taken place there only a comparatively few days before but as compared with London, it came almost as a shock to see how little Paris had been damaged. In fact, it was as if it had been known for centuries, a city of light, beautiful, a bright, well planned city.

But again underneath it was something different. People were free. The people were free with the safety of liberation but there was no food in the shops. The trains were not running, the subways were not moving, no trains were moving in or out of the city, there were no buses, there were, in fact, hardly any trucks of any kind at all except military trucks.

The result was that even then in that pleasant weather the conditions were extremely severe. As they had not been permitted to burn any fuel in their homes only the last 10 days you can imagine what they have suffered through these winter months. And yet, that in itself is probably very little compared with the suffering elsewhere.

I only mention this to emphasize how far from normal those countries are. It is going to take a long time to bring France, to bring Belgium, to bring Holland, to bring Yugoslavia, Norway, Denmark, the other countries of Europe back into any appearance of normal conditions and in the intervening period when the German armies move out and carry with them all the vehicles that can be moved, there will be hunger, destitution and actual starvation on a tremendous scale and so, there comes back to us not merely the economic advantage of producing food crops which put money in our pockets, there comes back to us not only the duty of our own country to do what we can to supply those crops which are an essential part of our war economy, but there is actually a duty to humanity which grows out of the horror of the war which has swept across Europe, over Asia, Africa and to us there is an obligation that goes beyond our own personal means to do everything we can grow, to produce the best food crops we can produce, because of the needs that go far beyond our own bounds.

Then it is not only the countries of Europe, it is Britain herself.

In these days, when we look forward with increasing confidence to victory — but I hope with a full recognition of all that is going to be done, however, victory comes — as we can, however, with some measure of confidence look forward to victory, there is perhaps just a little tendency to forget that only a few countries in this war have suffered physically the way that Britain has suffered and is still suffering. When we read the headlines that flying bombs have been released either over the South or North of England, it is just a news item unless we can read our imagination over there, and realize that the destruction that accompanies those bombs is widespread and carries with it an effect upon the people that cannot be measured merely in terms of the property, either in death or in serious wounds.

Those flying bombs are not a pleasant experience and the new V2 is in many ways even more damaging. Strangely enough, however, the rocket has much less effect on their nerves now than when the first rockets came over and the strange part about it was that this new and mysterious military device had far less effect upon people's nerves than the flying bombs. But it was not the sort of thing to give you a gentle baby sleep to hear this strange sound in the sky like a one-cylinder motorcycle that was not hitting too evenly, and then hear the sirens going and when you heard the engines stop, wondering where it was going to land until the explosion came.

With the other, the first thing you heard was the explosion and if you heard it at all, then it wasn't meant for you and for that reason this new device, which was supposed to produce such terrifying results on the morale of the British, has in fact produced very little, but it has done great damage, and I think perhaps the simple arithmetic of the situation tells the story as well as anything else. In London, the largest city in the world, of two million homes, one million one hundred thousand have been either destroyed or very seriously damaged.

Now that is what war has meant to them and damage of that kind has been visited upon many cities of Britain. For years to come they are going to be extremely busy merely restoring their own original peacetime economy. They are going to need supplies from us and the effort of this kind is all part and parcel of the great partnership effort in which we are engaged. Now I will only close with these remarks: That your organization itself is a partnership of men engaged in a common enterprise. It has proved its value. As a partnership you have done a great deal more than you could have done individually. As this war comes nearer to its close, I hope each one of us still remembers that we are engaged in wider partnership — a partnership of British people — committed to a common cause for our own welfare and the welfare of mankind. If we keep that in mind, keep the old partnership strong and vigorous, just in the way you have accomplished your objective so well, we in that wider field throughout the British Empire will accomplish our purposes and I think then we can say with confidence that Canada will be in the Land of Tomorrow.

Take Care of Little Cuts.

No matter how small the cut or scratch, get first aid. Make that a habit. No one needs to tell you to get help if you have a serious injury — you will demand it. Take care of the little cuts, advise a safety bulletin issued this month by the Industrial Accident Prevention Association. In their effort to curb loss of manpower, the firm sends out four or more safety posters each month to Ontario plants.

Employment of War Pensioners.

In a memorandum to Ontario plant executives, issued this week by the Industrial Accident Prevention Association, there is an article dealing with employment and compensation of war pensioners.

The article reads: "To encourage the employment of former members of His Majesty's Forces residing in Canada, the Federal Government has undertaken to reimburse the Workmen's Compensation Board for the cost of compensation and medical aid in respect of any accident compensable under the Workmen's Compensation Act. This applies to a person who is in receipt of a disability pension of not less than 25 per cent and not more than 79 per cent as a result of services in the Great War or the present war."

The memo points out that the reimbursement applies to former members of His Majesty's Forces who are residing in Canada and are in receipt of a disability pension, payable by or through the Canadian Pension Commission or the Canadian Office of the British Ministry of Pensions.

No. 5 of a Series — "Your Gas Supply."

New Supply of Gas Arranged for Southwestern Ontario

IN the face of conditions outlined in previous talks in this series, it became imperative for your Company to seek a supply of gas from outside this area to augment supplies available and in sight locally. It took over a year to work out the details, but it is believed the ideal solution has now been found. The problem of assuring all our customers adequate supplies for all purposes at all times has been solved.

A contract has been executed which can, subject to two main conditions, assure the basic supply required for all purposes including house-heating, and industrial processes for at least twenty years, and at the same time permit the planned use of supplies now available locally or which may become available locally in the future.

The arrangement permits the best possible use of the local supplies to the benefit of all our consumers, no matter in which locality they may be placed.

Conditions to be Met

The new supply of gas is to be obtained from natural gas sources in the United States. Before the contract can be carried out, permission to export the gas from the United States has to be procured from the proper authorities. An application for this permission has already been filed. In addition, the contract would commit the Union Gas Company to capital expenditures of about three million dollars in order to make receipt of the gas possible.

Also the Company will have to pay for the gas as it is delivered, and will have to keep permanently in reserve in storage wells a large quantity of the gas so as to ensure quantities and pressures to meet all peak load conditions. It is evident that it would be impossible for the Company to proceed further and incur these expenditures unless it can be assured that the revenue received from the sale of the gas will enable it to meet its obligations under the contract, and continue to operate on an economically sound basis.

This is where GAS can serve you best:

Cooking, Water Heating, Refrigeration, House-Heating, Commercial and Industrial Processes.

Union Gas Company of Canada, Limited

No. 6 of a Series — "Your Gas Supply."

Why Large Capital Expenditures Needed to Assure New Gas Supply

THE proposed new gas supply is to be obtained from Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company, which supplies natural gas to other distributing companies in the United States. The whole pipe line capacity of this company is required for these other commitments in the winter months.

It is therefore necessary that your Company take delivery of the gas required principally in the summer months.

Since the gas which we distribute must be available for delivery to our customers all year round, and since peak-load demands are highest in the winter, it is necessary that most of the gas be stored as received. In order to do this, it is necessary to lay a high pressure pipe line from the delivery point at the Detroit River to storage wells in Lambton County, a distance of approximately 70 miles. Compressor facilities to force the gas through this line and into the storage wells at high pressure must also be provided. A large quantity of the gas purchased will be left indefinitely in the storage wells to assure pressures to meet all peak load conditions.

Far Reaching Changes—A New Era

All this means that the basic gas supply would hinge on the storage of gas in a central area, to be used throughout the whole territory as required. A large portion of the present supply of refinery gas also goes into storage during the summer for later delivery. This proposal represents a very far-reaching change in the gas supply situation in this area—the beginning, in fact, of a new era.

Communities situated near local gas supplies will benefit to the same extent as those more distant. They will be assured of the best possible use of all local supplies jointly with the new sources. And all users, wherever situated, will be assured of a GAS supply for house-heating and all domestic uses as well as industrial processes, further into the future than will be possible if dependence were placed entirely on local supplies.

This is where GAS can serve you best:

Cooking, Water Heating, Refrigeration, House-Heating, Commercial and Industrial Processes.

ANNOUNCING SHUR-GAIN 18 p.c. Chick Starter

A GOOD START — A SUCCESSFUL LIFE
WITH SHUR-GAIN.
PLANNING—PRODUCTION—PROFITS

As nearly as can be estimated, 15,000,000 chicks got their start in life on SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter last year. The SHUR-GAIN Empire extends from coast to coast in Canada — SHUR-GAIN really rules the roost. SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is the universal favourite, for three chief reasons:

1. Attractive Feed — SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is made from ingredients of the highest quality only. It is FRESH — it is PALATABLE. Chicks like it and eat the amounts they need for maximum growth.
2. Attractive Chicks — Because SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is made with a content of high-class animal protein which ensures efficient use and growth — because it is fortified well above need with the vitamins required for health and growth (A, D and G) because it is palatable and readily eaten — chicks THRIVE on it.
3. Attractive Prices — Because SHUR-GAIN is made in the neighbourhood mill, with resulting elimination of all unnecessary charges, it can be sold for less than other starters, in spite of its superior quality.

Letter from Italy.

The following letter, written by Lieut. Eleanor Miner Evans, Welfare Officer in Red Cross, No. 1 Can. Gen. Hospital, Italy, was received by her father, George Miner.

Dear Folks—Here's a description of our Christmas Eve we assembled on Christmas Eve we assembled with the padre and his accordion, and our little cart bearing the lighted candles and Christmas decorations, including a tree and miniature church, with little people made out of coloured felt, going along in the white cotton snow. It was quite pretty and as we went along through the wards some of the up-patients joined us and went along to sing, too. We had padres, doctors, nurses, patients and some of the other personnel and by the time we had gone through a ward or two, this took us nearly two hours and we then returned to the mess for a couple of drinks of cheer for ourselves.

During the morning I had gone with the judging team through all the wards to choose the best decorated ward and the best room of the hospital. The prize for the ward was a plate of beer and patient and for the room which was of the officers' ward there were two bottles of sherry to share up among them. They were quite delighted with it. The wards were really all well done and it was a gay sight.

Christmas morning the Colonel and the matron went to see everyone, then came the invasion of the cheer committee. There were the three Red Crosses, of course, but there were also people from the Y and the Regimental canteen, too, not to mention Santa in full regalia. From the canteen they got a pint of beer each, from the Y they got 100 cigarettes, and from somewhere they each got a bag of candy, oranges, nuts and chocolate. Our socks contained a face cloth, gum, blades, shaving stick, cigarettes, candy, and a handkerchief, and the socks were very good knitted ones, some with coloured stripes around the top, which made them a little extra Christmasy. While all this was being given out and the people about the section where we were gathered around the padre again and added the musical touch with a few more carols and some of the people in bed chimed in too. It was a very touching sight to see some of the boys with tears in their eyes and a big smile on their faces at the same time. I think the music and the little gifts were too much for them. The little German boy in one of my wards had eyes as big as saucers when he realized he was getting the same as the others. He is a sweet thing, with a rosy, child-like face and wonderful eyes. He looks very intelligent and warm-hearted, but as I can't understand a word he says, and he can't understand me any better, we have no way of knowing just what he thinks of anything, except by his expression. He is a boy whom anyone could love, for he is fine looking and very well behaved. The boys were very amusing when Santa appeared, for they played up to the game. When he entered some rooms where the boys were all in casts and tied up on fracture beds so they couldn't even wiggle, he always said, "Now, don't bother to get up boys, it's only Santa." This always got a laugh. But one of the boys in a cast from the chest down, shot back at him: "I don't mind anyway, Santa, for I'm plastered." Then everyone had a spasm. Through all this there was a trail of doctors and nurses following along to join in the fun, and it was like a picnic.

We had nothing to do in the afternoon, so Max and I escaped to our little flat and had tea with the family of the house, who had invited us to have Christmas with them. We wanted to go to our own party but did manage to get down to see them for an hour or so. They served Italian gin and pastry and coffee, which was quite good, although we had both just finished our lunch and couldn't really enjoy it as we should have.

Our dinner was great. We had turkey and all the usual trimmings, and it was all carried off as well as any dinner I have seen served in any big hotel. This is a real accomplishment for the boys on their improvised army stoves with usual rations supplemented for the occasion. The dance after wards was fun, too, but I think I had the most fun of anyone. In the afternoon the landlady had given me a little sprig of mistletoe and I made good use of it. I would catch the boys' eye and slip up behind his girl and she got a good one in most cases. Max and I worked as a team with it and practically saw so many men wearing so many shades of Hipstick in my past experience.

Altogether it was a very good Christmas for both of us. The Italian help at the hospital were greatly impressed with all the goings on. They were especially amused at Santa, for they have a different legend about an old lady called Befana, who makes her rounds on January 6th. Christmas is purely a religious occasion for them. They gathered around the carol singers and sure enjoyed it. They were all delighted with the candy and clips which everyone passes around to them.

There was nothing we could buy for each other for gifts this year. There seems to be nothing here to buy for men at any time that they haven't already got. I wrapped up a lot of useful trinkets for Max, such as a note book, pencil and thread, liquor ration stuff and a Donald Duck of felt which he had admired as part of our decorations before and tied silly notes to all of it for him. He was as pleased as if he had something really worth while. As for me, I got a very good photograph of him, a silver scolded vase and $50 as my gift. Long John Dignan gave us a beautiful dark red wine decanter of cut glass, which is the beginning of a set if I can get anything to match it. We both had oodles of parcels from home too, so we were more than stocked up with all good things.

On December 23rd we had our first snow and it was the prettiest sight imaginable. The mountains in the distance looked like paintings and the big evergreen trees were loaded with soft woolly snow. They were real Christmas trees to be sure. The girls were as jolly as if they had all been drinking. It put one in the holiday mood and we sang Jingle Bells all day. The children here don't seem to have sleighs or to build snowmen. I didn't see either all day and the snow was perfect of either. Some of the flakes were bigger than hen's feathers and looked like cotton tufts.

One of the funniest things that has happened lately occurred the other day when the girls were dressing up the patients who were being discharged from the hospital by ambulance. We always check them going out now to see that they are dressed warmly enough, and if they need sweaters or hats or scarves or mitts we put them on as they go out. There were four working on them and the patient didn't have a chance. Each one took over and someone put on a hat, another mitts and so on. One stretcher came up and stopped and before the poor fellow could say a word they had him wrapped up tight. When he finally got a chance to open his mouth he said, "But sister, I'm going to the operating room." It has been a standing joke ever since.

This is enough chatter for now so will sign off till another time. Will probably see you all in the coming year, for Max might go back to take

J. O. Brown Passes.

Funeral services for the late J. O. Brown, No. 3 Highway, near Essex, were held from the Healy & Crawford Funeral Home, in Kingsville, on Sunday, January 28th. Mr. Brown was in his 69th year and had been ill from a heart condition since last July.

Born in Leamington, deceased was married to Anna Nielsen, of Denmark, in 1904, and they lived on North Dakota to Kingsville in 1909, where he became associated with his brother Arthur in a fishing business.

Mr. Brown served the Town of Kingsville as Chief of Police for 12 years, and for the past 15 years had been a foreman in a Chrysler Plant. Four years ago he and his family moved near Essex.

Deceased was a member of the Church of Epiphany, Kingsville, also a member of St. George's Lodge, A. F. & A. M., No. 41, Kingsville, and Concord Lodge, I.O.O.F., No. 142, and Encampment.

Surviving are his widow, one sister, Mrs. Mary Alward, of Kerwood, Ont.; five children, Mrs. Gordon Chisholm and Mrs. Howard Kellington, of Essex, R.R. 1; Mrs. Clayton Arthey, of Half-fax, N.S.; Patrolman James W. Brown, of the R.C.N.V.R., stationed at Half-fax, and Stanley, at home; also three grandchildren, Jim Kellington, Sharon Brown and Ricky Chisholm.

Young Farmers Return from Guelph.

Six young people of Essex County returned home last week-end after attending a junior farmers' conference at the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph. Accompanied by Clarence Moxley, assistant agricultural representative at Essex, they were Howard Holden, Paquette Station, representing the Sandwich South Junior Farmers; Charles Diemer, of Woodslee, representing the Woodslee Junior Farmers' Association; Louis James, of Leamington, and Francis Markham, of Stoney Point, and Miss Orpha Stotts, of Cottam, and Miss Rita Vickard, of Woodslee, who represented the Junior Women's Institute.

Decision by the Federation of Agriculture to withdraw from the field of youth work in this province leaves the Ontario Junior Farmers' Association as the only province-wide rural youth movement assisted by the provincial government, it was stated at the closing meeting of the junior farmers' conference.

As a result of this development, the conference passed a resolution postponing the election of directors until the present executive has completed one year in office. This will give rural youth groups not now affiliated with the J.F.A. time to complete formal affiliation and acquire voting power, it was stated.

The present executive, headed by President Gordon Orr, of Maple, Ont., was chosen when the junior farmers' first organized as a provincial body last April. Resolutions passed by the conference asked for appointment of provincial supervisors of junior work, of additional coaches for junior institutes and establishment of correspondence courses by the Ontario Agriculture College in English, education, agricultural economics, history and psychology.

Other resolutions included requests to local school boards that they make schools available for rural youth undertaken by the local junior servicemen, and that the province place a movie projector in every agricultural representative's office, part of the cost to be paid by the local organization.

Doan-Price Nuptials.

At a very pretty wedding, on Saturday, January 27th, at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Puce, Rev. C. C. B. Graham, of Essex, united in marriage Miss Ida Grace Price, of Puce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Price, and Clifton-Cameron Doan, son of Mrs. Peam Doan, of Windsor, and the late Angus Doan.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Mrs. Gilles, of Leamington, and looked lovely in a gown of white satin and net, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves ending in points over her hands, with a torso length waist. She wore a heart-shaped headpiece with a long veil, carried white carnations and bouvardia, and wore a pearl necklace.

Mrs. Arthur Anger, as her sister's maid of honour, was charming in blue taffeta, with a sweetheart neckline. She wore a shoulder-length veil of blue net, held to her head, with pale blue flowers and carried light pink carnations. Miss Ruth Price, another sister, as bridesmaid, chose pink taffeta with a sweetheart neckline. Her headpiece of pink net, was similar to that of the maid of honour, and she carried dark pink carnations. The groom was attended by Arthur Anger and Henry Martindale, both of Puce.

During the signing of the register Mrs. Wm. Fitch, of Windsor, sang. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for about 40 guests. The young couple will reside in Windsor.

Exchange Office Quarters.

Forbes B. Geddes, K.C., wishes to announce the removal of his law office from upstairs in the Post Office Building to the offices on the ground floor, formerly occupied by the Public School Inspectors, Messrs. Duffin and Noble. The entrance is on Fox street.

Barn Meeting at Walker Farms.

Holstein breeders from all parts of Essex gathered at Walker Farms, Walkerville, on January 24th, for a barn meeting. In charge was S. Reddick, manager of Walker Farms and President of the Essex County Holstein Breeders' Club.

Following a demonstration of Holstein type by J. E. Terry, Western Ontario Holstein fieldman, a judging contest was held. The winners were: Lawrence Armstrong, South Woodslee; Charles Elliott, Comber, and Henry Reaume, Belle River; all of whom were tied for first.

J. E. Powell, Director of Publicity of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, explained the Selective Registration system of grading animals according to their conformation. He also invited those present to attend the Annual Meeting of the Association which will be held February 14th, in Toronto, and briefly outlined the proposed amendments to the constitution of the association that will be acted upon there. The most important of these is one which prohibits the registration of a bull unless he is from a dam either graded at least Good Plus in Selective Registration or with a twice-a-day milking record of least fifty percent above the amount required to qualify.

The herd sires in use at Walker Farms were paraded and inspected. Their type was discussed by Mr. Terry who also explained their family background.

County Holstein Banquet.

Despite the blocked roads throughout the county and drifting snow that made many of those present wonder if they would get home that night, there was an attendance of over 400 at the Annual Banquet and entertainment of the Essex Holstein-Breeders' Club held January 25th, at Harrow. S. Reddick, Walkerville, Club President, was in charge. This was the largest Holstein gathering held in Ontario during the past year.

The principal speaker was J. E. Houck, secretary-manager of the Toronto Milk Distributors. "Dairymen must not only seek to breed better cattle," said Mr. Houck, "but must strive to create a peacetime market that is right and fair and will enable the dairyman to get rid of his product." Commenting on the present situation of the plimington farmers generally on the grand job they have done by increasing milk production during the war years, he cautioned that such production would in peacetime flood the market unless definite steps were taken to increase the per capita consumption of milk. To this end he recommended national advertising on a large scale with producers and distributors sharing the cost. Describing milk as the number one food of the world today, Mr. Houck further enjoined his hearers to think and act collectively in considering the future of milk subsidies.

A feature of the evening's program was the presentation of six production certificates on behalf of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, by J. E. Powell, Director of Publicity for that organization. Most important was the Certificate of Superior Production that went to Thos. McBeth and Sons, Cottam, in recognition of the Canadian record of 27,790 lbs. milk containing 1.59 per cent butterfat, made by Echo Pette Lassie in the junior division of the yearly division on three-times-a-day milking. The presentation was made to Douglas and Kenneth McBeth, the two sons, who actually fed and milked "Lassie" while her record was being made. Three certificates of Longtime Production awarded to animals in the Walker Farms herd were received by the manager, S. Reddick, while similar certificates went to Charles W. Elliott, of Comber, and Benetate Bros., Amherstburg. Very popular with the crowd was the receiving of the latter by Mrs. Raymond Benetate, who actually milked the cow.

"Holstein breeders throughout the Dominion have had an exceptionally good year," said Mr. Powell. "Membership in the Association climbed above the 9,000 mark for the first time and registrations exceeded the record total of 1943. A Canadian Holstein cow sold for $20,000 and a bull for $15,000, the former the highest price since 1921 and the latter the highest price for a bull since 1918. New markets were established in Latin America and Secretary G. M. Clemens expects shortly to go to Great Britain to lay the groundwork for extensive shipments of our cattle there, following the war."

J. E. Terry, Lambeth, Western Ontario Holstein fieldman, congratulated the breeders on their achievement. Black and White show held last fall in connection with Comber Fair. He urged that an exhibit of local cattle be made next fall at the Western Ontario Championship show. The publicity thus gained would, he felt, well repay the effort involved.

Musical numbers, spiced a program that was concluded by dancing. The dinner was served by the ladies of the Harrow United Church.

Clothes for Britain.

The drive for clothes for Britain is over. It was the greatest campaign in the history of the war, and every one took part willingly and every article donated was not only of large amounts but of the finest quality.

To the girls at the telephone office, to Mr. Major and Mrs. Townsend, of the Vanity Cleaners, to Chief Ted Berke, Scouts of Essex, to all the speakers at the show, and to those hundreds of fine people who contributed so wonderfully to the drive, the committee of the Essex Rotary Club thanks you and we know the people of Britain will thank you a hundred times over.

Too much cannot be said about the fine grade of articles given. They were of the finest. Following is a list of articles received up to 4 o'clock on Monday night, but we have received word that two large boxes are at two stores in town and will be delivered on Tuesday, so will give a list of them next week.

123 ladies' coats, 228 ladies' dresses, 71 ladies' sweaters, 17 ladies' suits, 45 ladies' skirts, 4 ladies' jackets, 5 wool scarfs, 29 ladies' blouses, 7 bath robes, 4 children's wool dresses, 39 children's sweaters, 11 children's coats, 49 men's overcoats, 39 men's 3-piece suits, 20 men's mixed suits, 3 pair men's pants, 6 men's wool sweaters, 8 men's woolen caps, 3 men's trench coats, 13 men's woolen windbreaks, 2 boys' suits, 6 large boxes of ladies and men's light articles, already cleaned and washed, 1 large box of wonderful woolen underwear, 50 pairs A-1 shoes.

Does Western Ontario Want to Continue Using Gas?

The gas companies are to be complimented upon the manner in which they have placed before our readers the full and complete story of negotiations they have been conducting to make provision for an adequate gas supply for the next twenty years. With paid advertisements the companies have taken the public into their confidence. It is pointed out that the real question is "Do we of Western Ontario want to continue to use gas?" The only place to get an assured supply is from the United States. Our local supplies are petering out. Artificial gas is too low in heat content and too expensive to produce. So we will have to tell the gas company to go ahead. Sure we will have to pay more, but we have been mighty lucky so far with natural gas right on our doorstep. We will pay less and get better gas under this plan than other less fortunate municipalities.

Live Stock Improvements in Ontario.

By W. R. Reek.

The cash income of Ontario farmers reached an all time high in 1944. In the previous year, the last one for which figures are available, it was $389,142,000. Of this total $278,954,000, or 72%, was derived from the sale of live stock and live stock products. Dairy products, hogs, cattle and poultry provided the greatest volume of revenue and all were produced in excess of domestic requirements. As in the past, so in the future, conditions in world markets will have a tremendous influence on price. Consequently all efforts should be directed towards the production of products that are suitable for sale on any market in the world.

Live stock improvement, as the words imply, involves the production of a high quality product, but that is not the whole story. The product must be produced at a relatively low cost, an achievement that can be attained through the production of more pounds of milk per cow, more eggs per hen and more pounds of meat with the same amount of feed. Only healthy animals can be expected to produce efficiently.

The most economical way of improving live stock is through the use of better sires. The purchase of a high class sire for exclusive use in a small cattle herd is a costly procedure. During recent years the technique of artificial insemination has been improved and this practice is now widely used in various states. Last year an experimental unit was organized in Ontario and results to date justify the action taken. It can now be stated that this method of breeding offers the most economical means of transmitting the blood of outstanding sires. Moreover, it provides a basis for improving all cattle in a given area, if the individual farmers within the community support the programme.

Hogs can also be improved through the use of better sires. The advanced registry policy for swine has identified the strains capable of producing large litters of high quality pigs at relatively low feed costs. These strains can be Canadian bacon famous the world over.

Ontario's poultry has been greatly improved in the past ten years as a result of inspection and control exercised over flocks supplying eggs to hatcheries. Most pullets offered for sale today possess the characteristics necessary for producing 200 or more eggs annually because of good feeding and management.

Perhaps Ontario's most valuable and most neglected crop is pasture. It provides the cheapest feed used in the production of meat and milk. Last year the Ontario Department of Agriculture launched an extensive program of demonstration pasture plots for the purpose of ascertaining the best mixture and the most suitable methods of seeding. The results have been most gratifying, but will be of little value unless given wider application in 1945 and after.

Feed relatively rich in protein is necessary for balancing any live stock ration. Milk cows, hogs and poultry require more of this ingredient than beef cattle. Protein is usually expensive so feeding costs can be reduced by increasing the production of nitrogenous crops on the home farm. The volume of available protein can be increased by growing more alfalfa and harvesting it earlier, by producing some soy beans and by adding a few peas to mixed grain mixtures. Suitable rations have been outlined in Ontario bulletins and should be used as guides in the preparation of balanced diets.

In any live stock improvement program health of animals should occupy a prominent position. At the present time about half the cattle in the province have been tested for tuberculosis, under some federal and live stock owners in the rest of the province are anxiously awaiting tests. Bacterial disease is being tackled by individual breeders and farmers. Some have adopted the blood test and slaughter plants which officers are using the caudal fold vaccination method. Much of the disease may be prevented and controlled by the use of good husbandry and the application of sound sanitary methods. The disease cause high animal losses in pig, sheep and poultry and live stock infections can make play havoc with winter business of sale. Research and experimental work is being conducted at the Ontario Veterinary College with a view to developing effective treatments for the disease.

In the final analysis, the success of prevention is worth a pound of cure and if processed by farmers will go a long way towards lowering the cost of producing live stock and live stock products. But the application of good live stock management costs money. So many farmers planning for post-war improvements are buying Victory Bonds and setting them aside for the provision of capital later. Then they will be able to make those improvements they can't make now because of material and labour shortages.

Have trouble in your painting when excess paint runs down the side of the can and forms a ring at the bottom? Just glue a paper plate to the bottom of the container to catch the drop, and incidentally, to serve as a rest for the paint brush.

Ration Coupon Due Dates.

Coupons now valid are butter 90 to 94, sugar 46 to 51, preserves 33 to 38. Butter coupons 95 becomes valid February 8th.

No expiry date has been announced for any valid coupons in book 5.

Children's Garment Sizes to Be Standardized.

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board, through its Standard Division, is considering the standardization of sizes of children's clothing where each size designation will be required to measure certain set dimensions. According to C. H. Wallace, chief of the Standards Division, "in the lowest price ranges sizes are very unreliable and as a rule very much undersized. Our staff often finds two different sized garments with exactly the same measurements. We have consulted both retailers and manufacturers who think it is very desirable for a standard should be established for children's garments. At present our staff is making an extensive study of this problem." The Standards division was organized to maintain quality and to prevent hidden increases through quality deterioration.

God Bless Them.

By George Matthew Adams.

I am sure that I am not alone in my opinion when I say that one of the finest and bravest organizations on the face of this planet is the Salvation Army.

After a long, hot trip of several weeks, I stood upon a street corner in a Southern city and listened to a service by a local group. I listened to the clean words of the leader — who was a woman — heard her inspired, though brief talk, then listened to a voice that rose above the din of traffic, clear and beautiful, in one of the old songs. There was not a sneering face in the audience, which was what one might well call a mixed crowd.

A prayer was offered and then a call for hands among the listeners who wished to have prayers offered for them. Several hands arose. Then another of those sweet songs by the leader, whose very face shone with triumph — stamped with the joy of unselfish service.

This writer wasn't any too happy, alone in a big city, and his eyes got a little wet under his glasses and so, after a contribution to the shaker thing they passed around, he moved away — himself washed out anew in his heart.

Through bitter cold and under the hottest skies, these faithful and courageous lassies, lads, and men and women give of their lives and substance to the work to which they have so gladly pledged their lives. They deserve every support. What a glorious heritage William Booth left to the world! And what a brave band carries on that which he initiated!

The Salvation Army. What a contrast to that other army, organized by governments, and paid for by the sweat of people's brows, for the selfish purpose of gain, horrible destruction, and for a withering glory!

May the Salvation Army never perish from the earth and may their great work grow in power and usefulness supported by us all, no matter what and be ever honoured, respected, and our religious beliefs. This organization has increased. There is not a sect — but a service — for the glory of God, the alleviation of distress, and the creation of good will and happiness among all mankind.

God bless them forever!

Potato Growers to Hold Meeting.

The first day of the annual meeting of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association for 1945 will be devoted entirely to the subject of potatoes. The meeting on Monday morning, February 2nd, the first session will be devoted to subjects dealing with potato production. At noon the third annual luncheon for growers will be held, with Watson H. Porter, editor Farm & Home, as guest speaker, and as his subject, "Facts and Figures." The afternoon session will be given over entirely to potato marketing, with subjects related to practical farm and cooperative storage, will receive attention in the evening.

A full day's program will be of value and interest from start to finish. It will include discussions on such subjects as "Cost of Potato Production," "Kinds, Amounts and Methods of Fertilizer Application," "Potatoes as Food for Live Stock," "Bacterial Ring Rot," "Kiln-drying Potatoes," "Co-operative Marketing," "Enforcement of Farm Products Sales and Grades Act," "Various Sprays and Dusts for Potatoes," "500 Bushel Clubs," and a variety of other practical subjects.

As an added attraction this year, J. H. Evans, secretary-manager of the New York Potato Growers' Co-operative Association, will address the gathering. Mr. Evans grew about 200 acres of potatoes in 1944, operates a 25,000 bushel storage and is active in co-operative marketing. Plans are also being made to have the first public showing of "Eyes on the Potatoes," a recent production of the National Film Board.

As a service to growers and buyers of seed potatoes, a display of seed for sale is being arranged. This display and meeting will provide excellent opportunities for growers and buyers from various sections of the Province to meet, become better acquainted and discuss their problems.

Annual Meetings Cancelled.

Recognizing the serious wartime problems confronting railways and hotels in providing transportation and accommodation for large numbers of convention delegates, the Ontario Municipal Electric Association and the Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities have cancelled the annual meetings originally scheduled for February 6th and 7th at the Royal York Hotel.

Announcement of the cancellation was made by W. Ross Strike, Bowmanville, president of the O.M.E.A., and S. W. Caniff, Ottawa, president of the A. M. E. U.

Last year approximately 1,200 O. M. E. A. and A. M. E. U. delegates, representing 176 municipalities throughout Ontario, attended the annual meetings in Toronto.

Mr. Strike, who is also an H.E.P.C. Commissioner, said that hotel management were at present hard pressed when called upon to take care of large gatherings of people who required sleeping accommodation. At the same time, railway facilities were being taxed to the limit at present to meet the wartime demands of the Armed Forces and people engaged in all phases of Canada's war effort.

"We regret very much having to put off these meetings which have been held in Toronto for many years," stated Mr. Strike, "for they are very important, not only to the delegates but to the people of this province. All our deliberations concern the operations and policies of Hydro which has been playing a pre-eminent role in this war. Under the circumstances, however, we felt that it was the right thing to do. Although most of our delegates were planning to come to Toronto, I am sure they will appreciate the situation and endorse the action which we have taken."

Plans are now being made for a joint meeting of the O.M.E.A. and A.M.E.U. executives to determine how this year's business should be handled.

A man's true estate of power and riches, is to be in himself, not in his dwellings, or position, or external relations, but in his own essential character.—H. W. Beecher.

achievement makes the achievement. The devotion of thought to an honest purpose.—Mary Baker Eddy.

What men want is not talent, it is purpose; in other words, not the power to achieve, but will to labor.—Bulwer-Lytton.

Sleeping Sickness in Man and Horse.

The virus disease of horses, Encephalomyelitis, or sleeping sickness, has also infected man, producing in him a serious and often fatal illness. In horses, the disease has been proved to be controllable by a specific vaccine, and, incidentally, the application of this vaccine eliminates the greater part of the economic loss caused by the disease. In regions where the disease appears, it is important to know whether a vaccine similar to that prepared for horses will also protect man. A co-operative study by the Division of Animal Pathology, Dominion Department of Agriculture, and the Manitoba Department of Health has shown that the response to the vaccine in man is not as regular as in horses, and certain substances which are formed in the blood of horses are not produced with equal facility in man. Nevertheless, states the Annual Report of the Dominion Minister of Agriculture, it would seem that the vaccine is such that it will give persons in infected regions a reasonable degree of protection, and perhaps an absolute immunity.

No. 7 of a Series — "Your Gas Supply."

What is the Next Step Necessary to Secure New Gas Supply?

LOCATION of a new outside source of natural gas, which will augment local supplies presently and prospectively available and assure an adequate supply for the people of Southwestern Ontario for at least twenty years, has been described in previous talks. The conditions have also been outlined.

It has been pointed out that the Union Gas Company must be assured of the revenue necessary to carry out the proposed contract before necessary expenditures are incurred.

The whole proposal, including all financial details, has been submitted to the various Municipal Councils concerned.

Study of Proposal Invited

The Municipal Councils are invited to study the entire proposal and request any further information desired, so that the matter of settling rates by a Referee appointed under the Natural Gas Conservation Act may be facilitated.

The contract already executed contains a "deadline" date, after which the option expires. Meanwhile, however, the Panhandle Company cannot enter into any other contract for the gas which we will require if the proposal becomes effective.

Before delivery of gas can be taken under the contract, it will be necessary to complete construction of compressor stations and to lay pipe lines, all of which takes time.

Early consideration and settlement of the terms on which this new supply of gas is available becomes, therefore, a matter of urgent public interest.

This is where GAS can serve you best:

BEHIND THE HEADLINES.

Though startling political developments cannot be ruled out now in Ottawa, even including the possibilities of dissolution and a general election, yet this veteran observer must emphasize at this time that for sometime now reports in usually well-informed parliamentary session have been in the making even before Premier King's statement that Parliament will be prorogued only at the gathering on January 31st. When Parliament had been adjourned on December 7th, it had been arranged not to meet again until January 31st. It had been indicated in the capital that only a quorum of members might be necessary on this latter date since Parliament might only gather for the comparatively brief process of prorogation or closing of the present session which generally meant that there would be common formalities of a speech from the throne and a review of what had taken place in the past session. After these formalities it was not certain that what might happen since it was not sure of another regular session would be held, nor how long such a gathering would continue. These depend upon coming events not only on the war fronts but also on the home front where the political situation at the moment on the "inside" was far less peaceful, settled and efficacious than it may have appeared to the man-in-the-street across Canada. Indeed, it was considered in well-informed quarters backstage along Parliament Hill that the political atmosphere in Ottawa was so explosive now that it might burst into sudden activity without warning at almost any time. This might bring forth any changes in present or contemplated plans for Parliament and such changes might be made without any advance hints. If circumstances will compel such action. However, it can be stated that reports in Ottawa have shown that the main plans in the making on the part of the government are likely related to war appropriations and the annual budget, with even these said to contain fluctuations due to war developments, including possibly higher demands for the army, likely lower appropriations for the air force, about the same needs for the navy, probably more money for purposes after Canadians have left the armed services, such as pensions, hospitalization, etc., and possibly the same for war production, including the increased amounts for the United States account. This year the war appropriations were $1,535,000,000 for the army, $81,090,000,000 for the air force, and $410,000,000 for the navy, with the total having been $3,560,000,000, including munitions.

Behind whispers which are heard now along Parliament Hill there are hints of future shifts in the Federal Cabinet and these are bringing up gossip which indicates that several Ministers are said to be considering retirement. These are claimed to be based not merely on political exigencies. The Secretary of State, Hon. Norman McLaury, is mentioned frequently as likely to retire. Hon. J. R. Michaud, Minister of Transport, is said to desire elevation to a post on the Bench. Hon. T. A. Cresser, Minister of Mines and Resources, is reported as not seeking re-election. Hon. Angus Macdonald, Naval Minister, is said to have plans outside of politics for the near future. Similar hints are heard now about other Ministers, especially after the last Cabinet crisis in Ottawa, when no less than six Ministers were reported as ready to step out of the King Government on the "hot" reinforcement issue. Ever since that time peculiar whispers have been heard along Parliament Hill that this or that Minister is entertaining thoughts of retiring, going out of politics completely or moving into other public office, with hints of such independent events having been accentuated lately.

The veterans, together with their families, will be most interested to learn that there is an actual school in the nation's capital where all phases of the Dominion Government's rehabilitation plan for ex-service personnel are being taught so that more and more people may be informed accurately, and minutely about the Canadian rehabilitation scheme and in turn be able to offer sound advice to ex-service personnel either before or after discharge.

According to a report in Ottawa it is assumed that Canadians may be able to get the new medal which Prime Minister Winston Churchill had said might be given to the members of the armed forces after this war. Canadians are permitted to receive British decorations of other sorts and the only Canadian award issued so far is the Canadian Volunteer Service medal as a distinct decoration of this country.

There seems to be considerable interest in the amount of pensions received by the late Sir William Mulock, who had left a bequest of $50,000 to Premier King and it can be disclosed that the late Sir William Mulock had received $65,000 as pension since he retired. He retired in 1936, so that he had obtained a pension of eight thousand dollars for eight years and three months, that is $65,000 during that time.

Judging by the reaction amongst many Canadians, the order establishing Daylight Saving Time, as well as the refusal of the Federal Government to rescind it during winter are not proving Family Allowances.

When family allowances come into effect, July 1st of this year, 3,535,934 children under 16 are expected to be eligible for payments, reports The Financial Post's Ottawa correspondent. Average cost per child per year will be $72.45, and cost to the Treasury about $253.3 millions (outside of administrative costs, and without deduction of income-tax rebates).

Figures produced this week are given by The Financial Post that, of all the children eligible for family allowances next July:

Some 40.2% (1,424,900) will be five years of age or less, hence will draw only $5 a month.

23.8% (839,700) will be between six and nine ($6 per month).

17.5% (618,400) will be between 10 and 12 ($7 per month).

These amounts, The Post explains, are about $1 a month for the fifth child in a single family, $2 a month for the sixth and seventh children, $3 a month for the eighth and subsequent children.

popular at this time. However, it must be reported that this order was retained because it was deemed to be necessary as a war measure in regard to electric power and the situation affecting transportation. While there are improvements in electric power, or situation, yet it was found advisable to continue the present policy since otherwise there might be shortages. Likewise, it is not forgotten that Daylight Saving Time causes inconveniences, especially in agricultural areas and those situated close to the western limit of a time meridian, but it must be remembered that a maximum prosecution of the war demands its continuation because all arrangements of railway and other transportation companies have been based on DST and the best available information has indicated that United States will also continue on DST or War Time throughout this winter.

The strenuous effort of General A. G. L. MacNaughton to be elected in the Grey North constituency contest on February 5th has resulted in speculation what may happen if the Defence Minister should fail and an important inference has been drawn in well-informed circles in Ottawa that in the event of such a setback there may be no new session of Parliament is supposed to meet again on January 31st but it can be prorogued on that date so that a new session can start only after February 1st and last no longer than April 17th or for about two and a half months. The life of the present Parliament commenced on April 17th, 1940, and it has been made clear by Premier King that there is no intention to extend its normal life, that is beyond April 17th of this year, though during World War I such an extension was made for one additional year by an amendment to the British North America Act. In other words, the Grey North bye-election may prove to be far more important for the nation than for the constituency itself, leading perhaps to unforeseen or undisclosed political movements by the present Government, including the possibility of an earlier general election than it had been contemplated if Defence Minister MacNaughton should be elected.

Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, Minister of Trade and Commerce, has returned to Ottawa after a three weeks' vacation in the United States. . . . C. P. McTague, National Chairman of the Progressive Conservative Party, has revealed in the capital a number of moves by the Party which aim to co-ordinate its political organization across the country in an effort to be ready for an early general election, with the impression being given that he did not consider the reinforcement situation as wholly settled and that he held the Government was faced with "recurring crises."

Ivan Volenko, of the Soviet Russian Embassy in Ottawa, has declared that Moscow has the largest library in the world, with 8,000,000 books and that newly designed mobile libraries carry books to armed forces right near the front lines.

Since Defence Minister MacNaughton has to spend considerable time in conducting his election campaign in Grey North, Naval Minister Angus Macdonald has been carrying on as acting Defence Minister, making him an extremely busy member of the King Cabinet since he had also been the Air Minister until recently replaced by Hon. Colin Gibson. However, these are considered to be temporary arrangements only. . . . A member of a famous Latin American family in the fields of science and politics, Dr. Eduardo Grove, who was Chile's first Minister and later Ambassador to Canada, has been summoned back to his native land. Dr. Grove himself is a distinguished surgeon. . . . There seems to be a popular move in the making to bring about a change whereby the sessional indemnity of Members of Parliament of $4,000 may be made exempt from income tax, with the remark that as far back as last August 14th, Prime Minister Mackenzie King indicated that he would favour such a change as it applied to the next Parliament. Therefore, it would be no surprise if such a change does come about after the next general election and it would be based on the arguments that it costs considerable to be elected to Canada's Parliament and it is rather expensive to live in the nation's capital during each session on account of overcrowded conditions in Ottawa.

Girl Guides' Association of Ontario.

Work of the Girl Guides' Association in Ontario is receiving ever-increasing attention from the people of the Province, whose financial aid is being sought at this time. Patrons of the movement have opened a fund to assist the expansion of Guiding in Ontario. The objective is $200,000 which will be used to provide Trainers for the many more Leaders needed to bring Guiding within the reach of all girls in the Province. The value of Girl Guide training is today widely recognized.

A few concrete examples will illustrate to the uninformed how the girl who has the benefit of Guide Training, which is available from seven years to young womanhood, acquires that sense of responsibility and desire to serve, which are the very core of good citizenship.

Somewhere in England a bomb had fallen and blasted a nearby school. A teacher who happened to be absent at the moment, returned to her classroom to find the children lying flat on the floor according to routine orders, but one seven year old little miss, a Brownie or younger girl guide, was cheerfully chatting to keep up the spirits of her companions. When this child arrived home, her first remark to her anxious mother was: "I tried to comfort the little ones Mummy."

lady with a cane to cross the road. From the western front comes the story of two heroic Girl Guides, Simone and Elizabeth Brughe, in the enemy occupied town of Roulers, near Paeschendaale. They succeeded in learning and relaying to a Polish Tank Corps, sufficient information to enable it to liberate the town almost without bloodshed.

Another war story is of an English Wren, Petty Officer B. T. Hogg, who was too busy to bale out of a plane when it got into difficulties. She was testing radio apparatus, and was later, with the pilot, commended by The King for her coolness and skill. Before her war service, Petty Officer Hogg had been active as a Girl Guide and Ranger, or older Guide.

These are types of Womanhood such as the world needs: girls trained in loyalty, bravery, service, resourcefulness and all those qualities which make for readiness in any emergency, and willingness to serve under all circumstances. This is the kind of training which Guiding gives to over 24,000 girls in Ontario. There are thousands more though, in the Province alone who could be Guides, were more trained Leaders or Guides available. In the northern section particularly, where sturdy settlers from other lands are eager to become good Canadians there is a vast field for Guiding. Children are asking to become guides. Lack of sufficient funds stands in the way of present expansion, though world conditions cry out for child training, such as Guiding is ready and willing to give.

Work is Voluntary. The Girl Guides' Organization, large-

est youth movement of its kind in the world, finances its work through voluntary subscriptions. Its executive officers and Guides are all voluntary workers. The extent of service given can only be in proportion to the support the movement receives. If more Ontario girls are to have the benefit of Guiding, Ontario people must help finance the work.

The $200,000 to be raised will be used to provide more expert Guide Trainers to teach young women needed as Guides. Without them, new Guide and Ranger companies and Brownie Packs cannot be formed. Maintenance and travelling expenses of one Trainer is approximately $3,000 annually and Ontario should have many full time Trainers. Now Guides must pass on to the children, and must know how to do this the "Guiding" way.

There is no compulsion in Guiding, which is probably why it is so popular with its members. Children want to play the "Game" of Guiding, and in doing so under the direction of a trained Leader along carefully prescribed channels, they grow healthily in mind and body, developing both character and physique.

What Does a Guide Learn? The Guide recites the three-fold promise of Duty to God and the King, and to help other people at all times, also obedience to the ten simple Guide laws of conduct covering Honesty, Loyalty, Usefulness, Friendship to all people and animals, Courtesy, Obedience, Cheerfulness, Thrift and Purity, and by Guide training thereafter, develops these virtues in herself.

In its system of Badge awards, which is cooperative rather than competitive, Guiding teaches and encourages its members to excel in many useful activities, stressing particularly the household, cross-country, and of certain health and service badges are essential. Cooking, needlework, sewing, children, health rules, simple sick nursing - these are a few of the "musts" which help to fit the Girl Guide to take her place as a homemaker in the world of tomorrow. A host of other talents can also be developed in the world of tomorrow. A host of individual talents can also be developed in the world of tomorrow. A host of individual talents can also be developed in the world of tomorrow. A host of individual talents can also be developed in the world of tomorrow.

In short, through Guiding, a girl becomes a well-balanced individual, with a healthy, happy, helpful attitude towards life. She acquires the necessary knowledge to cope with all ordinary eventualities and a resourcefulness which will help her to fearlessly face up to the unforeseen.

Will you invest in Canada's girlhood, making Guiding possible for more children by subscribing to the Ontario Girl Guides' Expansion Fund? Donations may be sent to the Honorary Treasurer, Girl Guides' Association of Ontario, Address: Mrs. R. C. Kilgour, 30 College Street Toronto 2, or to your local Girl Guide Commissioner. January and February are the campaign months, February 15th to 24th, is Boy Scout and Girl Guide week throughout Canada, with February 22nd of special significance. This date is known as "Guide Thinking Day," observed by Girl Guides the world over as the joint birthday of the late Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the Movement, and of Lady Baden-Powell, Chief Guide of the World. Early subscriptions to the fund will make it possible for Ontario Guides to achieve their hope of putting the Expansion Fund over the top by "Thinking Day."

Legion Offers Forestry Course for All Troops.

Canadian soldiers lucky enough to get leave in Paris can step from the realities of war into a branch office crossing the threshold of the new Canadian Club opened recently in the French capital by the Canadian Legion War Services.

The club, located in a hotel, can take care of 250 men nightly. Each man gets a room with private bath and while he is sleeping on the night of his arrival his uniform is cleaned and pressed and his boots shined. In the morning he can get a free hair cut. All his meals are free while he is staying at the club.

The hotel is maintained by a civilian French staff with a Canadian Legion supervisor in charge. The Legion man has organized a ladies' orchestra and the committee of ladies responsible for entertaining the men have their disposal 2,000 volunteer hostesses. Nightly dances, and tours of the city in the daytime, are arranged for the men.

The question before the people is . . .

DO YOU WANT GAS?

Supply is assured for twenty years if offer is accepted.

Investigation welcomed.

Here is the Solution

There were two courses that might have been followed to assure gas-users of adequate supplies, namely:

1. To build artificial gas-plants in each of the cities served, or
2. To purchase supplies of natural gas from United States sources.

Either course would involve substantial expenditure for new plant and new rates to meet the new circumstances. Because natural gas is superior in heating quality and is also the less costly to the user, your companies chose the second course.

Your companies would be negligent in their duty to you if they failed to provide good gas service at the lowest possible price. Accordingly we now offer you an assured supply of gas for the next twenty years, subject to permission to export the gas from the United States being obtained. You have the opportunity to say, through your Municipal representatives, whether or not this offer meets with your approval.

Obviously, if the benefit of the proposed contract for the new gas supply is to be realized, a new schedule of rates to consumers is required. Your companies have submitted a proposal for a new rate structure, uniform throughout the territory they serve, and this structure, it is considered, will be equitable to all types of users. The schedule is subject to the approval of the Gas Referee who is to consider the whole question of gas rates in view of the new gas supplies.

Let us repeat . . . The question is "Do you want Gas?" Then let your wants be known. Rates will only be fixed after complete investigation.

● Headlines and press reports of municipal meetings dealing with the gas question emphasize opposition to what is termed an increase in rates and many of the gas users, who are the interested parties, must have received the impression that only a question of rates is involved.

The really important point is that provision for the next twenty years of an adequate supply of gas for all purposes including replacement of house-heating installations is being offered, subject to the export of this gas from the United States being approved.

Serious Gas Shortage Faced if Dependent on Local Supply

The possibility of a gas shortage was foreseen by your companies several years ago and drilling for new wells was greatly increased in the hope of offsetting the diminishing supply. Results, however, have been very disappointing, the new supplies being insufficient to replace what is being used. The decrease in gas reserves and the unfavorable outlook for production from local fields are confirmed by the Ontario Natural Gas Commissioner.

The increased industrial use of gas in war industries has been met to some extent by the use of propane-oil gas produced in Windsor and "still" gas processed at Sarnia, but even if the industrial use of gas were entirely discontinued now, there would still not be enough natural gas to replace the house-heating load which was discontinued as a war measure, and by no means enough to provide for any expansion of gas-using equipment.

From the point of view of the consumers and municipalities, the essential thing to be done is to provide an adequate supply of gas for all purposes, including replacement of house-heating installations.

Mrs. Sarah Watson, of Maidstone, is spending a few days with Mrs. E. Rolson and Mrs. Florence Wolter.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Murphy and family were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lauzon.

The Thomas Paisley sale, which was to have been held yesterday (Thursday) has been indefinitely postponed, due to the bad condition of the roads.

The W. A. of Woodlee United Church will hold a potluck dinner at the manse, on Thursday, February 1st. Ladies of the congregation are cordially invited. This being the first meeting since the new year, it is hoped a special effort will be made to attend.

The Woodlee Sportsmen's Association annual banquet, held in the basement of the United Church, was a huge success in spite of the almost impassable condition of some of the country roads. There were over 175 present. Following a program of short speeches, with Ern Chauvin as chairman, the group adjourned to the I.O.O.F. Hall, where the balance of the evening was spent in dancing.

There will be a Red Cross meeting in the Union Hall, on Tuesday afternoon, February 6th. A good crowd is expected.

The Oddfellow's party, on Friday night, was attended by a fair sized crowd, in spite of the bad roads. A very pleasant time was had by all. As predicted by Rochester, the results were different this week, Rochester winning 119 to 100. The margin of victory has been small both times, so anything can happen next week. Blood Transfusions Give Second Chance to Wounded.

Not far from here there is a boy back from overseas. He's been wounded—and he is back home only because blood transfusions saved his life. Throughout Canada there are hundreds of such cases—living evidence of the blessing of blood serum—for these men have been close to death and have come back only because Canadians answered the call for blood, without hesitation.

"No finer medical attention has been available to soldier casualties of any nation at any other time," reports Col. Leeming A. Carr, of Hamilton, who has returned to that city after 18 months in command of a Canadian general hospital in England.

Battle casualties began to arrive at Col. Carr's hospital two days after the invasion and, when he left, men hurt more recently in Holland were coming in. In the case of more serious injury, the men would be flown to hospitals in England after receiving life-saving transfusions on the field.

The Mobile Blood Donor Clinic will be in the St. Joachim church basement on Tuesday next, February 6th, starting at 8 a.m.

This will give the young farmers and young girls especially, of this community another chance to share in this important work. It is a matter of pride that we should respond. We must only inconvenience ourselves so little to contribute our share to this great work. Decide now to do your part—then follow through when the clinic is held, on Tuesday, February 6th.

PUCE

Mrs. Leland Reynolds gave a birthday party for her daughter, Karen Lee, aged 2 years, on Tuesday, January 23rd. A number of small children and their mothers were invited for the afternoon. All enjoyed a good time. Delicious refreshments were served and a large number of party gifts were received.

Miss Ruth Martin, of Toledo, Ohio, spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Mary Martin.

The home of a young wife has been found in the city. The young wife of the late Mr. J. A. Vane, who died of the Spanish flu, thought she would go out riding tonight one night after school, the past week. She had a car with her and a dog, and came upon tracks in the snow which she thought were those of a jack rabbit and which led into a woods. Here she saw what looked like a grey dog but it did not bark. So calling her dog she ran for home. Some of the men went out next day to locate the wolf and tracks of several and their lair. Evidently members of the wolf family do not stay in one place very long. This is the second time in less than a month that wolf tracks and lairs have been found, almost in a line but two or more miles apart. Government bounty on wolf heads should be an attraction to those who like hunting.

Alex Gaspar went to Toronto the past week and purchased a car, which he drove home. He reports much snow, especially in the London and Tilbury districts.

Much regret was expressed when this community learned, on Wednesday, of the passing of Leonard Fierth, early that morning, and on Thursday morning of the passing of Mrs. Elizabeth Vivier, the evening before. The sympathy of the community is extended to both bereaved families.

Mrs. A. Gangnier has returned after spending a couple of days in Detroit with her sister, Mrs. Richard McFie. Miss Florida Neveux spent the early part of the week in Detroit with her brother, Mrs. Henry Neveux, who was ill.

Quite a lot of excitement was caused late Friday afternoon, when passing school children noticed a fire on the roof of the Stanley Major home. The fire department was called. The fire was extinguished with a record time of five minutes. A fire extinguisher was used, then a hose from the fire truck. This brought the fire under control, with only the ordinary damage from fire and water. The fire was undoubtedly caused by sparks from the furnace chimney.

Navigable Waters Protection Act.

R.S.C., 1927, Chapter 140.

Hiram Walker & Sons Limited, gives notice that it has, under Section 7 of the said Act, deposited with the Minister of Public Works at Ottawa, a plan in the office of the District Registrar of the Land Registry District of the County of Essex, at Windsor, Ontario, a description of the site and plans of proposed elevator and dock and proposed railway trestle and tracks now proposed to be built in the Detroit River at Windsor, Ontario, in front of Farm Lots Numbers 94 and 95 (McNIR).

And take notice that after the expiration of one month from the date of the first publication of this notice Hiram Walker & Sons Limited will, under Section 7 of the said Act apply to the Minister of Public Works at Ottawa, in the City of Ottawa, for approval of the said site and plans.

FLETCHER RUARK, VICE-PRESIDENT. Dated this 15th day of January, 1945.

Sportsmen to Feed Pheasants.

Emergency feeding of pheasants in the county was decided on at a meeting of the Essex County Sportsmen's Association, with President Adam McGuire in the chair, held at the Aberdeen Hotel, Monday night.

The secretary of each branch was empowered to purchase necessary pheasant food for each branch and submit bills to Ernest Chauvin, county association treasurer.

General dissatisfaction was expressed with the type of food supplied by the fisheries and game department for feeding pheasants. The birds ate the barley but refused the wheat, it was said.

Corn on the cob was highly recommended by those who had been feeding the birds. If grain was scattered the deep snow covered it and the pheasants were unable to reach it, while they could locate corn on the cob.

Farmers in many districts reported birds were starving while in areas where corn was left unhusked in the field the pheasants were flocking there to feed.

Would Restrain Dogs.

The secretary was instructed to send a night letter to Mr. Barker, veterinary inspector general, requesting that the law be enforced to the limit to prevent the spread of rabies.

Great concern was expressed by the sportsmen over the way dogs were still allowed to run at large. It was stated that in Windsor four rabies-infected dogs were picked up, running the streets, during the past week.

Many people took the attitude that they hoped unwanted dogs would be picked up and let them run. It was felt if a $50 fine were imposed these people would get rid of the dogs or keep them tied.

The custom of the humane society, of giving mongrel dogs away during this epidemic, was severely criticized. It was strongly urged that the Society destroy these dogs until the rabies is cleared up.

An appeal was made to get everyone to co-operate since it was stressed that it was futile to clamp down on dogs in one locality while stray dogs by the dozen roamed about in villages, towns and in the country.

Ernest Chauvin, secretary-treasurer, and Adam McGuire were named as delegates to present resolutions from the association to the department of game and fisheries.

Ask Pike Spearings.

A resolution that pike be placed on the coarse fish list and the department of game and fisheries legalize the taking of pike by spearing in the Essex County district was unanimously adopted.

Anxiety over the rapidly decreasing areas of marsh land open to the public for hunting and fishing was expressed by sportsmen from all parts of the county.

It was pointed out that only five percent of the county's marsh land was available to the public. Decision was unanimously in support of a resolution brought in by the Windsor and Essex branches that a fixed percentage of the revenue of the department of game and fisheries from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses be set aside for the purpose of purchasing lake, river and marsh land frontage for public hunting and fishing and recreational purposes.

Seining Seaside.

The practice of using seine nets in the Detroit River was severely scored. This method of fishing disturbed feeding and spawning grounds of fish and was rapidly depleting fish in that area and neighbouring waters. Strong support was given to a resolution that the department of game and fisheries prohibit the use of seine nets in the Detroit River.

It was felt that fishing violations were rampant where perch was taken through the ice and a resolution was adopted that a limit of six inches be placed on perch taken in this area.

Deer Season.

Resolutions that the deer season in Northern Ontario be returned to 1943 dates; that the open season for woodcock be changed to October 15th to November 15th, inclusive; that hunting of raccoons be set for October 15th to December 15th, inclusive; that catfish lines with a limit of 25 hooks to line be permitted, that dates for local open seasons be announced at least 90 days in advance were adopted.

Discussion was keen on the many infractions of the game and fisheries laws in the county. A resolution was unanimously adopted urging that stricter enforcement of these laws and greater penalties, including at least two years suspension of license for those convicted, imposed.

EDGAR MILLS.

Belleme Bros. truck was slightly damaged in a collision on Thursday. George Gould has ten young lambs. They have arrived a little ahead of the spring weather.

Motorists seem to have lost their dislike of seeing the roads cluttered up with good teams of horses.

Frank Toews and friend, of Windsor, were visitors here on Sunday.

The bulldozer cleared most of the roads here again early this week. C. McPhail and Howard Taylor, of Malden, called on friends here on Tuesday.

Don Bailey, of Amherstburg, was here on business on Monday.

Hydro Names Rural Engineer for Rural Operations.

Victor A. Beacock has been appointed engineer in charge of rural operations in Ontario, the Ontario Hydro

Commission announced recently, in creating a new office to carry out electrical service in rural sections as labor and material permit.

Mr. Beacock, who has served 20 years with the hydro, was formerly district municipal engineer for the commission in Lambton, Kent and Essex counties. He is well-known in the county.

A native of Oro, Ont., Mr. Beacock

graduated from the University of Toronto School of Practical Science in 1915, when he joined the commission's staff as assistant engineer in the municipal department. Later he served overseas in the First Great War, and won the Military Cross.

In connection with Mr. Beacock's appointment, hydro announces 400 miles of rural lines have been constructed in Ontario during 1944, giving service to some 10,000 customers in farm communities.

Education is what we learn during pamphlets, listen to certain radio programs, go to certain shows, and most important: when we choose a curriculum for our schools.

The school should fit the child for a life that is both desirable and attainable. Most schools educate the child for urban occupations. But all our children cannot go to the city, or get rich quick, even if that were desirable.

The unfortunate result of such schooling is that those who stay on the farm are ill-equipped to manage one successfully. If we want our children to have a full life on the farm, we must change the present system and start slanting their education for rural living.

We must have teachers who know rural life and like it. They must be paid sufficient wages so they will be content to give the community years of continuous service, instead of hiking off to the city at the first opportunity. And we need special classrooms and equipment for wood-working, farm mechanics, sewing, cooking.

Undoubtedly all this will cost more than we have been spending on education. "But are we using our money to the best advantage?" Farm Forum

Consumer Branch Unites Urban and Rural Women.

According to Mrs. Cameron Dow, national president of the Federation of Women's Institutes and rural advisor to the Consumer Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, the Consumer Branch has been responsible for bringing the women in the country and urban women together "more closely than ever in their history." Fighting inflation and supporting rationing they have united in a solid front. In close touch with the current wartime problems of women, Mrs. Dow maintains that at present housing problems are felt in the country as well as in large centers. Scarcity of labor and materials for repair work have affected the farm women as well as the city dweller. While conservation may be a comparatively new activity for city women the country woman is the past master of the art.

Government Isn't Santa Claus.

By David Lister Routledge.

There is a trend of Canadian thinking that should be causing Canadians a good deal of concern. It is the tendency to look upon our government as though it were something different from ourselves, some great and detached Santa Claus of whom we can make all sorts of demands without the restraints imposed by the recognition that the people themselves are the purchasers of the very gifts that this Santa Claus provides.

When we speak of the Government or the State as an entity of itself we are following the dangerous will-o'-the-wisp.

The Government or the State only exists as a group of men charged with carrying the responsibilities delegated to them by the people whose united will formulates the policies and provides the funds for their administration. In men charged with such responsibilities we must assume wisdom and abilities beyond the average of the people — the wisdom to take the people's tangled, uncertain, and divergent opinions and shape them into clear policies that will closely approach the trend of public thinking.

When we go beyond that and expect government to assume all our responsibilities and to make our lives safe and secure and bountiful by legislation, we are overdoing the Santa Claus attitude. We are changing our concept of government, making it master rather than servant. We are tending to create a totalitarianism at home while we are fighting abroad.

The corrective of such a condition is an interested, informed, and independent public opinion. But it does not do to press any argument too far, or to assume that because some critic — whether a person, an organization, or a party — can lay a finger on a weakness, the person, the organization, or the party may have all the wisdom or knowledge necessary to correct the fault. A man may know he is ill, he may even have a shrewd suspicion as to the character of his illness, without having either the skill or the knowledge to effect a cure. There is no assurance that in attempting to correct some shortcoming we may not find ourselves involved in greater or more disastrous errors.

There is no probability that a government in fact, or a government in possible prospect, will be able to find some cure-all for the problems that face us. A government is not and cannot be Santa Claus. Prolonged deficit spending by governments, as Mr. Geo. W. Spinnery pointed out in his presidential address at the annual meeting of the Bank of Montreal, even when we support it with the comfortable theory that because we owe the money to ourselves the size of the obligation does not matter, cannot escape the assailable fact that, in the long look, government spending must relate itself to government income, or we must ultimately face the fact that our dollar will buy less than it does today.

Our best hope, therefore, is that the long experience of the whole people will change this Santa Claus concept of government and will restore the Work Done by Children's Aid Society.

This is the story of two young Ontario women, one studying to be a doctor of medicine, the other a member of the C.W.A.C. It will be particularly interesting to readers of this paper who last year followed the series of articles telling of the work being done by the Children's Aid Societies throughout this province.

For this is the story of two little girls whom life knocked down and two Children's Aid Societies picked up. All that Children's Aid stands for, what it is allowed to do to protect children under our Ontario laws, what lies behind the policy of carefully selected foster home care, what can be the far-reaching influence of some thoughtfully inspiring personality working year after year on a Society's staff is exemplified by these two young women today.

Nine years ago a little girl, whom we shall call Peggy, was made a ward of the Children's Aid Society of Ontario, which shall be nameless for obvious reasons. Peggy was one of seven children, born of European parents in Canada. The father deserted his family 12 or 14 years ago to return to his native country. The mother failed abjectly in her responsibilities and in 1935 the children were made wards of the local Society. Peggy, always under the care, supervision and kindly guidance of the Society, went to live with an aunt, where she had a good, clean home and did well at school. She passed her entrance at 13 and the following year stood highest in her class, at the same time making her own clothes. By 1943 Peggy had completed her college course with honours and was planning to go through pharmacy. She won a $450 scholarship, but did not learn of this in time to register for the university year.

The obstacle only provoked Peggy into a more ambitious step than she had yet contemplated. She decided to wait another year, earn and save every possible cent, avail herself of a scholarship at the end of the year and study medicine. Last summer many people in her community became interested in this clever and plucky girl and gifts of money and clothing came in so generously that Peggy, now at the University, began her first year with a suitable wardrobe, a little extra money and the knowledge that she has many interested friends back of her.

Hats off to the Society — probably to some dynamic personality on its staff — to that scholarship donor, to some nameless teachers, to many good people and not least to that worthy little girl who spent nearly all her life "moulding the wet clay."

The second story concerns another woman — the aunt! All were potters in the care of a Society. That Society, because of circumstances which are repeated in thousands of cases which come to the attention of Children's Aid every year, applied through the courts for "wardship action."

"Wardship action" — a cold, precise legal term. What does it really mean — what can it be made to rest upon when a Society lives up to every responsibility vested in it? It means the Society has the responsibility of being as a parent to the children committed to its charge — of providing through its staff and foster homes the love and affection which the children have missed in their own homes and of providing by every means to create and sustain in the children that sense of security which is so essential to their normal development and which has either been seriously shaken or missing altogether in their lives.

Many years after the courts had committed a little homeless, friendless girl to her local Children's Aid Society, that little girl, now a young woman holding a responsible position in the C.W.A.C., could write this letter to the superintendent:

"Dear Sir—For many years now you and your co-workers have been father and mother to me and I know it has been no easy task. You have been helping me for so long I would like to show you in a small way that I do appreciate everything you have done. I know of no better way for a Victory Bond to be used than to have it help some other boy or girl have some opportunities you offered me. Will you accept this little token of my gratitude with my best wishes to you and your staff?"

Enclosed was a Victory Bond for $50.

Only that superintendent knows the history that lies behind this wardship, but this is apparent to all. At some time a little girl was left quite alone in the world. She had neither parents, nor relatives, nor friends to care for her and her whole life lay before her — to be made or marred.

There can be statutes, there can be the cautious Court, spelling out the letter of the law. But those are the mere bones of the responsibility vested in Children's Aid Societies and their officials. The love, the patience, the care that ended, helped and inspired, this child's life will be discussed by the Children's Aid Societies throughout this province.

Can you open your heart to some little girl or boy needing love and care and a chance to be a good citizen? If so will you get in touch with your local Children's Aid Society?

Agricultural Societies Plan for Convention.

The programme which has been arranged for the 54th Annual Convention of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies to be held in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on February 8th and 9th, is probably the most ambitious and comprehensive ever attempted by the Association. Many subjects of vital importance to the agriculture of Ontario will be discussed by outstanding authorities from both the United States and Canada, and the guest speaker at the Convention Banquet on the evening of February 8th, will be the Hon. George A. Drew, Premier of Ontario.

Wednesday, February 7th, will be devoted to the annual meeting of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies, which will be held in the afternoon. The features of the programme will be a Fair Management Quiz, conducted by B. L. McLean, Lindsay; Wilfred Walker, Fort William and Walter Jackson, London, and which will deal with all phases of fair management. Addresses on programme features of fall fairs will also be given.

The women's Division this year is making a feature of Ontario Handicrafts, and in addition to an address by Anthony Adamson, vice-president of the Canadian Handicrafts Division on "The promotion of Handicrafts," which will be a suggestive of displays which will be arranged by rural fairs, and also of handicrafts which might be developed in Ontario to meet tourist demands for souvenirs. Stress is also being laid on the effective planning of exhibits of school children's work, on which Charles Hewitt, Inspector of Public Schools, of Milton, will be the guest speaker. On the second day of the Women's meeting, the feature will be an address by J. A. Carroll, Director of the Agricultural Societies Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The Thursday session of the Main Convention provides an important series of addresses and discussions. Dr. William A. Albrecht, University of Missouri Soils Department, will speak on "Soil Fertility and Food Quality," and the Women's Division Delegates will attend this session. In the afternoon a quiz session on fair management will be a new feature conducted by J. A. Carroll. The rest of the afternoon will be devoted to group discussions of many types of fair problems, and the banquet will follow in the evening.

Two addresses of major importance will be given at the session on Friday, February 9th. Dr. E. S. Archibald, Director of the Experimental Farms Service, will speak on "Agricultural Society Opportunities in Postwar Agriculture," and Hon. J. G. Taggart, Chairman of the Agricultural Prices Support Board, will speak on "Application of Floor Prices." Prof. L. G. Heimpel, of Floor Prices, Quebec, will give an address on "Some Problems in Farm Housing," and the 1945 machinery situation will be discussed by H. H. Bloom, administrator for farm and construction machinery. Another important address on this day will be that of J. P. Gledhill, of the War Assets Corporation, on the disposal of war surpluses. Bryan L. White, of Ottawa, will discuss the question, "Should There be a New Policy for Fairs, Systematizing Dates and Zones."

The Sessions will be presided over by Wilfred Walker, of Fort William, president of the Association.

A GOOD START — A SUCCESSFUL LIFE
WITH SHUR-GAIN.
PLANNING—PRODUCTION—PROFITS

As nearly as can be estimated, 15,000,000 chicks got their start in life on SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter last year. The SHUR-GAIN Empire extends from coast to coast in Canada — SHUR-GAIN really rules the roost. SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is the universal favourite, for three chief reasons:

1. Attractive Feed — SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is made from ingredients of the highest quality only. It is FRESH — it is PALATABLE. Chicks like it and eat the amounts they need for maximum growth.
2. Attractive Chicks — Because SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is made with a content of high-class animal protein which ensures efficient use and growth — because it is fortified well above need with the vitamins required for health and growth (A, D and G) because it is palatable and readily eaten — chicks THRIVE on it.
3. Attractive Prices — Because SHUR-GAIN is made in the neighbourhood mill, with resulting elimination of all unnecessary charges, it can be sold for less than other starters, in spite of its superior quality.

Cottam Congregational Meeting.

On January 29th, Cottam United Church held its annual Congregational meeting in the basement of the church. Rev. S. R. Johnston presided and conducted the worship service. D. R. Jones was appointed secretary, and Miss Mina D. Terryberry press reporter.

The first part of the business meeting dealt with the treasurer's reports of all societies and classes. A few of the reports are outstanding. The W. A. raised $1,478 and showed a balance of $1,236. The Y. P. U. receipts were approximately $150. This was very good, considering the small attendance, caused by so many being in the forces. The report of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund showed $881 had been raised ($653 at Cottam and $228 at Albion). The W. M. S. raised $450 and the Mission Circle $126. The church treasurer reported that $2,038 was raised and there is a balance of $479 in the treasury. In every department increases were shown.

Last year's minutes were approved and it was decided to hold the next meeting on January 9th, 1946. It was decided that the minutes reports be mimeographed. Arthur Atton was re-elected S. S. superintendent and Andrew Neville assistant. It was decided to carry on the United Service for three months, with several suggestions for its improvement. The trustee board were asked to procure a stove to help heat the Sunday school room.

It was moved by Duncan Hughson and seconded by Clarence Haggins that a vote of appreciation be tendered to Garnet Malott and J. S. Folster for the splendid work in keeping the books for the church and the M. & M. Fund. The report of the nominating committee showed that Arthur Atton had been elected to be a member of the Sessions for two years. At a recent board meeting the minister's salary was raised to $2,000, retroactive to July 1st, 1944.

A debate followed the meeting, entitled "Resolved that woman has done more for the world than man." The affirmative was taken by Mrs. Harry Newman and Mrs. Fred Gordey, and the negative by J. S. Folster and J. E. Pratt. This proved to be very humorous. The ladies then served a delicious lunch of doughnuts and coffee.

Benefits of Rural High School.

In placing before the Rotarians the benefits the town would derive from the proposed formation of a rural high school district here, A. H. McKague, principal of Essex High School, declared that the high school was out of date and that under the new system of provincial grants deductions would be made for lack of household economics, agriculture, shop work, and commercial courses, and school lunch facilities.

No Lunch Room.

"Under the present set-up we have no place to install even a lunch table," he said, as he told of 196 students out of a total enrolment of 279, eating lunches while sitting on stairways and benches in the gymnasium and auditorium each day.

The department favoured a regular cafeteria with special attendants, where school lunches would be supplemented by nourishing hot dishes.

Public health nursing was a necessity also, he said, as he pointed out that military statistics bore out the fact that too many of our young men were undernourished physically.

"Right now, with the scarcity of labor and materials, is not the time to build but it is the time to plan," he said.

"Because of our low assessment and high attendance, Essex is in a favoured position for the coming year," he said.

"The provincial grant of 75 per cent of 1944 operating costs will amount to approximately $20,145.55 plus the $10 per pupil average attendance grant of $2,474.60. The county grant will be around $16,602.75, which will make $39,593.90 available for 1945 expenses," he continued.

The operating cost per pupil for 1944 was around 50 cents a day, as low as any school in the county, and total operating costs were $27,355.43.

Since the county grant would not be paid until June and it was likely the provincial grant would not be forthcoming until that date, it would be necessary for the town to levy a mill rate to cover expenses until that date, Mr. McKague explained.

If the proposal to unite Essex, Colchester North, Gosfield North, two-thirds of Maldstone and one-third of Sandwich South into a rural high school district is carried out by these municipalities, the enlarged district assessment would be $7,468,000 while the Essex assessment at present is $1,440,000. He explained that under the new scheme the rate for grants from the province would be set at the town assessment plus one-fifth of the township assessment, which would still leave the school in the favoured grant class.

The township's share of educational costs would be paid into the school where their students attend and not be distributed at the rate of $5,000 a year to schools which are out of their natural area, Mr. McKague said. Townships should have an equity in and a share in authoritative control over the money they expend for education and the enlarged district would provide an easy way to finance a school with all the new and vitally necessary courses, he stressed.

General Discussion.

In the general discussion that followed the address, Dr. A. E. Benson expressed himself as greatly in favour of the new scheme. "It is a wonderful plan and I hope the Town of Essex has brains enough to see it through," he said.

President Bert Ashton said he felt this was urgently needed in this district, and George Weller also spoke highly in support of the project.

In explaining where the money was coming from to defray provincial grants, Inspector G. L. Duffin pointed out that this scheme was long overdue here; that in Australia, New Zealand and South Africa 100 per cent of school costs were paid by the state, while many states in United States paid 50 per cent and in Canada, Nova Scotia had paid 50 per cent for some time. Ontario has been lagging behind, he stated.

Arthur Milne Passes.

In the death of Arthur Milne, on Tuesday, the Town of Essex lost one of its most public spirited and highly esteemed citizens.

Squire, as he was familiarly known, in spite of his advanced age, was one of the most active workers in local Red Cross Campaigns, and had been a salesman in all the recent Victory Loan drives. He had retained all his faculties to the end, his eyesight, hearing and memory being almost perfect and up until the time he was seized with a heart condition shortly before Christmas, he appeared as though he would be with us for many years to come. In fact, the doctors had advised him that he would be able to get up on his birthday, but he took a turn for the worse on Sunday, and passed quietly away Tuesday morning, his 81st birthday.

Deceased was born in Markham, Ont., on February 6th, 1864, and came to Essex with his parents, in 1873. After receiving his early education in the Essex Centre schools, he started out in life by working in his father's private bank. He left banking and learned the toolmaking trade, opening a machine shop, in partnership with a man by the name of Harrington, their shop being in the building, built by his late father, on the site of the present Canning factory building, on Talbot street.

He sold out his interests in town and in 1893 moved, with his wife and two children, to Toledo, Ohio, where he worked at his trade until 1898, when he sent Mrs. Milne and their children to Essex, and he hit the trail for the Klondyke, at the time of the Gold Rush. He remained in the Yukon for eight years and in 1906 settled in Mundare, Alta., then but a small hamlet, and opened a hardware store. He retired from active business in December of 1927 and moved back to Essex.
In February of 1928, and has made his home with Mrs. A. Falls, an old friend of the Milne family, ever since.

In the year 1890, when Essex Centre was incorporated as a town, his father, the late John Milne, was elected the first mayor, and he was appointed Town Treasurer, however he resigned at the end of the year and was succeded by the late W. D. Beaman, father of our present treasurer, W. E. Beaman.

He was a member of Enterprise Lodge, I.O.O.F., being a member of the Order for 53 years. At his death he was an elder of Essex United Church, and was a lifelong member of the Old Methodist and since Union, the United Church.

Surviving are a daughter Addie (Mrs. Dr.) Arch Naylor) of Detroit, and a son, H. Carlyle, of Toronto; 6 grandchildren and five great grandchildren; also a brother, John, of Clinton.
His wife, the former Jane Robinson, a niece of the late Dr. James Brien, to whom he was married about 60 years ago, in 1928, and 12 years ago he died, predeceased him 12 years ago.
Funeral services are being held this (Thursday) afternoon, with interment in North Ridge cemetery.

In writing an obituary of a member of the Milne family, it takes one back to the early history of Essex, for the late John Milne was one of the history makers of the county.

John Milne was born in Ellon, Aberdeenshire, Scotland, and came to Canada with his father, in 1842, when only four years of age. He came to Essex in 1873, in connection with a lumber contract with the Canada Southern Railway. After driving two hundred miles by horse and buggy, Mr. Milne arrived at the point where the C. S.
Railway crossed Talbot road. The present Town of Essex, at that time, consisted of two log houses, one of which was used as a halfway house, for the "stage," and an almost completed hotel.

Mr. Milne helped to carry the furniture up to a bedroom and so became the first guest to sleep in an Essex hotel. He erected a temporary building which served as a station, installed a telegraph instrument and sent the first message, a wire to St. Thomas.

Mr. Milne's family joined him and they boarded in the hotel until the first residence in town was erected, and this he bought and occupied until the year 1882, when he erected his handsome residence, "Maple Villa," in the south end of the town, which in later years was known as "The Barber Place."

Mr. Milne attended the first religious service held in the town, and was instrumental in building the first church. Mrs. Milne and her daughter organized the first Sunday school.
Later on he was one of the delegates from the various parts of the province who helped to prepare the basis of Union for the different branches of the Methodist Church.

Fraternal interest.
In the fraternal circles he took a leading part. He helped form the Grand Lodge Ancient Order United Workmen, and later became Grand Organizer for the Northern Province and the Maritime Provinces.
He was one of the first members of the Masonic Order in Essex. He was foremost in every movement which made for the growth and advancement of the town. He, together with Messrs. Alex. and William Laing, erected and operated the Essex Centre Manufacturing Company, the building which used to be known as the canning factory.

Besides his business he found time

LATE MURRAY F. NEWMAN.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster Newman have received word that their son, Murray
F. Newman, was accidentally killed in Belgium, on December 19th, when a buzz bomb landed on the road several yards in front of him, and some of his comrades, all of whom were returning from a 48-hour leave.
They were instantly killed. The group were buried in the Canadian section of a community cemetery, in a small town in Holland.

A memorial service was held for him at the Brooker Baptist Church, on Sunday, February 4th, with Rev. F. M.
Ward and Rev. Stanley Johnston in charge.

Silas Reece Dies.

Silas Walter Reece, a lifelong resident of Maldstone Township, passed away suddenly at his home on 98 Highway at Naylor, Maryland, on Wednesday, from a heart attack. He had been afflicted for some years with the asthma, but had served on jury, at Sandwich, last week.

He was born in the Township of Maldstone, on September 25th, 1884, and had farmed all his life.

Surviving are his widow, the former Annie Jahlke, and ten children: Gertrude (Mrs. Harry Walpole), Gerold, Bernard and Lawrence, of Maldstone Township; Margaret (Mrs. Norman Shannon) of Kingsville; Raymond, of Essex; Edith (Mrs. Ross Alexander), of Windsor; Lloyd, of Sandwich South; Bertha (Mrs. Alfred Kettle), of Auburn, Ind., and Norman, at home; also six brothers, Robert, of Cottam; Jose, Charles, John and Edward, of Maldstone Township; Jacob, of Kingsville, and three sisters, Mrs. Alex. McDowell, of Maldstone Township; Mrs. Bertha Kendrick, of Essex, and Mrs. George Wagner, of Humberstone.

Resting at his late residence until 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Services will be held from the Hicks & Son Funeral Home, at 2 p.m., with Rev. C. W.
D. Cosens in charge and burial will be in Jarrett cemetery, South Woodside.

Trimble-Baker Nuptials.

With about twenty young people present, Rev. J. N. Sceivour, on Saturday afternoon, in the South Woodside United Church parsonage, united in marriage Jack Trimble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Trimble, and Miss Marjorie Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Charles Baker, all of Gosfield North Township.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white net over taffeta, with white accessories and carried a bouquet of red roses, while her bridesmaid, Miss Patsy Hays, chose a gown of blue net over taffeta, with white accessories, and carried pink carnations.

Donald Trimble assisted the groom as best man.

They will live, for the present, with the groom's parents, in Gosfield North.

to enter into every enterprise of the town. He was clerk of the first Division Court in town, and drew up all the deeds, mortgages and other agreements for the neighbourhood, since there was no lawyer here. He acted as member on the first high school board formed in 1885. He owned and operated the first newspaper, known then as the Essex Centre Chronicle.

First Mayor.
In the year 1890, Essex Centre became incorporated as a town under the name of Essex, and John Milne was elected the first mayor. He carried on a private banking business for some years. Ill health and adversity came his way, but his iron will and untiring energy surmounted many obstacles. When his business burned to the ground in 1883, he set to work with his partners, and erected a new mill and had it in running order in three weeks' time.

In the year 1897 Mr. Milne was made managing director of the Northern Life Insurance Company, with headquarters in London, and he left Essex at that time. In his 75th year he retired from active work and spent his winters in Florida. But the town of Essex, where he had spent so many years, and whose history he had had such an active part in making, drew him back, and he lived here until his death at the age of over 80 years.

Essex Red Cross.

Essex Red Cross Society met on Tuesday evening, February 6th. Officers elected were: Past president, J.
Roy Johnston; president, Edwin Russell; vice-president, E. D. Martin; treasurer, George How; secretary, F. V.

The annual Red Cross drive for funds is slated to commence on March 5th and run through to March 31st.
Don Wilson was appointed campaign manager. Mrs. Hunter Harrow has again accepted the office of work convener, and Grover Johnston again returned liaison officer.

The passing of Arthur E. (Squire)
Milne, on February 6th, his 81st birthday, will be a great loss to the Red Cross Society. Mr. Milne has been a faithful worker for the Essex Branch since its inception.

Progressive Conservatives Plan Youth Clubs.

Plans for the formation of Young Progressive Conservative clubs in Western Canada have been completed, and organization work is now under way, according to William Murdoch, member of the Ontario Legislature, who is one of the organizers.

Mr. Murdoch said Winnipeg was his first stopping point in a tour which will include the capitals of other Western provinces. While there he had completed initial arrangements for a meeting to be held at the Royal Alexandra Hotel, February 12th and 13th, for the purpose of organizing Young Progressive Conservative clubs throughout Manitoba.

Purpose of these clubs will be to promote an interest in citizenship.
"We have one of the finest generations of young people Canada has ever had," said Mr. Murdoch. "But many of them feel they are being neglected when it comes to sharing the responsibilities of government. Through the Young Progressive Conservative clubs they will be able to get a clearer picture of how our country is run and how they can take a more intelligent part in running it."

A Film All Adults Should See.

Acclaimed by the New York Sunday News "A distinguished production, a poignant realistic drama of fear, suffering and tragedy and an artistic triumph for Director Mark Donasky," the Soviet film, "The Rainbow," will be shown in connection with the international recruiting campaign of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, at the Essex High School, on Monday, February 19th, at 8 o'clock.

Shown for the first time in Western Ontario, this Russian film depicts the strength and power of the people in an unoccupied Ukrainian village, their intense hatred for the Nazis and their love for their motherland. The production is based on Wanda Wasilewska's which, on the day of publication, sold nearly half a million copies. According to New York P. M., this is a "film of tremendous intensity and towering cinematic force pictured with an inmistakeable candor which is seldom ventured in films of our own making."

"The Rainbow" is included in the regular circuit of films distributed to all army camps and has been made available to certain adult civilian audiences in connection with the campaigns for recruits by the C.W.A.C.
On account of the brutal frankness of the films children under 16 will not be admitted. The public is invited and admission, of course, is free.

North Grey Results.

In the North Grey by-election, held on Monday, Defence Minister Mc-Naughton, of the Liberal Government, met defeat, in seeking a seat in the House, when Garfield Case, Progressive Conservative, polled 7,333 votes to his 6,995. A. Earl Godfrey, C.C.F. candidate, lost his $200 deposit, getting only 3,136 votes, which was 533 short of being half of the votes for the candidate elected.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1945.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES.

Behind the present sudden blast of fury in the Federal political arena there have been startling car-to-the-ground reports in Ottawa of politics in wartime. During the past several weeks serious stories have been circulating backstage in this nation's capital, that, in spite of persistent claims that army reinforcements overseas have been adequately filled, yet great rising and falling waves of political oratory have been sweeping across the country ever since reinforcement crisis of last fall. Indeed, at the same time as the grim, furious battles of bullets were being fought on the bitter cold war fronts abroad, tumultuous, undulatory war of words were being continued here at home. It seemed only logical that ballots would have to settle the big persistent disputes in this nation just as bullets would have to decide the much bigger persevering issues in the world.

In this regard, it was said that the trips overseas of no less than three top-ranking authorities were connected possibly with the strenuous efforts of the Government to solve the overseas manpower issue or to counteract any controversial criticisms of manpower policy. These included the appointment of Lt. Gen. Ernest Sison as inspector-general to survey and to co-ordinate such movements of reinforcements overseas, the discussions overseas of Air Marshall Robert Leckie, Chief of Air Staff, and the trip abroad for consultations of Navy Minister Macdonald who has not only acted as Air Minister until recently, but who has had duties to perform at times in the Defense Ministry in helping Defense Minister McNaughton when the latter was ardently engaged in official work as well as political campaigning in Grey North by-election contest. Moreover, it was opined in some circles on Parliament Hill that there was a possible belief that a critical attitude of the government's policy on reinforcements might have been expected from opposing parties, particularly after several top-ranking men of the Progressive-Conservative party, including the leader, Hon. John Bracken, had returned to Canada following the gathering of "on the spot" information abroad.

The fervent tempo of Canada's war exertion at this momentous time can be seen by the man in the street in the disclosure of the increase of severities in Ottawa where the military has been quickened to its highest point possible in this war. This can be perceived in the dreadful overcrowding in the capital at this time and the report that the Shelter Administrator there, James A. Robertson, has been allowed a relatively free hand sort of compulsory billeting in the desperate attempt to find ways and means of solving the capital's excessive accommodation shortage. In fact, stories have been heard that some of the schemes which may possibly be used to relieve the most unusual situation may include shifting annual service personnel elsewhere if these are not absolutely essential in the capital, forbidding new families from moving into the nation's capital, and such other drastic measures. The extent of the changes in the capital of Canada can be seen in the disclosure that in 1929 the population in Ottawa was 145,183 but now it is 162,699 or in the report that in 1929 there were about 15,000 people on the Federal Government's payroll, but now there are over 37,000 on the taxpayers of Canada's payroll.

From time to time rumours gain steam, headway of one or another article said to be about to be rationed and the spreads across the country with alarm, the already bringing the usual word, undesirable results and forcing the officials in Ottawa to issue denials of these false stories. This has been the case which has caused the latest official denial to be given in Ottawa about the unfounded rumour that tea and coffee would be restricted or rationed severely shortly, with the indication that there were no really viable supplies in Canada of both these commodities to take care of all normal needs. Another such rumour has claimed that footware would be rationed in Canada, but in this case too, there has been no known authority in Ottawa for such a story. In short, it has appeared to be nothing but an absolutely unfounded rumour.

With such a comparatively large number of deserter drifters reported, this is a tale of widespread discontent along Parliament Hill where it is said that proper measures are being taken to round up as well as to punish deserters after these have entered into the category legally. A soldier is charged a deserter if he has been absent for more than 21 days in Canada. An indication of the efforts to catch these absentee drifters is the report that CWAC police have taken over some of the tasks from the Canadian Provost Corps for the time being because the latter have been busy looking for the absentee soldiers. Meanwhile, in some circles there is emphasis on the statement by Defence Minister McNaughton, who is said to have declared that he was able to say that there is no need for public anxiety, currently or in the foreseeable future, about the reinforcement situation overseas. In addition, there has been some satisfaction about the reaction outside Canada on the story of these absentee drifters, especially in the United States where, in sharp contrast to opinions expressed during the December conscription crisis, there was a restraint view on this latest development to reinforce the forces overseas by the use of draftees. Indeed, it was generally accepted that Canada had already overseas over 800,000 volunteers and 7,800 draftee deserters were only a relatively small proportion, though there has been no attempt to minimize the importance of such absenteeism from the army at this time.

According to a story heard in Ottawa, it appears that there is a general desire across Canada for an early Dominion-Provincial Conference, with one report stating that pressure has been put forward for such a gathering to be held soon. However, it must be pointed out Premier King has already said that no such conference should take place until after the next general election. Then, again, there has been no official confirmation of another report that several Provincial Premiers had held a meeting lately for the purpose of urging such a gathering, though this report had received nation-wide publicity.

Several members of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities held a meeting in Ottawa lately with Finance Minister Ilsley and the construction Minister Howe, and these mayors made a number of important requests, including a demand that the city and province should be allowed to put up the 10 per cent cost of new rental housing projects under the Housing Act, where the Dominion Government contributes 90 per cent. The Minister of Finance, Hon. J. L. Ilsley, refused to consent to this suggestion and he said that the Federal Government would demand that this 10 per cent of the capital cost must be private would not be wholly public. It was also disclosed at this meeting that municipalities would have priority in the purchase of A. R. P. equipment, such as pumps, rubber coats, hoses, etc., which are now owned by the Federal Government. The Ministers assured the delegates that consideration would be given to the suggestion that the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities should be allowed representation at the next Dominion-Provincial Conference and that the question of the exemption of crown properties from taxation as well as taxation of the Canadian National Railways should also be dealt with at such a gathering.

Lt. Col. W. R. Hodgson, High Commissioner for Australia, has taken up his new duties in Ottawa and has indicated in his first interview that Canada would look more and more to the capital in the post-war period, this being predicted by him when he arrived in the capital. He had been formerly head of the Department of External Affairs in Australia. In view of the forthcoming "Big Three" meeting, that is the meeting of Premier Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin, a release of the National Film Board, a film called "Balkan Powder Keg," has been withdrawn after a showing. This was the report in Ottawa as the real reason why this film was not allowed to be circulated across Canada at this time. Princess Juliana of the Netherlands, has returned to Ottawa for a visit to her three little daughters. She had been in Canada during World War II and lived in an exclusive section of the Canadian capital for four years, with one of her daughters, Princess Margaret, French, having been born in an Ottawa hospital during that time. Last September she had gone back to London.

A distinguished expert in geography, who had a wealth of knowledge in Arctic research and who had served as a geographer in India, Panama, Guatemala, Mexico, Northeast Greenland, Major Walter A. Wood has come to Ottawa to work with the military at land, Northwest Canada and elsewhere, taking office at the United States Embassy.

Ration Notes.

Although ration books three and four became invalid on December 31st, ration cards issued prior to that date are still valid.

With the supply situation on sugar still tight the public and operators of eating places are reminded by the Western Ontario regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board that regulations governing sugar servings in restaurants must be kept. Restaurants may not serve sugar unless the customer asks for it. Servings are limited to not more than three lumps or two teaspoonsful with tea or coffee, no matter the number of cups served with cereal, dessert or any other food. Indication of the efforts to catch these absentee drifters is the report that CWAC police have taken over some of the tasks from the Canadian Provost Corps for the time being because the latter have been busy looking for the absentee soldiers. Meanwhile, in some circles there is emphasis on the statement by Defence Minister McNaughton, who is said to have declared that he was able to say that there is no need for public anxiety, currently or in the foreseeable future, about the reinforcement situation overseas. Winterkeepers requiring sugar for the winter feeding of bees must register with the sugar administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and then forward a statement to the provincial apiculturist showing his name and address, the number of colonies to be fed and the time feeding required, the minimum quantity needed and the number of the registration and the address of the ration board where the registration was made. Any surplus of sugar at the end of the feeding season must be reported to the sugar administrator.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

Hello Homemakers! We've only a soft "spot" on our butter plate after making hearty lunches for our industrious folk. Busy workers need more food for they use a lot of energy and should build resistance to the communicable diseases that are more prevalent at this time. The butter for the extra sandwiches is limited these days. Butter contains fat to supply a lot of energy and Vitamin A which regulates the functions of the delicate membranes, particularly the breathing system. A substitute for this important product should be considered each day. More fatty meats, gravy, fish, salad dressing or mayonnaise, rich milk, supply similar factors, while vitamin A is found in carrots, tomatoes, green cabbage, milk and eggs.

The encouraging part of food substitutes is that there is always something else available and at comparable prices. With everyone doing their part less butter will be required. Meanwhile "stick" to recipes using other fats.

BROWN STEW OF BEEF WITH DUMPLINGS.

1 pound round steak, 1/2 onion, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 cups boiling water.

DUMPLINGS.

2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup milk.

Cut the round steak or stewing beef into 1-inch cubes. Fry out the fat and in this brown the onion, chopped fine. Dredge the meat nicely with the flour, then add it to the fat and onion, and brown the cubes well. Add the hot water and one teaspoon vinegar. Let simmer one hour over electric element turned low. Fifteen minutes before the stew is done, add the dumplings, made as follows:

Sift the flour, salt and baking powder into a bowl. Add the milk using enough to make a soft dough. Drop by spoonfuls over the stew, cover closely and boil rapidly for 15 minutes. Serve on a platter with the dumplings as a border for the meat and garnish with bouquets of parsley.

BREADED STEAKS.

Three veal steaks, 3/4-inch thick, salt and pepper, flour, 1 egg, 3 tablespoons shortening, 1/2 cup liquid, grated lemon rind and chopped parsley.

Wipe meat, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Beat egg and water. Dip meat into crumbs, then into egg mixture, and again into crumbs. Brown in hot shortening. Add liquid (water, broth, tomato juice or sour cream). Cover and cook slowly for about 45 minutes in electric oven. Serve very hot, sprinkle with combined lemon rind and parsley.

CORNMEAL DUTCH APPLE CAKE.

Cornmeal goes grandly with apples—as this delicious dessert will prove.

Serve it hot from the oven; or try something unusual, and serve this hot apple corn-cake with crisp sausages or bacon, as a hearty luncheon or supper dish.

1 1/2 cups pastry flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 3/4 teaspoon salt, 5-13 tablespoons shortening, 1-3 cup brown sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 1 cup cornmeal, peeled apple wedges, brown sugar, ground cinnamon (optional).

Sift the flour once before measuring. Add baking powder and salt, and sift again. To the soft shortening, add sugar; combine thoroughly. Beat and add the egg. Add milk and cornmeal. Mix thoroughly. Let stand, while peeling and cutting in apples.

Add dry ingredients to cornmeal mixture and combine well. Spread in greased 8-inch pan. Cover with the apple wedges, pressing down edges into batter. Sprinkle with brown sugar, then cinnamon. Bake in electric oven 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Cut in squares and serve hot—with cream if as dessert, with crisp sausage if as a main course.

NOTE: If desired, the mixture may be baked in greased muffin pans, for individual Dutch Apple Cakes, and served with Pudding Sauce.

OLD-FASHIONED PUDDING SAUCE.

1/2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup hot water, 1 tablespoon milk-floated fat, 1 egg yolk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

JEFFY DROP DOUGHNUTS.

Delicious enough for the most special guests, these easy-to-make doughnuts are suitable too, for the children—take up so little fat in cooking that they remain so digestible you can include them in the lunch-box of even the youngest!

2 cups commercial pancake mix, 1/4 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup milk, 3/4 teaspoon vanilla, fat for deep-frying, sugar and spice, for coating.

To pancake flour add 1/4 cup sugar. Beat eggs until light, add milk and vanilla; add to dry mixture and combine well. Mix in a little additional milk if required—the batter should be of rather thick "drop" consistency.

Have deep fat at 365 degrees (hot enough to brown a cube of bread in 60 seconds). Drop batter by small spoonfuls into fat. To make shaping easier, dip spoon in fat before using to shape the doughnuts. Fry until golden-brown. Drain on crumpled absorbent paper and coat with a mixture of sifted icing sugar and ground cinnamon. (Keep doughnuts rather small, to give a generous proportion of thin, crisp, golden-brown crust). Twenty to twenty-four small doughnuts.

Legion Operating Troops' Parade in French Capital.

Adding to its already formidable lists of firsts, Canadian Legion Educational Services has now, for the first time in Canada's history, produced a complete course in forestry that can be undertaken with only a grade 7 or 8 education.

The forestry course has been developed by Legion educationalists as part of the rehabilitation program designed to allow men in uniform to train themselves for the occupation they wish to follow when finally discharged.

The new forestry course, like all Legion rehabilitation studies, is distinct from correspondence courses the Legion has been operating since the beginning of the war.

Composed of four textbooks, two elementary and two advanced, the course is given by qualified instructors whenever a sufficient number of students can be gathered together. The instructor is provided and paid by Canadian Legion Educational Services. The course is open to anyone in uniform, and upon successful completion, certificates of achievement are awarded to the qualifying servicemen.

To every district where forestry classes are started go sets of textbooks from the Legion Library along with a set of wood samples for practical use. Every textbook has its own series of tests to be given on the completion of each chapter. All books are illustrated with actual photographs, and in the advanced courses a large number of sketches are provided to illustrate formulas, etc. On completion of the course a list of publications dealing with more advanced aspects of forestry are recommended and are offered free of charge to servicemen on application to the Legion educational library.

For the most part, servicemen need only notify their camp educational officer that they desire to take the course. The educational officer applies to the Legion for an instructor, when he has a sufficiently large number of students, and the course is begun at a spot most convenient for all students who wish to attend.

Should the demand arise, Canadian Legion Educational Services is prepared to adapt the textbooks to be used as a correspondence course and will engage a correspondence instructor.

Should We Have Compulsory Voting?

The question, "Should we make voting compulsory?" put to 14 prominent Canadian by The Financial Post, brought an even division of replies "for" and "against." Seven respondents who are in agreement that "exercise of the franchise should not be left to choice, agree also that failure to vote is among the gravest weaknesses threatening democratic government.

One of the seven opponents of direct compulsion—Vancouver Juvenile Court Judge Helen Gregor MacGill—suggests instead deprivation of franchise for a limited period on each failure to vote. Proposed variously by the other six are alternatives for reform or electoral and parliamentary systems; establishment redesigned to record the voter's first, second, and third choices; establishment of a higher standard of "majority," broader training in citizenship.

Save Sugar Points

COOK ORANGES, orange juice and cooked fruit for 20 minutes, stirring often. Use large kettle, preferably 4-quart size. Add peeling, corn syrup and sugar. Cook about 30 minutes longer, stirring constantly. When mixture is consistency of a thick preserve, pour 1 inch deep into shallow pan. When cold, cut into squares or other desired shapes. If wished, roll in powdered sugar. Recipe makes 2½ pounds.

HONEY EXTENDS SUGAR POINTS In Honey Canded Orange Peel Recipe. Save the peels left after preparing that breakfast glass of orange juice for candied peel in which honey spares sugar points.

Peel from 6 oranges
1 cup sugar
1 cup honey
½ cup water

Boil orange peel with water to cover and 1 teaspoon salt for ½ hour. Drain. Cover again with water and boil until tender. Drain. Cut peel in strips. Bring sugar, honey and ½ cup water to boil. Cook peel in this gently until clear. Cool in syrup several hours. Re-heat. Drain. Spread out on wire rack or waxed paper until syrup is absorbed. If peels are to be kept for some time, wrap in waxed paper. Store in a tightly covered container in a refrigerator or other cold place. If peel is to be used soon after making, cover with granulated sugar by shaking in a paper bag containing 2 to 4 tablespoons granulated sugar. Add red or green vegetable food coloring to syrup to tint peel.

Ample Gas Supply is Early Prospect.

Union Gas Company Plans Purchases From Pipe Line.

The problem of the natural gas supply in this area for both domestic and industrial uses, will have been solved for at least twenty years, assuming that the terms of an agreement, covering that period, between Union Gas Company of Canada, Limited, and the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line, in the United States can be met. The agreement, between the Union Company and the Pipe Line Company is contingent on the two main conditions. The first is that the United States authorities permit the export of the natural gas and the second is that the Union Gas Company and its subsidiaries receive sufficient revenue for the gas which will permit the carrying out of the contract.

These are the most important features of an announcement by T. Weir, General Manager of Union Gas Company, in behalf of that company, as well as Windsor Gas Company and City Gas Company of London.

When the contract becomes operative the company will be importing more than 5,000,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas per year which is more than is presently available from the company's own wells on this side of the border plus the supply of still gas from the Imperial Oil refinery at Sarnia. The combined sources of supply, it was officially stated, will be sufficient to provide for all domestic and industrial demand, now and in the measurable future. This will include more than enough gas to heat the 10,500 homes which, since the war started, had to be converted to other fuels in order to release gas for war plants served by the company and its subsidiaries in Windsor, London, Sarnia, Chatham, Wallaceburg and other towns and rural areas in the counties of Essex, Kent, Lambton and Middlesex.

"What the company is planning to do is to assure a supply of gas at all seasons and under all conditions to domestic, industrial and commercial consumers," said Mr. Weir.

"It will be recalled that in pre-war days, home consumers had the preference and industries were liable to be shut off in severe weather when the entire supply of gas was required for domestic purposes, including heating homes," he continued. "But since the war, industry has had priority to such an extent that over 10,000 homes have had their gas for central heating purposes cut off. With the new source of supply, there will be ample for both under the most severe weather conditions."

The Union Company has been negotiating for this new supply for over a year, since it became evident that in spite of continuous exploration, local sources would be inadequate for peak load requirements after the war. The peak load, it is estimated, will be in the neighborhood of 50,000,000 cubic feet per day, and the maximum supply available under present conditions would be about 30,000,000 cubic feet, with the future uncertain.

Purchases under the new agreement will be delivered to the Union Company through eight months of the year and the gas will be stored in old wells in the Dawn field for delivery to consumers throughout the year as needed. "This is the method of storage used for the still gas from the Sarnia refinery, and also is used in Western Canada and in various parts of the United States."

To carry out the agreement, the Union Company will have to incur capital expenditures of about $3,000,000 and a large annual outlay for the gas to be taken by it under the contract. In the first years a substantial portion of this gas will be used for repressuring the storage wells, and will be left in storage to maintain pressures.

The U. S. Company could not contract to sell gas on a day-to-day delivery basis because of its commitments in the United States. But its pipelines are not fully used from April to November, inclusive, and its sales to the Union Company will be in those months.

The old wells in the Dawn field are ideally suited for storing purposes. But pipe lines will have to be built to tapping about 70 miles in length, including the portion under the Detroit River. Compression plants must also be built in order to pump the gas to Dawn field and into the underground storage.

The Windsor oil-gas plant, which currently is operating regularly in winter, although it is an uneconomical operation, will revert to its former role as a standby protection against unforeseeable interruption of other supply.

Just when this new gas will begin to supplement existing sources depends on the time required to procure the necessary authority to import the new gas from the United States, and the fixing of a price to be paid by consumers which will enable the Union Company to carry out the contract. There are, of course, current shortages of labour and material, but it may be that these will be solved by the time actual construction starts.

As the price to be paid for the new gas must be fixed under proper authority the company cannot make any announcement at this time as to the price. But it is pointed out that the purchase price to be paid the Pipe Line Company, plus the carrying charges on the new capital expenditures, will be low enough to keep the price of natural gas on a favourable level.

Dried Dates Under Ceiling.

The distributor of dried dates recently imported into Canada from Iraq has been started and all merchants will be entitled to supplies in proportion to those purchased in 1941. The fruit may not be immediately available in all parts of Canada but will be distributed as speedily as possible. According to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board the consignment which is the first large shipment to come from Iraq since 1941 represents approximately 60 per cent of Canada's normal imports. Prices have been established at all levels of sale.

Clean Seed Best Crop Insurance.

If there is any one thing more important than another to a farmer, it is clean seed. In a surprisingly short time it will be seeding time again, and the wise farmer will have the seed he is going to plant cleaned and tested for germination before spring comes.

Although large, well-equipped seed cleaning machinery is available to farmers at many places throughout Canada, it may not be conveniently near to some farmers whose only alternative is to clean their own seed. The farm-sized fanning mill, however, can do a good job, if carefully operated. The labor of cleaning and handling seed on the farm may be considerably reduced where the facilities permit the elevation of the seed from the cleaner to an overhead bin. From this bin the seed may be spouted back to the fanning mill for a second cleaning.

It is necessary to run seed through a farm fanning mill at least twice and sometimes three times to make a good job. If seed is to be cleaned a third time, it may be elevated to a second overhead bin which is within spouting distance of the fanning mill on the floor below. The grain should always pass thinly over the screens, otherwise proper separation of the small seed and weed seeds cannot be properly separated.

The top or scalping sieve of a seed cleaning machine should be barely large enough to let the grain through. The size of grading screens should be determined by the size and shape of the seed being cleaned. The use of clean, well graded seed is one of the best forms of crop insurance. Clean seed means more production and more profits. To have seed ready for spring planting, clean it now.

Is Sheep Shearing Equipment Ready?

With spring not very far away comes sheep shearing time. In view of the metal shortage and the machinery situation still tight there should be no delay in placing orders for new sheep shearing machinery, and even for hand shears, if required. Farmers who raise sheep should check over their sheep shearing equipment and arrange for necessary repairs. If orders for new machines or parts are left until just before shearing time, it is probable they will not be filled.

Only a limited number of machines are available and orders will be filled in the order they are received. One machine will serve several flocks and a number of sheep owners in a district could club together to buy it and arrange for its co-operatively. It is also a good thing to sharpen combs and cutters now and to order a few new sets.

Farmers who rely on a local shearer to shear their sheep should lose no time in booking him for the job, if he is still available. All the wool that can be made available is required.

In comparison with other fuels: "Domestic, industrial and commercial consumers in the area served by these companies have an investment of many millions of dollars in gas appliances," Mr. Weir pointed out. "It is probable that a large number of the industrial and house-heating appliances would have to be scrapped if we were unable to assure a regular and reliable fuel. Assuming that the agreement with the Pipe Line Company can be carried out, this investment will be saved to the mutual advantage of the consumers and the company."

Mr. Weir said that it would be the company's policy to continue to develop whatever additional gas supplies are to be found in its own territory, and to utilize those supplies for the benefit of all concerned. "This year," he said, "we have drilled 42 wells, of which 19 are presently producing. However, even with the assistance of the best scientific advice available, out of 338 wells drilled since 1934, only 153 were producers, and of these only 87 are still producing, including the 19 new producers this year."

Full details of the proposal are now being prepared. It is stated for publication to the municipalities concerned.

Soviet Policy Toward Poland From July 1941 to Present.

By Willson Woodside.

It is not fashionable to criticize Soviet Russia these days, for the double reason that her heroic and sacrificial stand against Germany enables us to dish the war years earlier than would otherwise have been possible, and that she is called the great "progressive" power.

To defend the rights of an earlier and smaller ally, Poland, against Soviet claims automatically calls down on one the abuse of the pro-Soviet world propaganda machine as a "Hitlerite" and "fomentor of World War III."

What is the justification of this claim that Soviet Russia is "progressive" and "democratic" whilst Poland is "reactionary"? Before the war Poland permitted numerous political parties, and the leaders of the opposition were still alive to take over the reins when the Beck Government fell. Throughout the war numerous parties have been active, both in the Polish Government-in-exile, and in the underground parliament, which has been maintained in Poland.

Poland was not a perfect democracy before the war. How many of these are there in the world?

How reasonable it is to expect that Poland, resurrected from a century and a half of partition, and trying to weld together a nation from three parts raised in different environments, while sandwiched between two giant and unfriendly neighbours both in explosive revolution could set up at once a pure democracy?

Nevertheless, there were opposition parties and papers in Poland. Soviet Russia has only one party and one press, and one place for anyone who disagrees.

Another propaganda claim is that Poland brutally repressed her peasantry. It is true, the peasants of Eastern Poland did not have an easy or a happy time. They never had. They had been left in a state of overwhelming poverty, neglect and ignorance throughout 150 years of Russian rule, and the young Polish State did not succeed in lifting them out of this during its 20 years of existence.

Were they not, just the same, relatively free compared to the millions of peasants which Soviet Russia "liquidated" or sent to prison camps? The fact needs to be told that, before the war, 8.15 per cent of the land in Poland was in small farms up to 125 acres. 15 per cent was in larger holdings, those having already been reduced by one-third by land reform measures carried out since 1919.

Mikolajczyk is a small peasant holder, owning a few acres. Stalin dominates the entire property, as well as the lives and freedom, of a nation.

It has become the fashion of the Soviet press during the past year (we will note later the significance of the date) to denounce the present leaders of the Polish nation as "fascists" and "accomplices of Hitler." But these leaders, and indeed their less-admired predecessors of 1939, resisted Hitler and carried out an uncompromising war against him, while the Soviet Government dealt with him and sent supplies to his war machine.

No Polish quisling has even been found; nor have the Poles maintained any "League of German Officers" leaving open the door to negotiation with this enemy. Even after five years of frightful repression, and after the uprising in Warsaw, carried out under the leadership of their government in London, the Poles maintain total resistance to Hitler and Germany.

Soviet Conciliatory in 1941
The Soviets did not always take their present attitude towards the Poles. In the hour of their greatest need, in July 1941, they were glad to renew relations with them, annul the Molotov-Ribbentrop Partition Agreement, free all deportees from prison camp, and allow the Poles to recruit an army from among these and the 190,000 prisoners which the Red Army had taken in Eastern Poland in 1939.

When General Sikorski was in Moscow, in the first week of December 1941, while the Germans were pounding almost at the suburbs, he negotiated an agreement with the Kremlin for a Polish army of 86,000 men, to be under Soviet operational control. No sooner had he left, however, when the tide of battle turned. Japan launched her war against Britain and the United States in the Pacific, freeing the Soviet eastern flank, the Germans halted their attack on Moscow, and withdrew under Red Army pressure to their original positions.

Shortly after the Soviets received the rationals available to the Polish Army to 44,000 men; and they never provided the Poles with more than skeleton training armament. It was apparent that they had changed their mind about having a strong Polish force organized on Russian soil. So the Polish government arranged with the British to move out the mob for whom no rations were available, to the Middle East. This movement began in the spring of 1942; the remainder of the Polish Army was transferred later on Soviet request. The three British regional Polish forces which accompanied the Red Army into Poland this year were formed under the Soviets, by conscription from the million Polish citizens still left in Russia.

Polish citizens, no, they were no longer Polish citizens. During 1942 the Soviets had gradually closed down the relief work which Polish representatives were carrying on among their people in Russia. Then they declared that all of these deportees were to be sent to the Soviet Union, and that all of these deportees were to be sent to the Soviet Union, and that all of these deportees were to be sent to the Soviet Union.

try to finish off Germany by yourself, if you can. Churchill made his Curzon Line speech on February 22nd. Why is it that, with Britain's support for her demands, and her own Polish Committee set up in Lublin functioning as a provisional government, the Soviets have nevertheless persisted all this year in negotiations with the Polish Government in London? It is because in spite of their methods they want a "legal" settlement of the boundary question, and the broader base of public support inside Poland which would be assured by the adhesion as a minimum of Mikolajczyk's Peasant Party to the Lublin "Government."

The Soviets appreciate keenly the value of having the signature on the legitimate Polish authority on the boundary settlement, as a check to Polish unrest in the future and to wash this deal down with the British and American peoples.

Mikolajczyk's Last try.
It was fairly obvious to bring the Polish Government to terms that the Soviet's refused for six weeks last summer to drop supplies to the former's supporters in the Warsaw uprising, or October. He sought to retain at least the ancient Polish cities of Vilna and Lwow, as the best that could be hoped for; and it seems that his government would have conceded a good half of the Soviet demands, and signed a quarter of their territory away.

But the Soviets demanded the full pound of flesh, everything, Vilna, Lwow, and the Polish oil district of Drohobycz. They callously offered the Poles Stettin and Breslau (are they not as big and valuable cities as Vilna and Lwow?) — except that they don't happen to be Polish), and a wide tract of Eastern Germany.

On this offer the Polish Cabinet divided. The majority argued that they had no mandate from the people to make such cession of Polish territory, and accept such dangerous compensation, perpetually subject to a German campaign of revenge. Further, they felt that without a formal guarantee of real independence within their new frontiers, a guarantee in which the United States would not join, they might be signing away half their country for nothing.

Why Churchill Spoke.
That brings us up to Mr. Churchill's latest speech, a fortnight ago, reiterating his support for the Russian claims. A year after Teheran, we still face a redoubtable task in defeating Germany. Stalin's armies have been halted on the major eastern front for five months while a politico-military campaign, which has undoubtedly weakened Germany but has also brought Eastern and much of Central Europe under Soviet occupation, has been pursued. It is not a far-fetched deduction that Stalin is demanding a final settlement of his Polish boundary claims before he strikes out again on the main road to Berlin.

From his long-held views on the essential enmity of the Western "capitalist" world towards Soviet Russia, this may seem sound procedure. I suppose he could easily convince himself that our cordial public pronouncements and the supplies we have poured in to him since 1941 represents a purely selfish policy by which we put arms into the hands of Russian soldiers to save the lives of our own. Yet he surely underestimates the friendly intentions of "stetling byzonges be byzonges" which went with the arms and the speeches, and the need for reciprocal acts of friendship if there is to be any true co-operation between our countries for peace. — From The Saturday Night, December 30th, 1944.

God's Plan.

It is generally agreed that God, the all-wise Father, has a definite plan for His children, and if one but knew and understood that plan he could follow it successfully.

If such a one will turn to his Bible and study it intelligently, he will find many helpful passages that will guide him in seeking to know God's plan and purpose. In the Bible we read (Proverbs 3:5-6) "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge Him and He shall direct thy path."

In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mary Baker Eddy writes (p. 254), "When we wait patiently on God and seek Truth righteously, He directs our path." Patience may be defined as the persistent expectancy of good. When as one daily and hourly looks expectantly and persistently to God for guidance, each human footstep necessary for one's progress and well-being will be pointed out.

God has an important and useful activity for each of His children, and one need feel that he is too humble or too unimportant to come within the scope of this plan; nor need he feel neglected or discouraged in his work. Man's chief business is to reflect or express God in all of his activities; and as he does so, he will find that he is indeed about his Father's business.

When one's progress seems slow or stagnated, he should remember that there may be certain adjustments going on, some unfoldment in consciousness, not immediately perceptible. Just as when the gardener places flower bulbs in the ground in the fall, and nothing more is seen of them until the next spring, when the green leaves and beautiful blooms appear, so it may be when one does not seem to be making progress. Though the period of waiting appear long and irksome, he who continues to affirm and to trust God's eternal law of progress, and to do his best under all circumstances, will presently see the fruition of God's divine plan and purpose for him — Christian Science Monitor.

A Zombie's Prayer.

We thank Thee Lord, for Mackenzie King.

Who keeps his promise not to bring Such dire trials and tribulations As making us fight for allied nations, Who looks Canadians in the eye And says "My Zombies shall not die." We also thank Thee, O Lord, That he provides us with our board, He gives us lodgings, clothes and guns But keeps us clear of nasty Huns, And when our country fights the Japs And men are needed to fill the gaps We pray, dear Lord, he'll spare us boys And send those awful active guys From active service us preserve.

We really haven't got the nerve Content are we to serve him well Who keeps him from the front line hell Grant this, O Lord, and we will be Always grateful unto thee.

Potato Surplus Much Higher Than Last Year.

The value of the 1944 potato crop in Ontario is estimated at $15,082,000, according to the statistics Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. This figure is based on a crop yielding 8,508,000 cwt. from 120,000 acres, total yield which is more than one and one-half million bushels more than the 1943 crop produced from 116,000 acres.

This increased yield was obtained by favourable weather conditions late in the growing season in many potato producing areas, together with special-ized attention to the crop by commercial growers, says R. E. Goodin, potato fieldman for the Department.

According to the latest report of the marketing service of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, potato storage holdings in Ontario amount to 64,584 tons as compared with 19,081 tons at the same date last year. The estimated storage stocks for the province of Quebec and the Maritimes amount to 53,341 tons more than last year.

The estimated potato production of the 1941 crop in Canada is by more than six and one-half million bushels above 1943.

Although active export demand exists to the United States due to a short crop in some areas, Ontario potato growers with supplies on hand might well consider that liberal quantities of potatoes are in storage according to the available figures as quoted above, says Mr. Goodin. Mostly due to transportation difficulties, potato prices have now reached the ceiling on most markets, and no further advance can be expected at present. Under these circumstances, and in the interests of orderly marketing, growers would be well advised to keep available supplies rolling to market if at all possible.

Letter from Holland.

The following letter was received by Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Cunningham, from their son, Pte. L. Cunningham, of the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, dated Holland, January 6th:

Hello Mother and Dad:
Last night I received another parcel from you, full of tinned foods and we had quite a little feast here. I want to thank you again. I told you in my last letter I had received over a dozen parcels. I am almost sure I have received every one that was sent to me for Christmas. Just a few days ago I received the parcel sent to me by the Bethel Church. I have written a letter of thanks and, just in case my letter didn't get through, please thank them for me.

Everything is o. k. here. It is nice out today but still a bit cold. We have plenty of winter clothing so we can put up with the cold. I just finished a letter to Eva.

I just had my hand dressed again this morning. I never told you about the incident. About a month ago I was caught in the open in a small "Dutch" town versus German shells. It was a bit of a hot spot for a few minutes. I had just picked up a little Dutch girl of six years and she was killed in my arms. I never had anything shake me so much. I didn't have time to get under cover with her. She was the same age and size as Mary, and a very pretty child. She died almost instantly. I took her to a nursing Sister, but it was too late. I received a small wound again in my left hand, but it was not serious, although I had to have it looked after to prevent infection. It is o. k. now and practically healed. I never thought I could hate people like I hate the Germans. They are not exactly cowards but they are definitely brutal. We shall never have peace in this old world until the German race is completely wiped out. I have heard of American soldiers who wept with rage. I can readily understand why.

When I was in England the Yankee soldier was not well liked there. They seem to have a bit line, but here in Europe, in the front line, all soldiers have a definite respect for the Yankee soldier. They are good fighters and have plenty of guts. We would be in a bad way without them. In Africa I believe the American soldiers were not trained enough. That's the reason for their poor showing at the start. The German soldier is no superman, but he is trained and many are veterans.

The Americans, at first, were untold and had not the years of training the Germans had. But now it is different. I don't know what the American soldier did in the last war, but in this war they are soldiers and are doing their full share and more in winning the war.

I think even the English people will learn to respect the Yankee with all the respect they deserve. Must close now, but will write again soon. Please don't worry. I am o. k. and in good health. All of the best to everyone, and you and dad.

With love,

GEORGE.

The guests enjoyed buncos, with honours going to Miss Ethel Morand, of Roseland; Miss Isabella O'Brien, nurse-in-training at Hotel Dieu, Windsor, and Miss Winnifred Collins. The hostess helped the young bride open her many lovely gifts and then, assisted by her sisters, Misses Shirley and Mary, served a delicious lunch.

The many friends of Mrs. Robert Greenway are pleased to know her condition is some better and she was able to be removed from Hotel Dieu to the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. J. McNiss, in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert McAuliffe, of Windsor, spent the week-end with the Florent Eyrand family.

John Sexton, born in Maidstone, on April 30th, 1877, oldest son of the late Michael Sexton and Catherine Barrett, died after a six year's illness, at Greenlawn Sanatorium, Northville, Mich., early Sunday morning. He had lived in Detroit for the past 15 years, at 2151 Alter avenue, being employed with the Hudson Motor Car Company. Mr. Sexton was for many years assessor of the Township of Sandwich South before going to Detroit. Surviving are three brothers, James, of Windsor; Frank, of Maidstone Cross, and Harold, of Detroit. A brother, Rick, predeceased him. The funeral was held from the Marcotte Funeral Home, in Windsor, on Tuesday morning, to the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 9.30, with burial taking place in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery. The pallbearers were James Jr., John and George Sexton, Edward Bellocour, Jas. Kenny and Charles O'Brien.

Cpl. Joseph John, of Chatham, spent Sunday with his parents. Albert Collins, of the U. S. Army Air Corps, is on furlough from a Texas camp, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Collins.

Thomas McCloskey and son Frank, and Mr. and Mrs. George Dawson attended the wake and funeral, on Tuesday, in Berkeley, Mich., of Mr. McCloskey's nephew, Pilot Officer John H. McHugh, of the U. S. Army Air Corps, who was a bomber pilot and instructor.

HYDRO GOOD LIGHTING IS INEXPENSIVE!

THE COMFORT AND CONVENIENCE OF YOUR HOME CAN BE IMPROVED EASILY AND ECONOMICALLY WITH BETTER HYDRO LIGHTING.

General Hints for Better Lighting

- Kitchen Fixture — Use not less than a 150-watt bulb.
- All Stairways and Basements — Use standard 60 watt bulbs. (Poor reflecting surfaces in these areas cut down useful light and contribute to household accidents).
- An adequate porch light spells welcome to those who visit your home after dark. A few cents a month is inexpensive hospitality.

100-WATT BULB — OVER 12 HOURS FOR 1c

—The February Auxiliary meeting was held at the home of Mrs. C. W. D. Cosens, with 24 members present. Miss E. Ransom and Miss F. Higgins had charge of the worship service. Miss Ransom presided over the first part of the meeting, which opened with quiet music by Miss Quigley. The members sang the hymn "Faith of Our Fathers." In reviewing the work of the church in Thailand and French Indochina, Miss Higgins introduced Misses Quigley and Mennill, and Mrs. Earl Reeb, who took the parts of Mrs. Smith, a missionary in Indo-China; Mr. Seng-Sah, a Thailand Christian, and Miss Edith Porter, a missionary to Thailand, respectively. Mrs. Cosens repeated the prayer of a Thai woman. This was followed by the singing of the hymn "O Master of the Waking World." A report of the afternoon session of the Presbyterial meeting, at Chatham, was given by Mrs. Beaman. Mrs. Anderson, temperance secretary, read the answers to several temperance questions. The hostesses, Miss Calder and Mrs. Loucks, served lunch.

GLADIOLUS THRIPS.

Experimental evidence has shown that insect enemy No. 1 of the gladiolus, the gladiolus thrips, is unable to hibernate out of doors in Canada. Only the thrips carried into storage on the corns survive. This fact accentuates the importance of treating all gladiolus corns by one of the several approved methods before the corns are set out in the garden in the spring.

Ralph Pastorius Home.

Ralph Pastorius, of the R.C.A.F., son of Gore Pastorius, of North Gosfield, formerly of Essex, who has been overseas over three years, arrived in Essex on Wednesday and after spending a few hours with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bondy, was driven to his father's home.

Institute Celebrates Its 40th Birthday.

At the home of Mrs. Ambrose Shipway, 11er avenue, the Essex W. I. celebrated its 40th birthday, on Monday evening, about forty members and friends being present. A short business meeting was held, with the president, Mrs. Edda Tweedale, presiding. A number of older citizens were also present to help celebrate.

A paper was given by Mrs. Aaron Hill, on the beginning of Women's Institutes in Ontario, at Stony Creek, Wentworth County, just 48 years ago. Their aim was to better the living conditions of the rural women by educating them to more efficient homemaking and higher standards of citizenship. We know that home efficiency covers a broad area, even into national and international fields.

Since the rural women are the foundation of a nation's greatness and no nation can rise higher than the level of its homes, we must work together for the raising of our homes to the highest possible level. With this in mind, our motto is "For Home and Country."

During the last 48 years the Women's Institutes have been organized into nearly every country in the world and the late Premier Stanley Baldwin, of England, said: "The greatest contribution Canada has given to the British Empire is the Women's Institutes, and this is Ontario's gift to the world. The Essex branch is the oldest branch in the county."

A group photograph taken about 37 years ago proved very interesting. The roll call was answered by an exchange of valentines.

The evening was spent in 15 rounds of Bingo. Then a sumptuous lunch was served by the committee in charge—Mrs. Edda Tweedale, Mrs. A. Shipway, Mrs. N. McEntee, Mrs. Percy Lee, Mrs. W. Johnston and Mrs. John Wass.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with strings of valentines and the huge birthday cake, with forty candles, in blue and gold, our Institute colours, centred the dining-room table. The candles were lit by Mrs. L. W. Allison, who was the second president of the Women's Institute, and Mrs. Aaron Hill, the present District President for South Essex, and they were blown out by Mrs. Hugh McDonald and Mrs. Walter Helkie.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Bessie Detwiler. Short speeches were given by some of the older members. Maidstone Maple Leaf branches side this week; if not, come along and see us. All parents of Sunday School children are especially urged to be present at the evening meeting, when attendance awards will be presented to those meriting them. Also on this occasion a new flag will be presented to the Young People's Corps by Don Wilson, and one of the young people will be sworn in as a Senior Soldier. Did you ever wonder why the Salvation Army has a flag? Or what the flag represents? Answers to these and other questions will be given by the Young People next Sunday night. We would like to have you at our meetings at any time. Special Announcements at 7:30 p.m., the inaugural meeting of a Youth Group at the Salvation Army. All young people from thirteen years up are welcome. Officers will be appointed, plans discussed, besides a period of games and refreshments.

The next meeting will be held on March 20th, at the home of Mrs. Wm. Andrew, Victoria street.

For the year ending April 1945, the Women's Institutes have pledged themselves to give to the Central War Charities Fund, the following: Seeds for Britain, $30.00. These have already been sent; Service League for British ships, $6; Queen's Canadian Fund, $5; Prisoners of War parcels, $5; Save the Children Fund, $6; Navy League of Canada, Ontario division, $5.

High School Notes.

The Essex girls' basketball team started the month of February off right by defeating the Amherstburg girls on their own floor. High scorers for Essex were Ellen Rogers, with 12 points, and June Andrew, with 9 points. The score was 23 to 13.

In the boys' game it was an entirely different story. Amherstburg started fast and were never stopped, or even hindered. The final score was 56 to 16 in favour of Amherstburg.

"Killer" Kane, fleet-footed Essex forward, played a fine game for Essex, in spite of the fact that he scored only 4 points.

Although hopelessly outclassed in their first encounter with Amherstburg, the Essex boys are determined to have their revenge when they play the return game.

This Friday night the Kingsville teams are coming to Essex. The first game starts at 7:30.

Hockey Notes.

On Monday evening last, at the Windsor Arena, the Cottam Aces were victorious over Roseland, by a score of 5 to 3.

It was one of the best games of the season, and both sides did their utmost to keep in the lead. Both teams were evenly matched, with Roseland outweighing the Aces. There were many outstanding plays made on both sides, Cottam never weakened for a minute, while Roseland lagged behind a little near the end of the game. "Weary" Gordon, star center for the Aces, got the first goal, with an assist by P.O. Mac Wigle. Shortly after Weary drove in another to make the score 2 to 0.

George Gilbert, star of the Roseland team, who plays for Detroit Vickers, shot one for Roseland and shortly after Left Winger Joe Steinbauer tied the score. There was no scoring in the next 20 minute period, but finally Mac Wigle got a break-away and scored, with an assist by Ivan Barnett, a newcomer, scored by himself, making the score 4 to 2.

J. Steinbauer got a 2-minute penalty for slashing. With the Aces outplaying the Roseland team, Mac Wigle scored again with three minutes to go.

Outstanding players for the Aces were Gordon and Mac Wigle, while Defenceman H. Ferguson played smart hockey. B. O'Brien and George Gilbert starred for Roseland, while Defencemen M. Jessop and K. Jessop, a very husky pair, were hard to get by. Earl Mower stopped at least 15 shots and again was in perfect shape as top goalie.

Coach Marty Young feels he has a great team and hopes that they successfully stay in first place. He has much confidence and sureness amongst his team-work players.

On Tuesday night, February 6th, Cottam challenges Essex to a game, in Leamington, and on Thursday, February 8th, the Aces play an exhibition game against the well-known Jumbo Cones, of Windsor. Come out and support your favourite team.

The line-ups:

ROOM FOR ONE MORE.

By David Lister Routledge.

Postwar readjustment, the reconstruction of industry, and the reabsorption of fighting men into productive industry pose problems of which we are all well aware. They impress themselves on us in a thousand different ways, and not least through the anxious thinking of the boys overseas. Will there be jobs for them on their return is a question that both we and they want answered.

Of course both they and we know of the government regulations requiring the reinstatement of employees who are on war service. But there are many thousands to whom these regulations do not apply — boys who went directly from school into uniform. Where they do apply, their administration will be full of difficulty.

While we realize that failure to properly assimilate the returning men would be disastrous for all of us, we still tend to consider these problems as distant and largely impersonal. We shrug off our own responsibility with rather hazy references to necessary government deficit spending to meet the situation, or with the confident conviction that big industry will be able to absorb this extra labor.

But it isn't quite so simple as that, and the government has to make jobs, we will have to pay for needless work in increased taxation, while a moment's reflection will convince us that the railroads and the heavy industries are hardly absorbing today.

Dismissing as that might appear it is only so on the surface. From industries are few in Canada. From one coast to the other there are only 304 firms employing more than 500 persons; there are only 1,700 employing more than 100. There are 29,000 plants employing less than fifty persons. There are approximately 100,000 retail establishments employing less than ten persons, and perhaps a total of 500,000 employers having one or maybe two employees. These are not businesses that are working to the limit. They are the businesses struggling along with insufficient help; they are the real reservoir of employment.

Recently we had a small firm that had set aside $2,000 out of profits on which it had paid taxes to provide for a year's employment of one returning man. This firm had recognized the fact that there were adjustments the man might have to make. Perhaps he would be one of those who had only potential gifts to offer, and yet, because of the war years behind him and possibly increased responsibilities, he might not be able to accept a salary that might have been ample a few years ago. The $2,000 would provide for that and assure an adequate income while he was adjusting himself to earn it. That looks like good economics and good insurance.

The economic problem of the returning veteran would be no problem at all if this reservoir of small employers could be tapped of its employment resources. There are a quarter of a million young farmers overseas or employed in wartime occupations, their work now being carried by weary and aging shoulders. They must return, or their places be filled by a needy world.

Perhaps the little employer, struggling to do two men's work, can best help himself, best help the great work of peace, by finding a place for another man, or maybe two. Then our problem would be solved. Might we not ask how small must a business be before it can make room for another man who has risked his life that little and big business might continue to carry on?

Control of Nicotine Compounds.

Nicotine products essential for the control of certain insects attacking fruit trees may be sold by importers without the written permission of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. The step has been made necessary by the serious reduction in supplies of compounds produced principally outside of Canada. The control of their sale is designed to make certain that the available supply is used to the best advantage. The regulations include nicotine sulphate, nicotine compounds and pest control products containing nicotine.

New Pension Procedure Gives Unlimited Scope.

New regulations have recently been adopted by the American authorities governing the importation of live stock from Canada, effective February 1st, 1945.

The only substantial change from the present regulations is in respect to the certification of freedom from tuberculosis in the case of cattle originating other than in accredited herds, or accredited areas and other than strictly range cattle.

Cattle exported from areas in Canada, which are in the process of accreditation, must have proved negative to the tuberculin test within thirty days prior to shipment and the herd or herds in which they originated must have proved negative to the test within the previous twelve months.

In the case of all other cattle the certificate must show a negative test for the animals exported, including the entire herd in which they originated, within the preceding thirty days.

Feeding Test with Proteins for Pigs.

An interesting experiment has been carried out by the Animal Husbandry Division, Dominion Experimental Farms Service, concerning the use of protein supplements of animal and vegetable origin. Groups of pigs were fed rations equal in protein level but varying in the proportion of animal and vegetable protein. In the one group, two-thirds of animal origin (tankage and fishmeal). In the other groups, animal protein made up one-half, one-third, and one-fifth of the supplement. In each case, linseed oil meal was the vegetable protein making up the remainder of the protein in the supplement.

The results of this test indicated practically no difference between lots in either rate of gain, feed required per unit live weight gain, or feed required per unit carcass gain. A study of the carcasses revealed that there was no significant difference between lots in carcass quality. The results of this experiment indicate that the animal proteins, such as tankage and fishmeal, in a protein-mineral supplement for hog feeding can be reduced to one-fifth of the supplement and the remainder made up from a vegetable source such as linseed oil meal, without either lowering the feeding value of the supplement or influencing the quality of the carcasses produced.

How to Save More Pigs Per Litter.

The reduction of losses in newly farrowed and suckling pigs is the first essential to profitable production. Every extra pig saved will help to increase the production of bacon and every pig saved and raised to 200-215 pounds means an additional 120 pounds of bacon for Britain, says H. E. Wilson, Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, Alta.

In an average litter of 10 pigs there is a potential supply of approximately 1,200 pounds of bacon for export. It has the form of Wiltshire sides. It has been estimated that out of every 10 pigs farrowed, 4 die before reaching market weight and most of these before weaning age, reducing by almost one-half the amount of bacon that could be exported to Britain. That is a loss which neither farmers nor the Nation want at a time when food is so important.

One of the first steps in the saving of more pigs per litter is to provide suitable accommodation for sows farrowing during the winter and early spring months. As cold farrowing pens will result in the chilling of the newly farrowed pigs and cause many deaths, artificial heating in the form of a brooder house, a heated pigsty, or electric pig brooders, should be provided.

A percentage of the mortality is also probably due to a lack of sanitation in the farrowing pen. If a farrowing pen is followed by a strong lye solution (1 pound of lye to 30 gallons of lukewarm water), not only will the eggs of every species of worm be destroyed but also all forms of disease-producing bacteria.

Another worthwhile practice which is followed at the Dominion Experimental Station at Lacombe, is to place the sow in the farrowing pen about a week before she may become accustomed to the sights and smells of her new surroundings. A small amount of bedding, preferably cut straw, should be left in the pen. The heavier and better the straw the less the amount of bedding. A guard-rail which may comprise a 2-inch by 4-inch piece or a small pole placed and six inches away from the side walls saves many pigs from being crushed by heavy sows.

Fix the Teeth.

The attendant should be on hand while the sow is farrowing. If the sow is irritable or clumsy the pigs should be removed from the pen as soon as she has finished farrowing and placed in a box covered with a blanket to ensure warmth. If the building is cold some warm bricks and a couple of blankets will prevent the pigs becoming chilled. As soon as the sow has finished farrowing the whole litter should be placed with her and care given to see that all the pigs receive milk.

Pigs are born with long, sharp "needle" teeth which are also called "black" teeth. As these temporary, tuskl-like teeth are likely to injure the sow's teats when nursing, or other pigs when suckling with each other, it is advisable to remove these sharp teeth right after birth. This is best done by cutting them off close to the gums with sharp side-cutting pliers. Never pull or break off these teeth as the gums or jaws may be injured.

With early farrowed litters, anaemia is a common cause of deaths of pigs between the ages of one and four weeks. This is caused by a deficiency of iron in the sow's milk. Feeding the little pigs reduced iron when they are 72 hours old and once a week afterwards until they are eating solid food out of the trough will prevent the reduced iron in each little pig as much as reduced iron as will lay on a small five cent piece. A liberal supply of clean grass sods placed in the trough is another though less direct method for the prevention of anaemia.

Ration Coupon Due Dates.

Ration coupons now valid are butter, 90 to 95, sugar 46 to 51, preserves 33 to 38.

Over butter coupon is good for the purchase of 3 ounces, and 3 coupons become valid each month.

Next coupons becoming valid are butter, 96; preserves, 39 to 40, and sugar 52 and 53.

Why Insect Moults.

Insects do not increase in size in the adult or winged stage. This means that a small fly or other adult insect never develops into a larger one. Growth takes place entirely in the immature stages, during which most of the feeding is done. In the growth of an insect, the body but not the skin of the immature insect enlarges, with the result that the dermal covering (integument) becomes tighter and tighter. This finally splits, and the developing insect crawls out covered by a new and more voluminous skin. This is known as a moult. Most insects moult about three to five times during their period of growth. Following the last moult, the adult appears full-grown, equipped with legs, wings, and other appendages.

Order Fertilizers—Take Delivery Now.

Unless farmers place their orders for fertilizers at once and take immediate delivery, there is grave danger that they may not be able to get any later on, says the Fertilizer Administrator.

While it is considered that the available supply of fertilizers is sufficient to meet all requirements the difficulty, however, is in connection with delivery. There has been a tendency on the part of farmers in Eastern Canada particularly, to delay in ordering the fertilizer they need for spring and in taking immediate delivery. The situation due to wartime conditions, is that there are not enough fertilizers to meet all the abnormal demands for them. Then the labour shortage is now more critical than ever before. Many plants during the winter are carried on principally by men from farms. Should there be an early spring many of these farmers will be returning to their farms and the problem of shipping fertilizers will be much more difficult.

Fertilizers are very important to increased production of food products, still urgently needed in the war effort. Avoiding delay in placing orders and taking immediate delivery of fertilizers will help substantially to relieve the present situation. All fertilizer plants have a large supply of mixed fertilizers in stock available for distribution now, says the administrator.

New Regulations Affect Live Stock.

A new pension procedure, designed to assist veterans of the present war, or their dependents, in proving claims to pension, was announced in Ottawa this week by R. Hale, Canadian Legion chief pensions officer, following several months of negotiation between the Canadian Pension Commission, the Department of Veterans Affairs and the Legion.

The new procedure, Mr. Hale said, abolishing as it does any time limit on action to be taken following the Pension Commission's first decision, affords almost unlimited opportunity for claims having merit to receive the full consideration of the commission.

Where formerly the veteran who was dissatisfied with the ruling of the commission in his particular case had to make application for a second hearing, accompanied by additional evidence, within ninety days, he may now secure further consideration at any time upon producing additional evidence. The more complete the evidence is, Mr. Hale pointed out, the better are the chances for a favourable decision.

Legion adjustment officers are prepared to assist all veterans in proper presentation of their cases to the commission. Mr. Hale explained. The applicant must first sign an authorization form which gives the Legion official authority to examine all military documents in connection with the case.

A copy of the first hearing decision of the commission must be attached and a statement of a veteran who is the decision of the commission to be incorrect. When the case is complete, Legion officers discuss the case with the commission and make proper submission to secure new consideration for the applicant.

In instructions to all Legion branches on the new procedure, Mr. Hale added: "Always remember that we have learned from our vast experience, regarding claims arising out of the first great war, that often the diagnosis of a veteran's condition may not be fully correct. Obscure and insidious disease in young persons are difficult to recognize, and the tragedy of the last war was that thousands of such cases were discharged on demobilization as being physically fit."

"Therefore, the greatest possible care should be taken in submitting any claim for disability pension to ensure that the true nature and fully described condition is known and fully described. In Canada, full advantage should be taken of the right to free treatment, within one year of discharge, under the Department of Veterans Affairs. Subsequent medical examination may reveal previously hidden disease."

MOSQUITO PACKS SIX POUND STING.

Something new and added to the already existing mosquito air-craft being used in Canada, Britain, and Australia, is a mosquito pack. It is an affectionately called, "the best thing since the war." It is a speedy, bomber-fighter, and a mosquito pack. It is a mosquito pack which spells Mark VIII model packs a new weapon in the air. It is a mosquito pack which spells death to U-Boats and enemy shipping. It is a mosquito pack which spells six pound holding one of the shells.

Night Feeders.

Few people realize that some of the more common and injurious insect pests found in gardens feed only at night. This explains why in many cases the work of these marauders is plainly visible but the culprits themselves remain undetected. Probably the most common night-feeders are cutworms and garden slugs. Both of these are nocturnal in habits, lying hidden in the soil during the hours of daylight at the base of the plants upon which they have been feeding. To be effective, control measures for such species must be applied in the late evening or after dark.

Soil Organic Matter Measure of Fertility.

The supply of organic matter in soil — disregarding peats or mucks — is usually a fair index of its yielding capacity. Improvised soils are characterized by a low level of organic matter. The importance of which has been emphasized by many writers and speakers of late. It is a matter that should be a major concern of every farmer and given the serious consideration it merits. Care in the conservation of manure, protecting it against leaching and fermentation, is a primary principle to be observed.

Barren manure is readily decomposed in the soil and contains in it the "bacteria" necessary for the breakdown process. Because of this, manure proves beneficial as an initial treatment for the highly organic peat or muck soils, chiefly through the addition of bacteria of

A GOOD START — A SUCCESSFUL LIFE
WITH SHUR-GAIN.

PLANNING—PRODUCTION—PROFITS

As nearly as can be estimated, 15,000,000 chicks got their start in life on SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter last year. The SHUR-GAIN Empire extends from coast to coast in Canada — SHUR-GAIN really rules the roost. SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is the universal favourite, for three chief reasons:

1. Attractive Feed — SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is made from ingredients of the highest quality only. It is FRESH — it is PALATABLE. Chicks like it and eat the amounts they need for maximum growth.
2. Attractive Chicks — Because SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is made with a content of high-class animal protein which ensures efficient use and growth — because it is fortified well above need with the vitamins required for health and growth (A, D and G) because it is palatable and readily eaten — chicks THRIVE on it.
3. Attractive Prices — Because SHUR-GAIN is made in the neighbourhood mill, with resulting elimination of all unnecessary charges, it can be sold for less than other starters, in spite of its superior quality.

Former Essex High Boy Missing.

Pte. William H. (Bill) Pritchard, a member of the United States Army Paratroop Unit, who previously had suffered injuries during the invasion of France, last July, is now reported missing in action in Belgium.

McCreary farm, just east of Essex, on No. 3 Highway, he attended Essex High. He enlisted in April 1941, and went overseas in December 1943.

His wife, the former Eloise Wigle, and their year-old daughter, Diane, are residing with the former's grandparents, Mrs. Addie Wigle, in Kingsville.

Red Cross Drive—March 5-31

Once again the Red Cross Society is conducting a drive for the raising of funds so necessary to carry on the valuable services rendered mankind all over the world in this most dreadful war.

You are, no doubt, aware of the admirable amount and quality of work turned out by the local branch workers, with the aid of Colchester North. Each year, as the campaign for funds exceeded the previous one, these workers redoubled their efforts and are ready to do it again, so let's not let them down.

True, the war appears to be much in our favour, but the ravages of war have leaped heavily on Red Cross services. Our soldiers continue to need this help, to say nothing of civilians in Europe.

The drive commences March 5th and concludes March 31st. The officers of the local branch appeal to you to give generously.

Henry A. K. Banwell Laid to Rest.

Funeral services for the late Henry Alexander K. Banwell, in charge of Rev. Jos. Tully, were held from his late residence, on the Huron Line, in Sandwich West Township, on Sunday afternoon, to St. Stephen's Church, with burial in the church cemetery.

Deceased, who was 70 years of age, died suddenly, in Detroit, on Thursday. He was born in Sandwich West Township and had farmed all his life. He was a former Deputy Reeve and was a member of Court of Milne, No. 336, I.O.F.

Surviving are four sons, Erle J. of Roseland; Louis A., and Herbert R. of Windsor; and Lyle V. at home, and a daughter, Mrs. George Nantau, of Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. David Mitchell, of Windsor; and Mrs. Garnet Queen, of London and Essex; also 11 grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. G. B. Collins, and a brother Edward, both of Sandwich West Township. His wife, Maggie, predeceased him five years ago.

Ladouceur-Galipeau Wedding.

In a lovely setting of white gladioli, in the sanctuary of St. Clement's Church, McGregor, at 9:30 a.m., Miss Catherine Angela Galipeau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ubaldo Galipeau, of McGregor, became the bride of Donald Ovide Ladouceur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Real Ladouceur, of Belle River. The beautiful ceremony was performed by the Rev. M. B. Baillargeon, in the presence of 50 members of the Children of Mary Sodality, to which the bride belonged.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was charming in a white velvet gown styled with a sweetheart neckline, long fitted sleeves forming points over her hands, and a long train, and trimmed with white velvet buttons. Her long veil matched and she carried a white prayer book showered with bridal roses.

Her maid of honour, Miss Janet Tounsgant, of Windsor, wore a dress of white sheer with long sleeves and a white net cap and veil, and carried a white satin muff topped with pink carnations.

The bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Galipeau, sister of the bride; Mrs. Lionel Ladouceur, sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Francis Galipeau, sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Audrey Lesperance, of Detroit, cousin of the bride; Miss Florence O'Neill, Miss Marie Delaurier, Miss Mariel Hargrave, Miss Helen Meloche and Miss Bernice Ferrari. They wore dresses of white sheer, with head-dresses to match, and carried white satin muffs with pink carnations.

The ushers were Lionel Ladouceur, brother of the bride; Gerald Lesperance, cousin of the bride; Cpl. Paul Gignac, brother-in-law of the bride, and the best man was Leo Lavoie, cousin of the groom.

The bride's mother chose a dress of black crepe with a hat to match and a corsage of pink roses, and the groom's mother wore dusty rose, with a lavender hat and a corsage of pink roses.

Following the ceremony, breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, and a reception was held in the afternoon, at the home of the groom's parents, whence the wedding party proceeded to Lepore's Hotel, where dinner was served to more than 100.

Following dinner, the couple left for a trip to eastern points, and on returning, will reside in Belle River.

Essex Rotary Celebrates 10th Anniversary.

With Rotarians present from Windsor, the parent club, from Cottam and Harrow Clubs, both sponsored by Essex, as well as other clubs in the county, the local Rotary Club celebrated its 10th anniversary in St. Paul's Parish Hall, on Monday evening. There were over 100 present, among whom were Irwin (C) Gough, of Walled Lake, Mich., and Ross Rodger, of Port Colborne, both charter members of the club.

Following a sing-song of popular Rotary songs, led by Ed Bonaman, President Bert Ashton turned over the chair to George Weller, the club's first president, who, after a few remarks called on Ross Rodger, the club's first secretary.

Ross reviewed the history of the local club from 1935 to 1939, when he was transferred by the Head Office of his bank to Port Colborne. He stated that many of his most treasured friendships started with the forming of the Essex Rotary Club.

Walter Musselman, who more than anyone else was responsible for the formation of the local club, told of personally securing all 23 charter members and of making 42 consecutive weekly trips to the Essex club after its organization. He said he has been a Rotarian since 1923, and has a 100% attendance since coming to Windsor in 1939, but was far behind his good friend, and fellow Rotarian, Arthur Fitzgerald, who has a perfect attendance record of 21 years.

At the close of his remarks the speaker presented a 10-year attendance button to Charles Maedel, the only one hundred percent of the Essex club. Mr. Maedel, who shortly replied, advised all to put lots into Rotary for there is lots more for one to take out.

Arthur Fitzgerald, the speaker congratulated the Essex club on the fine work they had accomplished in the past ten years and urged the Essex members to make the next ten years as outstanding as the past ten years. He said he was present, as a representative of Rotary International, which will celebrate its 40th anniversary on February 23rd. "Rotary International is an organization of Rotary clubs all over the civilized world, while each Rotary club is an organization of the citizens in business and profession or whatever calling in life one has chosen, formed to be of service to their community," he stated.

"There have been 6,007 Rotary clubs formed throughout the world in the past 40 years," he said, "of which there are today 5,284 active clubs or a loss of 723 clubs, 484 of which had to close for the time being, due to the present world war. Since July 1st, 1943, we have had 75 new clubs formed in 20 different countries, with a gain in membership of 8,726, making a total of 236,150." This means each Rotarian has 236.149 potential friends in the world. "I have visited many Rotary clubs in Europe, Great Britain, United States and South American countries and have always got the same hearty friendly welcome," he told his fellow Rotarians. In closing he advised all to read an article written by a Philippine Rotarian, in the February issue of "The Rotarian."

Rev. Brown, rector of All Saints' Church, Windsor, the guest speaker of the evening, gave a very inspiring address on "Service is the rent we pay for the room we occupy in life," which he stated thoroughly covered the ethics and idealisms of Rotary. He based his talk on an incident of a few years ago, comparing the two villages of Seabright and Ashbury Park, neighbouring villages on the Atlantic Coast. These villages were visited by a terrific storm, Seabright was completely wiped out, while Ashbury Park remained undamaged, all because Ashbury Park was built on a high rocky cliff while Seabright was built on the sandy lowlands. It was the nature of the shore that made the difference.

"Rotary," he said, "teaches a better way to live together, for if one lives a shallow life it will finally destroy him, but if his life is built on solid ground he will be a success."

Rotary has a great task facing it in post war, he said, as we will not possibly be able to completely understand our boys when they come home. He told of a returned man from Windsor, who was severely wounded in action that he was sent home and given an honourable discharge. This man, after a few weeks' rest, was given the job he had left when he enlisted, but due to injuries suffered at the front, he was unable to hold down the job and had to give it up, and became quite despondent. Here, a Rotarian in the city came to his aid, gave him a job in his plant and makes it a point every day of spending five or ten minutes with him at his work. Thus, in three months' time this man has made a come-back, all because the man who gave him work had the proper approach.

"Tides do not come the same on all shores," he stated, "and we are all different, problems strike us all, solving of which makes some while being unable to solve them ruins others."

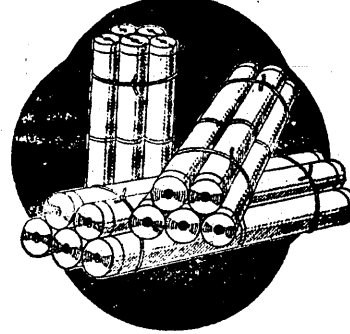

"The sea and the shore must meet, we cannot change the seas but we can stabilize the shore, so we and life must meet," stating we must face the facts

Essex Soldier Wounded.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Trudell received word, on Wednesday of last week, that their son, Pte. Jack Trudell, aged 28 years, had been wounded recently while on active service in Holland.

Pte. Trudell enlisted April 10th, 1944, and went overseas in October. His wife and four children are, at present, living with her parents, in Thamesville.

A brother, William, is a prisoner of war in Germany, while a younger brother, Lloyd, is stationed at Ipperwash, and rebuild Rotary in the devastated areas.

We must not close our eyes to rehabilitation problems, they are huge, our shores are shallow, let's build strong promontories of rock as the sea can't be changed, but we can stabilize the shore and not build again on shifting sands.

In closing, he stressed upon his fellow Rotarians to build their lives on firm ground so they can withstand the storms of life.

As a birthday gift, the Essex Club was presented with a walnut reading stand, a gift from the Cottam and Harrow clubs. Lyle Richardson, president of the Harrow Club, gave the address, while Dr. S. F. Millen, president of the Cottam Club, presented the stand to Bert Ashton.

Hon. Norman McLarty K.C., M.P., Will Not Stand.

Hon. Norman A. McLarty, K.C., Secretary of State, Liberal member for Essex West since 1935, announced privately, on Tuesday evening, to executives of his riding, that he was retiring from politics.

"It is with the utmost regret that I advise you that I will be unable to be your candidate in the forthcoming election," Mr. McLarty told his audience.

He stated he will remain a member of the Cabinet at the will of the Prime Minister, but that he was forced to retire from active politics, on his doctor's orders, following a medical check-up.

The West Essex Liberal Association will hold a convention in Windsor Vocational School, on March 2nd, to choose a candidate to succeed Mr. McLarty.

In the retirement of Mr. McLarty from politics, Essex County is losing one of its most active workers. He has always been a man who was to be counted on to do his job, and ever willing to assist in any way possible to help one through a difficult situation. The West Essex Liberal Association has been counting on him in our post-war scheme.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1945.
OUR BROTHER'S KEEPER.
By David Lister Routledge.

There is a growing tendency on the part of the people of this continent to look across the Atlantic with a very jaundiced eye. There, seeing almost all of the liberated countries embroiled in the bitterness of civil war, we ask ourselves how much better off they are than when under the iron heel of Germany. Particularly has this been true in regard to our attitude toward the desperately-troubled situation in Greece. It is easy for us to argue that while we have been fighting a war for democracy, there is precious little evidence that the people in these liberated countries want democracy, at least of the brand we favor — the kind of democracy that seemed hopeful enough to lead us to send our sons overseas to die for a cause.

It is easy for us, and it grows easier with the weariness of years of war setting its mark on us, to grow a little cynical over the cause that has meant so much to us; to wonder if these little and tragically-disorganized countries who do not seem to know when the fighting stops, are really worth saving. To expect a newly liberated country, after four years has been under the tyranny of a Nazi dictatorship to immediately slip back into normal ways once the threat is removed is to expect the obviously impossible. One of the bitter realities of a dictatorship is that it builds up divergent views and gives these views a cruel intensity. Every captured country has its collaborationists, drawn largely from the upper classes who have the most to lose by opposition, and the anti-collaborationists, mainly to the left, who, having fewer liberties, cherish them more dearly. In peace, the line was drawn very clearly between the two. In the flaming hatreds, even among the latter group there has been no unity, no dominating common objective. They were drawn together by a common hatred and for mutual protection, and each reserved to itself the right to make its own demands, and to act on its own account.

So the fact is not that we have been fighting for a democracy that is not good for a democracy that is not yond the grasp of once-enraged nations. The fact is merely that we are expecting too much of countries that are very new in their adherence to democratic ways. It might be chastening for us wise ones of this continent to look back on our own struggles towards freedom and to realize how slow and tortuous was our climb to the measure of democracy we now enjoy. Why should we expect it to blossom full-blown in countries that have known only its beginnings, that in these late years have been overlain by cruelty and bitterness and hate? A generation ago the world had a beautiful dream of brotherhood and peace born of mutual understanding and mutual good will and mutual trust. We lost it because of lack of faith, lack of interest, and a deep prevailing cynicism born of the weariness of war. It is idle to hope now that each little country of Europe will be cured of its woes once the fighting stops, as the wars were not cured a generation ago. Cynicism will not help us. Our only hope is a grim determination to cling to the promises that hold the only hope that this war may end all wars — Liberty Magazine, February 21.

New Service Inaugurated by Red Cross.

To assist families in Canada in obtaining information as to the present whereabouts of relatives and friends with whom they have lost contact owing to the war, Red Cross is inaugurating a new service, Stafford Roberts, Commissioner of the Ontario Division, announced this week. The International Red Cross at Geneva, already seized by thousands who are out of touch with home, relatives and friends, who are scattered over Europe, seeks to obtain a register of all persons in Canada who have relatives in Europe, friends, anywhere in Europe. Cards provided by International Red Cross will be distributed by the Division to its Branches throughout Ontario. Branches, in turn, will give this project wide publicity. The cards, which are postage free, will be given by an operator and placed in the hands of the person to whom they are given, and a new card is not to be given until the old one has been returned. The cards are to be used in the same manner as the cards provided by the International Red Cross. The cards will be given to the person to whom they are given, and a new card is not to be given until the old one has been returned. The cards are to be used in the same manner as the cards provided by the International Red Cross.

Food Production.

"At times and in places the weather has let us down but I can say positively that the farmers of Canada have never let us down," Ken W. Taylor, co-ordinator of the Food Administration, War-time Prices and Trade Board, said recently. He revealed statistics on farm production which showed that 80 per cent of the pre-war volume of supplies, that is the average production per person remaining in agriculture has gone up 75 per cent.

"This big increase in production plus the steady improvement in farm prices has resulted in a farm cash income which has now reached record levels," Mr. Taylor said. "Canadian farm income in 1944 was nearly three times the income of 1935-39, and was about 80 per cent above the average of 1926-29."

The "magnificent achievement in productivity" is due in part, according to the foods administrator, to fortunate weather conditions and in part to more efficient farming, better seed selection, better breeding methods, more efficient production and feeding routine but above all it is due "to a tremendous increase in the amount of plain hard work — the toil and the sweat — put into food production by the farmers of Canada."

BEHIND THE HEADLINES.

It is most important for the man-in-the-street across Canada to learn that this veteran observer must report at this time that it is clear along Parliament Hill that there are many efforts to guess the supposed probability or possibility of the coming political developments in Ottawa, including the forthcoming events that may be aftermath of the North Grey by-election and the coming general election. It is said in well-informed quarters along Parliament Hill that at best these opinions or conjectures are usually based on slight or presumptive evidence and their proponents are generally moving in circles. This means that these are nothing more than idle political speculations without good ground of knowledge or sufficient evidence, adding immeasurably to a pretense of the existence of mysterious or enigmatical political conditions in Ottawa. In reality, notwithstanding all propaganda or publicity to the contrary, yet the political situation in Ottawa at this moment is not inexplicable because it can be emphasized in the strongest possible terms that the course of conduct of the Federal Government is most likely to be governed by the developments on the war fronts just as much, if not more so, than by the political factors on the home front. Even with the facilities for knowing what is happening in the war to a far better extent than the man-in-the-street still the top men along Parliament Hill have been considerably surprised at the rapid pace of the latest developments on the war fronts. This seems apparent to the veteran observer so that it is wise on the part of the man-in-the-street to recognize that the war events than the home front political occurrences will determine the course of action of the Federal Government in the coming weeks, with the added hint that any emergency caused by the war may force the hand of political leaders to do what the circumstances will dictate, even in regard to any sudden calling of a session, if conditions should compel such an emergency action. The war, and war alone, will decide what will happen in this nation's capital.

The Government in Ottawa has been expanding greatly its diplomatic representations in Latin America and these latest moves have aroused much curiosity about this country becoming a member of the Pan American Union. However, it is reported in usually reliable quarters in Ottawa that these latest diplomatic moves do not necessarily mean that Canada will enter the Union shortly. It can be stressed that these moves are related more to economic purposes than it is generally realized since such diplomatic representations may play an important role in the dramatic efforts of Canada to expand greatly her trade in these new Latin American markets. Indeed, these new Canadian offices in Latin America are generally coupled with objectives for more trade and there are indications of considerable progress. In 1939, Canada's exports to Latin America were $20,000,000 but in the year before last these were over $26,570,000. Likewise, there was a large increase in imports. One expert in this capital has estimated that Canada might set a $60,000,000 a year export trade target in these new markets. In other words, if such an expansion was possible under the extreme wartime difficulties of shipping, shortages of supplies and other severe restrictions, it is held that the possibilities for Canada's economic expansion in this new field after this war are almost unpredictable. In short, it is claimed that, to some extent at least, these latest rapid diplomatic expansions in Latin American countries are not necessarily connected with Canada's immediate entrance into the Pan American Union and that these moves may be made more with economic designs at this time.

Delegations from the National Religious Advisory Council and the Lord's Day Alliance of Canada have held a private conference in Ottawa with the Governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and it has been reported along Parliament Hill that they have protested strongly against any further curtailment of Sunday religious broadcasting over both the CBC and privately owned radio stations across this country.

Beneath the surface of the dispute between Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec, and Premier Mackenzie King over the request by this Provincial Prime Minister that the Federal Government should consult a Provincial Government before making any appointment of a Lieutenant-Governor is a point of bitter contention. Sir Eugene Fleet's five-year term as Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec had expired legally on December 14th, 1944, but no other appointment had been made on the ground that such a post is held "during pleasure of the Crown." In other words, the Federal Government, which makes such an appointment, has held that a Lieutenant-Governor is the representative of the Crown in a Province and not a persona grata, such as contended by Premier Duplessis. Therefore, a Lieutenant-Governor can carry on indefinitely under certain circumstances and beyond the five-year term, with such precedents having already set in Canada in other cases, including Lieutenant-Governor Matthew of Ontario or Lieutenant-Governor McNab, of Saskatchewan.

The Government in Ottawa will take part in the establishment and operation of a Commonwealth Air Transport Council. This has been announced in the capital, where it was also disclosed that the functions of this Council will be to keep a watchful eye on the development of Commonwealth civil air communications, to provide a medium for exchange of views as well as information on such matters, and to consider as well as to advise on such civil aviation affairs as any nation of the Commonwealth may desire to refer to the Council. The first meeting of this Council will be held in London, and the wartime membership will include the United Kingdom, Canada, New Zealand, Australia, South Africa, India, Southern Rhodesia, Newfoundland, and the Colonial Empire. Before the year 1945 will end, it is expected that the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration will spend about $69,300 in Canada and this will be in addition to more than $30,000,000 already spent in this country by this body for Canadian supplies to be shipped abroad under the UNRRA. This has been revealed in Ottawa.

Since there are a great many Canadian businessmen, farmers and others who have been seeking trucks in a bad way, it should be most interesting for them to be informed now that Canada's automobile plants will send 4,200 trucks to Australia this year for essential civilian use there, with the first shipments said to be made probably within the next couple of months or earlier.

Vernon McGee, Deputy Minister of the War Manpower Commission, and other leading officers of this official organization of the United States Government, have come to Ottawa in order to Study Canada's Selective Service system and to report their findings to Washington. . . . Miss Olive Waters, who was Col. Ralston's secretary and "right hand man," when he was Minister of Finance and Defence Minister, has been given the post of administrative assistant in the Department of Health and National Welfare in Ottawa. . . . There is a story in the capital that an R.C.A.F. truck is to be used to transport the personal effects of Dr. Hugh Kennleyside, Canada's Ambassador to Mexico, from Ottawa to Mexico City because this would provide the cheapest and fastest means of doing it, with the costs of sending the material by rail or by private truck being too high at this time. . . . Dr. Martha M. Elliott, Associate Chief of the Children's Bureau, Department of Labor, Washington, was in Ottawa recently and conferred with Canadian officials, this emphasizing the growing interest and importance of children's affairs in official circles in this country as well as in other countries. . . . A report is circulating that Leonard W. Brockington, former Assistant to Premier Mackenzie King at the start of this World War II, and a voice heard very frequently over Canadian radio waves in broadcasts from Ottawa, will possibly act as a personal representative in Canada of a British film magazine, and that there is a move on foot to expand the distribution of British films in Canada after this war. . . . Canada's new Inspector-General of banks, C. F. Elderkin, is a native of Nova Scotia, who served overseas for three full years during the First World War and who entered upon his university career after he came back at the close of the last war, with the additional information that during World War II he has done important war duties for the Government in Ottawa, including cost accounting investigations of a Commonwealth Air Transport Council, either as controller or director of several Crown companies. Sugar Beets.
The countries of Southwestern Ontario, particularly Essex, Kent and Lambton, are recognized as the best farming land in Canada. It has been said that anything that can be grown in Canada can be grown in this area, and grown more abundantly than elsewhere. Our fertile soil produces fruit, vegetables, grain, root crops, tobacco in some profusion that there are always several competing crops for each available acre of farm land. In one respect our district is unique. Our counties are the home of the Ontario sugar beet industry. At Chatham and Wallaceburg we have beet sugar refineries that stand ready to buy and process every ton of sugar beets that our farmers can produce, and there can be no competition from beet crops produced elsewhere. Sugar beets are the one crop with an assured market and a guaranteed floor price. As with other crops, the grower must take a chance on the weather and the ultimate size of his yield, but he has no worries about his market or his price. Good yields and the high sugar content may make a beet crop very profitable, but even average yields will return a good price for the time and labor invested. The current campaign to get 40,000 acres planted to sugar beets this year deserves the consideration of every grower. It is important, for the preservation of other crops, that Canada do her part in alleviating the serious world-wide sugar shortage. Negotiations are under way to secure a larger number of prisoners of war for farm labor in the district, and it is confidently expected that they will be forthcoming. Even if the war in Europe should end suddenly, the prisoners could not be repatriated this year. Thus, the prospects for price, labor and market combine to make the sugar beet a really attractive crop, and the growers will have the additional satisfaction of producing something that is urgently needed in our war effort.

Collection of Clothing.

Appeals for donations of clothing and supplies for Allied countries have been placed under a permit to be secured through the National War Trade Board. According to a statement by Board officials the new order will ensure that claims of all relief organizations on Canadian supplies will be coordinated with production and distribution programs covering war and essential civilian and relief requirements. Donations or purchases of supplies for distribution in Canada or to Canadian armed forces or merchant seamen are exempted from the restriction. All relief agencies have been notified to discontinue any current campaign and have been asked to submit their applications to the War Services department for consideration. Arrangements have been completed for the delivery and donation off "Aid to Russia" campaign until February 20th. Permission to wind up this campaign on this basis does not authorize the purchases of clothing through local branches or otherwise. Cash distributions to the aid to Russia fund are not prohibited.

Evaporated Milk.

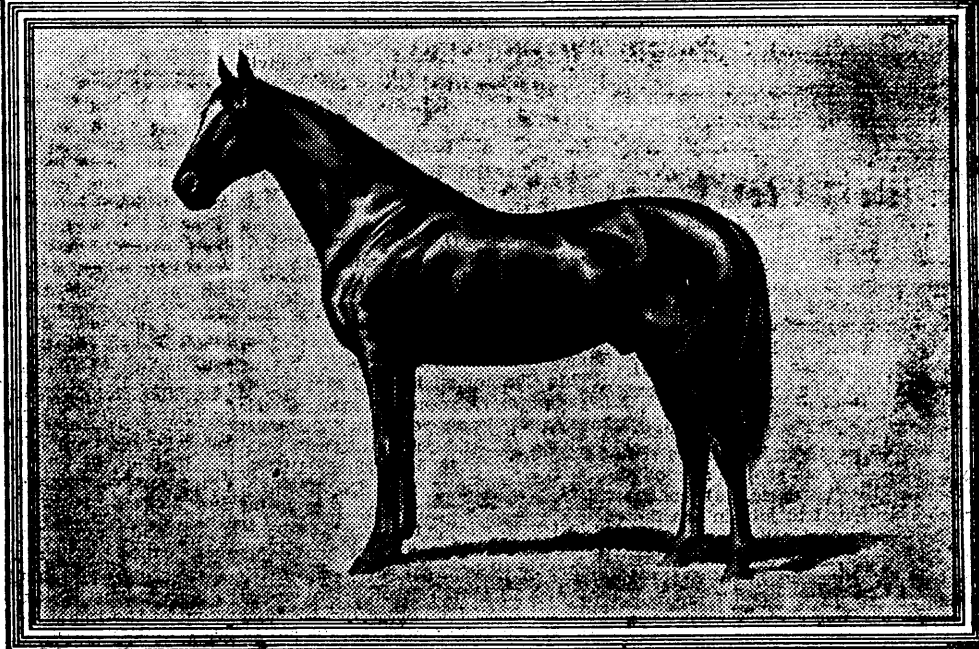

Production of evaporated milk in Canada in 1944 is expected to total 175 million pounds, and, while stock at the beginning of 1945 will be high in relation to past years, there will be a market for all the evaporated milk that can be produced in 1945, states the Current Review of Agricultural Conditions in Canada.

Now is the time for the go-ahead signal for onion enthusiasts. And that is good news for those who had to go lightly on this odorous vegetable not so long ago, because for downright Versatility, onions are hard to beat. Onions are credited with many qualities, but at the Division of Nutrition, Ottawa, they are a vegetable, which may be counted as one of the two needed daily in addition to potatoes. Nutritionally they contain small amounts of several of the minerals and vitamins and so help to step up the daily intake. As he thinketh in his heart, so is he.—Proverbs 23:7.

THE CANADIAN WAY OF LIFE . . .

Roast Beef on Sundays . . .

THE SUNDAY ROAST—week-ends in the country—the old family jalousy—these things mean a pleasant way of life. These are some of the things every man overseas is fighting for today. They won't be his, unless all of us make sure, when our fighting man comes back, his dollar will be worth a dollar.

To protect his dollar, we must realize NOW the dangers of careless, unnecessary buying. We must buy only what we need—never buy two where one will do! We must not evade rationing or price control, or deal in black markets. If we break the rules, our country—the country he's fighting for—will start on that uncontrollable rocketing of prices known as inflation!

Prices will rise. As prices go up, wages try to tag along . . . and never quite catch up. The value of money goes down. Soon your dollar will buy—perhaps only 30¢ worth of goods! And there is no limit to its drop—look at Greece today! The nation is plunged in poverty and depression.

So let's all make sure our soldier's dollar—when he gets back—will buy a dollar's worth of goods! We can't give back to him his lost years or his lost youth. But, if we keep up the fight against inflation, he can look forward to pleasant, satisfying living . . . the Canadian way of life.

Make this Pledge Today!

I pledge myself to do my part in fighting inflation:

- By observing rationing and avoiding black markets in any shape or form.
- By respecting price controls and other anti-inflation measures, and refraining from careless and unnecessary buying. I will not buy two where one will do, nor will I buy a "new" where an "old" will do.
- By buying Victory Bonds and War Savings Stamps, supporting taxation, and aiding the government by all such measures which will lower the cost of living and help keep prices at a normal level.

What About This Year's Fruit Crop?

The heavy snowfall this Winter gives promise of abundant fruit crops for 1945. All fruits—small and large, early and late—will benefit from the teeming moisture of our thick snow blanket.

But what good are record-breaking fruit crops if there is not sugar enough to preserve them? Already industrial sugar users have been cut from 80 to 70% of their basic sugar quotas. No one can say that further cuts may not follow.

What then, can be done to help this situation? Nature herself can help us if we call upon her. The fruit-growing counties of South Western Ontario are also the sugar producing areas capable of providing sugar beets to turn out a hundred million pounds of beet sugar.

Only 40,000 acres of sugar beets are needed—a small plot in comparison to the two million acres of good land in the district. A few acres of beets on each farm will do the job.

Wont you plan now to put in some sugar beets this Spring? Contracts are not yet ready but Premier Drew has given assurance that the price will not be lower than in 1944 so you can figure on a good cash return.

Sugar Beets—The One Crop with an Assured Market and a Guaranteed Floor Price!

—Town Council meets next Monday evening.

—Joseph Brockman has purchased the Wm. Dell house on Center street.

—The groups of the W. A. of Essex United Church will meet next Wednesday afternoon, at 3 p.m., as follows:

Circle No. 1, at the home of Mrs. Norman Prince; Circle No. 2, at the home of Mrs. (Dr.) G. W. Rogers; Circle
No. 4, at the home of Mrs. Clarence Taylor. Circle No. 3 will meet at the home of Mrs. A. Shipway, on Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock. All members are urged to bring a friend and a Valentine as this will be a social evening.

—An interesting event of Wednesday, February 7th, was the Woman's Association meeting of the United Church, at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Allison, with Miss Ruth Simpson, Religious Educational Council secretary, conducting the devotional period. Miss Simpson spoke on the parable of the Prodigal Son, from which she drew most interesting illustrations and practical ideas to apply to our every day living. The singing of hymn 20 in the leaflet, and prayer by the speaker closed this enjoyable period.

—Mrs. Ambrose Shipway, the president, dispensed with the routine business, hearing the reports from the secretaries and treasurers. Mrs. Harold Findlay, in the absence of Mrs. Dowdell, gave the treasurer's report and also acted as pianist. A letter was received from the Deaconess Home in Toronto, asking for a donation in aid of their work.

This being a yearly request, the usual amount of $10 was given. A noon-day luncheon will be served at the home of the Presbytery who are meeting in the church on Tuesday, February 20th. The breakfast served at the Blood Clinic on the different occasions, was discussed and plans made for the coming year which, Mrs. Shipway considered, would be more satisfactory than the method used heretofore. Mrs. S.
A. Hill, parsonage convenor, reported the repairs to the sink at the parsonage completed and presented the bill for payment. A hearty vote of thanks was given Mrs. Allison for the use of her home, and the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Essex Euchre League.

—Results of games played in the Essex Euchre League of Tuesday evening: Gesto 60, Paquette 60; Firemen 62, Maidstone 58. Gesto won the play-off of the tie. Games this Friday evening: Gesto vs. Firemen, Paquette vs. Maidstone. Games next week: Paquette vs. Firemen, Gesto vs. Maidstone.

Y. P. U. Notes.

—Monday last the meeting opened with a singing of gospel hymns, followed by a lively business session, during which committees working on the crokinole party completed arrangements. We are sorry that this will conflict with other events, but having postponed it one week already it was deemed inadvisable to do so again.

Janet Wilson, Missions convenor, then took charge of the programme. Following the worship service we "beamed in" on a broadcast from the Orient.
In this novel way Janet, assisted by Bertha Hyland, presented a most interesting review of Christian life in the Far East. Following the Mizpah benediction we adjourned to the Scout den for recreation. Remember, we'll be looking for you Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A good time is promised all.
Come and join the fun.

Baptist Fireside Fellowship.

Approximately 100 Young People and adults attended the first "Fireside Fellowship" held in the Sunday school hall of the First Baptist Church, around the fireplace, last Sunday, after the evening service. The "Fireside" is sponsored and conducted entirely by the Young People and for this Fellowship Miss Frances Goodburn was the leader, with Miss Marion Damm, gifted pianist, at the piano.

Attractive new chorus books, compiled by the Young People, containing nearly 70 of the newest choruses, was introduced for the first time. The meeting opened with a theme chorus,
"The Assurance March," this chorus was used at the opening of every Fireside Fellowship.

Although the time limit was set for 35 minutes, yet, because of the great interest shown and the new young people constantly coming in, the time was doubled for this meeting. The singing of the choruses was exceptionally hearty and many took part in the testimony period. Two Bible quizzes formed part of the program, besides an instrumental duet by Marshall and Ruth Parker. The Baptist "Fireside Fellowship" closed by the leader,
"Chorus" and prayer by the leader.

A Fellowship social evening will be held Monday, February 26th. All young people are invited, no matter if you have never been inside our church — come, for this night and get acquainted with us, we'd like to meet you.

High School Notes.

Last Friday evening Essex played host to the boys and girls teams from Kingsville. Essex, however, treated their visitors rudely by vanquishing them in both games.

Weak passing on the part of the Kingsville boys contributed chiefly to their downfall. The Essex boys took advantage of this weakness in the first half by intercepting most of their opponents' passes. At half-time the Essex team was well ahead by the score of 38 to 20.

In the second half Kingsville displayed a better brand of basketball, but they were still unable to keep up with the Essex players. Both teams showed great sportsmanship by playing a clean game of basketball.

The lineups:
Essex—Klar 24, Kane 9, Chodola 3, LeBeuf 2, Cascadden, MacGirr, Nightingale, Maedel, Gulliver, Raymont, Terryberry.

Kingsville—Allen 7, J. Sherman 4,
Howe 4, Laurie 2, L. Bailey 2, D.
Bailey, Pope, W. Sherman, Fleming 1, Cull.

This is the first victory for the Essex boys, but it is not going to be their last. Next Friday night they hope to make it two in a row by defeating the Harrow boys, at Harrow.

Lack of practice on the part of the Kingsville girls proved to be their weakness. Our girls played so well that when the game was called Kingsville hadn't scored yet. It appeared to be a shut-out, but during the last few minutes the losing team managed to score one basket, making the score 36 to 2.

June Andrews and Ellen Rogers scored many points for Essex. Betty Mac-Dougall also did her bit. Good work, girls. Hope you gather more laurels in the game with Harrow.

Fully Proven Sires.

As in past years the Animal Husbandry Division, Dominion Experimental Farms Service, places most emphasis on breeding programs and problems, and distribution of improved breeding stock, for which there is an ever-increasing demand, particularly in swine and dairy cattle. By using fully proved sires, some of the uncertainty in breeding results from young unproved sires has been reduced.

Troops Comforts are First Duty.

Canadian Legion supervisors on the fighting fronts, although still paying income tax and worried about their own rehabilitation, are doing one of the most difficult jobs of the war in the best manner possible. Lt.-Col. D. E. MacIntyre, general manager of Canadian Legion War Services, said here this week on his return from a three-month tour overseas.

The Legion supervisors, who are charged with providing extra comforts for his men, are going into forward area positions with hot tea, biscuits, etc., almost every day. Col. MacIntyre said. The closest co-operation exists between the supervisors and the military authorities with the supervisor now accepted as a part of the armed forces.

Entertainment is given wherever and whenever a group of men can be got together, he declared. It is a common occurrence for men fighting a few hundred yards away to be relieved temporarily to sit in a renovated civilian theatre and enjoy a movie. On the other hand, complete shows have been put on in caves, abandoned cellars and in the open air.

Leave centres, operated by the Legion in the rear areas of the fighting fronts, cater to thousands of men monthly. For the most part, the centres are located in hotels, taken over for the purpose, complete with civilian staffs. Free hair cuts, shoeshines, pressing jobs and good meals are provided in most centres for the men on leave. Col. MacIntyre added.

Furniture—3-piece Chesterfield Suite, in good condition; other household furniture.

Give 'Em Hell with the Best of Luck.

The following poem, written by 1st Sgt. Johnny Kerr, on a hill between Cape Gris Ney and Calais, is printed herewith:

First came the bombers over the channel,
To strike their softening blow
And I watched them squadron by squadron
Drop their loads then go.
And with each wave, the defences
Seemed to be still weaker
The following plumes of smoke rose higher
As we stood by tense and eager.

There would soon be another big battle on.
A stiff one that wouldn't be fun
But seeing their faces, determined and grim,
I knew we would make them run.
All around me these battle-scarred heroes
Were preparing to enter the fight.
Calmly facing death, because they wouldn't all
Be still in action by night.

The incessant barrage of artillery
Seemed to suddenly lift
And across the way they were raising their sights
And a new crew was taking the shift.
While off to the left the armoured brigade
Were already beginning to roll
With their gunners ready expectant and eager
To get in and take their toll.

I thought of those days at the beginning,
When we first heard the word "Slope Arms."
When we left our homes to do a job
When we came from those factories and farms,
We called ourselves Civilians in Battle-dress Training — a new game to be learned
But it isn't a game that lies just ahead,
Where half of Calais burns.

To be a Canadian is a definite privilege
To believe you'd have to be here,
If you could see this sight for yourselves
You couldn't help but cheer.
There go the finest fighting men in this world
From the Colonel right down to the buck.
So get in there boys and knock them out.
Give 'em hell, with the best of luck.

Dominion Stores Limited.

The sales of Dominion Stores Limited for the calendar year 1944 were $31,658,435 compared with $27,655,078 for the same period ending December, 1943.

The average weekly sales per store increased 15.89% in 1944 compared with 1943.

At the end of 1944 there were 247 Dominion Stores in operation. The operating results for the calendar year 1944 show an improvement over the previous year.

In view of the time which will elapse between the time of the issuance of the last Annual Report to the shareholders and the new one, occasioned by the change in the fiscal year, the above announcement is made by the Board of Directors of Dominion Stores Limited.

Natural Values Found in Food.

In an address given at a recent conference sponsored by the Research Laboratories of the Children's Fund at Michigan, Dr. L. A. Maynard, of the United States Plant, Soil and Nutrition Laboratory, Ithaca, N.Y., stated:

"All too many are being led to believe by the ballyhoo of advertising and even by the over-enthusiasm of some scientists that a shot of vitamins can improve any diet and, in fact, make the nutritional aspect of food selection of minor importance. Those who discount the over-all values of foods and disregard the fact that nature may have endowed them with values as yet undiscovered need the admonition of Hamlet: 'There are more things in heaven and earth than are dreamt of in your philosophy.' from the long-term standpoint it appears that a program for the production of foods of superior nutritional quality and for conserving their nutrients from the farm to the table should take precedence over any general program of food or diet fortification."

In Canada, the Department of National Health and Welfare continues to take the stand that, since vitamins constitute only a few of the numerous dietary factors required to ensure good health, and since only a few of the vitamins, known and unknown, in natural foods can be obtained chemically, that the goal should be to try and obtain all requirements from the proper choice of natural foods.

The position taken by the Department of National Health and Welfare is strongly supported by the Canadian Council of Nutrition.

WITH SHUR-GAIN.
PLANNING—PRODUCTION—PROFITS

As nearly as can be estimated, 15,000,000 chicks got their start in life on SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter last year. The SHUR-GAIN Empire extends from coast to coast in Canada — SHUR-GAIN really rules the roost. SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is the universal favourite, for three chief reasons:

1. Attractive Feed — SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is made from ingredients of the highest quality only. It is FRESH — it is PALATABLE. Chicks like it and eat the amounts they need for maximum growth.
2. Attractive Chicks — Because SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is made with a content of high-class animal protein which ensures efficient use and growth — because it is fortified well above need with the vitamins required for health and growth (A, D and G) because it is palatable and readily eaten — chicks THRIVE on it.
3. Attractive Prices — Because SHUR-GAIN is made in the neighbourhood mill, with resulting elimination of all unnecessary charges, it can be sold for less than other starters, in spite of its superior quality.

Post-War Bacon Market Seen.

For the first time Canada will have an opportunity of achieving first place in the British bacon market held by Denmark for 60 years. J. S. McLean, president of the Canada Packers, Limited, told the Ontario Swine Breeders' Association in convention in Toronto, on Monday night.

Canada's magnificent filling of Britain's war needs in increasing bacon exports from 197,000,000 pounds before the war to 300,000,000 in the first year and to 630,000,000 pounds last year had merited special consideration in Britain's post-war market, he said.

He said he understood the Canadian Meat Board was planning to revise the whole system of handling Canadian bacon exports to Britain to cut down the time of delivery to Britain from one to four months to two weeks.

Funk's 'G' Wins Again

Forrest Woods, Bellflower, McLean County, Illinois, has high yield in 1944 Illinois Ten Acre Corn Growing Contest with 182.05 bushels of shelled corn per acre according to information released recently by the Illinois Crop Improvement Association and the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, the two agencies that jointly sponsor and conduct the contest.

Forrest Woods planted Funk's "G-80" in forty inch rows score being determined by giving consideration to yield, quality nels per hill. This makes 5,600 hills of corn per acre with over 15,000 plants per acre. The land was ploughed from blue grass sod.

The contest also provides for a high score winner — the power checked twenty-eight inches in the row with three kernels and cost of production. Forrest Woods had high score with 79.96. He scored 17.97 points for quality out of a possible 20 points. The production cost on the ten acres was $412.74.

Howard Clegg, in 1935 was the first Funk's "G" man to have high yield in the contest. Richard Robinson was high in 1937, 1938, 1939. Everett Loftus topped in 1940; Wm. Woods in 1941; Paul Peabody produced his 191.6 bushels record yield in 1942 and Forrest Woods produced the eighth Funk's "G" topper in the fifteenth contest in 1944. Funk's "G" has been in the winning field eight of the last ten years.

Please note that Forrest Woods' yield in Illinois competition open to all comers — all hybrids — sponsored and conducted by official and disinterested parties, was a real achievement for Mr. Woods and for Funk's "G" Hybrids.

This 182.05 bushel yield of shelled corn was not an accident. Good fertility, good farming and good seed did the job. A neighbour, Mr. Walter Stack, had a yield of 166.23 bushels per acre, and William Woods, a brother of Forrest, had 151.5 bushels per acre. Good fertility and good farmers who know good seed prevail in that area. All used Funk's "G".

Warren County turned in its usual quota of high yields. Joe Atkinson, 158.39; Howard Bacon, 157.03; and Everett Loftus, 154.65. All of these men used Funk's "G".

We understand, in this contest, the entire ten acres are harvested and weighed, and not small (representative) areas in the field, and of course (bushels) across the line refer to shelled corn.

Essex Town Council.

Monday, February 19th.

Council met in regular session, at 8 p.m., with Mayor Francotte, Reeve
Doyle and Councillors Chase, Shaw, Skinner, Hutchinson and Cascadden present.

Mr. Hines called and advised the members he would not be present due to an accident in which he suffered several broken toes.

Minutes of last regular meeting and the special budget meeting were read.
Mayor Francotte stated that he thought the minutes, as read, were not correct. He didn't remember the motion whereby W. B. Beaman was appointed Deputy Clerk, at an increase of $100 in salary. He stated he thought the $100 was just an increase with no added duties.

The rest of the members, with the exception of Mr. Doyle, were agreed that the minutes, as read, were correct.

Mr. Beaman stated that it was im-material to him whether he was appointed deputy clerk, but he had thought it a good idea as he would then have the power, as a Commissioner, to take affidavits and thus save the people who come to his office on ration problems, the bother of having to go out and find the Clerk or someone else before whom they could take the required affidavit.

After a short discussion it was finally decided that Mr. Beaman would be tax collector and treasurer only and that he would be given an increase of $100 in salary.

E. J. Queen personally presented a quotation on a Dodge chassis, both 2-ton and 2½ ton, for proposed new fire truck.

This quotation was filed, along with one presented by Norm Bangle at last meeting.

The Clerk stated he had received from the City Clerk of Windsor, several copies of a bylaw and an accompanying agreement, which the committee appointed to fight the new proposed increase in gas rates, would like the Essex Council to pass, stating that the following municipalities being served by the Union Gas Co., had already passed the bylaw and had executed the agreement, viz., Windsor,
London, Chatham, Sarnia, Petrolia, Dresden, Tilbury, Courtwright, Belle River, Tilbury West Township, Port Lambton, Glenora, Wyoming, Point
Edward, Moore Township, Essex, Emswiler Township and Rochester
Township.

After a short discussion it was decided that the town could not afford to take on any unnecessary expense, more especially when the Gas Company will have to go before the Referee before an increase in rates can be effected.

The bylaws and agreements were filed.

John Chase, chairman of the Fire and Light Committee, tabled a letter from Clarence W. Lewis, Canadian Distributor of the Hardie Dependable Sprayer, a modern apparatus used to fight fires.

This sprayer works under high pressure and throws out a blanket of foam, which smothers the fire. One gallon of water in this way is equal to ten gallons in a solid stream, in fighting a fire.

This information was also filed for the present.

A renewal statement of a $5 member-ship fee to the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves was read to Council.

On motion of Messrs. Doyle and Cascadden, it was decided to remain a member of the Association for 1945, at the membership fee of $5.

Gordon Duffin, senior public school inspector, addressed the Council, reforming a local High School district.

After Mr. Duffin had thoroughly explained the proposed district, with Essex as its centre, the Council, on motion of Messrs. Skinner and Doyle, unanimously passed a resolution in favour of the scheme.

Bylaw 1101, repealing Bylaw 1099, appointing W. E. Beaman Deputy Clerk, was read and passed.

Bylaw 1102, appointing K. E. Brett Town Clerk and assistant Treasurer, was read and passed.

Joseph Brockman, new owner of the Essex Recreation, addressed Council re license.

He was advised that all he would have to do, was to pay the license as required by the Town Bylaw licensing bowling alleys and billiard rooms.

A. G. Cascadden, chairman of the Property Committee, reported renewing lease on Fair Grounds building with the Graham Canning Co. of Belleville. He stated that the doors on the building were in bad shape, that he would only be in favour of giving the Canning Company a yearly lease and have a clause inserted in lease whereby the company would be responsible for the upkeep of the building.

On motion of Messrs. Doyle and Shaw, the matter of lease between the Town and Graham Canning Co., for Fair Grounds building, was referred back to the Property Committee, with power to act.

Town Treasurer W. E. Beaman requested authority for him to transfer some money from the town's savings account in order to pay current expenditures, until budget for 1945 has been approved and tax roll for the year has been placed in his hands for collection.

This authority was granted.
On motion of Messrs. Skinner and

New County High School Dis- trict Scheme.

Gordon L. Duffin, in addressing Council, at its meeting on Monday evening, very plainly presented the proposed scheme dividing Essex County into High School districts, and thus give all the ratepayers in the county better schools for less maintenance cost.

The proposed districts will be as follows: Amherstburg, Anderdon, Mat-den and a small slice of Sandwich West Township, with Amherstburg as centre; Harrow and Colchester South, Harrow centre; Kingsville and part of Gosfield South, Kingsville centre.
These two would be small centres and there is, at present, a movement on foot to combine Harrow and Kingsville centres and build a new High School at Arner; Leamington, part of Gosfield South, all of Mersea and possibly Wheatley and part of Romney, in Kent County, Leamington centre; Essex, Gos. North, and North, of the Townships of Sandwich South, Maids-stone, and possibly a small part of Rochester Township, Essex centre.
This will leave district No. 4, Tilbury West and North, part of Maldstone, and Rochester, with Comber as centre.

To show the vast amount of study and work Mr. Duffin and Mr. Noble have put into this work, the speaker presented figures along with a mimeographed map of Essex County, divided as proposed. District No. 1, the Amherstburg district, in 1944 showed a population of 6,336, with a total assessment of $7,389,858, this school cost the ratepayers a total of $19,555.61, whereas maintenance cost of school was only $15,675.58; District No. 2, Harrow and Kingsville schools, served a population of 7,622, with an assessment of $6,097,395; these schools cost the ratepayers $32,885.73, whereas cost of operation was $28,981.82; District No. 3, Leamington, served a population of 11,306, with an assessment of $9,520-$31. The ratepayers paid $33,307.18 and maintenance cost of schools was $34,393.99; District No. 4, Comber, served 6,352 people with an assessment of $5,204,869. The ratepayers here paid $13,597.05, with maintenance cost only $8,845.61; District No. 5, Essex, served 8,598, assessment $7,468-666; total paid by ratepayers in their county rates, $32,875.39 maintenance cost Essex High was $25,472.30. District No. 6, Windsor schools, served a population of 27,660; assessment $11-260,731. These ratepayers paid $44-570.02, whereas maintenance cost, paid by county into Windsor was $74-251.52.

In going over these figures carefully one will find all ratepayers in the county are paying more school taxes, through their county rates, into the High School in the county, outside of the City of Windsor, than it is actually costing to operate the schools.

As far as Essex is concerned, it would mean building an addition to the present school in order to accommodate a commercial course, manual training and home economic classes.

Harrow and Essex are now the only schools in the county not having these classes, even smaller schools like North Woodlee and Belle River have the manual training and home economic classes.

The board in charge of schools would be made up as follows: Each municipality would appoint one member; public and separate school boards in Essex would each appoint a member, and the County Council would appoint either one or three members.

In closing, Mr. Duffin stated that Ridgetown had a reputation throughout the province for its agricultural class, with an enrolment of 224 pupils, whereas Essex now has about 270 and if the proposed section is formed this figure will be very much larger and the local school could add agriculture to its curriculum. He stated that he was very much in favour of the formation of high school sections, first because of savings to ratepayers in maintenance cost, and secondly, and more important, it will increase the efficiency of the schools many times.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Belcher Married 60 Years.

Sunday marked the 60th anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Belcher, of Victoria street, Essex, but due to the fact that Mr. Belcher is in ill-health and hospitalized in Windsor, the occasion was not observed. Mrs.
Belcher is in good health, except for failing eyesight.

The day was also the 31st wedding anniversary of their son, Darius, as well as the 100th anniversary of the latter's great grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Belcher have been lifelong residents of Essex County, the former being 83 and the latter 81 years of age. Mr. Belcher's father was one of the pioneer teachers in the county, having taught at Oxley for years and at Olinda for a great many years. Mrs. Belcher's maiden name was Ruby Wilhelmina Malott, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John W. Malott, of Section Road, Gosfield South Township.

They were married at the home of her sister, Mrs. D. L. Wigle, in Amherstburg, on February 15th, 1885, with Rev. J. M. Howson, pastor of the Methodist Church of that town, officiating, and were attended by the late Gordon Fox, of Kingsville, and the late Josephine Wilkinson (Mrs. Ted Smith) of Leamington.

Following the wedding ceremony
Mr. and Mrs. Belcher drove by horse and cutter to Essex, Blythwood, Leamington and Kingsville on their wedding trip.

They started housekeeping on a farm near Kingsville, where they stayed for seven years, then moving to Olinda, farming there for ten years, and in 1902 purchased their farm at North Ridge, (at present owned by J. W.
Kettlewell) where they lived until marrying and coming into Essex, in 1918.

Mr. and Mrs. Belcher have six children living, Ollie (Mrs. S. H. Sadler) and Darius, of Essex; Stella (Mrs.
Basil Holbeck) of Kingsville; Bertha
(Mrs. J. Stanley Coulter), of Windsor; Ora (Mrs. William Brown), of San Antonio, Texas, and Jason, of Woodstock. A daughter, Flosie (Mrs. S. P.
Green) is deceased. They also have 20 grandchildren and 16 great grandchildren.

Mr. Belcher is the last of his family, while Mrs. Belcher has a sister, Mrs.
Ken Ferriss, living at Harrow.

This revered old couple have had the distinct honour of having seven grandsons and three of their granddaughters' husbands in the present world war. Don Green, son of S. P.
Green, Windsor, and the late Mrs.
Green, is with the R. C. C. in Holland, while Isabel and Elizabeth Green's husbands, H. Harridge, of Windsor, and H. McDonald, of Detroit, are in the armed forces, the former stationed in England and the latter with the U.
S. Navy in the South Pacific; Bob and Jim Coulter, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Coulter, are in the Canadian Army, the former with the Signal Corps in Italy and the latter with the Ordnance Corps, stationed in London, Eileen Coulter's husband, Lorne Webster, is with the R.C.A.F. in England; William son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, is a member of the U. S. Army, at present in North Carolina, Pte. Lieut.
Bill Holbeck of the R.C.A.F. is sta-

John, of the R.C.A.F., was killed some months ago while on active duty over German-land Europe. Jack Sadler, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Sadler, of Oxley,

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1945.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES.

There are several unusually "hot" events in the making backstage in Ottawa at this moment. At their gentle murmuring sound can be heard now since the political pot is beginning to boil over, and it is replete with dangerous situations. While the latest by-election reverse has been a severe disruptive force impregnated with political dynamite for the Federal Government, yet this alone has not been the principal cause for these extremely "hot" developments. As a matter of fact, ever since the present administration came into power in the last general election of March 26th, 1940, there have been no less than 18 by-elections, with the Government winning eight, C.C.F. four, the Progressive Conservatives three, and one each by the Labor Progressives, Bloc Populaire and an independent candidate.

In other words, it is possible that the real "hot" developments and causes for stories or directions where there are many questions being asked at this time, with the old saying being applicable that "where there is smoke there is fire."

Why is it that stories of Premier Mackenzie King's possible retirement preceded the resignation of Col. L. L. Ralston as Canada's Minister of National Defence in November of 1944, when he was being mentioned in whispers as a possible successor to the Prime Minister as leader of the Liberal Party? Why are these strange stories recurring now after the time when certain Ministers could have when certain by-election or otherwise taken part in the campaign, why were they elsewhere, such as Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, speaking to a Rotary Club in Windsor, on January 3rd; Hon. J. L. Halsey being in Hamilton on January 15th, as well as afterwards in Winnipeg and Milton; Hon. J. G. Gardiner, addressing a meeting in Regina, on January 17th, and being there several days afterwards; Hon. B. Claxton being in Toronto and Kitchener on January 22nd, as well as Charlottetown on February 1st, and Hon. C. D. Howe, being in Nassau and Jamaica in regard to a bauxite mission? These questions are being asked along Parliament Hill at the present time and it is held that these are impregnated more with real political dynamite about possible future political developments than the reverse itself in the last single by-election, particularly since the Government had stressed clearly and openly that the present administration's record as a whole was not being put to test in this one of 18 by-elections held during the life of the present Administration in the capital.

Canada's Wartime Wages Control Order has been attacked severely in Ottawa as a "most arbitrary decree" and its rulings as being subject to no appeal "infringing on one of the fundamental democratic principles." This Wartime Wages Control Order came into existence by Order-in-Council P. C. 5384 and defined wage rates as well as "froze" them at certain levels, authorizing the creation of a board of four members representing the Government, two the public, one member the employers and one labour. However, the Minister of Labour, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, has come forth with a strong defence of the Order and condemnation of its critics, showing that the national board can hear appeals from decisions of the nine Regional War Labor Boards, and, when the original hearing is held by the National board, the board's decision "shall be reviewed by the Minister of Labour." He has declared in Ottawa that "wage control has been regarded as non-political as a necessary wartime economic measure carried through in the interests of all Canadians," insisting that wage control has been deemed essential in order that Canada would be able to get the benefits of priority in general. "I believe the right of appeal under wage control is much more liberal than in the case of ordinary court actions for wage cases can be always reopened later—which is not the case with final decisions in the regular courts," said the Minister of Labour.

The Government of Canada has moved to see that all possible measures will be taken to block the sale through neutral countries of gold looted by the enemies in occupied areas. This has been disclosed in the capital where it has been pointed out that Canada would refuse to recognize the transference of title to looted gold, nor to buy gold from any country which in the future purchases gold from a country that has not broken relations with the Axis or maintained relations with the Axis unless it is definitely proven to be not looted gold.

The Deputy Minister of the Veterans Affairs Department, Walter S. Woods, has said in Ottawa that the strength of this Department stands at this moment at almost six thousand and that it is increasing at the rate of about 200 a month, with the vast majority of these new additions being veterans of this war and it is being anticipated that in time the Department will require the services of about 12,000 persons.

The Department of Manpower and Supply in Ottawa expects to receive about $300,000,000 when the task is completed of the renegotiation of contracts since it has already recovered no less than $200,000,000 in this renegotiation of contracts for the years 1941 to 1943. Moreover, it has been estimated that the net gain to the Government would be about $40,000,000 on the $200,000,000 involved.

It has been reported in this capital that widows of servicemen who lost their lives on duty with the Canadian forces overseas qualify for the same Civil Service preference as would apply in the case of their husbands for jobs. Likewise, it can be reported that dependents, who draw allowances at the time of the serviceman's death or who receive assigned pay from him at the time of his death as dependent upon him, are entitled to get gratuities, through next-of-kin but dependent on the serviceman at the time of death are not eligible for gratuities. Incidentally, it has been also revealed that dependents of about 10,000 dead servicemen have failed so far to ask for such war service gratuities.

Frederic Dorion, independent member of Parliament for Charlevoix-Saguenay in Quebec, has hinted that independent candidates would contest every single seat in the Province of Quebec in the next general elections. A famous heart specialist, Dr. R. S. Stevens, who helped the former Premier of Canada, Lord Bennett, to regain his health, and who has treated many other well-known persons for this ailment, passed away suddenly in the capital from a coronary weakness, though his own condition was not known to the numerous persons that he trusted along Parliament Hill until the day of his death. Freeman F. Treleven was appointed recently emergency shelter administrator for a certain large centre in Canada but a report has reached Ottawa that in the past week this official has been unsuccessful in his efforts to locate even office "shelter" for himself and his staff. Col. Margaret Eaton, Director-General of the CWAC, and other top-ranking officers of this body, have held an important conference in the capital on corps problems. It was somewhat embarrassing for Dr. T. A. Lorimer, Medical Officer for Health in Canada's capital, Ottawa, when he was fined $25 and costs in city court for not having license number of his auto marked on all the coupons in his gasoline ration book. Col. R. J. Bligh, whistle, Secretary, said in Ottawa that the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association has amended its rules this year to allow girls to become members of cadet shooting teams so that for the first time in history high school girls will be able to participate in the famous Association's small bore matches conducted in this country. He also pointed out that the Association was laying the groundwork for the time when girls in Canada will have their own cadet corps and that this will be a most likely development after the war.

Major General G. Brooke Chisholm, 48, former Director-General of Medical Services, and a well-known figure along Parliament Hill, has retired from the Canadian Army, with this information in Ottawa being accompanied by the report that he has been given an important assignment with the new Health and National Welfare Department in Ottawa as Deputy Minister. Canada's War Machine.

Canada's war machine is as modern as tomorrow's headlines. Its program of battle on the home front and the fighting front is born of the genius of the scientific twentieth century. But the great weapon of its civilian army—the rationing of foods—is almost as old as its civilization for it finds its first precedence in the Canada of 1542.

While in the earlier history it was war which resulted in rationing the first plan in Upper Canada was due indirectly to the American Revolution. United Empire Loyalists came to this country leaving "all behind except their honour." At the end of hostilities the British Government turned its attention towards the plight of these people who with the exception of the few French in the Detroit area, were the first permanent settlers in Ontario.

It was decided that the Loyalists and the disbanded soldiers should receive the same rations as soldiers for three years. These consisted of flour, pork, a limited quantity of beef, a very little butter and salt. Each was allotted an axe, a hoe and a spade. Coarse cloth was provided for trousers and Indian blankets and shoes were distributed and given as equitable a distribution as possible.

Normally three years would have been sufficient to make the new residents independent of government assistance, but when the allowance would have been discontinued Upper Canada suffered "the Hungry Year." In garrisons soldiers shared their rations, so that at Kingston they were reduced to one biscuit a day. At Niagara Falls the King's stores were distributed among the people who lived close by.

"The Hungry Year" served to bring knowledge to the Loyalists of the generosity of the Royal Family. For in 1792 when the commissariat officers at Niagara attempted to collect payment for food distributed during the famine the people presented a petition to Edward Duke of Kent, then on a tour in this country. Receiving the petition he cancelled all debts with the remark that "my father is not a merchant to deal in bread and ask payment for it." The Duke's action was a landmark in the history of the Loyalists.

"The Sugar Situation Is Critical"

Says Canada's Sugar Administrator

"The shortage of sugar supplies for Canada is getting worse instead of better" said Mr. S. R. Noble, Sugar Administrator, in a recent interview. "The total world supply of sugar is less than the urgent requirements."

"Every sugar beet which can be grown in Canada this year will help the situation" added Mr. Noble.

"Full-scale production in Ontario can be a big factor. The plants are able to handle a hundred million pounds refined sugar if the beets are grown."

"40,000 acres of beets will do it. That should be the goal for 1945."

ATTENTION, GROWERS!

If you plant a good field of sugar beets you will have done your share in relieving the shortage.

Remember that sugar beets are the one crop with an assured market and a guaranteed floor price.

Set Aside a Good Field for Sugar Beets!

Watch this paper for the date when contracts will be available for sugar beet producers.

"Language."

Think all you speak; but speak not all you think; thoughts are your own; your words are no more.—Henry De laune.

Language is the armory of the human mind; and at once contains the trophies of its past and the weapons of its future conquests.—Coleridge.

We infer the spirit of the nation in great measure from the language, which is a sort of monument to which each forcible individual in a course of many hundred years has contributed a stone.—Emerson.

The deepest truths are best read between the lines, and for the most part, refuse to be written.—A. Bronson Alcott.

Words are not always the auxiliaries of Truth. The spirit, and not the letter, performs the vital functions of Truth and Love.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Clarence O'Keefe Passes.

Clarence O'Keefe, aged 46, a life-long resident of the 10th Concession of Sandwich South, passed away on Saturday of last week, in Hotel Dieu, Windsor. He had not been well for some months.

Mr. O'Keefe had farmed all his life and had been road superintendent of the township for the past 15 years. He was a member of St. Mary's Church, Maidstone, and the Holy Name Society.

Surviving are his wife, nee Marie Souliere; two daughters, Lillian and Margaret Anne; one son, Alvin, all at home, and a sister, Mrs. Sadie Drouillard, of Windsor.

Funeral services were held from the home on Monday at 8 a.m., at St. Mary's Church, Maidstone, for requiem mass at 9 a.m., and burial was in the church cemetery.

Maidstone-Rochester Red Cross.

A goodly crowd attended the last meeting of the Red Cross. During the day a quilt was quilted and a shipment of quilts and knitted goods were shipped.

Miss Ethel Plant, secretary, read about forty letters of thanks from boys who received Christmas boxes. All letters said in what good shape the articles arrived. After listening to these letters one could never feel that their efforts were not appreciated.

We have had a very good year. We have been able to fill our quotas, but we can still use the help of many more workers.

Plan to attend the next meeting, on Tuesday, February 27th. A quilt will be quilted also.

High School Notes.

On Friday night last the Essex hockey team again scored a double victory, this time at the expense of the Harrow teams. So far this season the girls have won three out of four games, while the boys have won two out of four.

Because of the small floor at Harrow it was a very rough game, but neither team was ahead by more than four points at any time during the game. In the closing minutes of play the score was tied at 29 all. Don Maedel, Essex guard, was awarded a foul shot, which he sank, winning the game.

Don Maedel and Jack Nightingale, Essex guards, played a fine game, and stopped many Harrow shots, and took most of the rebounds. Essex line: Kiger 14, Kane 8, MacOrr 7, Maedel 1, Nightingale, Chodola, Raymond, Terryberry, Leboeuf, Gulliver.

Next Friday night the boys are going to try to avenge the defeat they suffered at the hands of the Amherstburg team in their previous encounter.

Girls' Basketball Game.

Once again the Essex girls' basketball team proved victorious, this time in their game against Harrow. Despite the condition of their gym, it was a good game, ending with the score 33 to 9 in favour of Essex.

The stars were the same as usual, although June Andrew had to put on her knee-pads at the half, she played a swell game. Ellen Rogers and Betty MacDougall showed up good, while Nancy McPherson scored a fine long shot in the second quarter. The guards watched their end of the line and kept the ball from the Essex basket.

Mrs. Emile Souliere Passes.

Mrs. Emile Souliere, aged 88, died on Wednesday of last week, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Felix (Rebecca) Desbours, 1011 Concession, North Woodslee, after a three year illness.

Born in Quebec, Mrs. Souliere has lived in the Woodslee district for the past 74 years. She was a member of the St. Anne de Beaupre Society and was also a member of the Catholic Women's League, Woodslee parish.

The widow of the late William Souliere, she is survived by one son, Albiere, of Tilbury; four daughters, Mrs. Joseph Dore, of Windsor; Mrs. Henry Daudin, Jeanette's Creek; Mrs. Emile Garant, Windsor, and Mrs. Desbours, and one sister, Mrs. Georgina Adam, Windsor; 37 grandchildren and 50 great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held on Saturday from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. at St. John the Evangelist Church, Woodslee, with burial in Annunciation cemetery, at Stoney Point.

Rochester Hotel Does it Again

On Tuesday evening, February 13th, Mr. and Mrs. Camiel Grynompres, better known to the residents of the Woodslee district as Camiel and Theresa, the genial host and hostess of the Rochester Hotel, on No. 98 Highway, again exemplified a wonderful community spirit when they served a wonderful dinner to some 50 guests.

The dinner was served in their well-decorated dining room, and chicken, rabbit, and other well prepared dishes was plenty, due to the crowd being smaller than anticipated due to road conditions.

No direct change was made for the dinner, but rather "give as you wilt" and the receipts of the evening were divided among the Woodslee-Ruscomb Patriotic Association and the Belle River Smokes Fund.

Too much cannot be said in appreciation to Camiel and Theresa in doing the work entailed and giving the proceeds in aid of our boys overseas.

Short speeches were made by Thomas Wharf, president of the W.R.P.A.; Arthur Toller, of the K. of C.; Belle River Smokes Fund; J. Weller, of Essex. Another feature of the evening was the introduction of Mr. and Mrs. Dahl, of Belle River, who were present celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

Due to road conditions being blocked in many sections of the district, it was announced a repeat dinner will be served shortly after Lent.

Again, our hats off to the good hearted host and hostess of the Rochester Hotel.

High School Notes.

On Friday night last the Essex hockey team again scored a double victory, this time at the expense of the Harrow teams. So far this season the girls have won three out of four games, while the boys have won two out of four.

Because of the small floor at Harrow it was a very rough game, but neither team was ahead by more than four points at any time during the game. In the closing minutes of play the score was tied at 29 all. Don Maedel, Essex guard, was awarded a foul shot, which he sank, winning the game.

Don Maedel and Jack Nightingale, Essex guards, played a fine game, and stopped many Harrow shots, and took most of the rebounds. Essex line: Kiger 14, Kane 8, MacOrr 7, Maedel 1, Nightingale, Chodola, Raymond, Terryberry, Leboeuf, Gulliver.

Next Friday night the boys are going to try to avenge the defeat they suffered at the hands of the Amherstburg team in their previous encounter.

Girls' Basketball Game.

Once again the Essex girls' basketball team proved victorious, this time in their game against Harrow. Despite the condition of their gym, it was a good game, ending with the score 33 to 9 in favour of Essex.

The stars were the same as usual, although June Andrew had to put on her knee-pads at the half, she played a swell game. Ellen Rogers and Betty MacDougall showed up good, while Nancy McPherson scored a fine long shot in the second quarter. V. P. U. Notes.

—Considering the prevailing circumstances, the Crokinole party last Monday evening was a decided success.

Approximately 60 people were present, and we are sure everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Following a sing-song and a dainty lunch the prizes were presented. Don Vanstone was the grand champion. The Young People wish to thank all who helped to make this such a success. The next regular meeting, on Monday evening, at 8 o'clock, will be in charge of the Christian Culture convener, Phyllis Harrow. Let's all be there, and on time.

A Correction.

In the obituary of the late Arthur Milne, in our issue of February 9th, we stated that when his father, the late John Milne, came to Essex in 1873, there were only two log houses in town. Our information was very much wrong.

We have since learned that Essex was quite a sized village then. Frank Irwin informs us that his father was born in Essex, in 1839 (the first white child) in a house that stood where the Latter Day Saints Church now stands; also that house in which he himself now lives, was built in 1871, and that his father owned a butcher shop in Essex about that time. We also ran across an item in our file of February 24th, 1905, which stated that Mr. and Mrs. James Robinson moved to Essex in 1842. In fact, the late Charles Chase built the home, now occupied by Wm. O'Hara, in 1873, and the late John McClintick was a resident of the village in 1873.

—L. P. Cottingham has purchased the Badman property on Jenner street.

—The Red Cross workroom is needing sewing machines. If you can loan one, please contact Mrs. Hunter Harrow, Essex. Phone line 103 ring 32.
Essex Euchre League.

—Mr. and Mrs. Chris Smith have received word from their son, Chris Jr., in Holland, in which he states he is eligible for a 30-day leave to Canada, having had five years overseas service.

—Mrs. Frank Hero, of the Whitson subdivision, just above town, underwent an appendix operation in Grace Hospital, Windsor, on Wednesday.

—There will be a meeting, held in the Union Hall, South Woodslee, on Tuesday, February 27th, at 8.30 p.m.
for the purpose of organizing an Essex County Date Line. Clubs interested please attend.

—Ed Young, representative in charge of the Windsor office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, died suddenly while at work in his office, on Tuesday afternoon. He was one of Windsor's best known citizens.

—The Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian Church met at the home of Miss Mattie Wilson, on Wednesday, February 21st. The weather being bad, the attendance was good. After the business was transacted, the hostesses served an excellent lunch.

—The February meeting of the W.
M. S. of Essex United Church, was held at the home of the president, Mrs.
J. A. Naylor. Mrs. A. H. Plant conducted the devotional period, after which the chapter from the study book "West of the Date Line" was ably reviewed by Mrs. A. McPherson. This dealt with the progress of missionary work in the Philippines, and proved to be most interesting and instructive, since attention is focused on that part of the world at the present time. Plans were made for a special thank-offering service to be held in April, with a special speaker for the occasion.

Scout Week.
This week the Girl Guides and Boy Scouts of Canada, along with their brothers and sisters throughout the world, are commemorating the birthday of their beloved founder, Lord Baden-Powell, who passed on to higher service in 1941.

Scout Week in Canada was officially opened last Sunday by the Governor-General, Lord Athlone, Chief Scout for Canada.

The Scouts of the 1st Essex Troop attended their own churches, in uniform, on Sunday morning, when some took leading parts in the services. On Monday evening they were guests of our sponsors, the Rotary Club, and on Tuesday evening a most enjoyable Father and Son bean feed was held in the Scout den. Sound movies of the Alaska Highway project, and of British Scouts in action in the blitz, topped off the evening. On Friday night the Troop will hold open house.

All parents and others interested in Scouting are urged to come to the parish hall at 8 p.m., to see what the boys do in a regular meeting, to live up to the motto set forth by B. P. "Be Prepared."

ESSEX HYBRID CHICKS.

Every breeder in these matings has been handicapped and the same rigid breeding standard as our Pure Breeds undergo has been maintained. Essex Hybrid Chicks feather quickly and grow fast. The pullets have exceptional vigour and the ability to shell out lots of big eggs and keep up production steadily.

The cockerels are a fine broiler chick because they grow more rapidly than pure breeds. Mortality is extremely low.

Five crosses to choose from. Thou-

Maidstone Council.

Monday, February 5th.

Council met this day pursuant to adjournment, with all members present. The minutes of the last meeting were read, and on motion of Messrs. McMurren and Plante, adopted as read.

The Reeve reported that he and the Deputy Reeve had, since the last meeting of the council, owing to condition of the roads, and the limited time in which to enter a defence, had directed the Clerk to have this municipality join with other municipalities in opposing the application of the Union Gas Co. to the Natural Gas Commission for an increased schedule of gas rates over the present rates.

Moved by Mr. Walstedt, seconded by Mr. Plant, that Council approve of the application of the Reeve and Deputy Reeve in the matter of the application of the Union Gas Co. for an increase of gas rates to be charged its consumers.—Car.

Bylaw 1625, to authorize the execution of an agreement between various municipalities for the joint defence of the application of the Union Gas Company to the Natural Gas Commission for increased rates, was finally passed.

John Emery was present and complained to the Council that the Rourke Line was blocked with snow, and that no effort was being made to have same opened. Mr. Emery was advised that the machine for removing snow from the roads was expected to be on the Rourke Line within a day or two.

Moved by Mr. Ruggaber, seconded by Mr. Plante, that the rate of pay for tractors removing snow from roads be $2 per hour.—Car.

Moved by Mr. McMurren, seconded by Mr. Walstedt, that Woodlee Public Library be granted $15.—Car.

Moved by Mr. McMurren, seconded by Mr. Walstedt, that the Reeve and Clerk be directed to sign and submit to the Department of Highways of Ontario the petition of the Corporation of the Township of Maidstone for the statutory grant on Township road expenditure during 1944.—Car.

Court adjourned to meet Monday, March 5th, at 1 p.m.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

Hello, Homemakers! Once more we approach another Lenten Season, heralded by Shrove. Pancakes may be served in any number of ways at breakfast, luncheon or supper.

For light-as-a-feather pancakes heed the directions:

1. Melt fat and then measure.
2. Beat eggs well and mix with melted fat and liquid.
3. Stir liquids into measured dry ingredients until batter is smooth.
4. Put prepared mixture into a pitcher or for pouring conveniently.
5. Have the griddle pan lightly greased and hot (but not smoking hot).
6. Add a small amount of batter (about ¼ cup) and let it cook until bubbles are prominent.
7. Use a cake turner, flip over and brown the other side.
8. Serve pancakes as soon as possible, so they will be at their best.

APPLE PANCAKES.

1 tablespoon shortening, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 eggs, 1½ cups flour, 1½ cups milk, 1 cup apples, chopped fine, cinnamon, milk.

Cream the shortening and sugar, add the beaten eggs, the flour sifted with the baking-powder and a sprinkling of cinnamon, and the chopped apples.

Then gradually add milk to make a medium batter. Bake on a griddle as for ordinary pancakes and serve in an overlapping row around a platter of pork chops, or serve separately with roast pork, either hot or cold. Cooked apples or a dry apple sauce may be used with batter in the same way.

FEATHER PANCAKES.

1½ cups pastry flour, 3¼ teaspoons baking powder, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, well beaten; ¾ cup milk, 3 tablespoons melted fat, ½ teaspoon salt.

Add milk and fat to egg. Stir into dry ingredients vigorously until flour particles disappear. Add one mixing spoonful of batter to hot greased heavy frying pan. When cakes are cooked at the edge, turn and cook on other side. Makes 10 or 12 pancakes.

PANCAKE HAMBURGERS.

Using prepared pancake flour (mix as directed on package) make batter and pour into a pitcher. Bake cakes as directed for feather pancakes. Put pancakes together in pairs with piping-hot thin hamburgers between. Serve on heated plates, accompanied by chili sauce or relish and a crisp vegetable salad.

ORANGE PANCAKES.

1½ cups prepared pancake flour, few gratings nutmeg, 1½ to 2 tablespoons grated orange rind, 1 tablespoon sugar (optional), 1½ cups milk or water.

To pancake flour, add orange rind, nutmeg and sugar. Add liquid, stir until batter is smooth. Turn into pitcher. Fry as directed for feather pancakes on your electric range.

Serve hot, with butter and honey.

THE SUGGESTION BOX.

1. Hold chops, strips of bacon, etc. on the fork till the fat drips off. Save fat for butter substitute.

2. Fold ironed pillow cases and sheets instead of pressing to avoid wear along the creases.

3. If a bleach is used in laundering, it should be thoroughly mixed with the rinse water and two rinses are advised so that none of it will remain in fabric when clothes are not hung outside.

4. Keep dried raisins, apples, figs and prunes fresh by storing in dry glass jars with lids that screw on tightly.

5. Allow egg stains to dry before soaking in cold water—never hot water.

Rules Beer is Essential to War Effort.

In a decision involving a tie-up of beer distribution facilities in Minnesota, the U. S. War Labor Board ruled that beer is "essential to the prosecution of the war."

William H. Davis, chairman of the W. L. B., said he felt that beer is necessary to civilian morale. If the tie-up which involved a disagreement between the Teamsters' Union, A. F. of L. affiliate, and three St. Paul brewers was not settled the Board said the matter would be referred to the President for appropriate action.

Department of Veterans' Affairs.

The Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Veterans' Affairs, this week released figures showing that, during the month of December 3,208 ex-service men and women of this war received benefits under the Post-Discharge Re-Establishment Order. This is the Order under which maintenance grants are paid to veterans of this war who have been discharged from the armed forces and are taking vocational training or higher education, who are unemployed because no suitable work is available, who are awaiting returns from a farm or business venture or are temporarily incapacitated through casual illness.

The grants are on the basis of $60 monthly for single persons and $80 per month for a man and his wife during training or continuation of education, with appropriate allowances for dependents, and $50 and $70 respectively for the other three categories.

December's figures reached an all-time high with the total being an increase of 242 over the November figures and more than 1,250 more than the figures of three months ago.

Also, during December, 11,875 jobs were found for veterans of this war and the First Great War by Employment and Selective Service in co-operation with the Department of Veterans' Affairs.

Of these, 3,148 went to ex-service men and women of this war. To date nearly two hundred thousand jobs have been found for veterans of this war and over 104,500 for veterans of the previous war.

The total figures on placements is considerably in excess of the discharges from the three services during the month, indicating that the employment opportunities for veterans are more than keeping pace with the discharges.

Of the 3,208 veterans in receipt of benefits during the month, 651 received grants while seeking suitable employment although only 485 were receiving them at the end of the month. A total of 111 received payments while temporarily incapacitated and 275 received assistance while awaiting returns from a farm or business venture on their own account. There were 477 receiving grants while taking university or professional training at the end of the month and 1,824 ex-service men and women were receiving benefits while taking vocational or technical

CANADA'S VETERANS

Their Post-War Opportunities

An advertisement explaining to the people of Canada the re-establishment credit available to men and women of the Armed Forces.

The Re-establishment Credit—
AN EXPLANATION OF THE GRANT

In planning the return to civilian life of men and women in the armed forces, Canada's parliament realized that assistance in re-establishment must cover a wide variety of fields. For many—particularly younger members of the forces—the best method of effecting permanent re-establishment will be through training or through an opportunity to continue an interrupted education. Others can be assisted through land settlement—either on full time farms or on small holdings operated with some regular form of employment. In many cases a combination of these two things—training and land settlement—will be the solution. Legislation for this type of re-establishment was provided early in the war.

ANOTHER LARGE GROUP

There is, however, another very large group who do not need training and who are not suited for land settlement as provided under the Veterans' Land Act. After long months or years in uniform, these veterans will need assistance also. There will be those who normally would have owned their own homes but who have their service. There will be those who own homes but who have been unable to carry out needed repairs and alterations. There will be veterans who sold businesses to enlist and who want to resume them, and others who are fitted for a business of their own but who need assistance in financing. The Re-establishment Credit is designed for this latter group, and primarily is an alternative to training and land settlement benefits.

PAID UNDER WAR SERVICE GRANTS ACT

The Re-establishment Credit is made available under the same Act of Parliament which provides War Service Gratuities. It is not a loan but an outright grant, paid to an eligible veteran to aid in re-establishment if the veteran decides not to use land settlement or training benefits. It may be used in Canada only at any time in the ten years following discharge for certain specified purposes as outlined in this advertisement. The grant is called a "credit" because it is an amount carried on the ledger to the credit of the veteran for ten years until used by him for a re-establishment purpose.

HOW TO APPLY FOR RE-ESTABLISHMENT CREDIT

The re-establishment credit is an amount equal to the basic War Service Gratuity—that is $7.50 for each 30 days' service in the Western Hemisphere and $15.00 for each 30 days' service overseas. The amount is computed by the branch of the armed forces with which the veteran served, and for that reason application first must be made for the War Service Gratuity. When a statement showing the amount of the basic gratuity has been received by the veteran, the amount of the re-establishment credit may be made to the Department of Veterans Affairs on a form which may be secured from

Your Car Must be in A-1 Condition.

"Protect your automobile tires," declares the Rubber Controller emphatically, "and make them last as long as you can. They are yours and the nation's most valuable property."

"Watch the alignment of your front wheels. Any time you hit a curb or other object a hard blow, or if your tires are showing a feather edge, have alignment checked. Misalignment, resulting in excessive 'toe in' or 'toe out,' may wear a new tire completely through its tread in a few hundred miles."

"Then, match your two front and back tires. Tires always grow while in service. Don't judge by tread design depth. Measure the outside diameter of your tires frequently, for there should not be more than ¼ inch difference between them in overall diameter. Some people might tell you ½ inch, and that might do in normal times, but the expert will assure that ¼ inch maximum difference is better. Otherwise one tire carries more than its share of the load and will fail earlier."

"Mechanically your car should be in A-1 condition. With alignment under control, have your garage man test the camber, caster, kingpin inclination, springs, shock absorbers, wheel balance and the ball bearings."

Fire Fighters?

The heroic work of our 4,753 full-time firemen, and thousands of volunteers, in providing a vital safeguard for our everyday lives is all too often taken for granted. All of us owe these men a great deal.

To each of them, we of Greyhound Lines pay sincere tribute. And we are proud of the fact that we have one thing in common. They are fighting hard to improve the safety record of our country—and so are we. In these tense times we feel that Greyhound's safe, convenient transportation is playing its part in making our country a safer, happier place to live.

ANNOUNCING

SHUR-GAIN

18 p.c. Chick Starter

A GOOD START — A SUCCESSFUL LIFE
WITH SHUR-GAIN.
PLANNING—PRODUCTION—PROFITS

As nearly as can be estimated, 15,000,000 chicks got their start in life on SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter last year. The SHUR-GAIN Empire extends from coast to coast in Canada — SHUR-GAIN really rules the roost. SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is the universal favourite, for three chief reasons:

1. Attractive Feed — SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is made from ingredients of the highest quality only. It is FRESH — it is PALATABLE. Chicks like it and eat the amounts they need for maximum growth.
2. Attractive Chicks — Because SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is made with a content of high-class animal protein which ensures efficient use and growth — because it is fortified well above need with the vitamins required for health and growth (A, D and G) because it is palatable and readily eaten — chicks THRIVE on it.
3. Attractive Prices — Because SHUR-GAIN is made in the neighbourhood mill, with resulting elimination of all unnecessary charges, it can be sold for less than other starters, in spite of its superior quality.

At the Rotary Club, on Friday evening, Dr. C. A. Coyne, of Leamington, gave an interesting and instructive address, illustrated by charts, on the "Formation and Care of Teeth." Wm. White, of North Ridge, a former president of Rotary in Leamington, was received into membership.

It takes more than rubber to make a tire... natural or synthetic. It takes experience and "know-how"... it takes engineering and compounding. That's why we say: Come in and see Goodyear's Synthetic Tire before you buy any tire. There are many good reasons!

"The Kingdom Come," fifth in a series on the Lord's Prayer, will be the theme at the unified service at the United Church at 10:30 a.m., next Sunday morning. The Sunday school lesson is entitled, "Jesus the Son of God." On Sunday evening, at 7:30, the Young Men's Bible Class, of which Verne Terryberry is teacher, will sponsor a special service. The Essex Young Men's class will conduct the service, bringing special music numbers. Their teacher, Alvin Loucks, will speak.

The February meeting of the W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. A. Cootie, on Thursday afternoon, February 15th, with an attendance of 20, and the president, Mrs. D. R. Jones, in charge. After the business period the Study Book was presented by Mrs. A. Ewing's group, the various parts being taken by Mrs. Kay, Mrs. Neupert, Mrs. A. New- ick and Mrs. Ewing. Two visitors were present, three new members enrolled, and books distributed to encourage missionary reading among the members. At the close of the meeting a light lunch was served by the group in charge. An invitation from the Anglican W. A. to view slides on the Study Book, "West of the Date Line," was accepted for March 22nd, in the Trinity Church.

On Sunday morning, at a special installation and communion service, the Y. P. U. presented the church with a beautiful hand-carved Baptismal Font. The president, Erma Heil, made the presentation and the pastor conducted a dedication service. The thirty-first anniversary of Cottam church will be held on Sunday, March 4th, with Rev. J. A. Walker, B.A., of Harrow, and Rev. Dr. H. Mick, M.A., of Central United Church, Windsor, as speakers.

Essex County's First Post-War Project.

A county Post-War Project of the first magnitude, got off to a flying start, on Monday evening, at an Assumption College Victory Fund Campaign dinner, held in the College dining room.

W. H. Furlong, K.C., general chairman of the College Victory Fund Campaign, told those in attendance that the cost of the proposed expansion of Assumption College is estimated at $75,000. He stated that the expansion is a MUST, for whereas today the college has 350 students, exclusive of about 700 students taking High School courses, and no more can be accommodated due to lack of class rooms, in post war days there will be a minimum of 1,200 young men most of whom will be ex-service men, who will want to complete their education, and we must, in all fairness, have proper facilities ready to meet this emergency and not let our boys down. "It is quite an undertaking with all the other drives on these days," he said,
"but if we wait it will never be done.
If ever there was a time when we need leadership it is now, to provide higher education to train men in leadership." Hundreds of 'teen age boys left their studies to enlist in our fight for freedom, and when they return they will want to continue their education, and those who do not should be persuaded to do so, he said.

Mr. Ferguson, Charles Ferguson, graduate of Assumption, district chairman and organizer of the Expansion project, asserted it was the duty of those at home to look after our boys on their return and back the campaign, the slogan of which should be "We can and we will."

C. M. Strickland.
Mr. Strickland spoke on the rehabilitation needs as regards to more an-greater accommodations in schools of learning. He stated there were 22, 000 enlistments from Essex and Kent Counties, and that 8,000 young men from across the border had enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in Windsor. Lots of these boys, when they come back, will want a higher education and at present there is no room to take advancement in Ontario, or even in Canada, we must enlarge. The Government is going to subsidize education. Our boys will get the financial help, but they will want to stay at home and enjoy deserve the best home education. If the boys from the U.S.A. want to complete their education, they must do so in Canada if they want to take advantage of government financial help.

"It is impossible for our government or any of its agencies to start a school," he said, "so it is up to us at home to see that the proper facilities are ready on their return." He told the committee in charge that a government office would be open shortly, on Victoria street, "if there is anything we can do, call on us as we certainly intend to call on Assumption."

Ernest Gignac.
Mr. Gignac explained that the county has been divided into ten districts and that if each canvasser would bring in at least $100, a total of well over $300,000 could be raised, and he was sure if this figure was reached the Special Names and Industries would do the rest. He considered it a civic duty to back the program.

George R. Weller.
Mr. Weller assured the chairman that he was happy to be associated with the drive. He appraised his audience of the fact that over 30% of the students attending Assumption this year are non-Catholic. We, in the county, are fast awakening to better and cheaper education. He said that he understood the returned man, who wished to continue his education would be awarded $80 a month the first year and $60 a month up to the fourth year, while attending schools of higher learning. He assured his fellow-workers of a conscientious drive in South Essex.

Father Mulvihill, Burser of the College, explained the plan in detail.
Dr. Paul Poisson said he considered it a privilege to do his small bit.
Assumption College has always been a shining light in education and they deserve support in the present drive on gratitude alone. "It is a great postwar plan," he stated, "in fact it is the most important post-war plan that has so far come to my attention." Col.
Poisson advocated establishment of short courses during the winter months for farmers and their sons.
"I am sure that every farmer here tonight will agree that 75% of our farms in the county do not produce what they could," he said. "We train men in science and professions. Why can we not educate the farmer, too?"
In closing he said those of Catholic faith were proud to have those of Protestant faith assisting in the drive.

Henry Cantelon.
Mr. Cantelon said this is to be the largest campaign ever in the county, and that 31,000 people would be canvassed. He advised the workers that it is always the rank and file who make any campaign a success.
T. Whall, of Detroit, as well as Fr. Rogers, also of Detroit, president of the General Alumni Association, assured support from the hundreds of old grads in the Detroit area.

Rev. Fr. Guinan, president of Assumption, in a few words said that the campaign would be the building of a democratic education, and that while cooperation is essential,

Cpl. R. J. Brown Home.

Cpl. R. J. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Brown, of Laird avenue, in town, was one of the casualty cases from European battlefields who arrived in Canada recently on the hospital ship Letitia. He is, at present, hospitalized in the military hospital, London, reaching there on Sunday.

Cpl. Brown enlisted in the summer of 1943, while working at the Ford Motor Co. Plant. He was a member of the Lincoln and Welland Regiment.
In October of last year he was one of thirteen to return from "a lost patrol" (an item of their experiences was in the Free Press of November 10th). In this engagement he suffered a head wound, but never left active service.

He was not so fortunate the second time when, as he and six other of his comrades were riding in a jeep, in action, they struck a land mine and were all thrown at least 30 feet in the air.
He was unconscious for half an hour.
The first thing he remembers was when he was being given a blood transfusion. Due to this accident his right leg had to be amputated above the ankle, the same leg was broken near the thigh and he received a deep hip wound. While he is at present in a cast nearly to his chest, he told his father, who went to London on Sunday to meet him, that the doctors say he will be able to come home in about a month's time.

Cpl. Brown has high praise for the Red Cross and urges all to support the coming Red Cross drive.

Burley Men Meet.

A meeting of the Directors of the Burley Tobacco Marketing Association of Ontario was held in the William Pitt Hotel, Chatham, on Monday, February 26th, to discuss requirements for the 1945 Burley Tobacco crop.

The Directors representing the buying members of the Association reported that there was a need for Burley Tobacco and felt that the market could safely stand a production up to 15 million pounds per year for a period of three or four years and that the market needed the same proportion of heavy and light tobacco as in 1944, that is, about 40% heavy tobacco. However, they stressed the point that heavy tobacco, particularly Broadleaf, Regatta and should be grown in heavy soil.

It was also decided that members of the Association could grow any amount of Burley Tobacco that they could reasonably take care of and that new growers in 1945 would be accepted as members upon proper application being made and on condition that they do grow Burley Tobacco in 1945.
It was also agreed that all those wishing to grow Burley Tobacco should make application before July 1st, 1945.

J. A. Francis Dies.

James Alexander Francis, passed away suddenly, on Saturday morning, at his home, 80 Maple street, Windsor, from a heart attack. He was 78 years of age.

Deceased owned and operated a general store in Essex for 16 years, about 40 years ago, in the building now occupied by Ransom's Restaurant, while the Francis family during the years they resided in town, lived in the Mrs. T. B. S. Tweedale house on Talbot street.

Mr. Francis sold out his business and left Essex about 1906, after being appointed to the Dominion Customs staff at Windsor. He retired four years ago.

Surviving are his widow, the former Grace McAfee; a son, John M., passenger agent for the New York Central Lines, Windsor; and a brother, Charles H., of Toronto; also two grandchildren,
William J. Francis, of the R.C.O.C., overseas, and Mrs. Dorothy Perkins, of Windsor. A son Charles predeceased him some years ago.

Funeral services were held from the James H. Sutton Funeral Home, Windsor, on Tuesday, with interment in Windsor Grove Cemetery.

Salvage Day.

Recently the response to this very worth-while I.O.D.E. war project has been poor. Many I.O.D.E. chapters across Canada are making thousands of dollars a year from salvaged papers for war purposes. The people of Essex could do much better.

The money derived from this source, used only for war purposes travels far and wide. The local chapter donates to the Navy League, Service Libraries, adopted ships, Service Clubs, Prisoners of War funds, British Clothing, British War Goods, Polish, Chinese and Greek Relief and other war funds.

Also every month ten dollars is given toward our own boys boxes. Sorry to say that the months of January and February netted only seven dollars for the salvage which did not even meet the obligation to our own Women's Patriotic Auxiliary.

Friday, March 2nd is Salvage Day — then start saving every scrap of paper for next month's salvage.

A Week's Review of Ontario Legislature.

Measures to aid conditions in the post war era were forecast in the Speech from the Throne delivered by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews at the opening of the second session of Ontario's 21st Legislature at Queen's Park last week. These include legislation to facilitate necessary planning by municipalities, conservation and flood control in many areas where conditions now warrant improvement, and many advance steps in health and educational matters.

Historic procedure in opening ceremonies was brushed aside during the event when the guard-of-honour, composed of 100 overseas service troops who had seen duty either in Italy or France, were marched to the floor of the chamber. Heretofore, the guard remained outside the building after being reviewed by the Lieutenant-Governor and the Premier.

Education lays the foundation for the strength of Ontario and of every other part of Canada, his Honour said, dealing with this phase of Ontario life. Most important single step taken is the assumption by the Government of 50% of total cost of elementary and secondary education through the Province.

"This will make it possible to equalize educational opportunity as never before and enable the Department of Education to accelerate improvement of many of our less satisfactory schools," his Honour declared. "It will greatly relieve the taxation burden on real estate for school purposes and in this way have the effect of encouraging building and improvement of homes where all education begins."

Much has already been done to improve possibilities of good rural education, his Honour explained. About one-quarter of the old school sections have been merged in Township School areas. This brings to children in the rural schools better teachers, standard courses of instruction and wider opportunities to continue their education through the secondary school grades. Special grants have been offered to rural high schools which adopt the regular school courses to local needs by instruction of practical agricultural shop work and economics, and also open the school for use as a community centre and provide hot lunches for pupils who come from a distance. Thirty schools have already undertaken, on this special program. Many others have indicated their intention of following the same course when staff and equipment permit. More rural schools with an enrolment below eight have been closed temporarily bringing the number so closed up to 425. Value of this policy is not so much the saving in cost as it is improvement of instruction which can be given in the larger class-rooms.

The provincial scholarship plan, he said, has been expanded to aid able but needy students. Some 518 winners of scholarships and bursaries are now studying in our universities, normal schools and other institutions of higher learning. A new step has been taken in advanced technical training by opening of the Ontario Mining Institute at Haliburton under direction of an advisory committee which represents all phases of mining activity.

Delay in calling a Dominion-Provincial conference was criticized, the Speech commenting that "with the brighter hope for victory in Europe, the need for such a conference has come increasingly imperative and the government has again asked that at least a preliminary meeting be held to settle the basic principles upon which inter-governmental co-operation must rest if some of the most important plans for post-war reconstruction, rehabilitation and social services are to be prepared upon a workable basis."

Other legislation foreseen is the new securities act to tighten control of stock transactions; a bill to revise existing election machinery, the first measure being introduced by Attorney-General L. E. Blackwell which gives all members of the armed forces the direct ballot, replacing the proxy system in force in the August 1943 election. There will be amendments to the Minimum Wage Act to give better remuneration for women and reduce hours of work from 52 to 48 a week.

Touching on health matters, his Honour said the Department of Health is making sustained efforts to reduce the incidence of social disease. Control of tuberculosis is still mainly one of increased diagnostic facilities and adequate sanatorium accommodation. Mass survey of entire communities by X-rays is both practicable and effective. An extension of this method of needed sewage disposal plants is being considered in an increasing number of communities now in need of this type of service. Over-crowding of mental hospitals continues to be a cause of concern, but plans are ready for an extensive program of mental hygiene to be implemented when fifty-seven psychiatrists of the department return from army service. Reduction of incidence of cancer continues to receive attention of the government. Members of the Cancer Foundation have worked with the department in the evolution of a program for an extension of diagnostic and curative services for this condition.

Agriculture, his Honour said, continues to be the most important basic industry in Ontario. Production increased in spite of critical shortage of farm labour, and demands upon our farmers this year will be equally great. Study has been devoted to organization and administration of the Ontario Agricultural College, the Macdonald Institute and the Ontario Veterinary College. Appropriate steps will be taken to bring these important institutions under a co-ordinated administration plan to make the utmost use of all the educational, research and other facilities. County agricultural committees have been organized in many counties and his Honour said it seems likely "most, if not all, the counties of Ontario will soon have committees of outstanding farmers to guide and assist agricultural production in their own counties."

Heavy Dominion taxation, manpower shortage and wartime restrictions continue to depress Ontario's great mining municipalities, his Honour stated. Recommendations of the Ontario Mining Commission set up by the DREW Government are being implemented, and others will be considered in forthcoming legislation.

Municipalities of the province have shown by their reports their sound financial position and have led the way in debt reduction for the whole of Canada. Investments in post-war reserves already total $1,827,569. Legislation will permit municipalities to collect taxes from Crown tenants of commercial properties.

The Government recognizes that the forests, lands and streams, and their resources constitute Ontario's greatest asset for employment of skills of people and their health and enjoyment, the Speech declared. Modern insecticides are to be purchased to be used in aerial methods to control budworms.

Both the Department of Highways and Public Works have prepared plans ready for a post-war program of capital expenditures on King's Highway will be confined to those highways serving military camps, airports and bridge design have been advanced war industries. Engineer data and bridge design have been advanced in the post-war program so that work could be started on short notice should the necessity arise to provide employment for returning war veterans or those presently engaged in war industries. The Department of Public Works has plans prepared and work projected for a program of building construction which will have a beneficial and far-reaching effect, providing nine million man days' work throughout the province. The amount of work so provided will apply to all branches of the construction industry including not only personnel engaged in or directly connected with the actual building operations but also those engaged directly and indirectly in production, supply and manufacture of materials and equipment. It is proposed to proceed with building projects urgently needed to fill present requirements as soon as necessary men, materials and equipment can be obtained.

The Ontario Hydro Commission, despite restricted supply of labour and materials has constructed 400 miles of transmission lines and 100 miles of extension primary lines, chiefly short extensions to existing lines in 1943. Service was given to about 10,000 new consumers, 7,000 of whom received service from lines already existing. The Commission also has plans for a vigorous 5-year post-war rural Hydro program. Average power sold to all rural consumers increased by nearly 14 per cent. The Commission is encouraging greater consumption by rural consumers which will further reduce cost of power. "There is need for a comprehensive and effective solution of the problem of flood control, especially in certain watersheds in Southern Ontario," his Honour declared. "The government recognizes that any fully effective undertakings designed to control floods must combine the appropriate engineering projects with a broad and complete program of conservation and restoration and development of natural resources of the whole watershed."

Main responsibility in this regard is necessarily with municipal governments, his Honour said. The Conservation and Flood Control Bill will provide for establishment of conservation and flood control authorities to be appointed by the municipalities concerned.

The Town and Regional Planning bill will enable municipalities to carry out their plans effectively in post-war work, enabling a group of municipalities to enter into a joint plan where they have common planning problems.

Hiring of Housewives for Part Time Employment

Housewives may now be engaged for part-time jobs, for periods of up to three full work shifts in a week, without Selective Service permit, according to a statement issued today by Arthur McNamara, Director of National Selective Service.

Previously, Selective Service required permits wherever a housewife was being engaged for more than 24 hours employment in the week. The new rule permits employment without permit, even where the three full shifts total more than 24 hours work for the week. Also it will not be necessary for an employer engaging a housewife for not more than three work shifts in the week, to secure permission of National Selective Service to advertise for this type of employee.

The new ruling arises out of interpretation of "part-time subsidiary employment" which is exempted under Selective Service Regulations from permit requirements.

Nazi Prison Camp Studies are Described by Student.

By J. E. Thompson.

(Captain Thompson was wounded and captured at Dieppe in August of 1942 and was repatriated to Canada last September.)

For the first time in our lives we tasted the fruits of leisure: We had time to think, to reflect, to read, to play — 12 hours a day, seven days a week. But the fruits were not sweet. They were soured by the sombre shadow of barbed wire a few yards from our windows — the barbed wire that fenced 400 of us in an enclosure scarcely big enough to serve as a softball diamond.

Stifling boredom, deadening monotony and a despairing sense of frustration and desolation — these men were the real fruits of "leisure" as prisoners of war in Germany. They sowed the seeds of a lethargy that could be shaken off only by an extreme effort of will, or by the sympathetic interest of the world from which we were temporary outcasts.

In the first hours and days of captivity, we had known the shock and horror of being wounded in action, or the frustration of being captured unhurt. The tension and excitement of evacuation from front-line areas to hospitals or prison camps in the heart of enemy country.

Then followed weeks — and sometimes months — of readjustment to "Kriegsgefangenschaft" in prison hospitals or camps: The first thrill of being welcomed by veteran "Kriegsgefangene" who had been "guests" since 1940; the genuine surprise and delight, after 10 days of near-starvation, to find that each "Kriegsgefangener" received a Red Cross food parcel once a week, including 50 British cigarettes; the business of settling into the routine of prison life, where the element of time assumes a new and not easily defined relation.

The grating toasts of the day, the home become a spectral shadow, the "Kriegsgefangene" and "tomorrow," are merely "a little while ago" or "soon." The Germans had a word for it — "Morgenfrüh," which translates literally as "tomorrow morning," but which we came to understand as "a week from some Tuesday."

We were in a special category of course. Officer-prisoners may not be compelled to work, according to the Geneva Convention, and, according to our own code, may not volunteer for such work. Non-commissioned officers are in the same category. Other ranks must work for the enemy, so long as that work is not directly connected with the war effort.

For officers and N.C.O.'s and for men in hospitals or in Stalags awaiting posting to jobs, time thus became an oppressive vacuum to be filled with sports or card-games or reading, as soon as the novelty of this new life had worn off. Conversation soon became a trial after we had lived in the same room or hut with the dozen or score men for months on end.

It was into this fateful atmosphere of boredom and monotony that news of the Canadian Legion Educational Services for prisoners-of-war came like a breath of fresh air. There had been educational classes operating in Oflag and Stalags when we arrived in Germany, but they were British and were chiefly confined to languages or special courses, such as law, medicine, secretarial, sales and commercial courses, etc.

The Legion services were a real tonic from home: They were Canadian; they offered specific high school and university courses which would be granted official credit when we arrived home; and even for those who did not want to take specific courses they offered books by and for Canadians.

We had had a reason before to be proud of our Canadian citizenship — when we received our first Canadian Red Cross food parcels; when we heard prisoners of every Allied nationality declare that the Canadian Red Cross parcels the best of all food parcels, and we received our Christmas gifts from the Canadian government, the Canadian Red Cross and the Canadian Prisoners-of-War Relatives' Association.

But now we had the special satisfaction of knowing the folks at home were not only interested in our health and comfort as prisoners, but that their sympathetic understanding of the problem of prison life had led them to recognize how much we would appreciate the chance to make good use of ourselves we had feared would be completely wasted.

Now we had a chance to improve ourselves, to prepare ourselves for post-war rehabilitation through our own efforts, to come out of prison better citizens than we had entered, better equipped to earn our own living.

How we, more than 2,000 of us captured at Dieppe in 1942, and several hundreds of other men captured during four years of Canadian air activity over enemy territory — how we welcomed that opportunity and how we made use of it, I hope to describe in the second and third articles of this series.

To Control Corn Borer.

The destruction of all corn refuse in the early spring (before May 20th) or in the preceding autumn still remains the standard control for the European corn borer. To be effective, this practice should be carried out by all growers over a wide area, otherwise moths from farms where no clean-up was made will fly to and re-infest farms where proper precautions had been taken.

STRATEGY OF DIVISION.

By David Lister Routledge.

There are times when German tactics seem to lose touch with reality; times, even when they seem too absurd to warrant serious thought. Perhaps, with their accustomed shrewdness, the Germans have come to lean on the probable disbelief as one of the most effective weapons in their arsenal of deceit.

While the allied public and some of its officials were engaged in picking a date for V day, von Rundstedt lashed out in one of the most unexpected moves of any of the German campaigns. Being the realists they are, the German General Staff could not have deluded themselves that even substantial victory could have changed the ultimate course of the war. This was not 1940, and the issue had been decided long since by that inexorable logic that German military mind has always been quick to realize, that an army of growing force and expanding supply must inevitably succeed over an army where supplies and manpower are dwindling.

What made this new and desperate sacrifice worth while? Surely not the distant hope of a dramatic if inconclusive victory. Perhaps the answer lies more clearly in a peculiar instance of Dr. Goebbels' strange genius when he fathered a broadcast, purportedly sponsored by the BBC, pouring adulation on the shoulders of Field Marshal Montgomery as the rescuer of befuddled and defeated American armies.

The grim and desperate thrust into the Ardennes salient and the high burlesque of Joseph Goebbels singing the praises of British Montgomery, were left to carry the load. Easy, too, in the light of early events to suggest that American leadership had been inept and to awake bitter controversy on the relative merits of leadership.

It all runs true to the pattern. Early in July of 1944 von Ribbentrop was using the same devices in Finland. Saw division and reap the benefits. The plan was simple as Ribbentrop outlined it to the leaders of Germany still in Helsinki, as Goebbels or von Rundstedt might have outlined it in the dying months of the year. Germany's military resources, Ribbentrop assured his hearers, were equal to another year of slow retreat, turning often to inflict heavy losses, particularly on the Americans, whose people might be expected to have started by high casualties in Europe and most easily led to division and recrimination. A wedge was to be driven between the Anglo-Saxons and the Russians by focusing on the dangers of rival ideologies. Believing that the Russians would stop some, where between the line of the Visula and the Oder, Germany would hold a thin United States for saving democracy by keeping Russia out of central Europe.

So ran the plan of July, dovetailing neatly with the plan of December. However, you ring the changes on it, it remains the same. Division. Division to soften the will to unconditional surrender for unconditional victory, to leave disunity where unity should be. Beware Germany's last bid for ultimate triumph. Who serves division serves Germany. — Liberty Magazine, March 10th.

Preparing Poultry for Most Profit.

The attractive appearance of a well-packed box of poultry is not a matter of accident. It represents a great measure of art and the exercise of exacting care throughout a chain of activities. So much so, that even when the greatest pains have been taken in the feeding, fattening, killing, dressing, and packing, the fine bloom and sales' appeal of the poultry may have been spoiled if correct methods had not been adopted in processing and pre-cooling. Clean boxes neatly stencilled and of correct size should always be used.

To assist farmers and all connected with the poultry industry in turning out the best product, the Dominion Department of Agriculture has revised and published the publication on "Standard Methods for the Preparation of Market Poultry." The publication has several illustrations and deals with killing and bleeding, cup and head weights, plucking, cleaning and flushing, pre-cooling, head wrapping, selecting birds for packing, and packing, lining, and stencilling the boxes, with a note on frozen storage. A copy of the publication may be obtained by writing to Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

FRIDAY, MARCH 2, 1945.

To Help the Veteran Help Himself.

Attending McGill University this year is an ex-service man who enlisted in the Army at eighteen, back in 1939, to avoid returning to High School for his third year. Being under the age limit, he didn't realize his hopes of going overseas with the First Division, but he did make it with the Third. One very dark night, during those long months of training and waiting which was the lot of the Canadian Army for so long, the motorcycle he was riding collided with a truck and he received injuries which eventually led to him being repatriated and discharged late in 1942.

His first job, which he obtained through the assistance of the Veterans' Welfare Counsellors, was in a Government department under the law giving preference to the civil service to ex-service men and women. As a great deal of his work concerned legal documents, he became intrigued with law as a career.

His former, somewhat skeptical, high school principal agreed to arrange a curriculum enabling him to complete his junior matriculation in one year. The Department of Veterans' Affairs authorized the course with maintenance grants and he proved that three years service had altered his outlook enormously by graduating with outstanding honours. His course at McGill, preparatory to entering law school, was immediately authorized.

This was an achievement few students accomplish, but this veteran achieved even more. After a short time at McGill the university authorities advanced him from first year to second year studies, which is an exceptional accomplishment for a man who joined the army to get away from school. It is also an excellent illustration of the co-operation extended by educational institutions to ex-service men and women.

Just before he entered McGill in September, 1944, he got married and the Department of Veterans' Affairs raised his maintenance grant to $80 per month, and pay, in addition, the tuition and other fees of the course. The Department will continue to pay his fees and maintenance grant, subject to continued satisfactory progress, until he is graduated.

This is just one case of nearly six hundred ex-service men and women for whom the department have authorized university or professional courses. Already some of these have graduated and are re-established in suitable positions in civil life.

Miss..... is one of the latter. She wanted to be a dental nurse and applied to the University of Toronto for the one year course. Although they had long ceased to accept applications for this course because of overcrowding, and her educational standards were somewhat below the minimum standards required, they agreed to enroll her. The Department then authorized the course, paying all fees and a maintenance grant. She graduated one day last May and two days later was employed with a Toronto dentist at a salary she describes as "entirely satisfactory."

Reinstatement of School Teachers.

A note of warning that school boards must be prepared to reinstate any of their teachers who have been serving with the Armed Services was sounded this week by Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labour, in a statement issued to the press.

"In a few cases which have come to the notice of the Department of Labour," the Labour Minister said, "it appears that some school boards have got into difficulties by forgetting that the Reinstatement in Civil Employment Act requires them to reinstate their teachers after discharge from the Armed Services just as other employees must be reinstated. School boards should protect themselves when engaging substitutes to replace teachers who have gone into the Armed Services, by inserting a clause in the contract that the engagement of the substitute may be terminated after the return of the teacher from the Forces."

The Minister said that some school boards have taken the necessary precautions, and that so far cases where difficulties have arisen are few and far between. However, all school boards expressed the hope that all school boards make the necessary provision in engaging teachers as replacements for those with the Services.

"Boards might well consult with the Employment and Selective Service offices, which administer the Reinstatement in Civil Employment Act," the Labour Minister added.

Experimental work by the Division of Entomology, Dominion Department of Agriculture, has demonstrated that insects and mites affecting grain in storage can be controlled by fumigation with chloropicrin and this method has been employed generally by grain companies in Canada.

women discharged on medical grounds, are examined by the Canadian Pension Commission automatically and a report on the decision rendered is forwarded to the veteran in due course. If the decision is adverse, the letter also includes instructions as to the method of making a formal application by the veteran for a second hearing within ninety days.

If application for a second hearing is made, the ex-service man is furnished with all the evidence pertinent to his case in the files of the department, and he may include any additional evidence he may have. Again a decision is rendered and this decision, if unsatisfactory, may be taken before an appeal board of the Pension Commission, whose decision is final.

This procedure is extremely fair, and to assure veterans of free legal advice and assistance in preparing their claims for the second hearing or appeal board, a Veterans' Bureau has been set up by the Government, from whom ex-service men and women may obtain free advice and representation. Thus, if the final decision is still negative, the veteran knows he has had a fair deal and why he cannot be made a pensioner.

Pensioners of this war have illustrated that it is what they have left that counts, and they have done, and are doing amazing things. Particularly is this true of amputation cases. One of these, a double hand amputation, recently ran up a score of 207 in a five-pin bowling game. A similar case, working as a paper tester in a factory, uses clippers and other tools and is so good that his colleagues sometimes hand him a piece of paper and say: "Here, Al, feel the texture of this."

Another lost his left hand and left eye during the bombing in England and is in receipt of 90 per cent pension. He is now working as a driver salesman for a mineral water company in the heavy traffic areas round Hamilton. He has taken advantage of another of the Acts designed to assist veterans' rehabilitation, the Veterans' Land Act, and lives on a small holding near that city.

Small holdings are of two types: the kind referred to above, where the main income is derived from industrial employment, and the other type in connection with commercial fishing. Both types embody decent housing on a acre or more of land as close to the veterans' work as possible, but outside the high taxation areas.

Any ex-service man or woman with suitable personal qualities and overseas service, or a year of service in Canada, is eligible for benefits under the Veterans' Land Act; either a small holding or a farm, but authorization of the benefit is being largely confined to disabled or special cases until the end of the war makes materials, labour and machinery available in sufficient quantities to make the project practical.

There is very little difference in the rules governing the purchase of a farm or a small holding, except that in Canada, the land must be sold to the veteran is not expected to exceed five or six hundred dollars. Up to $4,800 is allowed for the purchase of land and buildings and up to $1,200 for stock and equipment. The veteran is free to choose any suitable farm in Canada, but any amount in excess of the maximum figures, plus ten per cent of the purchase price, must be paid in cash at the time of the purchase.

The property and stock are originally bought by the administrator of the Act, who in turn sells it at the same price plus cost of any improvements to the veteran who contracts to pay two-thirds of the purchase price over a period of twenty-five years, or less, with interest at 3 1/2 per cent. The balance of the purchase price, plus the amount paid for stock and equipment becomes a grant from the state, conditional on the veteran living up to his agreement for a ten-year period. Under the terms of maximum financing, the yearly payment would be $194.14 and the grant $2,420.

As a result of a suitably qualified themselves, and whose husbands meet the standards of stability, thrift and experience, are eligible too. However, if she marries an ex-service man, only one will be qualified, as the purpose of the Act is to re-establish ex-service personnel, not to provide rewards for service.

An ex-service man or woman is entitled to free medical treatment for any condition arising within a year after discharge and a great many, with complaints both major and minor, are taking advantage of this. When they are discharged they receive, at the time of their dental examination, a form which, if forwarded to the Department of Veterans' Affairs within ninety days after discharge, will permit them to have the dental treatment recommended by the dental officer.

As a part of the discharge procedure, members of the Forces fill in the application forms for their war service gratuities, payment of which, in monthly instalments, will exceed the amount of a month's pay and allowances in effect at discharge, starts approximately one month later. As the veteran receives a month's pay and allowances in advance, and $100 clothing allowance at the time of discharge, he is thus financially independent for a considerable time, allowing him to choose his career in civil life from a wider variety of choices.

The Re-establishment Credit part of the War Service Grants Act is to be administered by the Department of Veterans' Affairs and may be used any time within ten years of discharge for such purposes as buying a home, furniture, or a business, up to two-thirds of the purchase price, or to defray the complete cost of repairs to a home, tools, instruments, or equipment for a trade or business, or to provide capital for a business.

Benefits received under the Veterans' Land Act, for vocational training, or higher education, count against this credit, but the credit may be re-instated by repayment of that part used for such purposes.

It is the law of Canada that bona fide employees shall be entitled to their old job back if they apply for it within three months of discharge, and are physically and mentally capable of doing the work satisfactorily. The Act also recognizes the problems of the employer and has incorporated safeguards against changing economic conditions. Generally it has been found that employers are willing to "lean over backwards" to re-instate their former employees.

Ex-service men and women are also entitled to preference in the Civil Service for appointments for which they are qualified and for preference in all government contracts.

The Veterans' Insurance Act makes available insurance from $1,000 to $10,000 in multiples of $500 to ex-service personnel without medical examination, except under certain circumstances. Application may be made for insurance under this Act up to three years after discharge or three years after the Act becomes law. Widows or widowers of veterans may also apply for insurance on themselves of the veteran has not taken advantage of the Act. As a general rule, the rates are similar to those of commercial companies. If desired, the re-establishment credit may be applied to the premiums of any insurance contracted under this Act.

Canada's program is far-reaching and sound. It is designed to help the veteran help himself. It offers no security to the ex-service man or woman simply because he or she was a uniform, but where the Government, the veteran, and the community co-operate, the veteran's successful re-establishment in civil life is assured.

Bright Future for Frozen Fruits.

A bright future for the frozen fruit and vegetable industry was envisaged by M. B. Davis, Dominion Horticulturist and W. R. Phillips, Division of Horticulture, at the recent annual meeting of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association. At present, he said, there were four main methods for preserving fruits and vegetables: (1) storage of the fresh product; (2) canning; (3) dehydration, and (4) freezing.

The first two methods, storage and canning, preserved the bulk of fresh fruits and vegetables not used immediately after harvest. Dehydration, with the possible exception of apples, had been largely a war emergency measure. The fourth preservation method, freezing, was the most recently developed, but, the freezing industry had made such rapid strides in Canada, the United States and elsewhere that it had undoubtedly come to stay. The reason for this expansion was that freezing gave the greatest opportunity for the highest quality and palatability, thus approaching the fresh product more closely than other methods now in practice.

Up to date, the bulk of fruits and vegetables used in the frozen products had been used by commercial processors for distribution to hotels, restaurants, and bakers, and in a more limited degree to the retail trade. Because the product must be stored at zero temperature, its shelf life was of short duration, but nevertheless the consumption of frozen fruits and vegetables had reached the comparatively high level of 12.2 million pounds in 1943. In other words, while there had been no marked advance in the consumption of canned goods, the frozen product in Canada had more than doubled in the past five years.

At the present time there was another angle that was attracting much attention, namely, the possibility of providing freezer space in the home. The day was not far distant, said Mr. Davis, when a freezer in the average home would be as much a necessity as a washing machine or household refrigerator.

Tommy's mother wants him to ask you for a job. "I'll ask you and you say someone else has asked you but that you are not going to hire anyone refrigerator. The advent of the household freezer would undoubtedly be a tremendous factor in increasing the consumption of home-grown products. The preparation of the fruit and vegetables was so simple and took such a short time that it offered special attractions to the home owner. In addition, the resulting product was so superior that the possibilities were beyond imagination. One freezer unit established in a small home in Ottawa was the object of much interest. Already the family's consumption of strawberries, raspberries, peaches, cherries, blueberries, peas, corn, beans, and broccoli had been increased many fold, and all this had been done at a total cost not greater than was formerly paid for an elaborate 9 cubic foot household refrigerator.

Burley Tobacco.

The maintenance of active organic matter, whether it is supplied by barnyard manure or green cover crops, has been found very important in the production of good quality burley tobacco at the Dominion Experimental Station at Harrow. In a series of crop rotations for burley, a 2-year rotation of tobacco, grain, and alfalfa or sweet clover has given excellent results.

Ration Coupon Due Dates.

Coupons now valid are butter 99 to 97; sugar 46 to 57; preserves, 33 to 40; Butter coupon 98 becomes valid March 8th.

Canned rhubarb and canned crab-apples, sweetened or unsweetened, have been removed from the list of rationed preserves.

Rambouillet Sheep.

Progress has been made in developing better strains of Rambouillet sheep at the Dominion Experimental Station at Swift Current, Sask. Freedom from folds and wrinkles has been obtained, along with better mutton conformation.

Don't Jam on Your Brakes.

"The armed forces need every tire we can give them," says the Rubber Controller. "The rest of us must put our minds on conserving the tires we are fortunate enough to have, and on getting every yard of mileage out of them."

"The way you start and stop your car is important. If you feel your brakes dragging, have them adjusted at once. If your wheels spin when you stop, try to get an old sack, carpet or other material which will give sufficient traction to stop them spinning. You can also help your tire mileage in the way you stop the car. Anticipate the point at which you intend to stop, and let the compression of the engine do most of the slowing down. Apply your brakes only at the end, and easily. Don't jam them on. On slippery streets this plays for safety."

Cables Between Prisoners of War and Kin Paid.

One cable each may be exchanged between Canadian Prisoners of War in the Far East and their Next of Kin in Canada, during the next year, the Canadian Red Cross revealed this week. The Canadian Red Cross Society has agreed to pay for these cables, both ways.

Next of kin in Canada of these prisoners may send a cable through the Red Cross Enquiry Bureau at Ottawa at any time. It is suggested that it would be wise for the Next of Kin to wait for a considerable time, a month or more, before sending this in the hope that a cable may come forward in the meantime from their prisoner relatives in the Far East, to which they can reply. In his way the possibility of cables crossing each other on the way would be obviated and the results would be more satisfactory to all concerned.

Revised Bible is Completed.

The first revision of the Bible in nearly half a century is completed and in publishers' hands, with the probability that the New Testament will be ready by Christmas.

Report of completion of the revision to be published under sponsorship of 44 Protestant denominations, was made by Dean Luther A. Weigle, of Yale Divinity School, at a meeting of executive and education groups of the International Council of Religious Education.

Dean Weigle said the revision "used straightforward English based on the King James and American standard editions," and that pronunciation aids would be used only for more unusual words.

He explained the American standard revision of 1901 was the same as the 1881 edition. The latter required, where new words were used, that they be of the Elizabethan period of the King James version. This resulted in the American edition being more Elizabethan than the English version, he said.

Work was first projected in 1930 held up by the depression and resumed in 1937 by leading scholars named by the churches.

Accepting Healing.

How irresistible in its compassionate love and tender persuasion was that command of Christ Jesus recorded in the Bible and spoken to the man whose hand was withered. "Stretch forth thine hand" (Matthew 12:13). Our Master's Understanding was crystal clear that within God's allness—Love's allness—each image or likeness of that Love could only know and express uninterrupted harmony.

The greatest moment of that man's experience arrived when he reached forth to receive God's bounteous gift of healing. By his response to Christ's call to claim his rich inheritance of liberation from the bondage of incapacity, this man was given the opportunity to wipe out from his memory those previous years of acquiescence in suffering.

What fruitful lessons for the ennobling and enriching of our own lives can be gained from this incident. Perhaps we have never realized how much any critical or condemnatory thought may affect us, and even at times bar the happy release of ourselves or another from pain or fear.

This mental receptivity to the Truth which liberates is likened by Mary Baker Eddy to the childlike open-mindedness which is ever ready to accept new and diviner vistas appearing to awaken consciousness. In Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures she writes (pp. 323, 324): "Willingness to become as a little child and to leave the old for the new, renders thought receptive of the advanced idea. Gladness to leave the false landmarks and joy to see them disappear—this disposition helps to precipitate the ultimate harmony. The purification of sense and self is a proof of progress."

To those who open wide their consciousness to God receive the truth of their spiritual oneness with God, here and now, the words of our great Way-shower are fulfilled (John 16:23): "Whatever ye shall ask the Father in my name, He will give it you."—Christian Science Monitor.

Cake Making as the Crow Flies

By BETTY BARCLAY

You know how the crow gets where he's going—he takes a straight line with no detours.

Well—all the detours have been taken out of cake making... only two sittings of dry ingredients instead of four—no creaming of shortening—no creaming of sugar and shortening—no separate beating of eggs—the liquid added in two steps only.

This is cake making by the "Mix-Easy" method, now the best of the superb performance of cake flour is matched by a streamlined mixing method—and welcome news it will be in days when household duties are only part of the work you do.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating so here is the recipe:

LUCKY NUT LOAF

PREPARATIONS
Have the shortening at room temperature. Grease 9x5x3-inch loaf pan, line bottom with waxed paper, and grease again. Start oven for moderate heat (350° F.). Sift flour once before measuring.
MEASUREMENTS
Measure into sifter:
2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups sugar
Measure into bowl:
3/4 cup vegetable shortening Measure into cup:
3/4 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Have ready:
2 eggs, unbeaten
3/4 cup chopped nut meats

NOW THE "MIX-EASY" PART
Mix or stir shortening just to soften. Sift in dry ingredients; add 1/2 of liquid and the eggs. Mix until flour is dampened, then beat 1 minute. Add remaining liquid and nuts, blend, and beat 2 minutes longer. (Count only actual beating time. Of course, beating begins when you start to mix the ingredients. Scrape bowl and spoon or beater often.)

BAKING
Turn batter into pan. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 1 hour and 15 minutes. Let cool in pan.

Note: Mix cake by hand or at low speed of electric mixer.

CREAMY FUDGE FROSTING

1 square unswetened chocolate
3/4 cup sugar
3/4 cup milk
3 tablespoons vegetable shortening
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon salt
Place chocolate, sugar, milk, shortening, and salt in small saucepan. Bring slowly to a full boil, stirring constantly. Continue boiling 3 minutes, without stirring. Cool to lukewarm. Add vanilla and beat until of right consistency to spread, or just until frosting begins to lose its gloss. Makes 3/4 cup frosting, or enough to cover top of 9x5x3-inch loaf cake.

orative Touch

Chocolate Sundae: Warm milk slowly, stirring constantly. Test a drop on inside of wrist frequently. When COMFORTABLY WARM (110° F.), not hot, remove at once from heat. Add rennet powder and stir briskly until dissolved — not over 1 minute. Pour at once, while still liquid, into dessert dishes. Let stand at room temperature until set — about 10 minutes. Chill.

Prepare a chocolate sauce by melting sweet milk chocolate in a double boiler and blending with enough cream to make a thick sauce consistency (about ¼ cup cream to 3 ounces chocolate). Cool, and just before serving, pour a pool of chocolate sauce into the center of each rennet-custard. Then sprinkle crushed peppermint stick candy over the chocolate sauce, and serve immediately. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

re-infested by a flight of moths coming from the Southern States during the months of July and August. The fact that each female moth is capable of laying a great number of eggs, from 500 to 2,500 depending on the individual moth, is responsible for the rapid build-up so frequently noticed HAT'S all this talk about life insurance being a monopoly?

ANSWER: It's just not true. If you want to shop around in Canada for insurance—you can pick an American company, or a British company, or a Canadian company. You may choose a stock company, or a strictly mutual company. You may select either a participating or a non-participating policy.

You mean there's real competition?

ANSWER: There is, indeed. Anyone who has let it be known that he is in the market for insurance realizes just how keen competition is between the different companies. He knows they offer a wide variety of plans and premium rates. Monopoly is a term which can never be truthfully applied to the life insurance business in Canada.

One of a series of messages sponsored by life insurance companies in Canada.

How Rural School Aided the Armed Forces.

In the recent campaign for the collection of milkweed pods, the focus from which is used for making life-jackets for the armed forces, the pupils of Rural School S. No. 4, Elma, Perth County, made an outstanding record, the Agricultural Supplies Board states. This school, with only 24 pupils, collected a total of 405 bags of pods, for which the Board paid $81, the equivalent of 20 cents per bag. The teacher at the school, Mrs. Blanche Smith, says that one 10-year-old boy picked 170 bags of pods and another pupil 80 bags. A considerable part of the money received from the Supplies Board for the pods was used to buy War Savings Stamps. It takes the first from two bags of pods to make one life jacket, so the school mentioned collected enough pods to make more than 200 life jackets.

Hydro Home Economist

Hello Homemakers! We must be thrifty! One way to be just that is to spend every food dollar as wisely as possible. Each week when you purchase groceries see where you can save twenty-five cents for the extra War Savings Stamps your grocer has available.

Everybody's doing it. Yes they are buying a War Savings Stamp at the grocery counter on Stamp Day — that is every Friday.

Our homemakers are doing it by:

1. Buying seasonal products.
2. Buying food in the quantities that they can store successfully.
3. Buying food that they can make into nutritious home-made dishes, e.g., soups, stews, yeast cake for quick breads.
4. Buying some whole grain cereals to cook instead of packaged cereals.
5. Buying according to a planned menu.

PORRIDGE.

Use a double boiler for cooking porridge. Pour boiling water in top and bottom parts of utensils and put an electric element turned to high. Add cereal and salt, cover and cook 30 minutes.

If desired, use milk in place of half of the water. A few raisins or cooked prunes, cut in pieces, may be stirred into cereal before serving.

Quantities: Use 2 cups water and ¼ teaspoon salt for (1) ½ cup flaked wheat, (2) ½ cup oatmeal, (3) ¼ cup cream of wheat, or farina, etc.

BOILED RICE.

½ cup rice, 1 qt. boiling water, 1 tablespoon salt.

Pick over rice. Wash under cold water for about 2 minutes, separating the grains to wash off all the starch coating. Keep the salted water at a rolling boil without stirring from 12 to 15 minutes, until a few grains on a fork are soft but not mushy. (Use a large kettle, it may boil over.) Rinse the cooked rice with water to remove excess starch and again separate kernels by tossing it over in the kettle. Cover with tea towel until ready to serve. Makes 1½ cups.

RICE MUFFINS.

2 cups flour, 2 ½ cup cooked rice, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup milk, 1 egg, well beaten; 2 tablespoons melted butter, ½ teaspoon salt.

Add cereal to milk. Combine dry ingredients. Stir milk, beaten egg and liquid fat together. Mix liquid into dry products only enough to dampen. Drop by spoonfuls in buttered muffin pans and bake 25 minutes in electric oven at 400 degrees. Makes 12 muffins.

TAKE A TIP.

1. To make a clean cut through a meringue on a pie, use a sharp knife, which has been dipped in hot water. The meringue will stay high instead of being crushed.

2. A wooden spoon is very useful for handling clothes which have to be washed in very hot water. Use it to stir the suds, to work the clothes up and down and to remove them from the hot water.

3. Instead of washing the rolling pin after each use, scrape off the excess flour and put it back into the flour bin — it won't stick to the next dough you roll out.

4. When there is pie crust left over, it's a good idea to roll it out, slip a piece of wax paper under it and one over it. Roll it into a tube shape and store in the refrigerator. This takes little space in the electric refrigerator and it can be used without getting out the rolling pin and board again. (Be sure to take it out and leave at room temperature for 20 minutes before fitting into pie plate).

THE SUGGESTION BOX.

Mrs. C. A. J. says: Here's an easy way to remove

A GOOD START — A SUCCESSFUL LIFE
WITH SHUR-GAIN.
PLANNING—PRODUCTION—PROFITS

As nearly as can be estimated, 15,000,000 chicks got their start in life on SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter last year. The SHUR-GAINIA Empire extends from coast to coast in Canada — SHUR-GAIN really rules the roost. SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is the universal favourite, for three chief reasons:

- 1. Attractive Feed — SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is made from ingredients of the highest quality only. It is FRESH — it is PALATABLE. Chicks like it and eat the amounts they need for maximum growth.
- 2. Attractive Chicks — Because SHUR-GAIN Chick Starter is made with a content of high-class animal protein which ensures efficient use and growth — because it is fortified well above need with the vitamins required for health and growth (A, D and G) because it is palatable and readily eaten — chicks THRIVE on it.
- 3. Attractive Prices — Because SHUR-GAIN is made in the neighbourhood mill, with resulting elimination of all unnecessary charges, it can be sold for less than other starters, in spite of its superior quality.

It was a one-sided game right from the start, the puck being in the Essex end of the ice most of the game. Mac Wigle scored the first goal, with Lyle Pettapiece getting an assist. A few minutes later Jim Mower, Cottam's high scorer, drove in the second goal, assisted by his brother Bud; Bud got the third and fourth goals, assisted by Jim. The fifth went to Jim Mower assist by brother Bud. In the second period Middleton slipped in the Ace's sixth goal, assisted by Harold Allen. Here Little scored Essex's first goal before Mac Wigle got Cottam's 7th, with the aid of Harold Ferguson; Jim Mower, the 8th, with Jack Lewis helping him, and Stew Laurie the 9th, abetted by Gordon, who himself scored the 10th goal. Little scored the Essex tenth goal, and final goal, while Bud Mower shot in Cottam's 11th marker.

The third period was marred by rough play, Little and Laurie getting minor penalties, while Reeb, Ross, Collins and Wigle received major penalties.

High scorer of the night was Jim Mower, with 3 goals and 3 assists, followed by his brother Bud, with 2 goals and 2 assists.

Outstanding player for Essex was Little.

The line-ups:

Cottam—Goal, D. Dresser; forwards, J. Mower, O. Middleton, Bud Mower; defence, Lewis and Allen; subs, S. Laurie, Gordon, Wigle, Bailey, Pelly, piece, Ferguson.

Essex—Goal, T. Eaton; forwards, Gow, Little, D. Reeb, G. Reeb, Ross, Voakes; defence, Addison, D. Reeb, Collins.

We should gather up the blizzards, That round our pathway roar, And bottle up the snowdrifts That dot the landscape o'er. Let us take care of the zephyrs That wither every blade. For we'll need them all next summer When it's ninety in the shade.

Prior to their departure for their new home on Highway No. 3, east of Essex, Mr. and Mrs. George Tice were guests of honour at a supper party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Rhoads, last Thursday evening. Later the same night 80 friends and neighbours of Barryville and Elford, assembled at the Rhoads' residence, to show their appreciation of these two beloved and respected citizens of the community. A very enjoyable time was spent playing cards, singing and chatting. Photographs were taken and a delicious lunch served. Mr. and Mrs. Tice were presented with a table, a lamp, and flowers. This verse which was read, expresses the warm feeling everyone has for Mr. and Mrs. Tice:

It's folks like you — the thoughtful folks, Who always do and say, The kindly things, the helpful things, That brighten every day. It's folks like you, who always make This old world seem to be A better and a happier place. For other folks like me.

The recipients spoke heartfelt words of appreciation for the gifts, and the good wishes of their friends. They will be greatly missed in the community.

Again THE RED CROSS ASKS YOUR HELP TO HEAL A WAR-TORN WORLD GIVE!

• Wherever the great destroyer, War, has passed, pain, suffering and sorrow follow in its wake. Young men on the battlefield or in hospitals are tormented by sickness or wounds. Little children, mothers, aged people are homeless, hungry, cold. In every theatre of war, whole cities lie in ruins. Millions are suffering the pangs of disease, starvation and dire want.

So the Red Cross will continue to reach out a helping hand. It must heal and comfort our own sick and wounded. It must send food, clothing, medical supplies to war-torn lands.

And the Canadian Red Cross will answer this urgent call. For the Canadian Red Cross is you and your friends and your neighbors, and all the good folks up and down this fair Dominion of ours. You will send help — yes, life itself — to the stricken people of other lands. You will stand staunchly behind your Red Cross, and — GIVE!

Instantly Killed.

The people of Essex received a severe shock, on Wednesday morning, when they learned that Joseph Nightingale, retired Essex grocer, and founder of the J. A. Nightingale Red and White Store, in town, had been instantly killed at twelve minutes past ten, when struck by the second section of the eastbound M. C. R. Express Train No. 50.

Mr. Nightingale, as was his daily custom, was taking a short cut from his home on Cameron avenue, across the M. C. R. tracks, to the post office, and then to the store, where he still helped a few hours a day. He had crossed over the westbound tracks and was evidently within another step of crossing the eastbound track, for the oncoming train struck him and threw the body onto the Amherstburg tracks to the right. The engineer of the train, seeing he was going to hit the man, put his emergency brakes on so fast that an air hose coupling broke and the train was broken. There appears to have been no witnesses, and Dr. S. F. Millen, coroner, states there will not be an inquest.

Deceased was born on Huff's Island, Prince Edward County, on March 19th, 1876, and came to Essex with his family in August 1922.

Surviving are his widow, nee Lucretia Sprague, born in Amherstburg, Prince Edward County, and two children, J. Arthur, of Town, and Mrs. Helton Twissdale, of London; also a brother, James, of Toronto, and a sister, Mrs. Ridley Anderson, of Wellington. Funeral services will be held from the Hicks & Son Funeral Home, on Friday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, in charge of Rev. J. H. Whealen, of St. Paul's Anglican Church, of which deceased was a member, and burial will be in Greenlawn Memorial Park.

Sam Hyland Passes.

Sam Hyland, a resident of Gosfield North Township for the past 60 years, passed away in Grace Hospital, Windsor, on Saturday, following a lengthy illness.

Deceased was born in Carleton County, January 17th, 1865, a son of the late Sam Hyland and Catherine Lewis Hyland, and had farmed all his life. He was a member of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Essex. He never married and was the last member of his family.

Three brothers predeceased him, Lewis, in May, 1928; Walter, in June, 1939, and William Jr., of Kemptonville, in January, 1941.

Funeral services, in charge of Rev. J. H. Whealen, were held on Monday, at the Hicks & Son Funeral Home, Essex, with interment in North Ridge cemetery.

Among those to attend the funeral from a distance were Wm. B. Hyland, of London, and his son Roy D., of Rochester, Mich.

Fred Belcher Passes.

Fred Belcher, aged 83, a resident of Essex County for about 80 years, passed away on Monday evening, in East Windsor Hospital, where he had been a patient for the last four months however he has been in failing health for some years past.

Deceased had farmed all his life, retiring in 1918. He and Mrs. Belcher, the former Ruby Malott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Malott, of Station Road, Gosfield North Township, were married 66 years ago last February 15th, in Amherstburg. They have lived near Kingsville, at Olinda, and North Ridge, before moving to Essex in 1918.

Surviving besides his widow, are six children, Ollie (Mrs. S. H. Sadler) and Darius, of Essex; Stella (Mrs. Basil Holbeck) of Kingsville; Bertha (Mrs. J. Stanley Coulter) of Windsor; Ora (Mrs. Wm. Brown) of San Antonio, Texas, and Jason, of Woodstock. Their only other child, Flossie (Mrs. S. P. Green) predeceased him. Also surviving are 29 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held today (Thursday) from his late residence, Victoria street, Essex, with Rev. C. W. D. Cosens officiating. Burial was in Greenhill Cemetery, Kingsville.

Robert Hart Wins Highest Athletic Award.

Robert Hart, son of Rev. Enos W. Hart and Mrs. Hart, of Amherstburg, who is a freshman at Victoria College, University of Toronto, has been awarded the highest athletic award of his college — the V — provided he completes his year in honor science successfully.

The award is usually given to seniors who have completed three years of outstanding work along athletic lines for the college and it is most unusual for a first year student to be recommended for the coveted V.

Robert, who is 18 years of age, is an all-around athlete, being a member of the senior track team, the lacrosse team, the hockey team, the water polo team and one of the basketball teams.

The auction sale of Joseph Forbes, held on Wednesday, was attended by one of the biggest crowds of the season. Total proceeds of slightly over $10,000 was a couple of thousand dollars more than Mr. Forbes had estimated. Sam Knapp sold the sale in five hours.

Essex Town Council.

Monday, March 5th. Council met in the Council Chamber, in special session, at 8 p.m., with Mayor Francotte, Reeve Doyle, and Councillors Chase, Skinner, Shaw, Hutchinson, Hines and Cascarden present.

The Mayor stated he had called the meeting at the request of a committee of the local I.O.O.F., owners of the Town Hall.

J. A. Dowswell, L. W. Allison, Chas. Maedel, Wm. Dell and Norman Bunn, the committee, were present.

Mr. Dowswell stated that he and the other men present were a committee appointed by Enterprise Lodge, at a special meeting, held on February 15th. This special meeting had been called, on receipt of an offer to purchase the Town Hall. He thought it would be a calamity to sell the building to private interests, in fact, they, as a committee, had not approached anyone. He considered it the best possible site in town for a Municipal building and, speaking as a ratepayer, stated that he considered the town had to have just such a building.

He informed the Council that, in spite of the fact that there was a mortgage of only $1,200 on the building, the local lodge, the membership of which has dropped from a high of 380 to 170, could not afford to keep up the building.

Mr. Maedel reviewed the history of building, stating that the lodge had built at the request of the Town Council of that time and, as usual of the day, had only made an agreement with the corporation, for a short term of 20 years. He said that he didn't think the town could afford to miss the chance to buy the hall which, with possibly an expenditure of $5,000, would become a $40,000 to $50,000 structure.

The Town of Essex is the natural spot for public meetings, being situated in the center of the county, and it would be a black eye if a hall, no town hall," he said. Council could take the basement for town offices. Council Chambers and Court Room. "The walls and foundation are in perfect condition," he said.

L. W. Allison said that he, as a ratepayer, could not conscientiously vote for the proposition, which he was presenting to the committee, to Council. He informed Council that the figure would only be a tentative one, as it still had to pass through the local lodge as well as Grand Lodge.

The offer is to sell the building to the town for $20,000, $500 down, balance payable $500 per year, with interest at 3%. The Lodge would, in turn, rent the lodge rooms at $200 per year and pay all the heat, light and janitor expenses, for their rooms. He thought the town could put a new roof, a new heating system, and redecorate the building for $5,000. "If the town does not take up the offer the Lodge will have to sell to private individuals as we cannot keep up the building," he stated.

Mr. Bunn stated he thought if the same offer was placed before the trustees of the Village of Cottam they would accept it.

William Dell also advised Council that the lodge could not afford to keep up the building and would have to dispose of it some way. He also advised Council that Stokely-Van Camp were seeking to rent the basement as quarters to house about 50 boys, from early summer to late fall, after the tomato pack, at a rental of $75 per month.

Before leaving, the committee asked to be notified when the supervisor, Mr. Coombe, would be in Essex, so they could talk things over with him and Council.

Chief Harrison reported on some trouble they had in the parking lot, on Saturday night. Mr. Bolohan, of the Grand Central Hotel, wanted to get his car out of his barn, but cars were parked in front of the driveway and he couldn't get out. He (the chief) had to go over to the Farmers and get their wrecker to move the cars, at a cost of $1. He thought a "No Parking" sign should be placed so as Mr. Bolohan can get in and out of his barn.

On motion of Messrs. Doyle and Hutchinson the Chief was empowered to pay Essex Farmers the $1 fee and also to have "No Parking" signs placed on barn.

Mr. Bangle also wanted a "No Parking" sign at front entrance of his garage on Talbot street.

The Chief was also advised to have "No Parking" signs placed there.

A long discussion followed on the I.O.O.F. proposition.

The Clerk was instructed to get in touch with Mr. Coombe to find out when he expected to visit Essex, also to see Town Solicitor re power to purchase the building.

The Clerk read a bid from Essex Farmers for chassis for Fire Truck—Filled.

William Skinner reported that Stewart Rupert would like some 10-inch tile to finish drain in front of his place. He would do all the work—Referred to drain committee.

Mayor Francotte reported that the catch basin alongside Don Wilson's Service Station was broken in by trucks, and mud going into the tile. Referred to drain committee.

A. G. Cascarden reported on going over the McEntee drain.

The Clerk again reported being in touch with Mr. Allison and he had told him he wanted to get on the drain as soon as possible.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES.

The man-in-the-street across Canada can be told now that animated discussions behind the scenes in this nation's capital intimate the lively state of affairs in this country's preparation of plans for participation in the United Nations Conference at San Francisco on April 25th to create an international security organization for the preservation of peace in this world after this war. More than it has been made openly known has been the interest in official circles in this most important meeting and it has put into motion more heated discussions along Parliament Hill than any other international gathering of the past.

This lively state of affairs in this capital began even before the "Crimca Charter" came into existence, following the momentous meeting of the "Big Three" representatives of Great Britain, United States and Soviet Russia since throughout this war Canada has been a seat of leading power amongst the other middle or smaller nations of the world. Various stories of Canada's view or leadership in international affairs have been circulating in the midst of the noise of many confused voices. Therefore, speculations have been abundant in Ottawa lately about Canada's likely role in the dramatic deliberations of the coming United Nations Conference on world security. These discussions have involved the interjection of proposals for Canada's representation at this history-making meeting and it has been most surprising how some of these suggestions have been publicized heavily in the press across Canada long before official views of reports were given to the nation by the Government, including suggestions of all parties being represented in the delegation, of a woman being named in the delegation, etc. In short, though official announcements have stressed the great importance attached by the government to this meeting in San Francisco, yet these have not matched the preparation or discussions behind the scenes in the capital where some lively talks along Parliament Hill have accompanied the delicate decisions on account of the domestic political plans or situation in this country, these coming out in the open gradually and piecemeal from time to time at a later period.

In sharp contrast to the rather dormant atmosphere prevailing in the headquarters of the bigger political parties in Ottawa only a short time ago, the Liberal as well as the C.C.F. headquarters on the main street of this capital and the Progressive Conservative headquarters, located only a minute's walk from the others, are humming with intense activities in a rapidly quickening pace and their workers are suddenly rushing about excitingly like bees in flight in getting ready for the coming election, including plenty of propaganda or publicity in the making. Indeed, the propaganda or publicity machines of the bigger political parties seem to be well oiled and the paper shortage problem, which has been adding many grey hairs to the publishers as well as editors of this country, is not being helped any by these furious publicity campaigns in the making. If the plentiful and great supply of paper consumed for such purposes in the last Grey North-by-election can be accepted as a criterion for judgment of the "things to come" in the general election. Moreover, the coming general election is the cause for a virtual flood of exciting activities in other directions before its actual occurrences since the party in power is in a position now to give some of its followers the choice fruit of the political tree, appointment to the Senate. There are no less than 18 vacancies accumulated in the Senate at the moment and since the last general election on March 26th, 1940, no less than 32 Senate vacancies have occurred on account of deaths. If some of the surprising stories heard in Ottawa are true, it may not be a too strenuous job "soon" some members of the present Cabinet to go into the Upper Chamber, especially those from Quebec where leadership is very weak, indeed.

Net profit of the Bank of Canada for the past year has been reported in Ottawa to have been $20,312,559 after providing for contingencies and reserves. This profit compared with $15,685,478 for the previous twelve months period or only $1,628,752 in the first year of World War II.

Behind the report in Ottawa of the amazing growth of the number of people on the Federal Government's payroll, directly or indirectly, is an indication of the changes which have taken place in the scope and extent of services rendered by the authorities in this nation's capital. Indeed, when it is remembered that other great "social security" or "rehabilitation" measures may get into operation in the very near future, this additional number of personnel on the Government's payroll may be most startling shortly. At the start of the last World War, 1914, there were 25,107 employees receiving salaries of $1,960,238 and at the beginning of this World War this total was 45,437 employees, getting salaries of $5,725,081. Today, the latest information in Ottawa reveals that 140,000 pay cheques are sent out each month by the Federal Government and it amounts to $15,000,000, with no less than $51,000,000 being the amount of "accounts payable" sent out by the treasury offices in this nation's capital each month. In other words, it is said that, directly or indirectly, when all other sources, such as the C.N.R., C.B.C., and other organizations of the Government are considered, the Federal Government's payroll must be comprised now of more than 800,000 personnel.

In view of the report circulating in Ottawa now that there is a desire in some quarters in Washington that the famous Canol Oil project should be written off as a practical loss unless the combined chiefs of staffs overrule such a decision, it must be emphasized here that this was not a "useless" project as the impression is being given on account of the allegation that it should be closed, serving no good strategic purpose now. As a matter of fact, this $134,000,000 project was a scheme to pipe crude oil from Norman Wells across 900 miles of wilderness to Whitehorse where a refinery was to supply gasoline for war purposes in the Canadian Northwest, and there was a supplementary pipeline from Whitehorse to Watson Lake as well as to Skagway, with these being on the Northwest Staging Route. In other words, the scheme was of tremendous strategic value in 1942 and, perhaps, even today, in carrying the war to the Japanese. Under an agreement, Canada will have the first option to buy the Canol Oil project in the Northwest Territories whenever the United States Government is finished with its use in this war. The Imperial Oil Company operates the oil wells and supplies the crude oil under contract with the United States Government.

The Government in Ottawa is studying how to provide rehabilitation benefits to Canadian merchant seamen who have made such heavy contributions to the nation's war effort and who should be encouraged to remain in such service after this war since Canada intends to operate, it is claimed, a worthwhile merchant marine service in the interests of her foreign trade developments. This has been disclosed in Ottawa by the Minister of Transport, Hon. J. H. McLeod. Today, it may be added that Canada has the largest merchant fleet in the history of this country, possessing 200 ocean-going vessels and manned by about 12,500 trained personnel compared with about 37 such registered ships before the war as well as 1,400 skilled seamen.

Hon. Norman McLarty, Secretary of State, has indicated in Ottawa that 60 days is likely to be the maximum period intervening between the time the latest information in Ottawa reveals that 140,000 pay cheques are sent out each month by the Federal Government and it amounts to $15,000,000, with no less than $51,000,000 being the amount of "accounts payable" sent out by the treasury offices in this nation's capital each month. In other words, it is said that, directly or indirectly, when all other sources, such as the C.N.R., C.B.C., and other Allan Robbins, famous news editor of the London Times, will be in Canada for a speaking tour under the auspices of the Ministry of Information of Great Britain and the Wartime Information Board in Canada. . . . R. A. Hoey, acting Director of the Indian Affairs Branch in Ottawa, has given the information that Canada's Indians are in better shape financially and physically now than at any other time since the beginning of the century, judging by the lack of calls for assistance and relief now in comparison with such requests at this time of the year in the past. Indeed, there has been an almost total absence of such calls for relief, with many Indians being profitably employed in construction works in the North and Northwest, together with the fact that those Indians engaged in trapping have made extremely good profits for their efforts due to the current high prices of fur.

plications will not be influenced by similar conditions and circumstances. The most important point is the principle involved in dealing with an alien from an enemy country, rather than that of business competition and personal qualifications of the applicant, which are of common consideration. There may be hesitation at this time in granting privileges to aliens, even refugees, without sufficient knowledge of background. A civic committee, however, has the fact to rely upon that the Federal Government authorities already have passed judgment on the bona fides of those admitted to the country. It has, further, the assistance of the National Committee on War Refugees, members of which are sponsoring the present application.

It is to be hoped that when such applications come up they will not be discounted by prejudiced pressure. A genuine war refugee from an enemy country is not an enemy. There will be many of them as time passes, and it is our duty to encourage them to make a useful contribution to the community's welfare, thankful that the spirit of resistance to the cruelty of a homeland imbues them with determination to make good in more enlightened surroundings. They have energy and enterprise to offer. Let us not defeat their ambitions by a niggardly welcome or a narrow-minded policy. The Property Committee and City Council have an opportunity to set a wise example.

The Continuing Job of the CANADIAN RED CROSS

THE EUROPEAN WAR is nearing its end. That is obvious. Many people, including members of the Canadian Red Cross, have asked us what our job will be if the war should suddenly end.

We reply that we can only see ahead greater responsibilities than ever. Both in Europe and at home the work of the Red Cross must go on. The war will not bring an end to suffering and want, to the care of our Prisoners of War, to our Wounded, and to the millions whose homes and way of life have been dislocated by strife.

We therefore feel that every Canadian has a right to some knowledge of what our responsibilities will be in the event of peace, and just how we propose to discharge those responsibilities. We treat each of our main activities under its respective heading.

PRISONERS OF WAR—With the end of hostilities our Prisoners of War will automatically cease to be Prisoners. Chaos and breakdown in Germany will probably ensue. The German state will cease to care for them. They will become wards of the Allied General in command of the Occupation Forces. Transportation will be difficult, and it will probably take a minimum of six months to repatriate the 2,400,000 Canadian, British and Allied Prisoners in German Camps. The need of Prisoners' Parcels and Medical Supplies will be doubled. They will be distributed by the Allied Command, and will play a vital part in feeding our men pending repatriation. After the magnificent job we have done during the last five years we cannot let our boys in German prison camps down. Our Prisoners in the Far East will also be a continuing responsibility. We must carry on until every man is back home.

EUROPE'S STARVING MILLIONS—The job of feeding Europe's hungry millions is staggering in its immensity. Over 17,000,000 humans have been torn from their homes. Many have nowhere to rest their weary heads. They are starving. Malnutrition is the rule rather than the exception. There will be an urgent need for food, clothing and medical supplies. The Red Cross in these stricken countries are utterly dependent on their sister societies for supplies to meet these dire needs. Can we let them down? The Canadian Red Cross must go on!

RED CROSS WORK WITH OUR ARMED FORCES—Until the last Canadian soldier has left

Europe and has been discharged from hospital, there will be important work for the Red Cross to do. How long this will be we do not know, but one thing we are sure of and that is that every Canadian at home will want to make certain that our boys will be as well looked after with the coming of peace as they were in war. The care of the wounded both in Europe and Canada is a permanent responsibility which we cannot evade. No Canadian wants to evade it. Here again the Red Cross must go on!

BLOOD SERUM SERVICE—Red Cross Blood Serum has saved countless lives in battle. The end of the war will see the end of painful war wounds. The demand for serum on the fighting fronts, except the Far East, will cease. But the Red Cross Blood Serum Service should be continued for civilian use. If the Red Cross makes it freely available it can save thousands of the lives of our own civilian citizens when war has ended.

PEACETIME SERVICES IN CANADA—Outpost Hospitals, Children's Clinics, District Nursing, First Aid, Home Nursing, Preparation for Epidemic or Disaster, Nutrition and Junior Red Cross are all important Red Cross peacetime services which must go on.

Elford—3 pants, 7 quilts. Call for Knitted Comforts.

The need for finished comforts is desperate, said Mrs. J. C. Fraser, chairman of the Women's War Work, once more appealing to the women throughout the province, to adopt the 1945 slogan "Knit and Ship."

"Emergency requisitions from National headquarters for shipments to the seaports have taken our surplus stock. Branches, she pointed out, can help in this emergency by immediately replacing that stock, enabling the warehouse in Toronto to meet the next call. Knit all the wool you have on hand. Ship it to the warehouse as soon as possible."

Wool may be obtained at the local Red Cross rooms. Don't sit idle. Service gloves for men and women's long sleeved sweaters urgently needed.

FRIDAY, MARCH 9, 1945.

A Week's Review of Ontario Legislature.

New machinery for taking the vote in an Ontario general election was introduced to the Legislature by Attorney-General L. E. Blackwell, providing several changes in voting procedure. Major changes include the direct ballot for all in the armed forces, thus wiping out the proxy vote used in the August 1943 election, and also a provision so that those voters who know they will be absent from their ridings on election day may vote at the advance polls by taking an affidavit.

Advance polls heretofore have been reserved for railway employees, sailors and commercial travellers. The new bill is based upon recommendations made by the select legislative committee set up at the 1944 session, comprising members of all legislative groups, and which sat during the recess to revise existing acts.

New sections of the act revise provisions dealing with corrupt practices and illegal acts. Municipalities are to be relieved of some of the financial cost of preparing the voters' lists, and appointment of two enumerators in each polling division from opposed political interests to remove any possibility of suspicion of party interest are to be appointed. Revising officers appointed by county election boards are given authority to review work of the enumerators as a means of further safeguarding preparation of satisfactory lists.

Mr. Blackwell also introduced an amendment providing for taking votes of prisoners of war, who will vote by proxy as is laid down under the Federal election act. Method of taking overseas vote by direct ballot also follows the Federal procedure.

When an election is called, the act now provides that nomination day shall be a Wednesday not more than 60 or less than 31 days following date of issuance of writs. Election day shall be the 11th day following nomination. If the Wednesday is a holiday nomination and election days are moved to Thursday.

The committee in reporting said that "existing legislation is so complicated it is practically impossible for a temporary election official to grasp its meaning and to intelligently carry out its provision."

Another provision provides that a candidate must submit with his nomination paper a consent and undertaking to stand as a candidate.

A measure introduced by Minister of Lands and Forests W. G. Thompson sets up a Board of Examiners in Forestry and for registration of fore-est engineers. Commenting the debate on the Throne Speech, Harold R. Scott, Progressive Conservative, Peterboro, second of the motion for adoption urged that postwar planning be carried out by forgetting individual political parties and that the Legislature should provide legislation for the present and future as their chief purpose.

"Forget this eternal sparring for political advantage and remember Ontario electors whether they used good judgment or not sent us here to legislate for them," Mr. Scott declared. "Let us put our shoulder to the wheel and make Ontario not a visionary Utopia but a real one."

Mr. Scott asked that part of the school curriculum be devoted to teaching children the value of an outside life, such as tree-planting. In years to come, he said, this will pay back the investment now made. War veterans seeking an outside life might be so employed as well as on conservation of fish and game, he said. The Government's policy of paying up to 50% of civic education costs will reduce taxation on homes, thus increasing home ownership which is the foundation of our democratic system. The scholarship system under the Department of Education, Mr. Scott explained, has given equalization of educational opportunity, while expansion of township school areas, and development of a special type of rural high school also aided educational opportunity. In the riding he represents, Mr. Scott declared the tourist business is "one of the finest cash crops," but the highways department might plan to construct roads into inaccessible lakes making them available to tourists particularly in rural localities unable to bear the cost. The Hydro expansion program he said will do much toward keeping the younger generation on the farms and help solve post-war unemployment.

Charles H. Martin, mover of the motion to adopt the Throne Speech, Progressive Conservative member for Haldimand-Norfolk, mentioned accomplishments of the United States in the Pacific war, and condemned remarks of preceding government members criticizing the U. S. war effort, such as that "the U. S. Navy was hiding."

Another remark had been that Russia would fail. These opinions had been dismissed as an outlook but he expressed gratitude for the leadership given the United Nations.

In answer to a question, Premier Drew declared that Ontario's tobacco crop this year is 80,000 pounds compared with 55,000 pounds a year ago. Quotas to United States and Great Britain have been sold, and the balance now standing of about 5,000,000 pounds, will soon be disposed of.

Debate on the Dominion Government's family allowance bill arose from Opposition groups, after which Premier Drew explained the government intends making their position clear before this debate closes. In a statement to the Legislature the Premier firmly reaffirmed his position in a speech of August 9th last in that "we believe in sound provisions for Family Allowances and social security."

"That was our position then; that is our position today," Mr. Drew asserted. "I have stated over and over again that we regard Family Allowances as one of the most important social services; that it is therefore within the exclusive constitutional jurisdiction of the provinces; that the provinces must be consulted if there is to be an effective administration of Family Allowances."

Mr. Drew reiterated his demand for a Dominion-Provincial conference "to settle the basis upon which the Dominion and Provincial governments can best combine their legislative authority for the benefit of all our people." Mr. Drew insisted the Federal act "is an intrusion upon the provincial field of jurisdiction without any consultation with the provinces." Further, the situation goes very much further, he said. Having disregarded the constitutional position of the provinces and their jurisdiction over social services in the introduction of the act, the Dominion Government has refused repeated requests from myself and other provincial premiers for a Dominion-Provincial conference to discuss this and other invasions of our authority. An announcement that the Women's Voluntary services would handle registration forms for the Family Allowances was condemned by Mr. Drew as having the effect "of destroying the sanctity of the home and the privacy of the individual." He was not condemning the Women's Voluntary Services, but to submit those without special training "would be a shameful thing."

"I repeat with the utmost emphasis that we are in favour of a proper system of Family Allowances properly administered but it would be nothing short of a breach of public trust to disregard the serious consequences of the course now being followed by the Dominion Government," he said.

Opposition Group Leaders, including Liberal Leader M. J. Hepburn, C.C.F. Leader E. E. B. Joffe, and Labor Progressive Leader A. A. McLeod, criticized the Government's position on the Family Allowance question. They asked that the Premier clarify his position in view of his August 9th address in which he said he would do all in his power to see the Federal act did not become operative in Ontario. Mr. Drew assured the Legislature he will again make his position clear during the de-

Don't Delay — Order Seed Potatoes Now

Demand from the United States and from other countries for Canadian certified seed potatoes is particularly active. The Agriculture Department said this week.

In view of this Canadian potato growers are urged by the Department to place their orders for seed potatoes without delay. If they fail to do so they may find when planning time comes that seed potato dealers will be unable to fill orders. At present there are enough seed potatoes available to fill all orders that are placed; but if the orders from export markets continue to roll in as they are now doing, the supply may soon be exhausted.

Potato growers are reminded of the advantage of certified seed to get increased yield and a better crop.

Select Your Chick Starter With Care

The care you use in selecting the breed and strain of chicks you purchase for the coming season can be wasted effort, if you do not exercise the same degree of care in selecting the Chick Starter fed to them. For chicks, like any other babies, respond readily to the care and attention you give them, and if they receive the correct amounts of all the food materials, including minerals, vitamins, and proteins, in a highly digestible and palatable feed, they will make the most satisfactory and thrifty growth possible.

Careless feeding or selection of feed can be the cause of disastrous mortality and consequent loss to you. That is why we urge you to investigate the merits of any Chick Starter before you entrust it with the responsibility of the feeding of your 1945 chick crop.

We have no doubt that having investigated, you will unhesitatingly order your 1945 Chick Starter needs from our SHUR-GAIN Feed Service Mill — for SHUR-GAIN 18% Chick Starter has an enviable reputation for highest quality results at a price that saves you money.

Rawlins-Young Nuptials.

A pretty wedding was solemnized in the Leamington United Church, on Tuesday, March 6th, when Miss Shirley Frita Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Young, Erie street south,
Leamington, became the bride of Sgt.
Walter E. Rawlins, of the R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rawlins, of Cottam. The church was decorated with palms and spring flowers. Rev. S.
Davidson, of Leamington, assisted by Rev. Stanley Johnson, Cottam, performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful gown of white satin, with fitted bodice and short sleeves, and a full skirt of net. Her long veil was held in place by a lace halo, and she carried American Beauty roses.

Miss Joy Young, the bride's sister, as maid-of-honour, wore pink silk jersey with full skirt of net, and carried peach carnations, while the bridesmaids, Miss Fay Rawlins, sister of the groom, chose aquamarine net over taffeta, and carried pink carnations; Mrs. Wray Ray-nolds was dressed in peach marquisette over taffeta, and carried pink carnations, and Miss Marjorie Watson wore blue net over taffeta, and carried peach carnations. Harriet Rawlins, as flower girl, was attractive in a pale blue taffeta frock and carried a colonial bouquet. All wore flowers in their hair to correspond with their dresses.

Lorne Rawlins was his brother's best man, and Vivien Haggins, Carman Trombley, Joseph Szamanski were the ushers. Charles Allen played the wedding music and Miss Elaine Mason sang "O Promise Me" during the signing of the registers.

A reception followed in the church parlors for fifty guests. Mrs. Young wore for her daughter's wedding a blue crepe dress with black accessories, and wore a corsage of carnations and daffodils. Mrs. Rawlins, the groom's mother, wore aquamarine crepe dress with brown accessories and a corsage of carnations and daffodils.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake and flanked by bowls of spring flowers.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Rawlins left for a short honeymoon, the bride travelling in a black rose silk jersey dress with black accessories. After a short leave Sgt. and Mrs. Rawlins left for Moncton, on the east coast, until he receives his new posting.

New County Gaol Governor.

The appointment of John Robinson, a veteran of World War I, and an eminent president of the local Capt. Brian Branch of the Canadian Legion, as Governor of the Essex County Gaol, was announced the past week, by C. F.
Neelands, Deputy Provincial Secretary. Mr. Robinson was named as matron.

John has been a resident of this district for about twenty years, having been linesman for the Sandwich South Municipal Telephone System until resigning a month or so ago.

He is well known throughout Western Ontario through the great interest he has taken in baseball, both as manager of the champion Maldstone Shamrocks, the Essex Maple Leafs, and the Oldcastle Titans, and being on the executive of the Ontario Baseball Association. He is also a past-president of the North Essex League.

Mother and Daughter Banquet

The Gesto church hall was crowded to capacity when over 100 mothers and daughters gathered for the annual banquet, on Friday evening last, under the auspices of the W. M. S.

The young men of the church, under the leadership of Max Calhoun and Emerson Neice, did the serving.

Mrs. G. J. Blight, the president, thanked the boys and all sang "For They are Jolly Good Fellows." Emerson Neice replied.

The toast to the mothers was given by Miss Doris Elford, and replied to by Mrs. A. C. Campbell.

Flowers were presented to the oldest mother present, Mrs. Spinks; to the mother with the youngest baby, Mrs. Roger Buhler, and to the mother with the most daughters, Mrs. C. Coienutt.

A playlet, "My Book of Memories," was given by local talent. Mrs. Hamilton taking the reading, part of "My Book of Memories in Song"; Mrs. Roger Buhler and baby daughter Beverly Ann, being the young mother and baby in the play. Those taking part in the songs were Mrs. Adams, singing
"Mighty Like a Rose"; Donna Colecutt, Ila McCallum and Ruth Hall, "School Days"; Peggy McCallum, "Love's Old Sweet Song"; Mrs. E. McCallum,
"Keep the Home Fires Burning," and this was followed by a patriotic readneyed to Kingsville and played their second and final game with that team. The girls won an easy victory, but the boys suffered defeat by two points. The boys' game was full of suspense to the very end. Kingsville was ahead at half time, 15 to 10. Then the Essex boys led it just before the final whistle but Kingsville managed to score at the other basket at the close of the game making the final score 12 to 17.

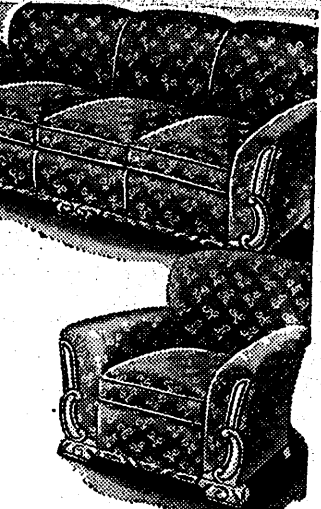

Essex line-up: Kennedy 7, Kane 2, MacGill 2, Nightingale 2.

The Essex girls made a good showing from the beginning. Kingsville proving better competition than in their last game. Essex had doubt the score of Kingsville at half time, 14 to 10. Then Essex pulled ahead and made the final score 18 to 12.

Essex line-up: Andrews 11, Bore 6, MacDougall 11, M. McCreery 2, McCreery 2.

Report of Travelling Chest Clinic.

The Travelling Chest Clinic of the Essex Health Association has, for the past year been under the direction of Dr. C. S. Jeffery, Medical Superintendent of the Essex County Sanatorium, and Miss Jeanne Polson, Public Health Nurse.

In this past initial year the work has consisted mainly in case-finding, home visiting, the organization and conducting of chest clinics, and the setting up of a record system for this service.

The nursing visits for the year are as follows: New visits, 148; re-examination visits, 376.

These visits are classified as:

1. Tuberculosis visits: adults 62, child 3.

2. Post Sanatorium: Adults 22, child 1.

3. Suspects: adults 75, child 71.

4. Contacts: Adult 76, child 75.

5. Others not found, not home: Adult 127, child 12.

With the co-operation of the principals and the various school boards in the county the pupils in the high schools and continuation schools were skin-tested with tuberculosis. The following are the results:

Amherstburg Collegiate—Skin tests 121, positive reactors 11.

St. Rose High School, Amherstburg—Skin tests 51 positive reactors 11.

Harrow High School—Skin tests 129, positive reactors 14.

Sacred Heart Continuation School, La Salle—Skin tests 12, positive reactors 0.

St. James High School, Belle River—Skin tests 29, positive reactors 2.

Kingsville High School—Skin tests 136, positive reactors 11.

St. Antoine Continuation School, Tecumseh—Skin tests 25, positive reactors 1.

Leamington High School—Skin tests 439, positive reactors 26.

Wheatley Continuation School—Skin tests 72, positive reactors 3.

Essex High School—Skin tests 252, positive reactors 23.

Comber Continuation School—Skin tests 69, positive reactors 6.

Woodville Continuation School—Skin tests 33, positive reactors 4.

There were only two pupils who were advised to come to sanatorium for treatment.

Clinics have been held in the libraries, church basements and other public buildings wherever it was most convenient for setting up the portable X-ray machine. There were 24 clinics held during the year with an attendance of 598 persons—of these 281 required X-rays. The total number of skin tests numbered 1825, including the school survey.

A schedule of the program planned was sent out to all physicians in the county. They were invited to refer any cases to us. A notice of each clinic was printed in the various weekly county papers with the co-operation of the editors, advising the public to test for tuberculosis.

Pamphlets on tuberculosis were issued to libraries throughout the county by the Public Health nurse.

The Travelling Chest Clinic of the Essex Health Association is anticipating a most successful coming year in this new venture.

Suffering at Second Hand.

By David Lister Routledge.

For days and months on end, even for years, we have been reading the bitter and tragic record of the days of the 1940's. The stories are distressing enough to tear the heart; stories of people whose ordered life suddenly erupted in the fiery blast of war; people bewildered and lost in a world where all the generous and familiar things have disappeared and where the only realities are the remembrance of dreadful tortures, or old folk and little children dying of exhaustion by the roadsides in the wake of great migrations. Young and old dying in cold and misery and hunger, just as, for years past, they have been dying in the ruins of once-great cities.

They are distressing stories, and we turn from them to more normal things, to our own interests and problems and our own safe and comfortable lives. We are not used to suffering, nor do we want to be. We have lived on the fringes of anguish, and have taken our suffering at second hand. Because of that, we have come to feel that by some strange reason, some virtue in ourselves, we have escaped the misery that has engulfed half a world.

But the sobering fact is that while we continue to live we cannot escape the consequences of what happens in our world, as many innocent people have learned in the years just past. Almost overnight this world has become a little place, where space and oceans are no longer a protection. The terror that flies by night and day has robbed us of our fancied security.

There is but one hope for a world—that a new spirit of brotherhood may be a surer safeguard.

But what brotherhood can we expect from the millions of homeless folk living and dying in cold and misery and hunger? What hope will remain for our world if there is no relief, if the suffering millions grow desperate with disillusionment?

The people who believe that, with the turn of events, the demands on such agencies of mercy as the Red Cross will slowly decline, are sadly wrong. There are seventeen million people in the Allied nations alone who are living lives of desperation, without homes, without clothing, without food. To meet this great demand the Red Cross has joined with the Canadian United Allied Relief Organization to bring what help they can to these tortured people, to use all the machinery of a great organization to ameliorate the suffering of our world.

So great an added task takes nothing from the obligations that the Red Cross has already assumed. There are still prisoners of war who depend on it, not for modest luxuries alone but for the very necessities of life. The new tempo of war has added to, rather than lessened, the pressing demands on blood-donor clinics, on hospitals and ambulances and hostels and mobile kitchens and all the multitude of needs that the Red Cross has set itself to meet.

To help in this great work the Red Cross is asking the people of Canada who have suffered so little to give $10,000,000 for the relief of those who have suffered so much. A small enough demand, that they may help to keep alive the little flame of good-will that survives in an embittered world. It is not a donation. It is an obligation on us who have only suffered at second hand, on us who have believed in freedom and who have hoped for a better world. It is our pledge that, in this small way, we set our hands to the task of making the freedom from fear and want and desolation a living and breathing reality—Liberty Magazine, March 24th, 1945.

Maple Products Rationing.

One preserves coupon is good for the purchase of 40 fluid ounces of maple syrup until May 31st, when it reverts to its normal value of 24 fluid ounces, according to an announcement made by the ration administration.

The seasonal increase in the value of the maple syrup allowance means that four coupons are good for the purchase of one gallon of syrup. The coupon value of maple sugar remains at two pounds the year around.

Prices are the same as last year on sales to consumers. Callings for producers selling direct to consumers is $3.15 a gallon for Canada light grade, $2.50 for Canada medium, $2.65 for Canada dark and $2.40 for ungraded syrup, if each is packed in a one gallon metal container. Maximum prices for syrup sold in bulk is 25 cents a gallon less than that for the same product in metal containers. A premium of 25 cents a gallon above the price permitted for Canada light may be charged for syrup marketed as Canada fancy. Grades are set by the federal Department of Agriculture.

Consumers buying from producers must surrender valid preserves coupons. Those who buy by mail must obtain purchase vouchers from the local ration board. Loose coupons must not be used. Producers selling maple syrup or maple sugar must register with their local ration boards and must turn in coupons and other ration documents they obtain in the sale of maple sugar and maple syrup.

POWER PUMPS RATIONED.

To clear up some misunderstanding regarding the sale of power pumps the Western Ontario regional office announces that power pumps are still on the list of rationed farm machinery and equipment. Applications must be made to the farm machinery rationing officer of the regional office and permits will be issued in cases of necessity.

PUCE

(Too late for last week)

Little Danny Lazaroff's three-year-old ability to make himself heard saved him from losing his life in the icy waters of Puce Creek, on Sunday. While both his parents were away he wandered to investigate the country-side and when about half a mile from home evidently tried to cross the ice, which was covered with water. The slanting banks of the creek probably helped to precipitate him into the water. His lusty yelling was heard by A. Meunier, who pulled him from the water. Mrs. Meunier made the child comfortable, while Mr. Meunier hailed Harold Hicks, who was passing, to call relatives of the child. Neighbours later took the boy home.

Mrs. Nellie Sullivan spent several days here the past week, closing up her apartment and visiting friends. All were sorry to have her leave our midst after so many years residence here. For a while she will visit relatives in Tecumseh and Detroit.

Mrs. Chris. Beasley received word last week that her grandfather, S. Steele, of Toronto, had passed away.

Guests of Mrs. Wm. Ellwood Sr. and Mrs. Wm. Ellwood Jr., on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jones and Mr. and Mrs. George Ingram, of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howieson and daughter Mrs. Violet Adkins and her daughter Suzanne; Miss Lucille Rose, Mr. and Mrs. D. Whitney and son Stewart, and Clarence Yearley, all of Windsor.

Mrs. Daniel Blanchette has returned from a few days' visit with relatives in Detroit.

It is reported that many robins have been seen the past few days. Several other species of birds have returned. Some have to do battle for feeding rights with a belligerent Blue-Jay who has stayed all winter and came almost to dozens of homes to feed when the deep snow was here.

Mrs. Margaret Crozier Paschall (formerly of Puce, but now of Grosse Pointe, Mich.) has received word that her oldest son, Louis, was killed in action in Northern France recently. The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Paschall and family in their bereavement.

William Anderson, of the R.C.A.F., Toronto, and Robert Bryant, of London, spent the week-end at their respective homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McHugh and daughter Mary Catherine, of Tecumseh, visited relatives and friends here during the past week.

Blockade

On the day after Memorial Day celebrated his 21st birthday, his son, Blockade, won the Maryland Hunt Cup. In doing so, he lowered the great Troublemaker's record for the course by more than seven seconds. Certainly, Blockade's only trouble was with the fence where Troublemaker had his fatal fall.

Over the Top!

Blockade, famous steeplechaser, was a product of the Blue Grass country around Winchester, Kentucky, famous for champion horses. Here in Canada, the name Winchester is famous for the delicious taste and aroma of cigarettes which are blended—and "blended right"—from the world's outstanding tobaccos—Virginia, Burley, Turkish. Try this balanced blend today. Ten to one it will go over the top with you as with thousands of others!

Need Permit for Nicotine Sulphate.

Effective on February 1st last, importers of nicotine sulphate, nicotine compounds, and pest control products containing nicotine, may not sell any of these products without written permission of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Nicotine is produced principally outside of Canada. Faced with a serious reduction in supplies, the Board is establishing the system to make sure that the products are used to the best advantage. Nicotine products are essential for the control of insects attacking fruit trees, and in normal times are used extensively in the control of pests which can be destroyed by other methods. The new system of permits requires importers to report their stocks to the Pesticides Administrator.

Select Your Chick Starter With Care

The care you use in selecting the breed and strain of chicks you purchase for the coming season can be wasted effort, if you do not exercise the same degree of care in selecting the Chick Starter fed to them. For chicks, like any other babies, respond readily to the care and attention you give them, and if they receive the correct amounts of all the food materials, including minerals, vitamins, and proteins, in a highly digestible and palatable feed, they will make the most satisfactory and thrifty growth possible.

Careless feeding or selection of feed can be the cause of disastrous mortality and consequent loss to you. That is why we urge you to investigate the merits of any Chick Starter before you entrust it with the responsibility of the feeding of your 1945 chick crop.

We have no doubt that having investigated, you will unhesitatingly order your 1945 Chick Starter needs from our SHUR-GAIN Feed Service Mill — for SHUR-GAIN 18% Chick Starter has an enviable reputation for highest quality results at a price that saves you money.

McMullen-Billing Nuptials.
A wedding of interest took place recently, in Essex, when Elviera Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Billing, of Essex, became the bride of Dr. Donald McMullen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril McMullen, of Belleville.

The ceremony was held at 7 o'clock in the evening, at St. Paul's Anglican Church, Essex, amid a setting of palms and pink and white spring flowers and flanked by tall burning white tapers. The Rev. J. H. Whealen officiated and Mrs. J. A. Nightingale presided at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown fashioned on princess lines, with a sweetheart neckline and bearing a slight train. The sleeves were close-fitting and extended in points over the hands. Her cathedral length veil was caught to her head by a coronet of flowers. She wore a diamond necklace which had belonged to her grandmother, and she carried a colorful bouquet of pink roses and bouvardia.

Miss Weltha Montgomery, of Leamington, acted as bridesmaid and Mrs. Mary Louise Queen, of Roseland, acted in pink. She was matron of honour. Their gowns were fashioned similarly with a fitted satin bodice and three-quarter-length sleeves and fitted skirts of net. On their heads they wore crownless, wide-brimmed hats of satin to match their gowns, with a big bow at the back. They carried arm bouquets of pink carnations and bouvardia.

The bride's only sister, Miss Melba Billing, was junior bridesmaid, and she was attired in pink and blue. Her gown was pink satin, also fashioned on princess lines and her wide-brimmed hat was crownless also and of blue satin, with a pink bow at the back and long pink streamers, and she carried a nosegay of bouvardia and pink carnations.

Dr. Thomas Earl, of Windsor, supported the groom as best man, and Wm. Arnold, of Windsor, and the bride's brother, Robert Billing, were ushers. Before the ceremony Mrs. Manningham, of Essex, sang "O Perfect Love," and during the signing of the register, "Because."

A reception followed at Poplar Inn, Cottam, for about 40 guests. The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, flanked by burning tapers in silver candelabra. Mrs. Whalen, of Essex, was hostess. Mrs. Whalen and Mrs. Nelson Seavey poured tea and Misses Victoria Jones, Marion McIlwain and Evelyn Devine served the guests.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a floor-length gown of chartreuse crepe with white sequin trim and matching chartreuse flower hat, and she wore a corsage of white striking in blue sheer with small black hat and she wore a corsage of pink carnations.

For travelling, the bride chose a striped navy suit with white pique trim and rose flowered hat with matching accessories, and she wore a corsage of pink roses.

Out-of-town guests included Miss Fern McMullen, of Queen's University, Kingston, and Howard House, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Black, of Kingsville; Miss Eleanor Devine, of Leamington; Miss Millicent Seavey, of Toronto; and Miss Eric Campbell, Miss Valeria Drape, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Webb, and Ivan Queen, Miss Linda Bailey, Miss Edith O'Flynn and Mrs. Blake Aude, all of Windsor.

Baseball Notes.
The North and South Essex Baseball League this coming season will be made up of twelve teams. Due to this large number, the league has been divided into two sections, the one group will be teams from Essex, Belle River, Woodlee, Leamington, Point Pelee and Stoney Point, while the other division will be made up of Amherstburg, Malden, Pelee Beach, Harrow, Kingsville and McGregor.

It is the intention of the league management to end the regular schedule about August 1st. There will be a series of play-off games during August and September, but no decision has been reached as yet regarding what teams will be eligible for the play-downs.

The next meeting of the league will be held in the Aberdeen Hotel, Essex, on Sunday afternoon, April 15th, when the management of each team must pay their team's entry fee of $40 and must also present signed contracts of their players.

We understand that up to June 1st a team may sign up as many players as they wish, providing the player is eligible, but on and after above date each team's roster must not number over 18 players.

Grants $15,000 to Red Cross.
At the March session of Essex County Council held in Sandwich last week, a grant of $15,000 was voted to the current drive of the Red Cross.

A deficit amounting to $133,000 highlighted the auditors' report presented to the council. This amount includes the $75,000 set aside by the county for postwar expenditure.

Discussing the deficit arising from last year's business, members of the council suggested that grants to worthy organizations would have to be cut and kept at a minimum this year.

The deficit will not remain as a debt since the council is in a financial position to balance it, with reserve funds, but it is a definite indication of heavy costs in 1944.

Select Your Chick Starter With Care

The care you use in selecting the breed and strain of chicks you purchase for the coming season can be wasted effort, if you do not exercise the same degree of care in selecting the Chick Starter fed to them. For chicks, like any other babies, respond readily to the care and attention you give them, and if they receive the correct amounts of all the food materials, including minerals, vitamins, and proteins, in a highly digestible and palatable feed, they will make the most satisfactory and thrifty growth possible.

Careless feeding or selection of feed can be the cause of disastrous mortality and consequent loss to you. That is why we urge you to investigate the merits of any Chick Starter before you entrust it with the responsibility of the feeding of your 1945 chick crop.

We have no doubt that having investigated, you will unhesitatingly order your 1945 Chick Starter needs from our SHUR-GAIN Feed Service Mill — for SHUR-GAIN 187 Chick Starter has an enviable reputation for highest quality results at a price that saves you money.

Elected Chairman Essex Co. Library Association.

A. E. MacGillivray, of Cottom, was elected chairman of the Essex County Library Association, at the annual meeting, held in Cottom, on Thursday of last week.

J. A. Dowdell, the outgoing chairman, presided.

Miss D. B. Hardie, county librarian, presented her report for the year 1944. She observed the past year had been one of expansion and increased services. In the spring, a deposit station was organized at Roseland which it is hoped will grow into a public library. In the meantime they are participating in the regular quarterly exchange of books and borrowing supplementary books to meet the demands of its readers. In September, 1944, with the co-operation of public school inspectors, 11 public schools in areas without public service, 72 in circulation among member libraries was as follows:

Adult Fiction 8,048
Adult Non-Fiction 2,336
Juvenile 5,451

15,835

This represents an 18 percent increase over the previous year.

To this must be added the circulation of books in the 11 schools, from September to December, of 2,893, making a grand total of 18,728, or an increase of 39 percent.

The books added in 1944 were:

Adult Fiction 183
Adult Non-Fiction 218
Juvenile 691

Total book stock as at December 1944, was 3,246.

W. G. Wootton, secretary-treasurer, in presenting the budget for 1945, pointed out that an increase would be necessary, especially in regard to equipment, salaries and traveling expenses. He reported that he had presented his request for a larger grant to the Essex County Council at their March session.

In his address Mr. Wootton congratulated the county organization on its enthusiasm and vigor. He said: "An essential part of county library work is to get books into the schools to foster better reading by the younger generations and I hope to see the rural school libraries available to adults also."

Officers elected for 1945 were as follows: Chairman, Mr. MacGillivray; vice-chairman, J. Hemin, Windsor; secretary-treasurer, Mr. Wootton; auditor, W. P. Patterson, Riverside; past chairman, Miss D. B. Hardie, Windsor.

On motion the resident public and separate school inspectors were made members of the board.

Plan Convention. It was announced that the Ontario Library Association would hold a convention at Niagara Falls May 24th and 25th. Miss Hardie was elected delegate to represent Essex County.

Mr. Duffin briefly outlined the township area scheme showing how it would contribute to the efficiency of the county libraries.

Mr. Noble, in speaking of the school libraries, said his only criticism was that there were not enough books. "The project," he said, "is a worthy one and the children are reading more than they otherwise would, particularly in the inaccessible schools."

Essex Again Over Top in Red Cross Drive.

The Town of Essex Red Cross Drive, under the chairmanship of Don Wilson, has again gone over the top. Many people in town increased their former donation and all the canvassers reported a splendid reception by the citizens.

The different societies, service clubs and manufacturing plants have all given generously. Colchester North hasn't finished their canvass as we go to press, but we are sure they will have done so before the end of the month and that they also will exceed their quota.

War Bride Arrives in Essex.

Mrs. Irene Skinner, wife of P.O. Sgt. Skinner, who is now on his second tour of flying operations from England, and their baby Laurie, aged 18 months, arrived at the home of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Skinner, on Tuesday morning.

Essex 9th Blood Clinic.

The casualty lists are larger than ever. The need of blood plasma is greater than ever. We are winning but at the high cost of wounds. The percentage of restored and revived among the wounded is amazingly high, thanks to the generosity of donors of blood, many of whom are able to give little else to the cause of liberty, freedom and justice.

There is no one contribution. Canadians at home can make comparable to a donation of their blood now that the crisis has arrived. That hour spent at the clinic in the United Church, Essex, on the morning of Wednesday, April 11th, of surpassing importance. Give your name to H. H. Johnson, who will notify you of the time you should be at the blood donor clinic.

Ft. Sgt. Raymond S. LeBoeuf Listed as Missing.

Ft. Sgt. Raymond S. LeBoeuf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hector LeBoeuf, of Essex, formerly of St. Joachim and North Ridge, has been reported as missing after air operations with the R.C.A.F. overseas. Ft. The Essex armory attended school at St. Joachim and had worked on his father's farm from the time the family moved from Essex five years ago, until his enlistment in the R.C.A.F.

To Hold Tag Day.

The local chapter of the O. E. S. will sponsor another "Boots for Britain" Tag Day in Essex, all day Saturday, April 7th.

This tag day is being held in conjunction with one sponsored by the six chapters of the Order in Windsor, under the supervision of Isabelle Diesbourg, of Windsor. In 1944 this group raised $2,400, which proved to be not near enough. While the local women appreciate what was given before, they urge all to give more than before. They have many letters from the W. A. C. in England thanking them for their "Boots for Britain," and assuring them that it is greatly appreciated.

The women in charge of selling the tags locally are Mesdames Fred Butts, Aaron Hill, Ray Reed and W. H. Knisler.

Whetstone-Baker Nuptials.

A marriage of a local nature was solemnized at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon last, in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Windsor, when Miss Whetstone, of Windsor, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bentley Baker, of Gesto, became the bride of W. Cliff Whetstone, of Windsor, son of David Whetstone, of Gesto, and the late Mrs. Whetstone. The Rev. Dr. H. M. Paulin officiated.

The bride chose a stunning two-piece frock of seagreen crepe, the jacket quilted all over, with braided sleeves. Her tiny matching hat was of grosgrain, trimmed with velvet and her corsage was of orchids and sweetheart roses. Mrs. Clarence Pfaff (Grace Totten) as matron of honour, wore a fitted gown of pearl gray, with a dusty pink hat and accessories, and a corsage of pink camellias. Dr. O. C. Baker, the bride's brother, was best man.

A reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Baker, on Ypres avenue, followed. All-white flowers, call lilies, stocks and carnations being used in the dining room, the table being centred with the wedding cake, flanked by burning white tapers. Spring flowers, iris, carnations, daffodils, stock and tulips formed the background for the reception. Mrs. Baker, who received with the wedding party, was in pale gray, and wore a blue feather hat and blue gloves, and orchids. Mr. and Mrs. Whetstone left later for a short trip in Michigan, the bride travelling in an aquamarine wool dress with a spice-colored coat, and a brown hat and fur scarf. They will live in the Parkview Apartments, on Gilles boulevard.

Guests from out-of-town for the wedding were Mrs. J. L. Miller, of Toronto, and the bride's brother, A. H. Baker, of Detroit.

Miss Baker was extensively entertained prior to her wedding. Mrs. F. C. Haygarth, of Cameron avenue, honored her at a tea, and Miss Margaret Gardner, Miss Emma Bell and Miss Laura Wilkin were hostesses at a bridge dinner and miscellaneous shower at Miss Wilkin's home on Rankin boulevard. Mrs. Andrew Woodrow, of Douglass avenue, gave a supper party for the wedding party, and Miss Stanley and Miss Edna Stanley, of Pelissier street, Windsor, were tea hostesses. The staff of the J. E. Benson School entertained at tea for Miss Baker, and presented her with a gift, and Miss Nettie O'Neill and Miss Verma Gunn, of Elliott street, were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower for her.

Miss Baker has been on the staff of the Windsor Board of Education for years and is a graduate of Essex High School. In order to escape death by starvation, Dutch people are compelled to feed with tulip bulbs.

Monday night, which was the rubber game with 12 tables in play, finished a tie at the end of regulation time, the first play-off was again a tie, as was the second, but in the third extra game Maidstone won 7 games to 5, to finish the evening on the long end of a 51 to 49 score.

The regular meeting was held on Tuesday, with a good attendance. A quilt was quilted during the day and a shipment of 62 pair of bloomers and 2 boys' shirts was made. Thanks to Talbot Road Red Cross for 1 turban sweater, 3 pair grey gloves, 2 boys' shirts. We wish also to thank North Woodslee school girls who helped make the bloomers, and Mrs. Carol Griffin for 2 quilt tops. We will have a quilt on which chances are going to be sold, to raise funds to send cigarettes to all boys in Maidstone and Rochester townships. Help us out in this work by buying a chance on the quilt.

Next meeting April 10th.

Woodslee United Church invites one and all to their Easter Services. Special music, special session of Sunday School at 10 a.m. Regular morning service at 11 a.m. Lantern program at 7:30. Worshipping with the Universal Church.

Necessity for Expansion

HOW WILL ASSUMPTION COLLEGE MEET OUR ABNORMAL POST-WAR EDUCATIONAL REQUIREMENTS?

There's more to a good education than mere "book learning." The youth of Essex County have the right to expect from any institution of higher learning the solid, practical instruction that will help them succeed in any chosen field. You, the fathers and mothers whose financial sacrifices often make an education possible for your sons, have a similar right. Let it be understood here and now that Assumption College, which on Monday will begin a county-wide drive for funds with which to expand its facilities, has that educational purpose squarely in mind.

Assumption, since its founding in 1870, has never asked for, or received, any financial aid from the City of Windsor, the County of Essex, the Province of Ontario, or the Dominion itself. It has grown slowly and gradually to a position as one of Canada's outstanding educational institutions. It is affiliated with, and therefore a part of, the University of Western Ontario, and degrees are granted by that University to students who take their training at Assumption.

Monday THREE THOUSAND Essex County residents, completely without thought of race, creed or walk of life, will begin soliciting contributions to the Assumption College Victory Fund. This is no annual campaign and is not a drive to raise money to pay current expenses. Its purpose is to establish a capital fund with which to add new buildings and educational facilities as soon as construction can be started.

Why are so many of our own friends, neighbours and business associates so willing to devote their time and energy, as well as give financial help to this cause? In the answer lies the reason why they anticipate YOUR fullest co-operation, also:

They know Assumption today is serving THREE HUNDRED AND SIXTY college students with accommodation and facilities intended for a student body of only ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY — and that after the war an enrolment of ONE THOUSAND TWO HUNDRED IS expected.

They know the college's doors will continue to be, as always, open to all, and that Assumption regards as its first duty its service to the youth of this county.

They know that war and the call to arms have interrupted the educational careers of hundreds of Essex County's young men. A great many of them will want to pick up those educational threads when they return and every college in the land is preparing for an enormous influx of students.

They want to see a complete education available AT HOME for all who may seek it. Commuting to and from Windsor will be no difficulty after the war and your sons may live at home and yet gain as fine a training as is possible anywhere.

They also know this — that as of today Assumption's facilities are so overtaxed that it is difficult to care for the normal complement of growing youth. To meet the anticipated post-war demand, the College must have many more classrooms, new laboratories and lecture halls, a new and larger library where complete research in any field will be possible, added administrative space and an auditorium that will serve as a centre for both county and college meetings and activities. Its public health program should be broadened and likewise its adult education program. New extension courses will be offered. Short courses in new agricultural methods are being considered. Lectures, forums and discussions on problems vital to you in your daily affairs will be sponsored.

These THREE THOUSAND campaign workers KNOW that Assumption must expand, and intends to expand, if it is to serve this entire community to the best advantage. They also know that in the final analysis it will be they themselves, their sons and their brothers and YOU, YOUR sons and YOUR brothers who will benefit. They have pledged their support — will you?

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of Wilber Allen, who passed away 2 years ago, April 2nd, 1943.
If we had you back for another day,
Pay another glimpse or two.
If we had you back, here's what we'd say:
"Dear dad, how we miss you."
So many heartaches you have missed.
In these past two years, 'tis true.
But the greatest heartache of them all
Was our loss in losing you.
We know you're happy where you are,
Under the angel's care.
And heaven's a brighter place, by far,
Because our dad is there.

—Deeply loved and sadly missed by wife and family.
IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of our dear brother, Ernest N. Mustard, who passed away, April 2nd, 1941.
He was a wonderful pal.
He played life's battles square.
No matter when we needed him
We always found him there.
God knows how much we miss him.
Never shall his memory fade.
Loving thoughts still ever wander
To the spot where he was laid.
—Ever remembered by his sisters and brother.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of Anson Howson, who passed away six years ago, March 28th, 1939.
The years have passed and gone.
Since one we loved so well.
Was taken from our home on earth,
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
With Jesus we place upon his grave,
May wither and decay.
But the love for him who sleeps beneath Shall never fade away.
—Sadly missed by his wife and family.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of my husband, Robert June, who passed away one year ago, March 21st, 1944.
I have lost my soul's companion.
A life linked with my own.
And day by day I miss him more.
As I walk through life alone.
What would I give to clasp his hand,
His happy face to see.
To hear his voice and see his smile.
That meant so much to me.
He bade no one a last farewell.
He said goodbye to none.
His loving heart had ceased to beat.
Before we knew it, he was gone.
God only knows how we miss him.
As this ends the first sad year.
—Fondly remembered by his wife and family.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Catherine Secilia (Hillier) Voakes, who passed away one year ago today, March 29th, 1944.
We are sad within our memory.
Lonely are our hearts today.
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever been called away.
We think of her in silence.
No eyes may see us weep.
But many silent tears are shed,
When others are asleep.
—Ever remembered by husband, daughter Wava, son Hugh, son-in-law Tom, and daughter-in-law Adeline.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Melena Elizabeth Gerard, who passed away one year ago, April 2nd, 1944.
God knows that you were suffering.
He knew you were in pain.
He knew you never would get better
In this world again.
He saw the road was getting rough.
So he closed your weary eyelids.
And whispered "Peace be thine."
And while she lies in perfect sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep.
—Sadly missed by husband and family.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of Mrs. Charles Carter, who passed away 4 years ago, March 31st, 1941.
As the years roll on in the march of time,
We'll have loving memories of you in
And though from us you have passed away,
We'll love you forever and a day.
—Sadly missed by husband and family.

FRIDAY, MARCH 30, 1945.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES.

There seems to be a wrong interpretation across Canada that the coming world security conference at San Francisco in April is a sort of "peace conference," but it must be reported that this is not true according to the best informed sources on Parliament Hill. Indeed, it is stressed in Ottawa that this gathering is not concerned with peace treaties, nor conditions to be imposed. In fact, Premier Mackenzie King himself said in part: "Peace can only be made lasting through co-operative action on the part of peaceloving nations. The purpose of the forthcoming conference at San Francisco is the creation of a general international organization to maintain peace and security in the post-war world." In other words, Premier King told Parliament that it was a gathering to create a sort of framework or foundation only.

Some interesting facts have been limited between the lines of the main civil estimates introduced in Parliament by Finance Minister Isley, who asked for a new year's total of $1,022,621,557, marking an increase of almost $300,000,000 over last year. Within these figures is quite a story of expenditures incidental to the war as well as to the fact that the stark will be a bird with an unusually large bill since the "baby bonus" payments will start on July 1st. These figures disclose that the Government will spend in the new fiscal year more on the National Gallery of Canada and it will be $67,405 or an increase of $1,775, involving costs for art exhibitions, lectures and educational work. More money will also be spent on other things. These are superannuation and retirement benefits for the Civil Service, $3,147,874, an increase of $296,629; National Film Board is being allowed an additional $108,000 in the supplementary estimates for the current fiscal year ending March 31st, and now it is voted $810,965 for the ensuing year, an increase of $132,159, including $237,000 to be spent for film programmes in rural circuits; the National Research Council, $1,500,448, an increase of $274,919; Veterans' Affairs Department, $73,458,255, an increase of $12,618,635, consisting mainly of increases of $1,040,813 on rehabilitation services, $4,527,422 on treatment facilities, and $2,350,000 for war veterans' allowances; National Health and Welfare Department, $194,969,814, including the startling new amount of no less than $190,000,000 for the "baby bonus" or family allowances alone, with its administration already estimated to cost about $2,392,070; $3,024,948 for the new Reconstruction Department and $1,500,000 for Departmental administration, including $555,000 for temporary staff salaries. Decreases on costs will be made by the Government in the Civil Service Commission, $495,770 or a decrease of $2,063; the Central Experimental Farm, $728,935 or a decrease of $19,363. Between the lines of these figures is the story of the intentions of the administration in Ottawa for the new fiscal year—a story of greater burdens for the taxpayers of Canada.

With the circulation of stories about the likely return overseas of Canada's Governor General, His Excellency the Earl of Athlone, upon the conclusion of his term of office this coming summer, it must be pointed out that there seems to be an erroneous notion about this position. The Governor General's term of office in Canada is not for a definite fixed term, it is claimed in Ottawa, though there has been a sort of convention that he usually remains in this office for a term of five years. Indeed, there is a precedent whereby the Governor General has remained in office beyond this time limit. In any case, the successor to the Governor General of Canada is a matter to be arranged between the Prime Minister of this country and His Majesty the King. On June 21st, 1945 it will be five years that the Earl of Athlone has served in this office and it is said that he might want to return home by that time, though lately there have been reports that he might possibly remain until the general elections in Great Britain and Canada had been held. The Earl of Athlone is now 71 years of age and he has had a distinguished career, including the post of Governor General of the Union of South Africa from 1923 to 1931.

This nation's capital was declared an emergency shelter area on January 17th, on account of the extremely overcrowded conditions which can hardly be duplicated in any other city of its size in the country so that it was no surprise when the emergency shelter administrator and other officials hinted to members of Parliament not to bring their families to Ottawa for the brief session. However, these officials added that permits for family accommodations would not be granted to those members since their families were not considered to be essential residents of the capital. Therefore though this was not an order and only a hint, yet there has developed a strong resentment behind the scenes along Parliament Hill against this action by the officials since some members interpret it as nothing short of "dictation" to members of Parliament by officials.

A United States Supreme Court decision has brought a repercussion in Canada. As a result of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States finding the Aluminum Limited, a Canadian Company, to be participants in a monopolistic conspiracy, the leader of the C.C.F. party, M. J. Coldwell, has come forth with a claim in Ottawa that this decision has substantiated his allegations which were made in Canada's Parliament in 1943. At that time, Mr. Coldwell had alleged that the Aluminum Company of Canada was a monopoly and a member of an international cartel. However, after a committee on war expenditures had looked into these charges, it reported in January, 1944, that these charges were not true.

A topic of considerable whisper in Ottawa is the report that the regional rentals officer for the capital, L. A. McKinley, following a special investigation, reduced the rental for a building rented by the Federal Works Department in Windsor, Ontario, from $412 to $35 a month. . . . The widow of the former Governor-General of Canada, Baron Byng, of Vimy, Lady Byng, who has resided in this country during the past five years, will return to her home in Essex, England, where her estate, Thorpe Hall, was used as a soldiers' hospital, though it is now vacant. She had lived in Canada previously when her husband was Governor-General from 1921 to 1926. A crusader with zeal against the ill-effects of juvenile delinquency in Canada, Bernard W. Wall, editor of the national magazine, "Canadian Heroes," was an interesting visitor in Ottawa, preparing materials and gathering information prior to starting a tour across Canada to combat the evils of juvenile delinquency. . . . It is hinted backstage along Parliament Hill that the retirement of Paymaster Capt. J. O. Cossette early this summer after thirty-five years with the Royal Canadian Navy may be the start of a number of changes in the Navy Department so that this may be the forerunner of much news in the making at the moment. . . . Lord Reith, who played an important role in the initial establishment of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation following the Aird Commission's report and a former director-general of the British Broadcasting Corporation, has held a number of important conferences in the capital with members of the Federal Cabinet as well as officials of the Government during his stop in Ottawa in the course of a 70,000 mile trip of the British Commonwealth of Nations to investigate telecommunications in the Empire. . . . Douglas Abbott, Parliamentary Assistant to Defence Minister McNaughton, and a comparatively young, inexperienced parliamentarian, is having the toughest assignment in this brief session. He is a Montreal lawyer and he speaks with equal fluency both English and French. (Reproduction prohibited, 1945, Federal Features Syndicate.)

Price Ceiling on Candy and Biscuits.
All candy and fancy biscuits sold by wholesalers and retailers will be placed under a price ceiling of a set mark-up, according to Prices Board officials. Both candy and biscuits have been sold at basic period prices up until now. The order does not affect packaged candy to retail up to fifteen cents or imports.
This Prices Board order does not control the price at the manufacturer's level which has been previously fixed.

Rubber Soles on Juvenile Shoes.
Mothers will be glad to know that a better composition than now used will be available for juvenile shoes, according to an announcement by the War-time Prices and Trade Board.
The new material which is manufactured in Canada has a greater proportion of synthetic rubber and less reclaim rubber. It is expected that it will wear better and that the black rubber heels will not mark hardwood floors as they do now. Officials said that these shoes will be on the market in the near future.

Home Canning Sugar — 1945
Our home canning sugar program for the year 1945 has been drawn up and full particulars concerning it were recently forwarded to Local Ration Board secretaries.
The same amount of home canning—10 pounds per person—is being allowed this year as was allowed last year, but the method of distribution differs somewhat. This year 20 extra preserves coupons in Ration Book 5 will be declared valid—2 on March 15th, 8 on May 17th, and the remaining 10 on July 19th. These 20 extra preserves coupons may be used for the purchase of extra sugar at the usual alternative rate of 1/2 lb. per preserves coupon, or for the purchase of extra preserves, or some may be used for the purchase of sugar and others for the purchase of preserves, whichever the consumer prefers. Otherwise, our home canning sugar program is the same as it was last year.

Used Household Appliances Prices.
Sales of used household appliances including domestic sewing machines, electric powered washing machines, electric and gas operated refrigerators, stoves, ranges and other cooking and heating equipment, electric vacuum cleaners as well as radios and tubes, have been placed under new price regulations by the War-time Prices and Trade Board. On every sale of household appliances and musical instruments whether by an individual or a dealer the seller is required to complete a sales invoice in duplicate. This copy must be furnished the buyer and the other kept by the seller for two years after the date of sale. Two sets of ceiling prices are established by the order, which set ceilings for sale by private individuals and dealers at the same levels. The higher ceiling is set for appliances which have been rebuilt and are in good operating condition.

Maggot's Parent.

The parent or adult of the cabbage maggot, one of the most serious pests attacking cruciferous crops (cabbage, cauliflower, turnip, radish, cross, mustard, and other plants of that family), is a fly which closely resembles the house fly in size, shape and colour. It appears in the spring when the wild plum comes first into bloom and lays its eggs on the stems of transplants and seedlings, or in the soil at their base. Corrosive sublimate applied to the stems and the soil at the base makes an effective remedy.

Human Nature

W

HY doesn't life insurance sell itself?

ANSWER: Because it just happens to be human nature to put off until tomorrow the things we should do today. Practically everyone recognizes the need for life insurance, but few people actually do anything about it without some incentive to action. The agent not only brings home their need to them—he tells them how they can budget to get the protection they want—why certain policies are best for certain conditions—how to build an estate.

What would you consider the main asset of the life insurance business?

ANSWER: Human assets are always among the most valuable. In the life insurance business the agents who help people to protect themselves are of tremendous importance to the companies. But they are even more vital to the people who benefit by their counsel.

Rough Time had basic quality which enabled him to come out ahead. Winchester Cigarettes have quality which goes right to the selected leaf tobaccos from which they are made—Virginia, Burley, Turkish, the world's champion cigarette tobaccos. Each gives to Winchesters its own special quality. And they are "blended right".

Quality Service at Low Cost

Compared with the cost of other commodities, electricity is cheaper than ever in Canada today. While average commodity prices have now risen more than 18% over the 1935-1939 average, the cost of electricity has actually dropped.

Report by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, December 4, 1944, says: "Reductions in electricity rates during the last year have provided a stabilizing influence upon the general cost of living index". On this date:

Cost of living was up 18.9%
Cost of food was up 30.8%
Cost of fuel was up 8.1%

Cost of electricity stood at 91.4% — a drop of 8.1%

Through the support that Ontario people have given their Hydro System, this Province now enjoys electricity at rates that compare favorably with the lowest in the world. Greater use brings lower cost.

With the coming of peace, much power now being used for war production will be available to bring increased benefits to homes and farms. Plan now for greater use of Hydro service.

Sugar Quotas to Industrial Users Have Been Cut.

The cut of five per cent in sugar to industrial users will mean a saving of about 7,000 tons of sugar. Beginning April 1st, the first all industrial users, except biscuit and cereal manufacturers, will take a further cut of five per cent over that already in force, according to an announcement of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

The cut does not involve any change in the ration to consumers for canning sugar. Ten pounds of canning sugar is the allotment to each ration book holder in Canada.

Butter Production is Now Increasing.

Reports of a substantial increase in Ontario butter production during the month of February, over that of last year, and of still further increase being likely in March, are contained in the summary of the creamery instructors' reports to the Ontario Department of Agriculture. The greatest percentage increase, the reports state, has been in Southwestern Ontario, but practically all parts of the Province share in the upward trend of production. Northern Ontario anticipates a much larger make of butter in March than was the case a year ago the production of milk in the district having increased substantially.

Producers report plenty of feed on hand, the report says, and with restrictions on fluid cream sales, a larger amount of fat is likely to be diverted to butter production. It is also interesting to note that there has been a noticeable improvement in cream quality.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Mr. Editor:
My nephew recently on a few hours' last furlough before going overseas, wanted to tell his parents good-bye on the long distance telephone. He waited at three telephone booths, all filled with civilians who didn't budge or hurry, and who seemed not to care that a soldier was waiting to use the phone. The wait took a big bite out of his total furlough time.
—J.R.M.

So little time . . .

It is quite possible that these civilians who occupied the telephone booths while the soldier waited to make his last call home were talking important business. It may even have been war business.

But if we all remember to make our telephone calls as brief as possible, then at least there will be no needless waiting by our boys who want so urgently to get their calls through.

Long talks tie up vital switching equipment at central. Too often urgent calls must wait because we forget to be brief.

War Veterans Insurance NOW AVAILABLE

Offers protection, without medical examination in most cases, to those discharged.

When Canada entered the present war, it was realized that men and women who went into uniform faced the possibility of returning to civilian life with their health impaired, or with some physical disability. It was realized also that, as a result of this impairment in health or disability, many service men and women would be unable to provide for their families through the normal channels of occupation for their families. To meet this situation, Parliament, at its 1914 session, passed an Act known as The Veterans Insurance Act. This Act has now been proclaimed and applications may be made for policies under it.

WHAT ARE THE SPECIAL FEATURES OF WAR VETERANS INSURANCE?

One of the principal features of War Veterans Insurance is that, with very few exceptions, it is available at low cost, without medical examination. No extra premiums are charged where the veteran's occupation is unusually hazardous—such as, mining, construction, commercial flying, etc.—and, in addition, premiums are waived in the event of total disability. There is no extra cost for this waiver of premiums.

WHO MAY APPLY FOR WAR VETERANS INSURANCE?

Any ex-service man or woman is eligible. In addition, widows or widowers of veterans may apply for the insurance on themselves if the veteran were not insured under the Act. Merchant Navy personnel in receipt of a war disability pension from the present war are eligible also.

WHAT TYPES OF INSURANCE ARE AVAILABLE?

The plans of insurance available are 10 Payment Life, 15 Payment Life, 20 Payment Life, Life Paid-up at 65 and Life Paid-up at 85; that is, premiums may be paid for 10, 15 or 20 years or until age 65 or 85 respectively. The longer the term of payment the smaller the premium required. Term and Endowment policies are not issued. The insurance is of the non-participating type, that is, no dividends are paid.

WHAT AMOUNTS OF INSURANCE ARE PROVIDED FOR?

Policies may be applied for in amounts ranging from $500 to $10,000. The amount of the policy is payable only in the event of the death of the insured.

HOW ARE PREMIUMS PAID?

At the option of the veteran, premiums may be paid monthly, quarterly, half-yearly, or annually. There is no additional cost to the veteran for paying premiums on a monthly basis.

IS THERE ANY CASH SURRENDER VALUE?

After premiums have been paid for two full years, the policy may be surrendered for its Cash Surrender Value, or it may be transferred to Paid-up Insurance or Extended Term Insurance. There is no provision for loans against the policy.

EXAMPLES OF MONTHLY PREMIUMS PER $1,000 INSURANCE

AGE	Payable for			Payable till age 65	Payable till age 85
	10 years	15 years	20 years
20	$2.89	$2.12	$1.74	$1.20	$1.14
25	3.18	2.34	1.93	1.39	1.30
30	3.53	2.60	2.15	1.64	1.51
35	3.93	2.91	2.42	1.98	1.78
45	4.98	3.73	3.16	3.16	2.59
55	6.45	5.01	4.40	6.45	4.03

NOTE: If it is desired to pay the premium annually, multiply the above rates by 12. There is no additional cost for taking advantage of the monthly payment plan.

Further information and application forms may be obtained from the nearest office of the Department of Veterans Affairs or by writing direct to the Superintendent of Veterans Insurance, Department of Veterans Affairs, Ottawa. Services of a trained counsellor are available for individual interview with each veteran who wishes information concerning this insurance.

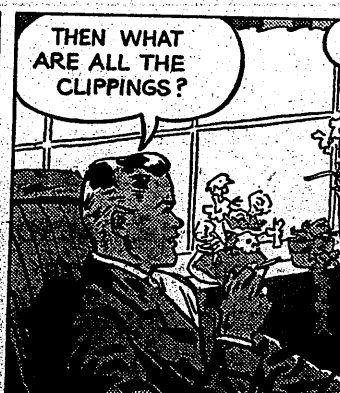

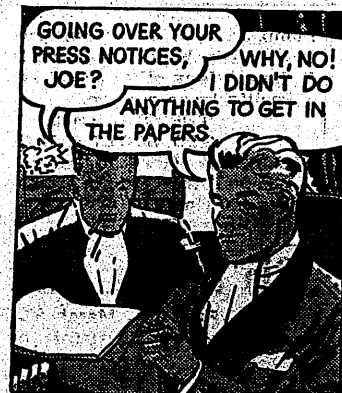

Issued under the authority of Honourable Ian A. Mackenzie, Minister of Veterans Affairs.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES.

In a session publicized to be ostensibly for discussion of the Canadian interest in the San Francisco world security conference in April and for consideration of expenditures during the interim period from this fiscal year until a new session will be held after elections, there has been a relatively large attendance of members, including National Defence Minister McNaughton in the gallery, and it has been a surprisingly contentious as well as informative gathering. The spirited activities in this lively session can be appraised by the man-in-the-street in the report of the extent of anguishment in open Parliament and its lobby for and against the proposals or suggestions of the Government. There have been heated disputes as well as political recriminations about Canada's delegates to the world security conference. There have been pointed remarks against the late calling of this session. There have been disputes about Canada's external affairs have appeared at times to be almost a "vest pocket" possession of Premier Mackenzie King, using an expression employed by the opposition. There have been disputes over points of procedure, particularly when the Government proposed that its business should go on without over private members' business resolutions. In short, there has been a sort of more or less acrimonious atmosphere, the people's representatives on the principle of a good, sturdy plan and practical matters of procedure that the Government with regard to the next election so that the heated, prolonged debates have been surprisingly contentious under the circumstances to put it mildly. Though the Government has managed to attain its main objectives, yet there has been more contention and anger inside as well as outside of Parliament than the man-in-the-street can realize.

By unanimous vote, the United States Senate and Congress in Washington have called for a thorough investigation into all phases of the production and distribution of food due to the increasingly critical situation there. While there is much deep thought in Ottawa at this moment over the critical food supply situation, yet it can be detected in usually well-informed quarters along Parliament Hill that there is no such seemingly alarm in this capital as in Washington. Indeed, there seems to be even confidence that no extremely drastic measures or reductions in present food quotas may be required at this time so that Canada may be able to carry out her huge, growing overseas commitments as well as supply her own domestic needs.

It is shown that last year Canada had an agreement to send to Britain 450,000,000 pounds of pork products and 60,000,000 pounds of beef. Last year, Canada sent no less than 700,000,000 pounds of pork products and 100,000,000 pounds of beef, accomplishing this remarkable deed though meat rationing was lifted in this country. It is held that success should be possible this year, too, in face of the rapidly changing conditions in this country, especially if there is a careful formulation of policy to be in accord with future rather than present returns for the producer. It is predicted that this sort of success for the future may affect or modify plans. It is known that during the war years Canadian farmers turned their attention more and more to growing coarse grains and raising livestock rather than concentrating upon almost over-supply of wheat, depletion of markets for wheat, shipping as well as storage difficulties, etc. However, now the conditions are changing and many farmers are once again anxious to grow wheat because the guaranteed prices for wheat may mean more money for them in the end, involve less work than raising livestock and bring a more stable source of revenue after the war.

But it is said now, on Parliament Hill that, if Canada is to hope for a proper share in the most desirable British post-war markets, this country must raise and send overseas of pork products, beef, etc., as would help to maintain the already limited rations abroad, even though the United States or other nations are cutting down severely now their exports of such food products.

It is reported in Ottawa that arrangements under the Veterans' Land Act have been made with machine companies in Canada for the purchase of tractors and farm machinery calling for minimum requirements of approximately 2,000 full time farming units, with these to be delivered during 1945.

It is reported in the capital that Canada will be represented at the month of Nations to discuss policy in advance of the United Nations World Security Conference in San Francisco in April with Canada's main delegates at the advance gathering in London being the Canadian High Commissioner Vincent Massey and Assistant Under Secretary of State for External Affairs Hume Wrong, who had been preparing for some time to leave Ottawa for this meeting.

Though the "baby bonus" will not be paid until July, yet complications about its payment have already arisen in Ottawa and more cannot be ruled out of order. So far it has been learned in Ottawa that demands are being made that these payments should be paid in respect of all children in the care of Children's Aid Societies. Under the Act, the word "parent" includes the institution and the Act provides that "institution" shall have such meaning as prescribed by regulations. Moreover, there is an impression that such allowances would almost certainly be paid in respect of those children in the care of Children's Aid Society who have not been made wards chargeable to any particular municipality, though at the same time, it is said, there was a strong possibility that such allowances would not be paid in respect of children whose maintenance was assumed by some municipality under provisions of a court order. Then again, another complication has come up whereby it has been found necessary to bring about an amendment to the Income Tax Act to do away with any possible duplication of benefits in family allowances and deductions for dependents.

A high official J. A. Wilson, Director of Air Service, Department of Transport, has indicated in Ottawa that Canada's development in civilian aviation during this war may bring about amazing things in the post-war period. "Although there was a deadlock on the Freedom of the Air at the Chicago Air Conference, a permanent convention was evolved," he said. Then he said, "Canada's aircraft production will increase after the war because of the need of transport planes, mail planes for feeder air lines, and private planes." He hinted that surveys are being made now to determine the possibility of extending Trans-Canada air lines and towns as well as the creation of a regular service across the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans in the near future, foreseeing in the post-war period, 500 to 300 planes able to carry 40 to 50 passengers. In view of the reputation and position in Ottawa of this high official, his statements are most significant at this time and there may be in the making spectacular developments far beyond the imagination of the man-in-the-street across Canada.

Hon. Brooke Claxton, Minister of National Health and Welfare, who is responsible for the administration of the "baby bonus," was one of the first to fill out such an application in Ottawa, claiming allowances for two dependent children, David, 15, and Helen Jane, 12. When it was reported that Air Vice Marshal J. A. Scully, who had done remarkable work for five years in organizing administration work for the Royal Canadian Air Force, was retiring, it was stated in Ottawa that he was 63 years of age. As a matter of fact, this must be an error since he is only 53. Canada's volunteer fire fighting corps which did great work in helping to combat this menace in the darkest days of this war during the tremendous attacks on Britain may receive payment of service gratuities. This has been hinted by Veterans' Minister Ian Mackenzie and it has also been reported in the capital that of the 402 Canadian Air men sent overseas all but 19 have now returned to Canada. . . . It is to be hoped that this is not a sign of the coming events but it is a fact that there is more buzzing on the streets of Canada's capital than at any other time since 1939 when this war was started. . . . The Progressive Conservatives have arranged that groups of 25 candidates for the coming general election should visit the nation's capital sitting in on a caucus of members of Parliament of this party and watching parliamentary proceedings from the public galleries. . . . In time with the policies of the authorities for each branch of the armed services, each man or woman gets an interview with a counsellor before his or her discharge in order that a complete outline of all Government grants, allowances and gratuities to which they are entitled is given, plus practical advice about seeking employment and information relating to similar jobs in civil life. Indeed, special sources are being given in Ottawa now to officers who will have some of this responsibility in counselling personnel on leaving the armed forces. Big Increase Noted In Sugar Beet Industry

Beet Contracts Going Fast Now That Farm Labour is Assured.

Contracting for sugar beets is proceeding at a rapid pace, field men for the Sugar Company report.

So many calls are being received from farmers anxious to contract that field men cannot take care of all the calls immediately. Growers as the field men are making their rounds as quickly as possible and will reach all.

Field men say they have been writing contracts, at an average of 1,500 acres a day—which is a much faster rate than were taken over the same period last year.

Farm Labor Assured.
Joint action between the Dominion and the Ontario governments has resulted in the assurance that labor for sugar beet crops will be available this year by the time the beets are ready for thinning.

The Federal government has announced there will be at least 325 prisoners of war at the Chatham camp; about 100 in a new camp at Glencoe, and at least 100 in another which will be opened at Centralia. If needed, still another camp will be established in Kent County.

Beet Crop Profitable.
This move by the government, to provide a more abundant farm labor supply, has relieved the farmers' anxiety over possible shortage of workers. Growers are realizing that the sugar beet crop is most profitable, because sugar beets return a high value per acre—in fact, excellent when compared with any other crop the farmer can grow.

As announced, prices for sugar beets this year are the same as in 1944. Even after paying for labour, the farmers' return per acre last year was over $75 per acre. The average price was $12.52 per ton last year, which means the return per acre was $112.50 for factory delivered beets and $105.75 per ton at outside points.

f. o. b. Grand Falls, N.B. According to the former order prices were at one cent a pound higher than table potatoes and varied according to the grade.

According to Prices Board officials, prices of freight from Grand Falls may be added to the price of all potatoes to the distributing centre. This means that in this Western Ontario region certified seed potatoes of all varieties will be approximately 75c a bag higher than the price established on Canada Number One table variety.

Sugar-Beet Contracts Now Ready

Labor for Sugar-Beet Crop

This year there will be at least 325 prisoners of war in the Chatham camp, at least 100 in a new camp at Glencoe and at least 100 in another new camp at Centralia. There will be still another camp in Kent County if needed. The assured total of 525 extra workers is 75 per cent more than were available last year. If needed, there will be others—more than double the number that were on hand last year.

These workers will be on hand when the beets are ready for thinning, we are assured by the authorities.

This labor program for work on the expected great sugar-beet crop in 1945 is arranged through joint action of the Dominion and Ontario governments.

As announced last week, prices for sugar beets are the same as last year. Even after paying for hired labor, farmers' NET returns were over $75.00 per acre. Beet labor prices for 1945 are the same as last year.

Average price last year was $12.52 per ton. Farmers' returns per acre were $112.50 for factory delivered beets and $105.75 per ton at outside points. This was the average; many growers made much more.

Assumption College Victory Campaign Fund.

A civilian army of 3,000 Essex County residents will begin solicitation of funds Monday in the Assumption College Victory Fund Campaign, a drive which has been mapped as a means of bringing about a necessary expansion of the College's facilities to serve an anticipated post-war influx of students.

Campaign workers will seek pledges of financial support, which may be met through an extended payment plan or by immediate contribution in the form of cash, cheques or victory bonds made out to the college.

W. H. Furlong, K.C., head of the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Railway Company is general chairman of the campaign. Chairman for Essex South is George Weller and the chairman for Essex North is Achille Mousseau.

Expansion planned by college officials will include the construction of a new classroom building; addition of sorely needed laboratories for science classes, new lecture halls, added residential quarters, a new library, expansion of the program in public health and adult education, and a large auditorium to serve increasing needs not only of the college but of the entire county as well.

Establishment of an agricultural course is also planned, main objective of which will be to provide an opportunity for returned soldiers and farmers' sons from the county to obtain the fundamentals of profitable farming right at home.

In a statement emphasizing the necessity of expansion the Very Reverend Vincent J. Guinan, President of Assumption, said, "There can be no question but what the post-war demand for education will be greater than we have ever before known it. Colleges everywhere are preparing to meet this demand by adding to their facilities.

"First of all there will be the returning servicemen. Many of them were in college when called to duty and as soon as they get the chance they want to finish those interrupted educations. Added to this group will be a great number of discharged veterans whose interest in education has been stimulated by technical training and who now want to pursue that training further. Men from both these groups will receive financial help from the government to make college possible for them.

"We still must serve the normal complement of young men who come of college age annually, and as evidence of Assumption's problem consider that right now we are giving instruction to 300 college students with facilities and in quarters intended for a student body of 150.

"Assumption can choose no other course than expansion if it is to serve this area as it rightfully should. With colleges elsewhere overcrowded, our youth cannot anticipate immediate entrance and in the United States their own returning servicemen will have priority rights. We must care for our young men at home."

The college, founded in 1870, is this year observing its 75th anniversary. Never before has Assumption solicited financial aid from the general public. "We do it now," Father Guinan added, "only because we are convinced that this actually is a community problem. I am sure all of us want to see educational opportunities presented to our youth right here at home. The response on the part of citizens of the county has already been tremendously gratifying and we feel such co-operation as is being shown by the great array of campaign workers is a sound guarantee of success for the campaign."

"Education Is The Number One Priority Tool"

Those are the words of Colonel Lawrence A. Deziel, O.B.E., of Windsor, writing from Canadian front in Germany two weeks ago last Sunday. The full letter appears at the left reproduced just as it was received by a personal friend here in Windsor.

Dear Howard

The war in EUROPE is nearly won, not quite, but nearly, and as we turn our minds from war to peace it is comforting to know that such institutions as ASSUMPTION COLLEGE are planning to open their doors to those whose education was interrupted by the call of duty, adventure or the draft board.

We all realize that civvy street is not a paved boulevard where one can saunter amongst the cork trees picking daisies, but given the tools we'll smooth it out. Education is the number one priority tool!

Naturally I am particularly pleased and proud that ASSUMPTION COLLEGE is to play such an important part in helping the soldier lads to gather in the loose ends. It is fitting that this should be so, as the Spirit of ASSUMPTION has made its weight felt on every field of battle on which her many many sons have trod.

I am cabling $25.00 for the building fund; I know that it isn't much considering what is needed but I feel certain that WINDSOR and ASSUMPTIONITES will do the rest.

Sincerely,

Lawrence

Assumption College is Essex County's only institution of higher learning. This is its seventy-fifth anniversary year and for the first time it is now turning to its friends and neighbours for active financial assistance through its Victory Fund Campaign.

The youth of today are education conscious more than ever before. Boys coming out of high school know that if they are to enter a professional or technical field they must have more training. The young men in Canada's armed forces, when they come home, are going to be helped financially by the Dominion government to further their educations. Many of them were in college when called to duty and want to complete their schooling. Many were just ready to enter college. Many, who were older, have learned new professions in the service and want to enhance that training by further education.

Where will these men want to gain that advanced training and education? As close to home as possible. In Essex County that means at Assumption. The word "home" has, in five years of war, come to represent the goal of victory. We want them back and when they get home we want them to have every opportunity possible. Colleges and Universities in the United States owe a similar obligation to their youth and will be so crowded entry will become a severe problem. It will be so here, also, but these are OUR OWN and no matter what the cost of seeing they get the opportunity they want it won't be too high to be met.

Assumption's problem is one of space and facilities. It is now serving twice as many students as intended. The College has grown slowly, in pace with enrolment and income. Now, for the first time, it is faced with a sudden tremendous influx of students. No parent in Essex County wants a son turned back at his College's doors because of a lack of room, and to avoid that situation Assumption must expand. It must have many more classrooms, new laboratories, lecture halls, an auditorium, a new library, added administrative space and expanded living quarters. It must also extend its programs in adult education and public health.

How can this be done? Simply with your help. Assumption has never petitioned for, nor received, any City, County, Provincial or Dominion financial help. It does not ask for it now. This is a COMMUNITY responsibility. It's a problem that concerns every individual in Essex County. By working together we can see that it is solved.

If you have not yet pledged your support, will you do it now?

THIS MESSAGE PRESENTED BY THE ASSUMPTION COLLEGE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION.

Let's not fool ourselves, folks. When this bloody war is finally over these young men doing the fighting are coming home with definite ideas of what it is they want out of life. They will be thousands strong and among them Essex County has its proportionate share. For those that do come home we must provide opportunity — the opportunity to get back into former jobs, opportunity to take their rightful place in community life, opportunity to enter the new fields of endeavour that have become the modern frontier, yes, and it is all contingent upon opportunity for education.

Another Hydro Rate Reduction For All Rural Consumers

A further Rural rate reduction from 4c to 3½c per kilowatt hour on the first block of energy used in any one month by Hydro Rural consumers, will go into effect on all bills rendered on or after May 1st, 1945.

This rural rate reduction will mean a saving of approximately $300,000 a year to Hydro Rural consumers.

The New Uniform Rate Structure Will Be:

3½c per kilowatt hour for first block of energy.
(formerly 4c.)

1 6/10c per kilowatt hour for second block of energy.

¾c per kilowatt hour for all additional energy
No service charge on Farm Service . . . a service charge of 56c gross per month on Hamlet service.

The more Hydro you use the less it costs on the average per kilowatt hour. Increased use therefore brings lower costs. The important revisions in Rural rates made effective in January 1944, have resulted in a greater use of energy, enabling the Commission to further reduce the cost of electricity to Hydro Rural consumers in Ontario.

FRIDAY, APRIL 6, 1945.

Farm Radio Forum.

Canada's Farm Radio Forum has just completed its fifth season of service to Canadian farmers. As a national democratic institution, it has crystallized farm opinion on vital topics of the day and presented that opinion to Canada's policy-makers. And with Farm Forum's guidance, farmers have worked together to solve problems that are too big for lone farmers to tackle.

On March 5th, the Forum discussed producing for consumer needs. Farmers too often forget that to obtain the top prices, they must produce what the consumer wants, when he wants it. The demand for certain goods changes with the times. Take tomato juice: in 1930 only 6,288 cases were packed in Canada. In 1941 the pack was 4 million cases. After the war, similar changes in food fashion are apt to be many and sudden. This requires production shifts from product to product in many farming districts. It will be of the utmost importance to the farmer's pocket-book that he be able to make these changes when needed.

Will farmers be able to make these changes quickly enough? Farm Forum again tells how we can do it. "All these changes, the improvement of tractors, adjusting production to meet demand, and so on — require united efforts. The individual farmer can do much, but his best efforts are of little avail unless his fellow farmers also turn out a desirable product. That is why uniform standards are necessary. But the regulations should be drawn up by the producers and consumers themselves. Governments must lend support but in order to prevent regimentation we must keep the controls as democratic as possible. Without the co-operation of all concerned consumer needs cannot be met adequately."

Discussing price stabilization for farm products, the forum decided that it is essential to meet modern circumstances. There is no longer an unlimited market for our agricultural surplus. Prices on world markets are apt to be low, so low that we cannot have a prosperous agriculture unless farm products are given the same protection as tariffs give industrial products. To provide such protection, the Dominion Government has passed "The Agricultural Prices Support Act."

The Guide appraises the Act thus: "This Act would seem to be the answer to the farmer's prayers, as far as it goes, which is only during the transition period from peace to war. It gives the farmer, for this limited period, the best legislative backing he has ever had in his struggle for equality in prices. How long the transition period will last is anybody's guess. It also remains to be seen how the Act will work out whether floor prices, subsidies or contracts will be the main method of stabilization used by the Board, or whether a combination of methods will be used.

"Would it be to the farmer's advantage to have the Agricultural Prices Support Act in force permanently? This is a question which farmers must consider seriously. Much will depend of course, on the way the Act is administered. Valuable experience will be gained in the transition period."

Canadian agriculture has a tremendous stake in world affairs. It is to our best advantage to help the war-torn countries get back on their feet again so they can again be paying markets for our farm supplies. The Guide outlines the national policy required to meet our obligations as an exporting country: "If under some circumstances, food has to be exported at less than the cost of production, the cost of the program must be spread over all our population on the basis of ability to pay as has been done during the war and in the case of UNRRA. Food production must be efficient. Production costs must be at rock-bottom levels. Citizens of Canada should not be taxed to provide food for export if the food has been uneconomically produced."

"We must not expect big prices. Not at least while the food is going to those who are much less fortunate than ourselves. If food prices are to be kept down, the cost of farm equipment and supplies must not be out of line. Everything possible must be done to prevent waste, profiteering and discrimination in the food trade both at home and abroad."

As at the end of the previous seasons, the forum filled out a questionnaire telling what subjects they wish to discuss next year. The forum leaders use these findings when determining the type of broadcasts and guides to be used. This democratic system of making up programs in accord with the expressed needs of the members is one of the features that makes Farm Forum so successful. Members hope that the war will be over next year so they will have more time to devote to this promising project.

Preserves Coupons for Sugar.

The first two preserves coupons for canning sugar became valid on March 15th, according to the ration division of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. These two coupons are good for one pound of sugar.

Ten pounds of canning sugar will be the allotment per person for this year. As preserves coupons are being used for this purpose there will be no difficulty in using them for preserves in the regular way if housewives do not need the sugar for canning. When the twenty-five preserves coupons to ration book five become due, other coupons will be designated as valid for the purchase of these rationed commodities, officials said.

IN MANY WAYS BETTER THAN

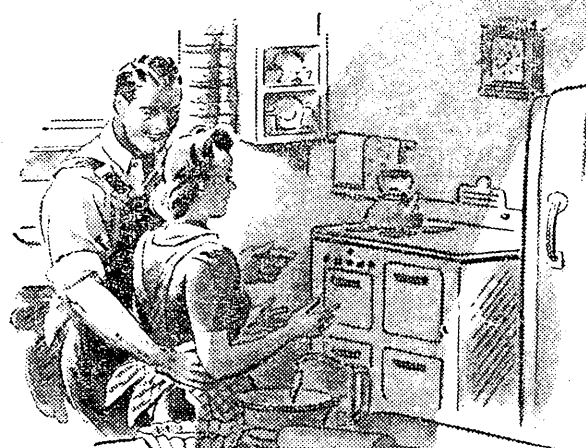

Managing a farm is in many ways similar to managing any other business. That is why reserve savings in liquid form are so helpful to a farmer.

Victory Bonds provide the handiest form in which savings can be kept with safety. Their security is without question. They represent money owing to you by the Dominion of Canada, just as dollar bills do. And . . . better than dollar bills . . . they earn interest for you every day you hold them; even when put away for safe keeping in a bank vault or in a safe. They pay double bank interest.

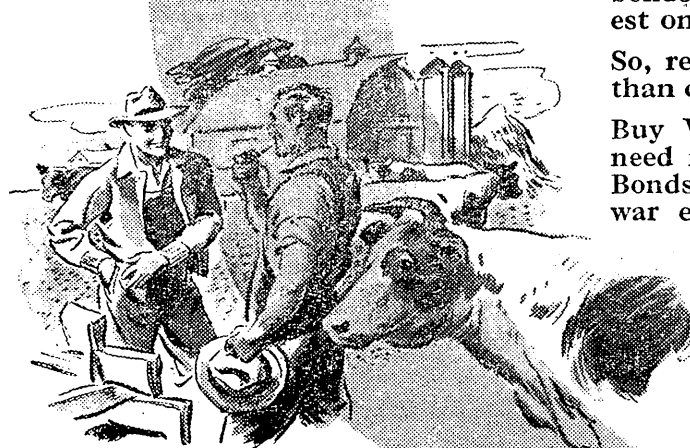

You can get cash for Victory Bonds if you need cash in an emergency. Any bank will buy them from you. You can borrow on them, without any formality. Simply take them to any bank and get the loan you need. The interest the bonds earn pays a large part of the bank interest on the loan.

So, realize this fact, Victory Bonds are better than cash because they earn interest.

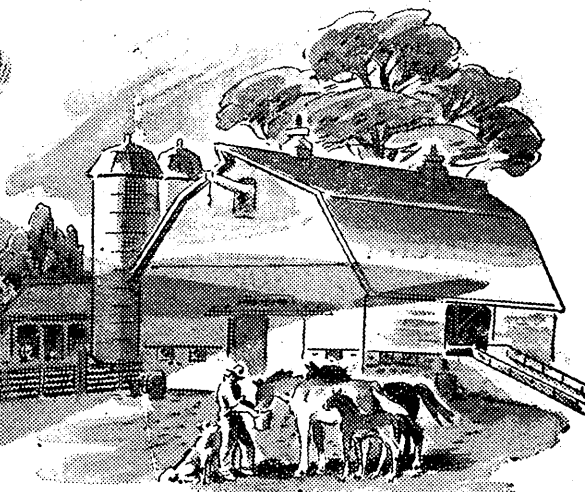

Buy Victory Bonds to have cash where you need it, when you may need it. Buy Victory Bonds to help maintain your country's war effort.

You will want cash if you plan to improve your home when the war ends . . .

You will want cash if you plan to improve your live stock . . .

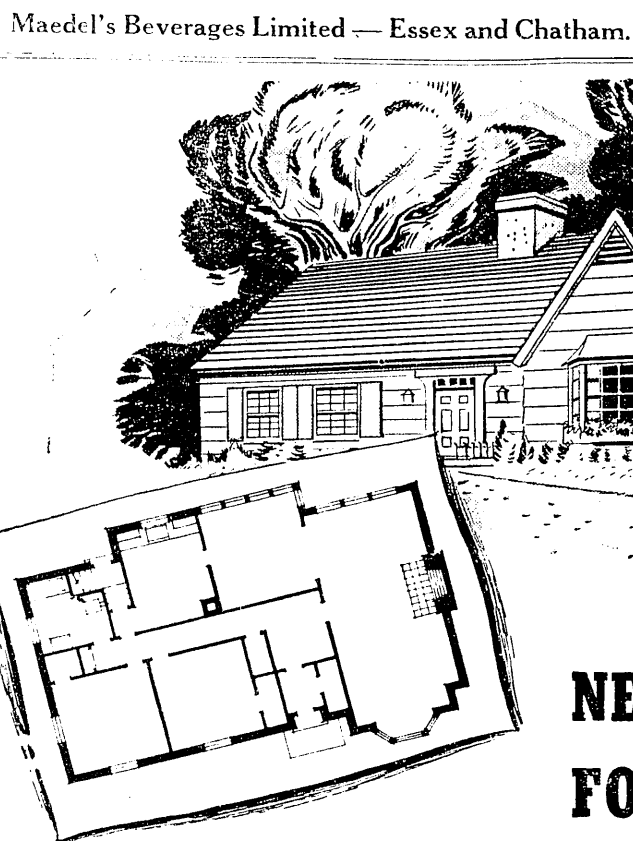

You will want cash if you plan to build new barns or install new barn equipment . . .

ARGUMENTS OR CITIZENS.

By Joseph Lister Routledge.
The person who first thought of designating our Family Allowance legislation as "the baby bonus" did a very nice job of misdirecting public opinion. Such a phrase had a natural association with the Province of Quebec, where babies are somewhat more plentiful than in other parts of Canada. From that association, of course, to the labeling of the legislation as political log-rolling was a short step indeed. The writer has no other insight than another into the hearts and consciences of the leaders of government, and so there is no way of knowing what motives impelled them to formulate such legislation, but as it is in line with all the forward-thinking programs of the moment, it is quite possible that their motives were as lofty as those of any of the fashioners of the phrases.
On the other hand, it was admitted that it was a measure based on political expediency — an olive branch held out to strengthen, it might be, the somewhat wavering loyalties of a province — then the government was singularly inattentive in the reading of figures that were more open to them than to their detractors. When the allowances are paid, Ontario will receive only a little distance behind Quebec in the total of benefits received, and Ontario has never boasted of its large families.

But the impetuous folk who seized on the "baby bonus" phrase with such delight obviously went the step further and assumed that Quebec was receiving the largest benefit and paying the least for it.

That unfortunately for their argument, doesn't happen to be the fact. It is true that in direct and indirect taxation, Ontario pays very close to half of the total for the Dominion — 47 per cent. But it is equally true that it is blessed with about an equal portion of the country's resources and being so blessed, should pay for the privileges that have been showered on its citizens for no virtues of their own that are visible at a casual glance. Quebec, on the other hand, pays 34 per cent of Canada's taxes, and will receive 32 per cent of the total Family Allowance payments for Canada when these become generally effective. While that is getting fairly close to its full deserts, it is not exceeding them.

There are sections of the country that, on any checking of receipts against tax payments, would receive disproportionate benefits. The Maritimes, for instance, pay only 4 per cent of all the taxes, but they will receive 11 per cent of all bonus pay-

Not a Locust.

The strident note frequently heard during hot days in July and attributed to the locust, is not produced by that insect but by a bare black and green species, known as the cicada. The shrill prolonged notes are made by the male insect by vibrating the membranes of special sound organs on the under side of the abdomen.

Warble fly control means more meat, more leather, and more milk, with no more feed required. Control of this fly stops the fly from causing stampered cattle in the fields; prevents the loss of much condemned meat, and saves leather. NOW AN OIL THAT'S 'ALLOYED'...KEEPS ENGINES CLEAN!

This Spring switch to B-A's sensational new 5-point-process PEERLESS MOTOR OIL

This year don't delay! Get your spring change-over early, before that dirty worn-out oil in your car causes serious damage! And when you change, switch to Peerless, B-A's new, Canadian-made, 5-point-process oil that's "alloyed" to prevent its fouling your car's engine... to help keep your repair costs down!

THIS YEAR IS CRUCIAL

It is particularly important, when most of us are driving cars which have already given abnormal service, that we give the engine every possible chance. Only by so doing can we hope to get through the driving season without trouble. That's why it's so important to know how Peerless Motor Oil does a better job.

Here in a nutshell is the reason: From selected lubricating crude oils, B-A eliminates everything except the purest, "oiliest" lubricating fractions. Then, by a special process, Peerless Motor Oil is "alloyed" against decomposition under the heat and pressure it meets in the engine of your car! For longer, safer car life switch now to B-A Peerless Motor Oil!

These are each important steps in the famous Clarkson 5-point-process which makes the purest, most efficient lubricating oil known. Then comes the unique 5th step—the step that "alloys" the oil against oxidation just as iron is alloyed against rust to make stainless steel. This step means that Peerless Motor Oil will stay on the job longer, keep engines cleaner, cut the repair costs.

FOR BETTER SERVICE and better products, switch now to your British American Oil Dealer.

Victory Mills Plant, 285 Fleet St. East, Toronto, Ontario

WANTED

3,000,000 BUSHELS OF SOYBEANS

Victory Mills will pay highest prices for all the Soybeans that farmers grow, in the 1945 crop year.

Canada is one of the largest consumers, per capita, of vegetable oils in the world... yet, Canada is one of the lowest producers! Canadian farmers and Canadian industry have had to depend on imports... because Canada lacked an adequate oil seed processing plant. The newly built, $2,500,000, Victory Mills plant, shown above, is well on the way towards ending this situation.

A tremendous expansion in Soybean production is needed to meet Victory Mills' huge processing capacity. The market for soybean products is hungry and growing... soybeans fit to advantage in crop rotation plans and provide attractive profits... soybeans, requiring minimum labour, are a cash crop... soybeans, like other legumes, impart nitrogen to the soil. Victory Mills will pay highest prices... and the Canadian Government present ceiling price is $2.15 per bushel, F.O.B. Toronto. Smart farmers, realizing these advantages, will plant soybeans this spring!

This is the first of a series of advertisements which will appear in this newspaper—the next advertisement will list names of Victory Mills' local buyers. A booklet on Soybean Growing is being prepared and will soon be available through our buyers.

Essex Town Council.

Monday, March 26th.

Council met in regular session, in the Council Chamber, at 8 p.m., with Mayor Francotte, Reeve Doyle and Councillors Chase, Shaw, Hines, Hutchinson, Skinner and Cascadden present.

Mr. Miller addressed Council re financial help for the Essex Ball Club for the coming season. He stated the seats should be painted, the outfield ploughed and levelled and the infield disced and levelled. He also reported that someone had stolen part of the heavy wire netting the town had purchased for the local ball grounds last summer. The team would also need new uniforms. He thought Council could possibly see their way clear to grant them $50.

On motion of Messrs. Hines and Shaw, the Essex Base Ball Club was given a grant of $50.

After a lengthy discussion re care of the Fair Grounds it was moved by Messrs. Doyle and Chase, that the rental and looking after the Fair Grounds be left in the hands of the Property Committee, with power to act.

The Clerk read a letter of resignation handed him in the afternoon by Fred Eldridge, town street foreman.

After discussing the work expected of the town street man, it was moved by Messrs. Doyle and Hutchinson, and carried, that the Clerk advertise for applications for street foreman, applications to be in hands of Clerk not later than 6 p.m. Tuesday, April 3rd.

All applicants were to be requested to either appear before Council in person or interview Mr. Hutchinson, chairman of the Board of Works, so they can learn first hand work expected of them.

On motion of Messrs. Chase and Hines, anyone driving to Windsor on Town business is to be allowed $3 per trip.—Car.

G. W. Doyle reported that the catch basin on the south side of Arthur avenue, just a short ways east of Talbot street, has been broken in, from heavy trucks backing over same. He thought it should be repaired or replaced.—

Left with the Drainage Committee, with power to act.

Chief Harrison addressed Council about repainting wide marks denoting the sidewalk on Gordon avenue, along the Imperial Service Station from Talbot street to the post office, so cars at night, especially Saturday nights, will not be parked on the walk and obstruct pedestrians.

On motion of Messrs. Hutchinson and Cascadden, the above matter was referred to the Police Committee, with power to act.

Mayor Francotte reported that Jas. Roadhouse wished the alley back of his place opened. He is, at present, driving over private property.

On motion of Messrs. Doyle and Cascadden, matter of opening up alley was left with the Board of Works.

Mr. Francotte also reported that the Baptist Church Board would like permission to cut the curb, just north of their church so they could make a driveway into the church grounds. The board would build the necessary sidewalk, crossing at their own expense. The request was granted, work to be done under supervision of Commissioner for Ward 1, Mr. Shaw.

Chief Harrison reported to Council that A. J. Ashton a few years ago had paved what was the boulevard, in front of his Dairy, so that customers could angle park their cars while in his place of business. Mr. Ashton would like to have it so cars could angle park, but, according to town by-law, which has been approved by the Department of Highways, there is no angle parking on Talbot street.

On motion of Messrs. Hines and Cascadden, the Clerk was instructed to have the Town Solicitor draw up the necessary bylaw granting Mr. Ashton his request.

The Clerk was instructed to advertise in the Essex Free Press for tenders for chassis for new fire truck; also to advertise for tenders, in the Toronto Globe, for the other fire fighting equipment for new truck, with the town supplying the chassis, tenders to be in the hands of the Town Clerk by April 16th.

Get Into The Swing To Sugar Beets!

RARELY IN THE HISTORY OF THE SUGAR BEET INDUSTRY OF SOUTHWESTERN ONTARIO HAVE FARMERS SIGNED UP CONTRACTS SO QUICKLY AND FOR SO MANY ACRES OF SUGAR BEETS.

Company Fieldmen Report Fine Reception from Growers all over the District

THERE ARE SOUND REASONS FOR THE SWING:

1. There is a market for every beet you grow.
2. There is profit in every beet you market.
3. There is a floor price for every beet you deliver.
4. National Selective Service now can direct labor to farms and there will be more Prisoner-of-War labor in three or more handy camps.
5. Sugar beets are a sure cash crop with a high return per acre.
6. Growing conditions promise to be good in 1945—perhaps even ideal. Average cash returns in 1944 were $12.50 per acre for factory delivered beets and $105.75 per acre for beets delivered at outside points. Many growers did even better.

YOUR FIELDMAN WILL CALL SOON

Contracting began late this year but Fieldmen hope to get around to see you as soon as possible. Growers within easy reach of Chatham or Wallaceburg office can contract there if convenient to them.

President Roosevelt Passes.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States, passed away shortly before 6 o'clock on Thursday.

Landmark Burns.

The large 2-story, 65-year-old frame building which housed the old John MacDougall blacksmith shop and carriage works, on Wilson avenue, just behind the Aberdeen Hotel, burned to the ground early Tuesday morning.
The alarm was turned in by Cecil Parker shortly after 1 a.m.

Cause of the fire is unknown. However, the blaze when first noticed, was in an unoccupied part at the rear of the building. There was no insurance on building or contents.
Arch MacDougall, present owner, will have a loss of about $3,000. Wm.
Hutchinson, who has been operating a blacksmith shop in the easterly front part of the structure, will stand to lose about $1,000.

The biggest loser from the fire appears to be Tom Lee, the owner of Sing Lee laundry, who has operated a laundry in the same building in town for the past 32 years, except for a 3-year visit to his home in China, 13 years ago.

Sing Lee, as he is more familiarly known, estimates he lost close to $4-000 (he recovered over $300 in cash) which he had hidden in the different places in the building. This sum, however, includes $1,300 in bearer Victory Bonds. If these bonds were burned they will, in due time, be replaced by the Dominion Treasury.

Harry Knight Killed.

Harry Knight, aged 59, of 371 Tuscarora street, Windsor, was killed instantly and the three passengers in his car were injured, one seriously, when it crashed into the ditch at the dead end of the Walker sidewalk. Colchester North, where it intersects the North Rear road, near McGregor.

The accident happened at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, when Knight, who was driving down the Walker side-road, failed to notice that the intersection was a dead-end and drove his car into the ditch on the north rear road. Knight's skull was fractured just above the nose. Indications were that his head had struck the steering post, causing instant death. He also suffered broken ribs and internal injuries.

His wife suffered severe shock, bruises and cuts about the forehead, which required 20 stitches to close. James Nelson, 2962 West Warren avenue, Detroit, suffered from shock and a severe cut on the leg, while Emma Maguire, of 597 Josephine street, Detroit, the fourth occupant of the car, was only badly bruised.

Deceased is a brother of Alfred Knight, of South Woodslee.

Essex Town Council.

Friday, April 6th.
Council met in special session at 8
p.m., with Mayor Francotte, Reeve
Doyle and Councillors Hutchinson,
Hines, Shaw and Chase present.

The Mayor stated the meeting had been called at the request of Mr.
Hutchinson, chairman of the Board of Works.

Mr. Hutchinson stated he had contacted Wm. Kennedy re street cleaning job, and he had offered to do the work at a salary of $120 per month. If Mr.
Kennedy was hired, Mr. Eldridge would then keep up the garbage collection.

Mayor Francotte thought this would be another case of getting the job, finding out the work couldn't be done for the money and coming back to Council for an increase. He didn't think Mr. Kennedy could do the work for $120 a month.

When asked if he had seen Mr.
Doan, the only applicant for the position, when advertised, Mr. Hutchinson stated he had and that Mr. Doan had told him he wanted the job, as a whole, and would not split the garbage and street work as he had suggested to him.

Mr. Chase, the other member of the Board of Works, said that Mr. Doan had told him he would take the street cleaning job at $1,500 per year.

After a short discussion, it was moved by Messrs. Hines and Doyle, and carried, that William Kennedy be hired as street man at $120 per month, with no garbage collection; cleaning of catch basins to be extra.

It was also decided that Council forego the door to door collection of garbage. "This work is not being done, at the taxpayers' expense, in Kingsville, Harrow or Leamington."

The Clerk was instructed to advise the citizens of town, through an advertisement in the Free Press, that Mr. Eldridge would continue to gather up the garbage to April 14th, but on after April 16th he would collect directly from the householder.

It was decided also to hold the usual clean-up days on a date to be fixed.
Mr. Chase thought Council should undertake the numbering of houses in town.

This matter, which all agreed would be a grand scheme, was left with the Property Committee to investigate.

The taking care of trimming the trees and cutting down of many, a serious hazard in town, was, on motion of Messrs. Chase and Doyle, left with the Property Committee, with power to act.

Council adjourned.

I. O. O. F. Activities.

Elmer J. Rose. This team enjoys international fame, having appeared in Toronto and other Ontario cities. This promises to be a night long to be remembered. Degree at 9 p.m. sharp.

The second degree staff of Enterprise Lodge will confer that degree on will hold an important meeting in the Aberdeen Hotel, Essex, at 3 p.m. on Sunday next, April 15th. All teams must have their deposit of $10 paid, and signed contracts of their players.

The schedule of the two-section league is ready for adoption.

Junior League Formed.

A meeting of the newly-formed Junior League will be held in the North Woodslee Hall, this Friday evening.
At the inaugural meeting, held recently, Joseph Daely was appointed President, pro tem, and Rev. Fr. O'Neil, secretary, pro tem. Teams have entered from Essex, Belle River, Tecumseh, and Woodslee.

Mrs. Alvin Thompson Passes.

One of Wheatley's aged and highly respected citizens, in the person of Mrs. Alvin Thompson, passed away on Thursday of last week, April 5th.

Deceased was born in Lambton County 74 years ago, on January 10th, 1871. She was the daughter of the late Francis Lewis and Isabelle Atkinson.

She is survived by her husband, Alvin Thompson; two brothers, T. E.
Lewis, of Carcross, Yukon, and Fred J.
of Big River, Sask; and three sisters,
(Mrs. Thomas Mulcaster) of Windsor; Edith (Mrs. W. L. Allen) of Essex, and Belle (Mrs. Mary Barlow) of Essex.

The funeral was held on Monday, April 9th, from the family residence on the 4th Concession of Romney, to Zion Church for services. Interment was in Eric cemetery.

Victory Loan Drive to Open April 23rd.

Chief Organizer T. M. Hockin and his associates have arrived in Leamington in connection with Canada's 8th Victory Loan which will be launched on April 23rd. Mr. Hockin stresses that the success of the 7th Loan last fall in Essex County must not be allowed to impel the success of the forthcoming campaign by creating too great a feeling of optimism.

Reports are that deposits in the banks are at an all-time high and Mr.
Hockin points out the importance of obtaining a larger number of individual applications.

Objective Higher.
The quota for Essex County is considerably higher, with the general canvass objective set at $2,700,000; Special Names at $700,000 and payroll savings at $150,000.

The all-important preliminaries have been made by J. R. Morris, who has again assumed the chairmanship for the County of Essex, while George R.
Weller, of Essex, will again be chairman of the general sales division.

Success for the 8th Victory Loan will not come easily. But has anything about the war been easy? If this loan is tougher than any other, the soundest investment in the world is its object.
The word "sacrifice" is entirely out of place.

Fullest support of the 8th is one way citizens can prove their determination to finish off the war with conclusive victory at the earliest possible moment.

The Town of Essex objective has been set at $200,000.
Val Clare, of Windsor, who has recently returned from Europe, will speak at the Rio Theatre on Tuesday evening, April 24th, and will be worth hearing. Time of address will be announced next week.

M. N. Rounding has assumed the chairmanship of Colchester North, with an objective of $50,000.

Interdenominational.

Young people of all denominations in Essex and district are planning to attend this month's Interdenominational Youth Fireside, this Sunday, April 15th, in the Latter-Day Saints' Church, at 9 p.m. You'll be there, too, won't you? Norma Hill will pilot the Hour of Friendship, Weldon Pinley is to be the song-leader, assisted by Gloria Andrew, at the piano. A brass quartette from the Salvation Army will also take part. The theme for the evening is "Living for Jesus." Three representative young people will speak for three minutes each, using three aspects of the theme: "The Joy, the Temptations, the Development of the Life Lived for Jesus." A vital message thrilling singing, happy fellowship.
We'll be looking for you.

Ex-Wardens of County Meet.

The ex-Wardens Association of Essex County held their annual spring dinner meeting in the Aberdeen Hotel, Essex, on Tuesday, with fifteen ex-Wardens, the present Warden of the county and nine guests present.

Following the usual fine dinner, served by the hotel management, Enos Mc-Cauley, of Windsor, president of the Association, occupied the chair for a short program of speeches.

The chairman, following a few short remarks, during which he thanked his fellow members for the kind remembrances sent him last fall when he was unable to be present at the regular fall meeting due to illness, he called on Mayor Francotte for a few words of welcome.

After a moment's silence for the late Wm. McCormick, of Amherstburg, a deceased member of the Association since the last meeting, Secretary W.
R. Clifford, read a note from J. H.
Rodd, county solicitor, giving his regrets at not being able to be present, stating it was the doctor's orders;
also one from Mrs. Thos. Plant, advising the members that her husband was confined to Grace Hospital, Windsor.

A resolution was passed requesting the secretary to drop a cheerful line to Mr. Plant, to be accompanied with flowers for his sick room.

Leo Sylvester, Warden for 1945, atter giving a brief resume of the formation of the County Council, stated that the Council this year had two important problems to confront them, first, the formation of High School districts, and secondly, the assessment equalization for the county.

Judge Shaunnessy.
As guest speaker for the afternoon,
Judge Shaunnessy chose as his subject: "What has the County of Essex to Show Others." In prefacing his remarks the Judge stated it was his first visit at an ex-Warden's affair, although it was not his fault that he was not an ex-Warden of his native Lambton County, as he had had aspirations, but the ratepayers in his home municipality thought different and he was defeated at the polls, however, the man who defeated him was later elected Warden, and made one of the finest officials in the county's history.

The speaker stated he chose his subject because he has been so impressed during the short space of the year he has been in the county, of the tolerance of the people to the rights of others, irrespective of race or creed.
Branching off on European history, he told of the distrust the peoples of the different countries there have for each other, naming the distrust of Roumania and Russia; Roumania and Hungary; Hungary and Bulgaria, and Greece and Yugoslavia, stating that Europe's many wars could have been averted had the peoples been taught tolerance. "Prior to the present war, all countries in Europe knew Germany had aims of aggression but they distrusted each other so much that they couldn't ban together and Germany over-ran them one by one," he said.

In reviewing the trouble between Great Britain and Ireland, he stated it was again a case of intolerance.

Building Plans for Range Shelters.

Range shelters are regarded as a necessity by progressive poultrymen. They provide ideal roosting quarters for growing cockerels and pullets. Range shelters may also be used to pen-fatten market stock and to house yearling layers which have just completed their pullet year production and are being conditioned for the next season's breeding.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture has published plans on how to build range shelters, plans illustrated by photographs and drawings. These plans give complete particulars of the materials required to build a range shelter, how many baseboards, how much roof covering and so forth to gether with their dimensions.

The plans give a poultryman the choice of two kinds of shelters; a large one, designed to meet the requirements of most poultry and a smaller shelter of a kind in considerable use in some parts of the Dominion. Plans for building range shelters may be obtained free from the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN

Hydro Home Economist

Hello, Homemakers! This week we have devoted the column to Children's Parties. We were thinking especially of St. Patrick's Day, but you will find the following recipes useful in entertaining the youngsters irrespective of the occasion.

CUSTARD.

3 eggs, 1/4 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 3 cups milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat eggs slightly, add the sugar and salt and mix well. Add the scalded milk gradually, stirring constantly. Add vanilla and pour into custard cups. Place in pan of hot water and bake in electric oven at 300 degrees for 45 minutes or until set (6 servings). Top each custard with a green maraschino cherry.

ST. PATRICK'S ICE CREAM.

1 cup milk, 1 cup coffee cream, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup light corn syrup, 1/4 cup lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 S teaspoon green food coloring.

Beat eggs until lemon coloured. Add sugar gradually until the mix becomes a thick custard-like consistency. Combine with syrup, milk, cream, colouring and lemon juice and rind. Pour into tray of electric refrigerator and freeze with temperature control at coldest position. When frozen remove to bowl and whip with an electric or hand beater until mix becomes light and creamy. Return quickly to freezing tray and allow to finish freezing.

ANIMAL CAKES.

1/2 cup shortening, 1/4 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 1/2 cups flour, 2 1/4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 teaspoon almond extract.

Cream fat, blend in sugar and beat eggs in thoroughly. Sift flour, measure and resift with baking powder and salt. Fold dry ingredients into first mix alternately with milk and almond flavouring. Pour into a shallow (16x10x17). Bake in electric oven at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Turn out of pan and cut out animal cakes by tracing a cardboard animal with a knife.

GINGERBREAD MEN.

1/2 cup shortening, 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup molasses, 1 egg, 3 1/4 cups flour, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon ginger, 1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-3 cup thick sour cream, raisins.

Cream butter, add sugar and cream thoroughly. Stir in molasses. Add the egg and beat well. Mix and sift the flour, soda, salt, ginger, cinnamon and baking powder and add to the first mixture alternately with the sour cream. Roll the dough. Roll out on a floured board to 1/4-inch thickness. Cut in the shape of a gingerbread man, using a floured cookie cutter or a paper pattern and a sharp knife. Place on a buttered cookie sheet and stick in raisins for the eyes, nose and mouth and for buttons down the front. Bake in an electric oven (375 degrees F) for about 10 minutes.

HONEY COCOA.

4 teaspoons cocoa, 4 to 5 teaspoons of honey, few grains salt, 1-3 cup hot water, 1-3 cups milk.

Mix the cocoa, honey, salt and water in a pan. (Sugar may be substituted for the honey). Cook, stirring constantly until the mixture boils. Continue to cook for about two minutes, stirring occasionally. Place over hot water and stir in the milk. Beat. Beat with a rotary beater until frothy. Pour into cups.

GEMS FOR YOUR

"Independence"

The word independence is united to the ideas of dignity and virtue; the word dependence, to the ideas of inferiority and corruption.—J. Benthams.

Let all your views in life be directed to a solid, however moderate, independence; without it no man can be happy, nor even honest.—Junius.

Right motives give pinions to thought, and strength and freedom to speech and action.—Mary Baker Eddy.

It is easy in the world to live after the world's opinion; it is easy in solitude to live after our own; but the great man is he who in the midst of the crowd keeps with perfect sweetness the independence of solitude.—Emerson.

There is often as much independence in not being led, as in not being driven.—Tryon Edwards.

"Are You Forgetting God?"

Deep within the human heart is a reverence for God, even though the individual may have only a vague idea of what God is and how to avail himself of God's help. On every side it is being proved that His power is at hand. Men need only awake to His presence and be willing to trust their entire well-being to Him. Accepting God as the only presence and the only power, men are finding Him able to guard, protect and deliver. As long as we are aware of God's power and presence, we shall be without fear, for thus we abide in perfect Love. Only when we admit the belief of power opposed to God can fear enter.

The apostle John wrote (1 John 4:16-18): "God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him. . . . There is no fear in love, but perfect love casteth out fear. . . . He that feareth is not made perfect in love." God is perfect Love and there is no other power or perfection. To cast out fear we must know only God, Spirit, ever-present intelligence. In other words, we must realize God's aliveness.

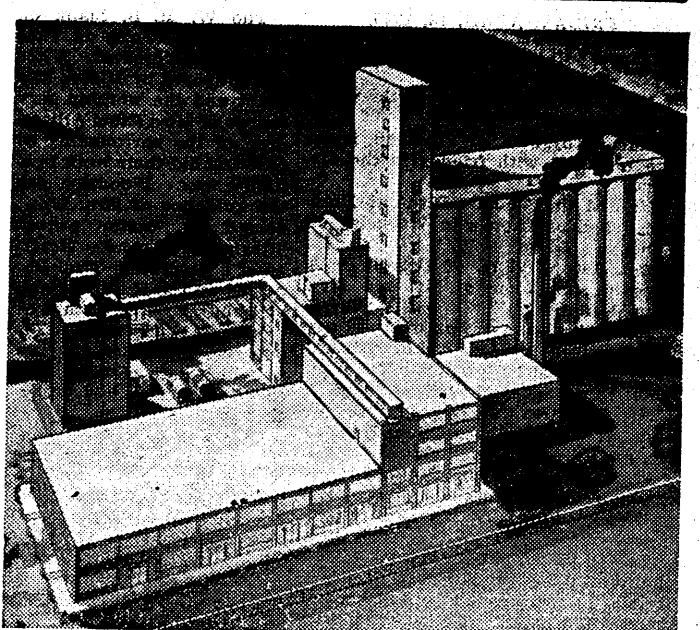

Christ Jesus taught a gospel of love, of man's spiritual being and his oneness with God, refuting all material laws and proving fallibility. Mary Baker Eddy writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures": "No power can withstand divine Love. What is this supposed power, which opposes itself to God? Whence cometh it? What is it that binds man with iron shackles to sin, sickness, and death? Whatever enslaves man is opposed to divine government. Truth makes man free."

When the storm clouds of mortal sense lower, and doubt and fears assail, it is time to ask ourselves, "Are you forgetting God?" Are we forgetting our oneness with Love, Life, Principle? Are we forgetting that we have the spirit "of power, and of love, and of a sound mind?" Let Paul's valiant answer be ours (Romans 8:38-39): "I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."—Christian Science Monitor.

THE QUESTION BOX.

Mrs. J. B. Suggests: A cookie time-saver. Instead of chilling, rolling and cutting dough into a roll one inch in diameter; cut in inch lengths and place pieces of dough on greased cookie sheet. Press the cookie flat with bottom of tumbler which is dipped in flour.

Mrs. M. J. says: Make use of part rolls of wallpaper by papering the storage rooms or clothes closets, using the reverse side and adding a pretty border.

WANTED 3,000,000 BUSHEL OF SOYBEANS

Victory Mills will pay highest prices for all the Soybeans 'ha' farmers grow, in the 1945 crop year

These are the reasons why foresighted farmers are turning to Soybeans: 1. the demand for soybeans is constantly increasing; 2. they fit to advantage in crop rotation planning; 3. they provide attractive profits; 4. requiring minimum labour, soybeans are a cash crop; 5. like other legumes, they impart nitrogen to the soil.

Ask your local buyer, or write Victory Mills, for a copy of the booklet "SOYBEANS." It gives complete information on varieties, cultural practices, harvesting, threshing and marketing. This booklet is now being printed and should be off the printing presses early next week.

Notes on Weaning Pigs.

From over 25 years of experience in breeding and raising swine at the Dominion Experimental Station, Kapuskasing, Ontario, it has been found that although good feeding practices and care are essential for all classes of swine at all times, the weaning period is maybe the most critical one, during which every special attention should be paid to young pigs if good results are to be expected. Pigs can be very easily stunted then if improperly handled and fed and consequently give poor profits.

A good way to prevent this, says U. Pilon, is: 1. to change diets gradually to prevent digestive disturbance; 2. to get the piglets to eat from a self-feeder inside a creep as soon as possible which will be at about 3 to 4 weeks of age. This will ease up on the nursing sow and permit her to nurse her pigs longer; secondly it will get the young pigs used to feeding by themselves; and at weaning (about 8 weeks of age) no digestive disturbance will be experienced if care is taken not to overfeed them, especially at first.

A meal mixture used at Kapuskasing with good results was made of 2 parts oats, 1 part middlings, 1 part shorts and 3 per cent minerals. This was fed along with skim milk at the rate of 1 lb. meal for 4 1/2 lbs. milk. The last year some commercial pig starter was fed with equally good results but less milk was fed then, 1 e, 1 to 3 1/2 approximately. This proportion of milk is gradually decreased as pigs grow up. Self-feeders have proved handy labour saving devices for this period.

On 111 litters raised during the last five years at this station, a total of 1,088 pigs or an average of 9.8 pigs per litter were still alive and thrifty at weaning. This represented over 77 per cent of those born. They had consumed up to then, roughly 9 lbs. meal and 35 lbs. milk each. This feed well paid for itself by the good condition of nursing sows at weaning and the continuous and rapid growth obtained from the pigs thereafter.

Women's Missionary Society Meet.

The W. M. S. of the United Church held its thank offering meeting at the parlour, on Tuesday evening last, with a splendid attendance of members and friends. The meeting opened with words of greeting from the president, Mrs. J. A. Naylor, after which a responsive worship service was conducted by Mrs. J. A. Dowdell, the theme being "A Living Hope." Piano solos were contributed by Mrs. J. W. Elsie, the same being excellently rendered and much appreciated.

The guest speaker, Mrs. J. C. Pennington, of Windsor, president of Essex Presbyterial, brought a very timely message, showing our responsibility in the great missionary endeavour of the church. She quoted many instances where, during the present conflict, men of the Allies, being marooned on some of the South Sea Islands, had been assisted and befriended by Christian natives, a product of Christian missionary effort. If we are to have peace in the world, we need to be more alive to our job of making the world Christian. Already our Mission Boards are planning campaigns of expansion and greater outreach.

Mrs. Ward Stead favoured with a beautiful solo, "The Man of Galilee," and a short questionnaire on Christian Stewardship was given by Mrs. D. Richardson. The offering taken was very gratifying and the dedicatory prayer was given by the pastor. The meeting closed with the benediction by Rev. T. Wesley Cosens, after which lunch was served by the committee in charge.

PROSPECTS FOR PEACE.

By Joseph Lister Routledge.

The day when Canada's soaring exports must begin to decline is coming steadily nearer. When the day dawns, Canada must face an immediate decline in the volume of production and export. The collapse of Germany, even before the collapse of Japan, will mean an immediate and substantial cutback in the production of war materials. The Hon. C. D. Howe has publicly announced that the immediate result of the cessation of war in Europe will be a decline of 35 per cent in our war production effort. A similar cutback will be made in both Britain and the United States.

Such a sharp decision must result inevitably in some dislocation of employment. Even with more jobs available, there are men to fill them. As the case certainly is now, there is still the inevitable lag while adjustments to new employment are made. But however sharp these readjustment pangs may be, there is still ample evidence to prove that there is a cushion adequate enough to meet the situation. The downward trend in production activity that was in evidence for some months during 1944 was checked in the later months of the year and the full year's average showed again a consistent gain, while the national income rose from the surprising 1943 total of $8,754,000,000, excluding gold, reaching a total of $12,412,000,000, exceeding that of the previous year by more than $3,600,000,000.

The beginning of the new year again showed some recession in external trade, but more than 30 per cent was a decline in basic war materials, perhaps the first indication of the necessary readjustment forecast by Mr. Howe. But there are other indications that are encouraging. While export business declined slightly, there was a considerable increase in the character of exports. There was a substantial growth in the export of general commodities, meats and newspaper, fibres and textiles, lumber and motor vehicles. As the demands of war decline, there is a very reasonable hope that the new demands of peace will continue to mount. Obviously it is not likely to be an easy task to take our vastly expanded export business, much of it war business, and to establish it on a peacetime basis; but there is an evidence that the establishment of long-term credits under the Export Credits Insurance Act may be a factor to that end. Already negotiations are under way with Russia for supplying power-producing electrical equipment and other commitments with Russia and with other countries will be made as adjustments can be arranged.

But there are people who still closely consider the enormous outlay on war, and wonder if we will ever be released from the burden of this enormous waste, or if it must remain as a staggering handicap forever. Perhaps the most heartening evidence we have is the fact that for all the vastness of the cost of our war operation we have earned that load without wavering. A few years back we would not have believed it possible that in the course of five years we could have financed war expenditures of $11,300,000,000 in addition to $2,700,000,000 for civil requirements. Still less would it have been believed that in those same five years we could have paid for half this outlay. Yet that is what we have done. Is there any reason to fear that we will fall before the smaller task of reconversion to peace? Library Magazine.

Useful Facts Passed to Farmers.

District Experiment Stations and Illustration Stations.

District Experiment Stations and Illustration Stations serve as connecting links between the Dominion Experimental Farms and the farmers of Canada. The purpose of these Stations is to bring to the attention of farmers the useful facts learned by the Experimental Farms Service in its many widespread fields of research. They also serve as testing grounds for new varieties of crops and as experimental areas for the study and demonstration of fertilizer treatments, cultural methods, and farm management. They also deal with specialized and localized problems which demand careful study. The stations try to illustrate efficient care and management of live stock and poultry, and aim to be a local source of supply to which neighbouring farmers may look for good breeding live stock, poultry, and seed of improved varieties of farm crops.

In the 1944 progress report of the Stations, beautification of the farmstead is stressed, because it is realized that farming is not just a job but a way of life and that in the farm home should be a place of restful enjoyment and of pride to those who live in it. The keeping of simple but systematic farm accounts is also practised so that the various farm projects may be evaluated keeping those most profitable and reorganizing the less profitable or dropping them altogether.

Is Horse Harness Ready for Spring?

Many farmers may have overhauled their harness for the extra work of spring. They have washed it, oiled it, and mended it.

But there is more to handling harness than repairing it; its proper use is necessary to get the most out of it and out of the horse. Important, too, is the proper fitting of the collars. A collar should not be so small as to throttle the horse nor so large as to put too much strain on any part of the shoulder. A properly adjusted collar distributes evenly the weight of the pull on the shoulders.

This precaution is worthwhile. If a horse is put to spring work in an ill-fitting collar and is worked too strenuously during the first few days, its shoulders may scald and blister. George Muir, Dominion Animal Husbandman, Central Experimental Farm, points to the wisdom of giving the horse an occasional rest and of lifting off the collar to give the shoulder a chance to cool and to dry. He says that the practice at the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa is to clean the face of the collar at the end of the day. In addition to cleaning the collar, dry it out in the sun and wind. This is particularly necessary with a Sticky Feet.

On the lower surface of the "feet" of house flies and other insects are pad-like structures known as pulvilli. The skin covering them is traversed with minute pores through which exudes an adhesive fluid which enables the insects to walk on the lower surface of objects, for instance, on the ceilings of rooms.

Used Car Dealers.

Dealers in used motor cars and used commercial vehicles must now hold a permit issued by the motor vehicles administrator, E. R. Birchard, according to an announcement made by the War-time Prices and Trade Board. Forms are provided by the Board for the use of dealers and these must be completed and returned to the motor vehicles administrator. On the basis of these returns permits may be issued to continue a business but no permit will be issued to a dealer who is without facilities for repairing or reconditioning motor vehicles. Permits must be applied for irrespective of previous permits or licenses issued to these dealers by the Prices Board.

Spray Calendars for 1945 Now Ready.

The 1945 spray calendars for apples, pears, stone fruits, grapes, bush fruits and vegetables, issued by the Fruit Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the Dominion Branch of Entomology, are now ready. These calendars, which give details as to the time of the various sprays, the types of chemicals found most effective in dealing with diseases and insect pests, and the proper quantities to be used, are essential for the proper care of fruits and vegetable crops. The fruit calendars recommended seven different sprays for apples, three for pears, six for cherries and peaches, five for plums, two for grapes and four for bush fruits. The vegetable calendar provides information on spraying and dusting for all types of vegetables which are susceptible to insect or disease damage.

Copies of these calendars can be secured from the Statistics and Publications Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Jack Miner Bird Sanctuary is Great Tourist Attraction.

Although Jack Miner passed on last November, yet his life work still attracts attention from the public. On Saturday last over one hundred automobiles bearing U. S. licenses were lined up in front of the Jack Miner Estate, which had brought U. S. citizens into Canada for no other reason than to see the bird life at Jack Miner's. While Jack Miner's activities with the birds had made him world famous, yet at the same time, from a tourist standpoint, Canada has no single attraction that brings more people across the border.

The best time to see the flight of birds which cannot be seen any other place on earth is from 6.30 p.m. until dark. The place is open every day except Sundays. On Sundays the place is kept closed, when no visitors are allowed, which was one of Jack Miner's rules. No admission is charged and Mrs. Miner and her three sons are on hand to try and make everyone feel welcome.

Can You Picture CANADA

without Highways?

A strange place it would be, this country of ours, if our splendid network of 564,538 miles of highways suddenly ceased to exist. Thanks to the persistence of early advocates of good roads, and to the ability of the men in the various provincial department of highways, they stand, today, second to none.

In license, fuel and operating taxes the Greyhound Lines have made large contributions to road development—but we feel that an even greater service has been our putting the highways to work for the benefit of all who travel—making near neighbors and good neighbors of all the communities we serve.

GREYHOUND

On the way to 25,000 ACRES

As this announcement is prepared, farmers in Southwestern Ontario already have contracted to grow many thousand more acres of sugar beets than in 1944. Included are many new growers in addition to veteran growers who have helped build the industry.

PLANTING DOESN'T NORMALLY START UNTIL APRIL 15TH. NOW IS THE TIME TO GET INTO THE SWING TO SUGAR BEETS.

LAMBORN, FOREMOST AUTHORITY ON WORLD-SUGAR SUPPLY REPORTS:

1. Outlook for sugar is that serious shortages will continue for a long time.
2. The Philippines, for instance, which used to supply nearly a million tons a year, is not likely to ship any sugar until 1947.
3. The U. S. is endeavoring to increase its domestic sugar-beet crop. Nearby Michigan will increase its acreage from 69,000 in 1944 to probably 100,000 acres.

ONTARIO IS IN THE SUGAR BEET SWING IN A BIG WAY!

ONTARIO'S PRACTICABLE GOAL IS AT LEAST 25,000 ACRES. THE PLANTS AT WALLACEBURG AND CHATHAM CAN PROCESS ALL THE BEETS GROWN ON 40,000 ACRES.

There is no chance of a surplus crop of sugar beets.

The price is profitable.

The outlook for labor is promising. In addition to regular beet labor, there are to be 550 or more prisoners of war in three or four handy camps.

WE MUST PRODUCE POST-WAR POULTRY

By T. A. Benson, West Hill. Notwithstanding the real progress which has been made by our Canadian Poultry Industry in the past thirty years due to production and administration and Provincial government policies, and the earnest effort of some of our Canadian breeders and our leading poultrymen, it is still to be done if we are to meet the Post War world which we shall inevitably have. Government policies and necessary and good poultry industry must show stand on its own feet and instead of leaning on Government.

It is true that in our Canadian Poultry Industry Committees winning example of leading poultrymen, showing strong initiative, and Poultry Industry Committee. Since 1929, due to war poultrymen who have arisen the opportunity presented themselves what might be described as poultrymen's paradise and cannot be expected to continue the war, British does and sell eggs in addition to dried quantities.

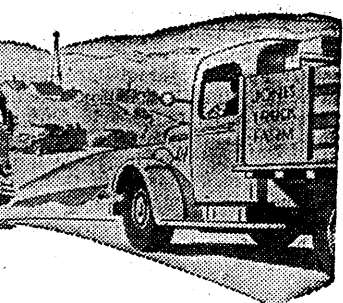

Due to the splendid work of the Special Products Board, prices agreed upon to be a British Ministry of Food, fair prices for eggs of quality to be shipped to Britain at least. It was recently that at least 600,000 cases of eggs are to be exported from April 30th, 1945, and more. A Large and Grade A eggs will be packed for export. The market poultry outlook for high quality poultry, recently, however, there has been too much Grade C poultry of the for which there can be no markets are not interested in, unfinished, unsightly produce consumers do not want. So far as market poultry is concerned, Grade A milk fed and milk fed should be the object of who hope to succeed in poultry meat really profitably. It is quite evident that the markets are not interested in, one to meet competition and how shall we do this better should be understood that we advocate a further expansion.

FARMERS look to the FUTURE

WE MUST PRODUCE BETTER
POST-WAR POULTRY.

By T. A. Benson, West Hill, Ontario.
Notwithstanding the really wonderful progress which has been made by our Canadian Poultry Industry during the past thirty years due to the introduction and administration of Federal and Provincial government Poultry Policies, and the earnest efforts made by one of our Canadian hatcherymen and our leading poultrymen, much remains still to be done if we hope to meet the Post War world competition which we shall inevitably be faced.
Government policies and leadership are necessary and good, but our poultry industry must show initiative, stand on its own feet and do things instead of leaning on Governments entirely.

It is true that in our Canadian Poultry Industry Committees we have a fine example of leading poultrymen showing strong initiative, led by the Poultry Industry Committee of Ontario.

Since 1929, due to war conditions poultrymen who have risen to grasp the opportunity presented have experienced what might be described as a poultrymen's paradise and while this cannot be expected to continue after the war, Britain does and will need egg in addition to dried eggs in large quantities.

Due to the splendid work carried on by the Special Products Board, Ottawa, prices agreed upon to be paid by the British Ministry of Food will ensure fair prices for eggs of the right quality to be shipped to Britain during the war. It was recently announced that at least 600,000 cases of shell eggs are to be exported from Canada before April 30th, 1945, and that only Grade A Large and Grade A Medium eggs will be packed for export.

The market poultry outlook is also good for high quality poultry meat.
Recently, however, there has been far too much Grade C poultry offered for sale for which there can be no excuse.
The markets are not interested in this poor, unfinished, unsightly product because consumers do not want it.
So far as market poultry is concerned Grade A milk fed and Grade B milk fed should be the objective of all who hope to succeed in marketing poultry meat really profitably.

It is quite evident that we must bring about improved conditions if we are to meet competition successfully.
How shall we do this better job? It should be understood that we would not advocate a further expansion of our poultry industry, particularly in Ontario, but greater production of high quality eggs from the same number of birds and more high quality poultry meat.

Greater efficiency must be our watchword.

The need is for more early hatched chicks to produce earlier, better grown pullets which together with summer moulted yearling hens would go far in bringing about the needed improvement in our poultry industry.

In the improvement program must be included correct feeding of good feeds, greatly improved housing and a carefully planned sanitation program faithfully carried out in all details.

Whether the objective is high quality eggs or poultry meat, or both, overcrowding must be avoided as must poor housing. Ample room, plenty of good water with a regular supply of green feed, grit and shell or limestone, and good clean range, in order that the birds may grow and develop without any let-up to avoid stunting. We must bear in mind "Once stunted always stunted." By this time the breeding birds should have been selected, and it should be remembered that the male bird is half the flock. To be successful in breeding the poultryman must know his birds, male and female, the best only being placed in the breeding pen. If there should be any doubt as to the quality of available birds for breeding purposes chicks should be purchased from a reliable hatchery and brooded carefully in a properly constructed brooder house and properly equipped.

The ultimate goal must be a high quality product with an eye appeal for it must be remembered that we eat with our eyes. It may be safe to say that in the majority of instances remodelling of farm poultry houses or new houses and some new equipment will be necessary to carry out the program efficiently.

Wise, far-sighted farmers will have laid money by during the war years which if not spent in the meantime will be available to meet the need for improvements which must be made in the near future. Such money could not be more safely invested than in Victory Bonds to be used only in making carefully planned improvements which are urgently needed, or as they become needed, improvements such as new buildings, new equipment, repairs to buildings, and additions to buildings, equipment and other improvements according to circumstances.

Return of Winter Workers to the Farm.

Plans have been completed by National Selective Service for the return to the farm of workers from agriculture who were temporarily employed in other essential industries during the winter months, according to an announcement made this week by Hon.
Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labour.

As was the case last year, the dates by which farm workers must be released by employers in other industries will be fixed by localities. This will permit of a maximum assistance to other essential industries which are short of workers, while at the same time it will take account of varying climatic and agricultural conditions across Canada. In the case of each area it is intended, Selective Service officials explained, that the men working away from the farm during the winter time shall be available to return to farm work immediately their services are needed. Dates for the different localities will be fixed and announced by the Regional Superintendents, under the National Service administration after consultation with Provincial Agricultural officers. These regional officers are located at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

"Farm workers have given major assistance during the present winter to other hard-pressed industries," the Minister of Labour states, "but as the farm labour situation will itself be serious this year, it is necessary that the men should not be retained in other industries once their help is needed back home on the farm. Food is still highly important, and increased amounts will be required to supply our troops, our home population, the United Nations and liberated Europe."

Arthur McNamara, Selective Service Director, stated that the most recent figures show temporary permits have been issued to more than 80,000 farm workers to take off-season employment this winter. In addition, he explained, many thousands have worked in off-season for short periods.

Officials point out that farm workers, leaving their winter work, are required to give the 7-days separation notice before returning home. "Anyone in doubt—whether employer or farm worker—should contact the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office" is the advice given by Selective Service officials.

At a recent meeting held by Selective Service in Ottawa, attended by representatives of the logging and pulp cutting industries, it was agreed by representatives of the forest industries, in which a large proportion of the farmers are seasonally engaged, that last year's arrangements made by Selective Service worked quite satisfactorily, and that the plan proposed this year, following last year's procedure, should meet the needs of the case all around.

Farm "Poison Licks."

Farmers are certainly "promising" themselves trouble when cattle are allowed to lick freshly painted fences, billboards, stanchions, and other structures. That is because paint is the most common source of lead around the barnyard, and more farm animals are poisoned by lead than by any other metallic poison.

Canning Sugar Coupons.

When all preserves coupons have become valid further coupons good for the purchase of either canning sugar or preserves will be declared valid from the spare sheets of the present ration book, the Western Ontario Regional ration office has announced. In answer to many queries of what is going to be done when all the present preserves coupons are used the announcement was made stating that some spare sheets will be declared good for the purchase of canning sugar and of preserves. Under a program inaugurated this year the preserves coupons are good for the purchase of canning sugar. Sufficient of these are added to the regular ration allowance of preserves to permit the consumer to buy 10 pounds of sugar which may be used for canning. Preserves coupons have always been good for the purchase of sugar, at the rate of one pound per coupon. The coupons retain its normal value for sugar in the purchase of canning sugar.

Butterfat Record by Holstein Cow.

Official figures have just been released by Ottawa of the greatest yearly butterfat record ever made by a cow of any breed anywhere in the world.
This Champion of Champions is Al-tra Gerben, a purebred Holstein owned by Hays & Co., Calgary. In 365 days she produced 1,409 pounds of butterfat from 27,745 pounds of milk on four-times-a-day milking. The night she held in her honor in a Calgary hotel attended by over 600 prominent agricultural officials and cattlemen of Canada and the United States.

Some idea of her tremendous production can be gained when it is kept in mind that her butterfat total for the year equalled her own weight, while she gave eighteen times her own weight in milk. This is seven times the butterfat production of the average dairy cow.

On hand to offer his congratulations was Clarence Goodhue, President of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada. Back in 1933 when he had just been appointed to the position he still holds as manager of Senator Donat Raymond's Raymondale farm at Vaudreuil, Que., he established a World Record of 1,384 lbs. of butterfat with DeKol Plus Segis Dixie. This was not beaten until 1936 when Carnation Ormsby Butter King, a U. S. Holstein owned by Carnations Milk Farms,
Seattle, Wash., boosted it to 1,405 lbs.
Now Mr. Goodhue is very happy to see the championship return to Canada.

It is interesting to note that the world record in 1897 held by a U. S.
Holstein was 721 pounds of butterfat.
Just a little bit better than half the present amount. Since that time the official world record has been held continuously by members of the Holstein breed with the exception of one year, 1915, when a Guernsey was the champion.

A stablemate of "Gerben" is Don-crest Peg Top Burke, who recently finished a world record on twice-a-day milking of 1,108 pounds of butterfat from 31,935 pounds of milk in the herd of Mrs. A. Roy Brown, Stouffville, Ont.
She was afterwards sold to Hays & Co.
& Rockwood Holsteins, St. Norbert,
Man.

Give Farm Horses Extra Feed Now.

Now that it's about time to get the farm horse in shape for spring work, here are a few suggestions from George Muir, Dominion Animal Husbandman, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

If horses had been at work this winter, even at light work, they should get just a little heavier feeding before strenuous work begins.

Horses which have been idle all winter, as is often the case in the Prairie Provinces, should also have feed increased considerably, but gradually. Whether idle or partly accustomed to work, horses need this extra feeding to gain flesh and get toned up for heavier work.

Most thoughtful farmers put their horses to work gradually, so as not to tire them too quickly. Rather, they seek by easy stages to toughen them for longer hours in harness.

But there are precautions to be taken before a horse even begins steady work, precautions which unfortunately are not always observed.
For example, not enough attention is paid to the horse's feet. Many farmers today work their horses unshod as long as they can be kept off rough roads and hard, surfaced highways.
But these same farmers often neglect to keep their horses' hooves trimmed.
Mr. Muir recommends the practice of trimming the hooves of unshod horses so that some of their body weight is borne on the frog of the foot. This prevents contraction of the heels.

The feet of shod horses are usually kept in better shape, thanks to the blacksmith. But often a blacksmith has to trim off an inch or more.
Hooves should never be allowed to grow as long as that. Untrimmed hooves throw the horse off balance.
For this reason, a shod horse should be examined for foot condition at least every 6 or 8 weeks.

Here's a final reminder: groom the horses and clip the excess hair off their winter growth. When this is done, horses won't sweat unduly when they first turn into spring work.

Essex County Farmers are Expected to Benefit.

Increased assistance to the farmers of Essex County and to youth of the area intent upon a career in agriculture may be expected from the Assumption College of post-war years.

The college is now in the midst of its Victory Fund Campaign, the first public solicitation of funds it has sponsored since its founding in 1870. The array of campaign workers includes nearly 3,000 residents of the county who volunteered their services in this cause. Revenue will be used to expand the college and its facilities to accommodate a post-war enrolment level of 1,200 students, compared with the present student body of 360.

Details of the expansion program are in the process of study and a special committee has been named to consider the role Assumption should play in meeting the Essex County Farmer's needs. This committee is headed by Col. Paul Poisson, M.C., V.D., M.D., county registrar and former provincial member for Essex North.

Col. Poisson recently told campaign district chairmen that farm production could be increased by the use of recent scientific ideas applied to agriculture, and knowing the farmers of Essex County as he did, he was certain that the great majority would also see these ideas quickly and apply them, thus keeping Essex County as one of the most progressive farming communities in the province.

Recommendations of his committee include establishment of short winter courses at Assumption that will solve this problem. By this means those interested in farming, including many returned soldiers could obtain necessary fundamentals right at home.
Much information could thus be gained in free winter months, and at little cost, to help these men become profitable and constructive farmers.

Assumption, if it is to satisfy the demands of an increased post-war enrolment, must have added classroom, laboratory, lecture hall and residence space; further administrative facilities; a new library; an auditorium; and must expand its adult and health education programs.

The college is an affiliate of the University of Western Ontario and as such its degrees are awarded by that institution. Dr. W. Sherwood Fox, Western Ontario president, recently told campaign leaders that Assumption's strengthened. Dr. Fox pointed out that there is an enormous field for As-

What does YOUR FARM NEED?

How often have you said "If I could only raise the money!" Well, if you could, what would you do to improve your farm and increase your production?

Would you build a modern barn?
or buy new machinery?
or modernize your house?
or electrify your farm?

You can raise short term money from your bank, and long term money from other institutions by way of mortgage. But there are some things you would like to do which require loans that are neither long nor short...

That is where the banks, operating under the new Farm Improvement Loans Act, can help you.
The gap has been filled. "Intermediate" loans at a specially low rate can now be obtained for periods of two or three years—or even longer, in cases up to ten years.

So, if you have a project in mind to improve your farm, drop in and talk it over with your local bank manager. Ask him what he is now empowered to do to help make your farm living more attractive and your work more profitable.

He will tell you—and show you—that your bank is just as eager to meet the sound credit needs of the farmer as of the merchant or manufacturer.

If you want to build

Careless feeding or selection of feed can be the cause of disastrous mortality and consequent loss to you. That is why we urge you to investigate the merits of any Chick Starter before you entrust it with the responsibility of the feeding of your 1945 chick crop.

We have no doubt that having investigated, you will unhesitatingly order your 1945 Chick Starter needs from our SHUR-GAIN Feed Service Mill — for SHUR-GAIN 18% Chick Starter has an enviable reputation for highest quality results at a price that saves you money.

Pair Wed at Double-Ring Ceremony.

At an impressive double-ring ceremony, on Saturday, at St. Mary's Church, Windsor, the Rev. H. M. Lang-Ford united in marriage Miss Muriel Irene Burr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Burr, of Lincoln Road, Windsor, and Sgt. Norman Elstone Macklem, of the R.C.A.F. son of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Macklem, of North Ridge.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was lovely in a white brocaded satin gown, styled on princess lines, with a scalloped oval neckline and a chiffon yoke. The long fitted sleeves formed points over her hands, and the skirt extended into a train. Her long veil was held in a headress of white feathers, and she wore a string of pearls and carried a prayer book showered with bridal roses and white sweet peas.

Miss Grace Winter, as maid of honor, wore a pale yellow brocaded marquisette gown with a matching veil, and long sleeves. Her colonial bouquet was of roses, daffodils and sweet peas. Miss Margaret Macklem, of North Ridge, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Mary MacGregor, of Oshawa, cousin of the bride, as bridesmaids, wore identical frocks of moire, the former of pale blue with a peach shoulder-length veil and long matching gloves, and the latter's of peach with a blue veil and matching gloves. They carried colonial bouquets.

William Macklem assisted his brother as best man and Jack A. Burr, brother of the bride, and Stan Jones were ushers. At the beginning of the ceremony the choir boys sang "Because," and during the signing of the register, "Through the Years."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Norton-Palmer Hotel for 70 guests, the bride's table being served with a four-tiered wedding cake. A reception was held in the evening at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Burr chose for her daughter's wedding a pale rose dress with navy accessories and a corsage of roses and pansies, and Mrs. Macklem wore a flowered crepe dress with white accessories and white roses and mauve sweet peas.

Acres Win Hockey Title.

The Cottam "Acres" hockey team won the Essex County Hockey League championship recently, in a sudden-death play-off game, against Amherstburg, in the Windsor Arena. The score was 6 to 5.

The local team thus went through the whole season without losing a single contest to County League teams. This final game was closely contested and was the best exhibition of the season, although Cottam was always in the lead, except for a short while early in the game, when the Burg team tied the score at 2 all, only to have Cottam made two quick goals to make the score 4 to 2, and hold the lead throughout the rest of the game. O. Middleton was the Ac's outstanding player of the game, while L. Bondy starred for the losers. The best individual play of the game was when Jack Lewis took the puck behind his own goal and went through the whole Amherstburg team, to score single handed. The lineup:

Acres—Goal, E. Mower; forwards, J. Mower, O. Middleton, Bud Mower; subs, M. Vance, S. Laurie, "Weary" Gordon, Mac Wigle, Don Dresser, Lloyd Bailey; defence, J. Lewis, H. Allen, H. Ferguson, L. Pettapiece.

TAXATION AND PROSPERITY

"Heavy taxation and national impoverishment have a definite affinity. Low taxation on the other hand has helped create the unparalleled record of progress and high living standards found on this continent. When taxation lessens initiative it must decrease the national chance of building a sound economic security.

"War has, of necessity, brought taxation to a point that would have been intolerable in times of peace. Its destructive forces in times of war are offset by the people's willingness to pay any price for victory. The situation will entirely change with the passing of that anxiety, and public antagonism to a heavy tax load will increase. When war ceases, the tax structure, as a result, must be revamped.

"... High taxation puts a premium on economic inaction."

From the Address of A. N. Mitchell, President, The Canada Life Assurance Company at the 98th Annual Meeting.

Old Essex Resident Passes.

Funeral services were held from the James H. Sutton Funeral Home, Windsor, on Tuesday afternoon, following a short service in Leamington on Monday evening, for the late Mrs. Nellie Grant, widow of the late Geo. M. Brett, who passed away at the home of her son, Flt. Lieut. George R. Brett, in Leamington, on Saturday. Rev. A. S. H. Cree, of Leamington, assisted by Rev. Jos. Tully, of St. Stephen's Anglican Church, conducted the services and burial was in Rose Hill Cemetery, Amherstburg.

When in Essex, her late husband, who passed away six years ago, was station agent for the M. C. R., and they lived in the house at present owned by Norm Bangle, on Cameron avenue. She was a member of the Mary Grant Society and of the I. O. O. E. in Windsor.

Strong Support of Canada's 8th Victory Loan Asked.

The Dominion objective of the 8th Victory Loan is $1,350,000,000, of which half is to be raised by individual subscriptions and half by "Special Names" including all corporations. The coming loan has larger stature than any of its predecessors.

The Essex County objective has been set at $2,700,000, for general canvass, $750,000 for special names and $1,950,000 on payroll savings.

Canada is calling to its people to buy Bonds in the biggest Victory Loan we have yet attempted. We're a big people, too big in accomplishment to falter at the end of the road, too big to be wearied of a duty and an obligation. Never must a loan be such a sweeping success—never has this need for money been so great. Our Canadian boys are offering their lives on the world's battlefields. We here on the home front must do our utmost to speed victory.

Val Clare, of Windsor, will speak in the Rio Theatre in conjunction with the regular show at 9.50 p.m. on Tuesday, April 24th.

Val Clare is a veteran of the "first Great War," having served with the Polar Bear expedition in Siberia, for four years. His two sons, Tommy and Bucky sprang to the colors at the beginning of the present war, the former having paid the supreme sacrifice in Italy last year while serving with the Tank Corps. Bucky is serving with the Canadian Army in Germany.

Mr. Clare has just returned from a six months' tour of all the principal battlefields of Europe. This tour took him to ten countries and more than once he was under fire. The intimate and extensive study which he has made of the western battlefronts, coupled with a naturally forceful and lucid delivery make his messages to the Canadian home front one of the highlights of war reporting. In addition to his regular audiences over CKLW, Windsor, he is in great demand as a speaker to war service organizations in both Ontario and Michigan, to war workers and to Victory Loan and Red Cross audiences.

Mr. Clare celebrated his 51st birthday a short time ago, but he is as full of enthusiasm as he was 21 years ago.

"V-E" Day in Essex.

At a meeting held last week the following arrangements were made for the celebration of "V-E" Day in Essex.

It was the unanimous opinion of all present that when that day arrives we should first of all meet together as a community for a service of prayer, thanksgiving and remembrance. The arrival of the day will be announced by the blowing of the five sirens, and other whistles in town, of one long blast and one short blast, which will be repeated a number of times. As soon as possible after this signal the citizens are asked to gather at the band shell in the park, where a service will be held, under the auspices of the local Ministerial Association. The Essex Boys' Band will be in attendance and will play until the service begins, which will be within an hour of the arrival of the news.

Essex Woman Loses Mother.

Mrs. Florence Paul Logie, aged 75, died Sunday at her home, 512 Caron avenue, Windsor.

Born at Frankfort, Ont., she moved to Windsor 45 years ago after residing in Essex and Leamington. She was a member of the Windsor Women's Guild, a life member of the W. M. S. of St. Andrew's Church, and a life member of the W.C.T.U.

Besides her husband William, she is survived by three daughters, Mrs. D. M. McMullin, of Sault Ste. Marie; Mrs. J. J. Mansell, of Essex, and Mrs. J. H. Baker, of Detroit; two sons, Charles Paul, of Smithville, and Earl Paul, of Orillia. She also is survived by a brother, Rev. Charles A. Lohmes, of Cadillac, Mich.

Funeral services were held from the Anderson Funeral Home, Windsor, on Tuesday, with Rev. H. M. Paulin officiating, and burial was in Windsor Grove cemetery.

David Robinson Passes.

David Robinson, aged 73, Sandwich South township, died Tuesday at Metropolitan Hospital, Windsor. He was born in Detroit and lived in Sandwich South for the past 70 years where he farmed.

He is survived by his wife Rhoda; three sons, Russell, of Belle River, and Roy and Earl, of Sandwich South; one daughter, Mrs. Joseph Abrash, of Windsor; four brothers, William, Fred, John and Harold Robinson; four sisters, Mrs. Margaret Henderson, Mrs. Florence Libby, Mrs. John McNeil and Mrs. Denis Mahoney; 10 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. J. K. Curtis, at the Thompson Funeral Home, 961 Ouellette avenue, Friday at 2 p.m. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery, Sandwich South township.

Hill-Clayton Nuptials.

Before the fireplace, banked with palms, pussy willows and forsythia, the marital set with low silver bowls of white roses and carnations flanked by white tapers in crystal candlesticks, in the home of the bride's parents, on Gladstone avenue, Windsor, the Rev. Dr. H. M. Paulin united in marriage Miss Margaret Clayton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Clayton, and Nellis Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Hill, of Essex.

The bride wore a powder blue barathra wool suit, with navy accessories, and a nosegay of Tallamones roses and forget-me-nots. Miss Patricia McDade, of Detroit, as bridesmaid, wore a gray flannel suit trimmed with darker gray braid, and carried a nosegay of Joanna Hill roses and forget-me-nots.

Russell Hill, of Detroit, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. A reception followed for 60 guests, the bride's table being centred with a three-tiered wedding cake in a bed of sweet peas and cedar, flanked by burning white tapers in silver candelabra. Further arrangements of sweet peas and carnations were used throughout the house. Assisting in the tea room were Mrs. Ronald Clayton, Miss Dora Hill, Mrs. Charles Graham, Miss Esther Simmons and Miss Helen Williams. Charles Needham proposed the toast to the bride.

Mrs. Clayton chose for her daughter's wedding a gray print dress with navy accessories and pink carnations, and Mrs. Hill wore a purple two-piece dress, trimmed with black sequins, a flowered hat, and sweet peas.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Hill left on a wedding trip to Toronto, the bride travelling in a brown gabardine suit with brown accessories and a powder blue top coat.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Clayton, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, home on leave from the East Coast; Mrs. Homer Wigle, of Kingsville; Mrs. Charles Anderson, of Essex; Mrs. Charles Graham, of Harrow, and Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hill, Mrs. B. E. McDade and Miss Kathleen McDade, all of Detroit.

Prior to their wedding Mr. and Mrs. Hill were honoured at a family party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Smith on Chilver road.

Reports from the United Kingdom indicate that the British Government intends to encourage the re-establishment of the beef cattle industry and permit submarginal wheat land to be put back in grass.

Post War Food Supply.

If, as readily could be expected, the end of the war in Europe should come in 1945, the demand for the principal food commodities, particularly livestock products, will probably continue strong, says the Current Review of Agricultural Conditions in Canada. It will take considerable time to restore all phases of agricultural production in Europe, and large quantities of food will be required for post-war relief feeding in liberated countries by UNRRA, as well as larger supplies for civilians of the United Nations.

Many serious agricultural pests are taken into storage cells and root houses every autumn when vegetables and bulbs of one kind or another are brought under cover for the winter. Among them are the carrot rustfly, the green peach aphid (of great importance in spreading virus diseases of potatoes), the cabbage maggot, gladiolus thrips, the celery leaf-tier and many others. If conditions are favourable in storage, growth and restricted development of these insects take place, says Alan G. Duffan, Division of Entomology, Dominion Department of Agriculture. Even though increase has not been possible, due to low temperatures during the colder months, the insects remain dormant to become active once again in the spring. As soon as the weather warms up sufficiently outside they escape from the cellars to infest the new plants as soon as growth out-of-doors gets well under way.

Clean Up Cellars to Control Insects.

Growers are advised to clean up and destroy all crop remnants in storage cellars before spring. Rotting vegetables can be composted and sound roots, which are no longer saleable, fed to livestock. Root houses should be thoroughly cleaned and aired. Careful attention in this direction will save much trouble when the young plants are starting growth in field and garden.

Rose Hip Vitamins.

The dried fleshy part of the fruit of the wild rose, besides being the richest known source of Vitamin C, is also rich in Vitamin A. In addition it contains appreciable amounts of thiamin, riboflavin and niacin, according to Canadian Research Scientists.

Save Pig, Save Food.

When a farmer saves every possible pig farrowed, he saves a lot of food. Each pig born dead represents a loss of about 140 pounds of food. A pig that dies at weaning time, when about 10 weeks old, costs an additional 120 lbs. of food, and a pig that dies after being finished for market involves a loss of 990 lbs. — almost half a ton.

"...where the heart is!"

Sitting by the fireside at home—digging in the garden for fun—lazy weekends just "fishin'"—these things mean comfortable, pleasant living, the kind of living your man overseas is dreaming of, fighting for. Make sure these simple, pleasant things exist for him when he comes back. Remember that it is possible for them to exist only if his dollar is worth a dollar!

By protecting his dollar, we help to protect his future. That's why we must realize NOW the dangers that lie in careless, unnecessary buying. Never buy two where one will do. Buy only what we need. We must support rationing and price control and encourage others to support them, and we must avoid ALL dealings with black markets.

There's no limit to inflation, and there's no stopping it once it starts. So, let's make sure OUR boys will come back to a protected dollar—a dollar that will buy a full dollar's worth of goods. Let's keep up the fight against inflation, every day, in every way we can, so that our men overseas can look forward to pleasant, satisfying living... the Canadian way of life.

Make this Pledge Today!

I pledge myself to do my part in fighting inflation:

- By observing rationing and avoiding black markets in any shape or form.
- By respecting price controls and other anti-inflation measures, and refraining from careless and unnecessary buying. I will not buy two where one will do, nor will I buy a "new" where an "old" will do.
- By buying Victory Bonds and War Savings Stamps, supporting taxation, and abiding by all such measures which will lower the cost of living and help keep prices at a normal level.

Preserves Rationing.

Reasons for retaining the present program of preserves rationing, especially of maple syrup and honey, are included in the annual report of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. The report states that there has been some question as to why the preserves ration, especially for honey and maple syrup, should be continued in its present form. An initial reason for the ration was that, at the time, many of the products were too scarce to be rationed separately.

Many products are included in order to allow for the difference in tastes and purchasing habits of different sections. "To take off or two products off the ration would have immediately put pressure on those rationed and would have led to inequalities between regions and between urban and rural areas," the report states, concluding that "in effect, the present system appears to be 'in balance' and gives housewives across the Dominion the best opportunity of satisfying the particular tastes of their households."

Interdenominational.

Last Sunday evening, at 9 o'clock, the young people of Essex and vicinity united in the Latter Day Saints' Church for the third monthly Fireside.

We agreed unanimously that this was "the best yet" from the standpoint of the planning of the program and the atmosphere of fellowship — this and better will do. If you missed last Sunday be sure to come next month (watch for announcements) because we need you to help make the improvement. Norma Hill was in charge the other night, doing very ably. Highlights of the evening was the enthusiastic singing, conducted by Weldon Findlay, and Gloria Andrew at the piano. With that team up in front it was next to impossible not to sing.

Elvin Kettlewell, Donna Cunningham and Ethel Eede each spent a few minutes talking to us about "Living for Jesus, it's Joy, Temptations and Development," respectively. Marion McIlwain outlined the plans of the Cabinet for the benefit of all present. A brass quartette: Merle Damm, 1st cornet; Capt. Carter, 2nd cornet; Ross Damm, trombone; Don Wilson, bass, contributed a musical number. Plan to be at the next Fireside on Sunday, May 6th, place to be announced. We ask your prayers, Christian friend, that many young people may be won to Christ through these meetings.

Dairy Meeting Arranged.

A dairy meeting of unique and unusual interest has been arranged for the evening of April 23rd, at 8.30, at the Modern School, Chatham, by Gordon J. Rodger, Blenheim.

Modern science has at last found answers to the questions of how milk is "let down," how it is "held up," and what must be done to harvest the full crop of milk that has been manufactured and stored in the cow's udder.

These subjects will be covered in an interesting talk "How the Cow's Milk Mechanism Works," to be given by C. H. Wilson, of Chicago.

In addition, technicolor movies will reveal how vacuum is used by the milking machine to remove milk. Through the use of a transparent milking unit, the exact workings of the machine can be observed and the milk can be seen spurting into the pail.

Dairymen who attend this meeting have an interesting meeting in store for them with the opportunity of securing much valuable information on the workings of the greatest money bag in agriculture — the cow's udder.

for the Ballots" is not unexpected behind the scenes along Parliament Hill. The machinery is ready for whatever complications are likely to arise in the coming general election as these have arisen in other nation-wide tests of public opinion, particularly during wartime. Indeed, just about the toughest assignment is now in the hands of Canada's Chief Electoral Officer, Jules Castonguay, though he has had no less than thirty-two years of experience in this electoral service. Nevertheless, bearing in mind what has happened in the past, when a tough, hard "Battle for Ballots" was expected, especially in wartime, Canada's Chief Electoral Officer may need all the experience that he has acquired during his long service since it would fall upon his shoulders the responsibility to pass judgment with a strict judicial impartiality upon questions pertaining to the interpretation of the Elections Act. However, everything is in readiness for complications of this nature and this preparedness is in addition to the other extensive plans which already have been made, including the mailing of huge quantities of printed instructions, notices, etc., to hundreds of clerks on the electoral list throughout this country as well as the armed forces.

There is much interest in usually well-informed quarters in this capital around the gossip which has been heard here in Ottawa about the opposition against any international organization for peace and security dominated by the so-called "great powers" and this has stood out in bold relief to the events which have been antecedent to the departure of Canada's delegation to the San Francisco World Security Conference. While there is not the slightest doubt that there is need for the establishment of a strong international organization to maintain a peaceful world order based on justice, yet in the words of our famous Canadian diplomat who is a member of the Canadian delegation to this San Francisco Conference, there is a belief that an organization should be truly international and no mere alliance of the great powers.

The casualty rehabilitation section of the Veterans' Affairs Department in Ottawa has an ambitious program which calls for every veteran in Canada to be given employment commensurate with his abilities, particularly remembering that during the war disabled persons in this country have been an outstanding asset to the war effort of this nation. In other words, it is planned not merely to be concerned with the treatment of these veterans but with their placement in industry so that employers of labour may make surveys of their plants to determine the physical requirements of various jobs and enable the jobs to suit the physical abilities of these veterans as well as their temperamental qualities. We intend to streamline this rehabilitation of our ex-servicemen and women or perish in the attempt. The program was the most comprehensive of any country.

Complaints have been heard along Parliament Hill that in the Family Allowance forms sent out by the Department of National Health and Welfare there has been an accompaniment of publicity or advertising which is far from the dignity which should deal with the subject since this publicity or advertising contained the technique of the comic strip and this has been interpreted as entirely in bad taste for this purpose.

Parliamentary assistant to Defence Minister McNaughton, Douglas Abbott, has disclosed that the build-up of reinforcements has reached a point 75 per cent in excess of the number estimated last November. At the end of December reinforcements were 10 per cent. However, he corrected an earlier statement that the savings in casualties since November, as compared to advance estimates, was 10,000, but now about 12,000. For November and December casualties were 5,500 less than estimated for January, 3,500 less for February, 2,000 less. The saving in infantry casualties was about 75 per cent of the total saving.

It is reported in Ottawa that there might be some delay before civilians will be able to obtain certain mechanical goods, such as refrigerators, radios, etc., even after the end of the war in Europe and though Canadian production may be converted to peacetime production by that occurrence. It must be pointed out that Hon. C. D. Howe, as Minister of Munitions and Supply, has indicated in the capital a 35 per cent cutback in war production after the European war and that this would bring about a similar increase in peacetime production. However, there is almost a certainty to be a shortage of supplies after Germany has been defeated and the working mechanisms of mechanical goods in the United States. Then again, since the Munitions and Supply Department acts as purchasing agent for Washington and London, the combination of all these factors will determine when and to what extent such mechanical goods may be available on the markets of Canada for civilians, with the hint in Ottawa that such goods will not be available immediately after the European war and there might be a delay for some time.

Notwithstanding all rumours about Premier King running as a candidate in the County of Russell near Ottawa in the coming general election yet it is known in political circles along Parliament Hill that strong protests have been heard again at such a move on the part of French-Canadians since the latter did not want to lose this French Canadian seat in the House of Commons. In fact a strong protest of this nature was made to the Prime Minister by the head of the "L'Union des Cultivateurs Franco-Ontariens," Antonin Lalonde, who condemned in no uncertain way any effort to reduce French-Canadian representation in Parliament by anyone, even the Prime Minister or any Cabinet member. This county of Russell has elected Liberals to the House of Commons since 1887, with the present retiring member, Alfred Goulet, Liberal, having represented this constituency for past two decades so that it has been considered to be a relatively "safe" seat for a Liberal candidate and it has been quite attractive aside from all other considerations.

The investigation undertaken by the United States Senate in Washington into the affairs of American financing angles of the famous "Shipsaw" aluminum development at Arvida, Quebec, has aroused widespread interest in Ottawa where the leader of the C.C.F., M. J. Coldwell, who originally made sensational charges on this affair, has once again brought up this matter. He has indicated that, from the Canadian angle, the interesting point is "that a recent judgment of the United States Supreme Court had found that Aluminum Limited, a Canadian company, which had been set up by some of the directors of Aluminum of America, was part of an international cartel with a monopoly in Canada." Furthermore, he stressed that "this angle, established so conclusively before United States Supreme Court judges, is a matter which should be dealt with by Canada, under the Combines Investigation Act, promptly and effectively."

The presence of the Governor-General in the world war when His Excellency was a soldier in 1914, with three members of the cabinet at the dinner also recalling their military service in the last war, including Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, and Hon. Colin Gibson. . . . A total of only 654 Canadians are now on loan to the Royal Navy, though at one time in this war there were no less than 2,000 Canadians in that service. This was disclosed in the Capital by Navy Minister Macdonald. . . . The Labor Gazette which is an official publication of the Labor Department in Ottawa, having been founded by Premier King, who was its first editor in his younger days because it contained a statement that, with family allowances being paid to children of workers when they were on strike, these workers will be allowed "more freedom" to fight "unscrupulous employers" as this has been deemed by some as a misuse of an official publication. . . . The Dominion Command of the Canadian Legion has revealed in Ottawa that a representative group of employers will discuss the Legion officials how to solve post war problems facing industry and war veterans across Canada. . . . Blondes, who have been worried about the latest restrictions in the sale of hydrogen peroxide, will find comfort with their report that this is definitely a "temporary" action and it will be removed as soon as conditions in the drug situation will allow, with this being hinted in Ottawa. Cochroach Control.

Cockroaches are nocturnal insects and spend the daytime in the warmest locations they can find in the kitchen. After the lights are turned off for the night they come out and run over floors, tables, and pantry shelves in search of bread crumbs and other similar foods.

For their control, the Entomological Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, says that, after their hiding places have been discovered, the neighbouring floor or shelves should be dusted with sodium fluoride or by one of the registered proprietary cockroach powders in such a manner that the insects will run over the powder in their nightly excursions. Also by means of a small hand duster the powder may be forced down behind the skirting-board and into any cracks that may afford a hiding place. Sodium fluoride is poisonous and should not be exposed where it might endanger children or pets or come into contact with the food. A slow-acting but safe material to use is powdered borax.

Despair and tragedy and waste of war there is one phase of it that is both hopeful and constructive. That is the camaraderie which war brings about. This has been acknowledged throughout the ages, but never before has it been so widespread or so hopeful as it is today. These days of war have created a new world citizenship of the young who have not yet been prejudiced by old and bitter opinions. War has broadened and deepened their understanding and their sympathies and their friendships, just as it has narrowed their world. Distance and strange places and unfamiliar customs never can be quite the same barrier since youth has become familiar with the lone corners of the earth in company with those who once were strangers.

That is a good and hopeful thing. It is a justification of our hope for better things to realize that those who are closest to the flame and cruelty of war, where hate might be at its fiercest, have to be guarded by noninterference orders to prevent them becoming dangerously friendly with their foes. Unfortunately, not all the people have come under such influences, so it has remained for the people on the fringes of war to keep alive the old prejudices and antagonisms.

We have all been aware of the vast movements of populations as represented in the terrible mass evacuations to internment camps or to industrial slavery within the Reich or its subjugated countries. We have not recognized so quickly the great movements of population that have been for the world's good. The mass movement of millions of the young people of the Allied world have meant as much for good as that other migration has for evil. Millions of them have been in France, in North Africa, in India and Burma, in Australia and the islands of the Pacific. Norwegians and Hollanders and Poles and Greeks have fled in Britain and Canada and the United States. They have been working and playing and fighting together, wearing off the shyness that exists between different peoples, and coming to understand one another. They are intermarrying and coming to know one another in the intimacies of everyday life, and they know now that, however language and customs may differ, people — unless they have gone mad as Germany and Japan went mad and tossed aside all the humanities — are just people.

If all of us could have had these experiences, our hope of a better world might be real indeed. But the great mass of us must still be guided by what we hear, and unfortunately we are not hearing from these young and changed minds. Too often what we hear is the murmur of the noisy, irritable words of men with private axes to grind. Every country has its share of these talkers, and they are often well intentioned enough. If their words were addressed to the young might be understood for what they are, thoughtless words born of the excitement of the moment. But mostly they fall on uninformed ears, still with old prejudices that these careless words help to support. So the very men who should be leading us along help us at all. It ought not to be too much to ask that if youth can achieve this new understanding, no one should jeopardize it by talking out of turn. — Liberty Magazine, April 28th.

Long Dresses Out.

The serious textile supply situation in Canada will mean a continuance of the ban on the manufacturer for sale of long dresses, except for brides and members of religious orders, according to information made public at the Western Ontario regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. It was pointed out that the ban on long dresses not only saves one and one-quarter yards of material on each dress, but the extra yards required for the slip as well.

HYDRO RURAL WARTIME EXTENSION

With labor and metals drained by war, an unavoidable limit is placed on the number of new rural Hydro services that can be installed in 1945. Nevertheless, your Hydro is extending essential rural services to the absolute limit of labour and materials available.

About 8000 applications, made and approved during 1944, still await service, and many have since been added. These will be connected as soon as possible. It will take all the man-power, materials and effort that Hydro can command to bring service to these applicants in 1945. Those requesting service along existing power lines may, in some cases, be connected before prior applicants who require lengthy extensions. We regret that many approved applications may not be completed before 1946.

In 1944 your Hydro constructed about 400 miles of new rural lines, and added 9776 new customers.

With some 1200 Hydro employees in the armed services or on loan to the government for technical work, along with the shortage of many materials critical to war needs, your Hydro has done and is doing everything possible to extend electricity to essential services. If your turn seems slow in coming, please consider the wartime conditions under which your Commission labours, and be assured that it is doing everything possible to serve you with the utmost speed.

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO

Supreme God.

If we understood that God is good and supreme, and lived our conviction, we should discover the powerlessness, the nothingness, of evil. Admitting that God is good and supreme, as the Bible teaches, we must conclude that good is supreme. Furthermore, the moment we concede this, our faith in good increases and our fear of evil decreases. Good is by nature universal. Sooner or later this true nature of God as universal good must become apparent. Mary Baker Eddy writes in "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 469), "There can be but one mind, because there is but one God; and if mortals claimed no other mind and accepted no other, sin would be unknown." Obviously, prayer is effective only to the degree that God is understood aright. To believe that we can go on in ignorance of the true nature of God, and then expect in emergencies to be able quickly to pray effectively, is no more reasonable than to remain in ignorance of the rules of mathematics, and then, when an occasion arises wherein these rules must be utilized, expect to be successful in demonstrating them.

The question is sometimes asked if God is good and is the one governor of the universe, how can He permit dreadful war and disease and other evils in the world? The answer is that it is ignorance of God and of His divine ever-presence, and disobedience to His laws, which account for the disorders of earth. As the supreme and all-powerful nature of God becomes better understood, and His power is reflected more practically in individual and in national affairs, there will be increased evidence of His control. Peace, happiness, and health will become more apparent.—Christian Science Monitor.

The Busy Bee.

A good colony of bees gathers about 75 pounds of pollen every year. To gather one pound of pollen, the bees from one hive alone have to visit eight million flowers at least. That makes 520 million flowers visited by the bees from a normal beehive every year. Scientists say that the honey bee is responsible for 80 per cent of the pollination of flowers, but to take care of the enormous acreage of fruit and seed crops, more bees are needed, particularly to increase legume seed production.

WILL IT STOP NOW? OR GO ON?

shown in many rural areas of Canada as part of the Eighth is taken from a moving picture film, "V.I." which will be digging into the wreckage of homes destroyed just a short while previously by a robot-bomb. As they work they see another of these dreadful messengers of death approaching. Note the intense anxiety in the faces of these workers as they speculate whether or not the robot will stop and fall as it reaches them, or will pass on to another target. The film is one of the most vivid picturizations of robot attacks in England which has been produced.

St. Paul's Church to Burn Mortgage.

On Wednesday evening next a congregational social evening will be held in St. Paul's Parish Hall, when the mortgage, which has recently been discharged, will be burned. On Sunday morning following, a service of thanksgiving will be held, at which the preacher will be the Rev. Harold Bell, of St. Mark's, Windsor.

It is the wish of the committee in charge that not only the members of the congregation be present, but any friends who desire to attend, will be most welcome.

A Tragic Accident.

Fergus Joseph Byrne, 27-year-old Rochester Township farmer, met, to all appearances, instant death, on Friday afternoon, while driving a tractor in a field of his farm, on the 2nd Concession. There were no witnesses to the fatality.

A township drain along the one side of the field had, of recent months been cleaned out, and the dirt from bottom of the ditch thrown onto the land, evidently covering up some wire, as the only clue to the mishap is that the tractor turned up the wire which loosened suddenly, flew up and struck the victim with great force on the head, as he had a deep cut on the side of the head and death was due to a fractured skull.

Funeral services were held from the farm home at 8.30 a.m. Monday, to St.
John the Evangelist Church, Woods-lee, at 9. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Surviving are his widow (nee Elizabeth Meloch), a 9-month-old son, Kenneth; his father, Edmund Byrne, and a sister, Beatrice (Mrs. Norman Heath) of San Francisco, Cal. Mrs.
Heath left immediately for home on receipt of the sad news, but didn't arrive until Monday afternoon.

Miss Gloria Krug Laid to Rest.

Funeral services for the late Gloria Krug, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm.
Krug, Sr., of Bernard Road, Windsor, who passed away in Metropolitan General Hospital, Windsor, on Tuesday, April 10th, following a short illness, was held from the Windsor Grove Centerial Home, in Windsor, on Thursday afternoon following, with Rev. Skorn officiating, and burial was in Windsor Grove cemetery. The pallbearers were six brothers, Godfrey, Homer, William, Lorne, James and Ernest.

Deceased, who was 17 years of age, was born in Windsor, and lived there all her life. Surviving besides her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Krug, Sr., are seven brothers, Godfrey, Homer, Gerald, William Jr., James and Ernest,
all of Windsor, and Lorne, of Essex;
five sisters, Meredith (Mrs. Beaudoin), Effie (Mrs. Mike Piskien) both of Windore, Theresa (Mrs. Howard Bartlett) of Essex; Jessie and Darlene, at home.

Missing — Now Safe.

Mr. and Mrs. Hector LeBeauf, of town, received word last week, from Ottawa, that their son, Sgt. Raymond LeBeauf, who had previously been reported missing in air operations over Europe last month, is now safe in England.

Raymond is an air gunner with the Alouette Squadron. He enlisted in December 1942.

Raymont-Hunter Nuptials.

Snadragons and Illacs formed the setting in the Zion United Church, on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, for the wedding of Miss Agnes Jean Hunter, of Detroit, youngest daughter of Mrs. John Hunter and the late Mr.
Hunter, to Russell Samuel Raymont, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Raymont, of North Ridge, the Rev. J. T. Flemming officiating.

To the strains of the wedding music, played by Mrs. Laura Allen Goets, worth, the bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, John Hunter, of Detroit, who gave her in marriage. She was charming in white bridal sash with chintilly lace panels in the skirt, a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves which ended in points on her hands. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion was caught to her head with a circlet of white flowers. She wore three-strand pearls, a gift of the groom, and a corsage of white and red roses.

Mrs. Douglas McBeth, of Essex, as matron of honour, was lovely in a floor-length two-piece gown of lilac taffeta.
Her shoulder-length veil of matching net was caught to her head with a cap

Mrs. Raymont wore a mauve dress, black accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymont left on a

Pte. A. D. Allen Killed.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Allen, of No. 98
Highway, Maldstone Township, received official word last week-end that their only son, Pte. Alexander Deehan Allen, had been killed while on active service with the Canadian forces in Germany.

John H. Rodd, K.C., Passes.

John H. Rodd, K.C., senior member of the legal firm of Rodd, Wigle, Whitely & Jasperson, of Windsor, and one of the best known men of Western Ontario, passed away in Grace Hospital, Windsor, on Thursday of last week. While he had been in ill-health for some weeks, he was only removed to the hospital on Wednesday, where death came suddenly.

Deceased was born in the Village of Hayden, Durham County, on January 19th, 1869, a son of the late John and Clara Rodd, and came to Colchester North as a boy six years, when his parents settled on the Rodd farm, on the Malden Road, just east of Gesto.
After working with his father in his lumber business, from when he was 14 years of age to 17, he went back to school in the spring of 1883 and graduated from the University of To-

He formed a partnership of Fleming, Wigle & Rodd, which continued until he was appointed County Crown Attorney, in 1904, a position he held until 1921 when, due to pressure of private business, he resigned. He was possibly the best versed man in municipal law, especially on drainage matters, in the Province of Ontario.

He was a prominent Liberal for many years, was a Councillor in Windore in 1903 and 1904, an original member of the Windsor Masonic Lodge, A. F. and M. S., and a member of Central Windore Church.

In 1900 he married Miss Harriett L.
Mark, of Lindsay, who predeceased him in October 1932.

Surviving is a daughter, Mrs. Walter Whiteside, of Windsor, and a sister, Mrs. Clara Shepherd, of Woodstock.

Funeral services, in charge of Rev.
Dr. H. Mick, assisted by Rev. W. B.
Cunningham, were held from Central United Church, Windsor, on Saturday afternoon, while services at the grave were in charge of officers of Windsor Lodge, A. F. & M. S., with burial in Edwin Pearce.

dore; also four brothers, Alfred, of Anderson; Alex and Adolphe, of Windsor; and Albert Morency, of Colchester North; one sister, Mrs. Louise Robert,

Ladies' 5-Pin Banquet.

Prizes for the winners of the Essex section of the Ladies 5-pin League were presented, at their annual banquet, held in the Legion Club Rooms, on Tuesday evening. Each member of the winning team, viz., Mesdames Garth Brown, Eric Brown and Wilbert Jordan, and Miss Ellen Smith, were each presented with a prize by the president, Mrs. Norman Bangle, who also presented prizes to Mrs. Al. Mc-Dermott for high season average and high single game, and Mrs. Eunice Henderson for high three games.

One of the features of the evening was the drawing for twelve lovely dorprizes, a gift of Mr. Brockman, new owner of the bowling alleys, for which the ladies passed a hearty vote of thanks.

At the close, special thanks was extended to the Ladies' Auxiliary of Essex Legion for the special efforts they had made in order that the banquet be a success.

Games and dancing followed and just before leaving Mrs. Bangle was the recipient of a lovely gift from the club members in appreciation of his services as president during the past year.

Jimmy Tweedale in England.

Mrs. Jimmy Tweedale received a cable from her husband, on Sunday, in which he stated that he was back in England and was well and in good health. She also received official word from Ottawa of his safe arrival in England.

Ruscomb Church Re-opens.

On Sunday, April 22nd, one of the largest crowds ever to attend Ruscomb church was in attendance on the occasion of the re-opening of the church and the dedication of memorials. The church alterations and extensive repairs were undertaken during October of last year, but owing to delays in materials, etc., was not ready for reopening until April 22nd. It has the appearance of a well-planned up-to-date model chapel, with memorial windows (all pews as memorials) pulpit and communion table totalling altogether more than $900.00, given in memory of dear ones of long ago.

The church has cost, besides the furniture, some $3,500 in repairs and all has been raised by Ruscomb folk who go to make up the congregation. This is a worthy undertaking and our people deserve much praise for all that they have done. In addition to this amount for the renovation of the church, etc., all local funds have kept up to former levels and a little better.
People from far and near came to the re-opening services. So many were unable to get in that we had to install a loud speaker in the basement. Rev.
Creasey, of Kingsville was the preacher in the morning, and Rev. S. Johnson, of Cottam, for the evening. Rev.
J. N. Scoville was in charge of both services. The choir was under the direction of Mrs. C. Yorkie, the special soloist was Miss Yvonne Landry.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES.

It should be stressed now that though Canada and other parts of the British Commonwealth of Nations are united for certain purposes, yet the legal setup of the British Commonwealth does not provide neither in theory, nor in practice, for the establishment of any distinct "bloc" in international affairs in so far as the world Security Conference at San Francisco is concerned and each part of the British Commonwealth can speak for itself. This must be borne in mind, and this is recognized along Parliament Hill as absolutely essential in order that the man-in-the-street may be able to understand that the gathering in London of representatives of the British Commonwealth before the San Francisco Conference was, in the words of a distinguished statesman, "not to come up against other nations." Moreover, this is the position of Canada's delegation at this historic conference to create machinery for a world security organization. In fact, there is a significance in the size and composition of the Canadian delegation at this gathering, with this being reflected in usually well-informed quarters in the capital where it is pointed out that not only is the delegation made up of this country's prime minister and seven delegates but it was also composed of seven senior advisers, eight expert other advisers, stenographers, cipher clerks, messengers and guards including almost 20 persons.

Notwithstanding all the changes made in the Federal Cabinet lately, it is hinted in reliable circles in Ottawa that others will be forthcoming both before and after the general election. If the present Administration will be returned, it is known in back stage circles that, first, such Cabinet reconstruction is expected, and, second, the system of Parliamentary Assistants is favoured very strongly so that these may be responsible for many changes in the near future, some of a surprising nature, particularly where developments in the Official Opposition party warrant such changes to avoid criticism. It is suggested that the addition recently of younger men in the Cabinet in Ottawa followed closely the fact that the Progressive-Conservative Party has been putting forth candidates of younger age than usual since it is reported that the average age of their candidates for the forthcoming election was under 45 years. Then again, there is a flood of rumours circulating in the capital that political changes may come after the general election and these may involve important Cabinet changes, particularly in the Quebec representatives in the Cabinet, since it is said that, when the war will end and the draft issue will be "dead," leaders like Hon. Carlin, Hon. Powers and even Hon. Ralston, may be induced to return. At the moment, political groups in Quebec are multiplying and there is division amongst the Liberals, including a party led by former Minister Carlin, this party being known as the "Antoniouist" and nationalists in character; another group under Maxime Raymond and calling itself "Bloc Populaire" and so forth, though it must be realized that these are Liberals and inclined to support Mackenzie King's Government in peacetime after the coming general election. Indeed, even amongst these various groups or parties in Quebec, favourable stories about Premier King are heard lately, such as the wide circulation in gossip that Premier King would consider the subject of giving Canada a national flag and a national anthem at a later and suitable time. When this question was raised in the recent session of Parliament the Prime Minister replied that this "will depend on the opportunity" he (Mr. King) may have for so doing and on the appropriateness of the occasion.

There is a most interesting situation developing in regard to the possibility of Canada sending more metals to other countries, especially the United States. In the case of the United States, it is known that supplies of certain metals, such as zinc, copper, high grade iron ore, etc., are becoming rather short from a long range point of view so that Canada may find a surprisingly good market there in time. However, in the past year, the Canadian mineral production was valued at $485,524,000 compared with $539,554,000 in the previous year or a decrease of $44,030,000, with the reduction being principally in the metals group. Indeed, the value of all metals produced in Canada was $49,241,000 less or 14 per cent down and it amounted to $207,572,000. Nevertheless, this report of possible increase in metal exports to the United States or other countries in time is of deep interest to all Canadians since there is much whisper in Ottawa at this moment just as it is in other capitals of the need for lowering the trade or tariff barriers throughout the world in order to help world peace and stability.

In the midst of the quickening pace of world events, the death of President Roosevelt and the accession of Harry S. Truman to the Presidency of the United States has aroused extremely deep interest in official as well as unofficial circles in Ottawa. Moreover, it is held that the new President is fearless and forthright man who will carry on much along the lines of the late President Roosevelt, particularly in matters of foreign policy and relationship with Canada. Indeed, President Truman is known to be a dynamic and energetic generalissimo of American public life where he has shown great fighting qualities of the kind which were linked with that of the late President Roosevelt ever since he became a Senator from Missouri in 1934 and rose from the post of Chairman of the famous "Truman Committee" which acted as a watchdog of American expenditures in this war until he was named as the late President Roosevelt's 1941 running mate in the fall elections. In short, the story heard backstage in Ottawa is that the new President, Harry S. Truman, will provide the same kind of courageous and friendly leadership in foreign relations, including those between Canada and United States, as that which was peculiar or characteristic of the late President Roosevelt.

While there have been rumours of profiteering in war contracts from time to time during World War II, allegedly due in part to the fact that war expenditure committees of Parliament held their sessions in secret yet there has been an official, but denied in Ottawa, of the charge that a certain Montreal manufacturer made $48,000 profit out of a $25,000 investment, supposedly out of a war contract wherein he had bought material used in packing ammunition for 9 cents a pound from one firm and sold it to the Federal Government for 21 cents. The Minister of Munitions, Hon. C. D. Howe, disclosed a memorandum from a Senior Munitions Department official who stated that in June, 1944, a contract was awarded to Forest Products Corporation of Montreal at $340 a ton. "Mr. Joseph Pinestone, owner of Forest Products, emphatically denies he obtains the material from Standard Felt Products Ltd., Montreal, which is evidently the company to which referred," said this high official. Then again, after the contract has been awarded, investigations were made to see whether a suitable product was available elsewhere, with Standard Felt Products submitting samples for tests, though these tests proved their material to be unsuitable. In fact, investigations were still being carried on in order to obtain additional sources of supply of the material equal to that obtained from Forest Products. This has been the Federal Government's answer to the latest charge of undue war profits.

The Parliamentary Assistant to Defence Minister Douglas Abbott, has revealed in Ottawa that there were 2,223 deserters of the Canadian Home Defence troops and that 140 of the men had rifles when they left, though none had ammunition, with up to this date there were still 126 rifles which had not been recovered. It may be expected that the government office economies control division, operated during the war in the capital, may continue after the war since it has been so successful in supervising government expenditures along many lines during the war. It is held that such action is warranted, judging the good results. There has been much widespread talk or discussion throughout Canada that the Civil Service retirement age in this nation may be lowered from 65 years to 60 years as a means of providing more chances for employment for thousands of veterans of this war, with this said to be favoured by the Canadian Legion, welfare and labor organizations. However, the best information available in Ottawa indicates that no such decision has been made by the Government which has, indeed, encouraged older employees to remain on duty until 70 years lately. . . . Out of 1705 draftees, who reached the front at the end of the past month, 1,651 retained their draft status when they left Britain, with the number of draftees sent overseas at that time totalling 11,836. This was disclosed in the capital. . . . The president of the Trans-Canada Air Lines, H. J. Symington, has indicated that plans are in the making or tentative for international flights other than the present trans-Atlantic service, though the West Indies, South America and the Pacific areas are of admitted interest to this Canadian company. . . . The Royal Canadian Mounted Police headquarters in Ottawa has stated that the wartime order making a permit necessary for the possession of a rifle or a shotgun has been rescinded, even if a permit will be essential for possession of war-time trophies brought from overseas, such as automatic rifles, machine guns, or sub-machine guns. . . . Canadian Army engineering developments received a high compliment in Ottawa with the visit to the capital of Brigadier Gen. J. W. Scultz, president of the Engineering Board of the United States Army and three other American army officers in order to confer with officers of the Royal Canadian Engineers regarding the latest Canadian Army engineering developments. Creamery Butter Prices.

Effective May 1st, adjustments will be made in butter prices so that ceiling will be more uniform. According to an announcement by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, the new regulations will provide wholesalers and manufacturers with uniform mark-ups rather than the present method of using rigid basic period price levels. Board officials emphasized that the order is a redistribution of price spreads, raising the price slightly in some cases, lowering it in others. The overall effect, however, will be a more uniform price structure.

Coupons for Sugar Valid.

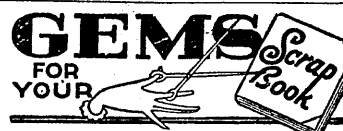

The Prices Board announced last week that "P" coupons in ration book No. 5 will be used for the purchase of preserves or sugar for canning after June 21st, when the last of the preserves coupons (No. 57) on the orange-colored sheet becomes valid. The board said 20 extra preserves coupons, each worth a half-pound of sugar or the regular value in preserves, are being made available this year for purchase of sugar for canning. Preserves coupons 43 to 44 already have been declared available for this purpose. The other extras will be preserves coupons 49 to 55, valid May 19th, and "P" coupons four to 13 valid July 19th. The regular preserves coupons, two valid each month, also may be used for the purchase of either sugar or preserves.

Ration Coupon Due Dates.

Coupons now valid are butter 30 to 104, preserves 33 to 46, sugar 46 to 57. After June 21st, when the last of the orange-colored coupons become valid "P" coupons will be good for the purchase of preserves or canning sugar. Use of the spare sheet of "P" coupons is necessary because 20 extra preserves coupons, each worth half a pound of sugar or the regular value in preserves, are being made available this year for the purchase of 10 pounds of sugar for canning.

White Grubs.

White grubs are the young stages of the common June beetles and are very injurious to the roots of many farm and garden crops. Both the white grubs and the June beetles are injurious to plant growth, but the damage done by white grubs to plant roots is much more serious than that of the June beetles to foliage of forest, fruit, and shade trees, or to small fruits.

The only sound and durable foundation for true fellowship and brotherhood is love for God, and the teachings of Christ (Jesus) that direct us in love for others.—Henry Geerlings.

Motor Vehicles Repairs Priorities.

Second class priority for repairs will be granted to motor vehicles requiring urgent repairs or replacements necessary for safe operation regardless of the owner's gasoline ration category, according to E. H. Birchard, motor vehicles administrator for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Still holding the number one spot in the priorities repair schedule was motor vehicles owned by and operated by the Canadian armed forces, the Royal Air Force Ferry Command and any of the Auxiliary War Services. Repairs to these vehicles will be made before others. Only those repairs and replacements specified by the police department may be made under the revised priorities plan. Repairs considered unnecessary for the efficient operation of a vehicle must be made in the usual manner which gives special priority to holders of high category gasoline ration books and recipients of special benefits under the Transit Control plan.

A Message from GEORGE DREW to all with Relatives and Friends Overseas

ARRANGEMENTS have been made by the Ontario Government for members of all the Armed Services overseas to vote in the coming Ontario election by placing a ballot in a ballot box for the candidate of their own choice. The arrangements which have been completed for the Ontario vote are the best which have yet been made for any Active Service vote. The Government, however, can only make the arrangements for taking the vote. What is equally important is that those who are overseas know the name of the candidates, the party they are supporting and have a sufficiently clear picture of the issues to decide how they should vote. That can only be done if those at home supply them with information. May I strongly urge every wife, mother, father, sister, brother or friend of those overseas to write and tell them all they can about the coming Ontario election. By clippings from newspapers, by editorial comment, and by personal explanation, a clear understanding can be given of what is really at stake in this Ontario election.

One of the things which will cause the greatest difficulty in the minds of those overseas, particularly those who live in large cities, is to determine which Riding they live in. Maps will be available, but even the best map sometimes leaves doubt when the voter has been away from home for a long time, or as is true in so many cases has never voted before. This difficulty will be increased because of the difference between the boundaries of Dominion and Provincial Ridings.

I would suggest that you write immediately, by airmail, to all with whom you are in communication and tell them the Riding in which they live and give them what information you can about the party and the candidate in the Riding where they are entitled to vote.

I should mention that every member of the Armed Forces overseas of any age is entitled to vote. They, above all others have the right to vote. They have preserved for us that free system of Government which depends upon the choice of our own representatives. Our job here at home is not only to make sure that they have the chance to vote but also to do everything possible to make sure that they are able to vote with knowledge of the real issues in the election.

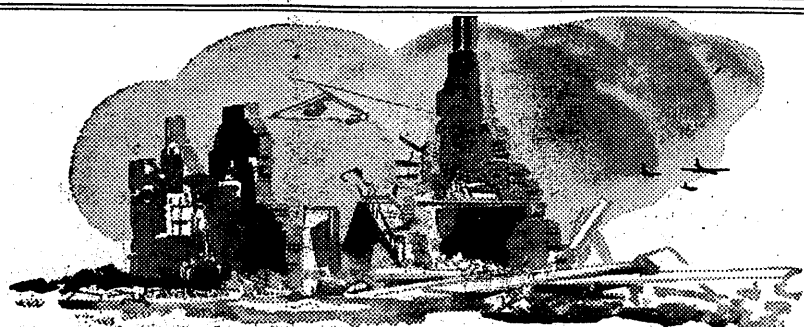

For the sake of convenience, I am suggesting that you simply cut out this message and address it to someone overseas giving the information required. Each one of us here at home has a responsibility to help them to choose the Government which will have so much to do with their future in the years of peace. May I again urge you to write at once, by airmail, not only to those closest to you but to as many as you know in any of the services outside of Canada. Tell them what Provincial Riding they reside in at home—then the name of the candidate and any further information you can supply.

Yours sincerely,

Your Provincial Riding is _____

Your Candidate is _____

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

Invest Two Sets of Twins. A unique event was staged in St. Catharines, Ont., recently, when two sets of twins were invested as members of the 3rd Westminster Pack of Wolf Cubs. They were Glen and Barry Smith and Keith and Kenneth Brown.

Operate Toy Library. Boy Scouts of Ajax, Ontario, a war-time community about twenty miles east of Toronto, have opened a Toy Library. They collect used toys, paint and repair them, and then loan them out in the same manner as books. All toys are disinfected before being let out of the library. Children may borrow toys for two weeks and there are fines for not returning them promptly.

Scouts Nab Their Men. Wings, the official magazine of the Royal Canadian Air Force tells the story of a Squadron Leader, stationed in an east coast city, who also acted as Scoutmaster of a Troop of Boy Scouts. As a field project he asked four men from his station to arrive in town one night on a certain bus. The Scouts would be waiting for them, and after giving them a head start up the busy streets they would try to bring them in to headquarters. It wasn't very long before the Scouts returned to headquarters with four struggling and kicking airmen. Two of them were particularly upset about the procedure, not being among the original four, and knowing nothing of the Squadron Leader or his Boy Scouts. They wanted to know when this crew of tough Yugoslav guerrillas, disguised as Boy Scouts arrived in town.

Time of Planting Corn.

Attention should be given to the time of planting if high yields of well matured corn are desired. This is particularly so since hybrids vary widely in the length of time required to reach maturity. Experiments at the Harrow Experimental Station to obtain information on the time of planting hybrids of the various maturities so as to obtain the highest yields possible for fully matured corn disclosed that hybrids of the medium and late maturity groups represented by Canada 415 and Canada 686 respectively, gave best results when planted early—about the middle of May. The hybrids listed in these groups can be classified as full-season.

Shorter season hybrids give the highest yields under most conditions. These hybrids should be planted as soon as conditions are favourable for quick germination in order that they will have sufficient time to fully mature. This is usually about May 19th to May 25th. If planting must be delayed much beyond May 25th it is advisable to seed earlier hybrids to ensure harvesting corn of good quality.

These statements are only applicable to Essex and Western Kent counties because east and north of this district the earlier hybrids become full-season crops which necessitates as early planting as possible.

Importance of Annuals for Pasture.

Greater attention to perennial pasture during recent years has undoubtedly increased the total amount of feed produced, but the production of evenly distributed pasture throughout the season has not been achieved. A flush of feed is still followed by a pronounced shortage a few months later, consequently, pastures must be supplemented by an annual crop to maintain the supply of feed throughout the growing season in sufficient abundance for the needs of the stock carried, says B. J. Finn, Division of Forage Plants, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

The choice of an annual crop will depend upon its suitability to the district, its cost of production and the particular season of year when grazing will be needed. Some of the crops which have been tested as supplementary pastures are fall rye, oats alone or in combination with Sudan grass and millets. Soybeans, sorghums, rape, kale and corn have also been tested.

Fall rye seeded as early as August 1st, will provide late fall pasture. If seeded later than September 1st, it will not provide pasture until the following spring. It should be seeded at 1½ to 2 bushels per acre on well prepared land in fair state of fertility. The use of oats as an annual pasture is becoming popular. Varieties such as Roxton and Beaver, which are resistant to both stem and leaf rust, will give excellent grazing if seeded about the middle of May at 2½ to 3 bushels per acre. The date of seeding may be varied, depending on the time the pasture is required. Oats may be grazed four or five weeks after seeding or when the crop is not more than one foot in height.

Sudan grass alone, seeded at 25 to 30 pounds per acre, will produce very good pasture in about six weeks. Sudan grass will grow on any type of soil adapted for corn and should not be seeded before May 30th, as it will not thrive on cold soil.

A mixture of two bushels of oats and Sudan grass at 20 pounds per acre supplies considerably more pasture than oats or Sudan grass alone. The oats will furnish early pasture while the Sudan grass makes its best growth when the soil gets warm and usually after the oats have been grazed off. This mixture should be seeded about June 1st.

Millets as an emergency crop may be seeded late—even as late as July 15th—provided moisture conditions are favourable. It is not as well adapted as oats to cool seasons, but under such conditions it does better than Sudan grass. The rate of seeding is 20 to 30 pounds per acre and it may be pastured when it is ten inches to one foot in height.

The above annual crops may be used to good advantage along with the hay aftermath from early cut clover, alfalfa or legume-grass mixtures which often provides excellent late summer pasture.

Boy Scouts of Trail, B.C., have collected more than 175 tons of salvageable materials since the outbreak of war. Seventy-five per cent of all monies derived from its sale has been given to war charities.

Shearing Time Near; Standard for Wool.

It will soon be time for shearing or harvesting the annual growth of wool from sheep.

So that the best returns may be obtained, exacting attention should be given to the preparation of the wool clip for market. A premium of 4c per pound on wool suitably prepared for market is again to be paid this year by the province co-operating and the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Clips arriving at registered wool warehouses form provinces co-operating in the payment of the bonus are reported as being much improved in respect to cleanliness and manner of preparation. Under wartime conditions in Canada as controlled by Canadian Wool Board Limited, wool prices have been stabilized and all wool collected through registered wool warehouses is disposed of by the Wool Board.

With the removal of control and the handling of the annual clip by the Board, warehouse operators will again be confronted with the problem of marketing wool collected by them, and the ease with which such problems will be met will largely depend upon the conditions of the wool as received from the grower.

The wool bonus is designed to improve the preparation of fleeces for market and encourage and assist wool growers of Canada in meeting post-war wool marketing requirements. Standards which should be followed by wool growers in the preparation of their clip for bonus are not difficult to meet. They are as follows: 1. Shear on a clean floor and avoid second cuts in the wool. In the case of sizeable range flocks, the holding pen should have slatted doors; 2. Keep all short, hairy leg and face clippings away from the fleece. If any quantity, include with tags when shipping; 3. Remove all tags, dung, locks and very muddy bellies. Pack separately; 4. Remove burry, chaffy or strawy bellies or other such badly affected fleece parts. Pack separately; 5. With fleece flesh side down on a clean surface fold twice from one side to bring back portion upmost. Roll from britch to neck. Tie each fleece with one strand of rope twine. Never use binder or other sisal twine. 6. Any other reject fleeces such as black, dead or damaged, should be packed separately.

These standards are preliminary for 1945 only and in order to meet post-war world competition, it may be necessary eventually to remove the belly portion from all fleeces. There is an evident need for the production and preparation of cleaner wool in Canada.

To obtain these standards sheep should be crutched or daggled just prior to lambing. Crutching consists of clipping away the wool around the udder and hind-quarters.

Soldiers' Tobacco Harvest Pay is Given to Red Cross.

The Canadian Red Cross Society is $27,153 richer as one result of the 1944 tobacco harvest. The amount represented the earnings of members of the Canadian Army for work in the tobacco fields last autumn, when 74,000 acres were harvested. This year the aim is 85,000 acres, according to decision of the Ontario Flue-Cured Marketing Association.

Under the Dominion-Provincial farm labor program, army personnel were made available to relieve labor shortages during the harvest in the fall of 1944. They received regular army rates of pay but farmers hiring military help were required to pay going civilian rates, the differential going to the federal government which earmarked it for the Red Cross.

Presentation of the cheque took place in the offices of the Ontario Minister of Agriculture, Hon. T. L. Kennedy, who handed it to Major-Gen. O. E. Potts, district officer commanding M.D.2, who in turn handed it to Col. S. E. Lyons, of the Red Cross.

Anemia Control in Suckling Pigs.

In recent years pig raisers have found it necessary to make a regular practice of treating young pigs with iron for the prevention of anemia. However, there are several treatments for anemia, and the recommended doses of iron compounds are not too specific. In order to investigate various sources of iron and methods of treatment for anemia control, an experiment was conducted during the past year at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, says Edward B. Fraser, of the Division of Animal Husbandry.

There were five lots in the experiment. In the first the little pigs were treated with three grains of reduced iron at one day, 8 days and 15 days of age. In the second lot the pigs were treated similarly three times with 15 grains of powdered ferrous sulphate. The pigs in lot 3 were supplied daily from birth to three weeks of age with sops sprinkled with ferrous sulphate solution (4 tablespoonfuls of a solution of 6 ozs. ferrous sulphate in one gallon of water). In lot 4 the udders of the sows were painted daily from the birth of the pigs until they were three weeks of age with a solution made by dissolving 6 ozs. of ferrous sulphate in one quart of water. The fifth lot consisted of two pigs in each litter in lots 1 and 2 which were not given any treatment for anemia.

The pigs were weighed individually at one day, 7 days, 21 days and 56 days of age. In order to determine the hemoglobin content of the blood, tests were made of each pig at these same times. In addition, records were kept of the number of pigs surviving to weaning at 56 days of age.

One of the most pertinent features of the results was that the pigs getting any of the various treatments were superior to those given no treatment. Between the various treatments tried out, ferrous sulphate solution on sops proved the best. Possibly this was due to the fact that with this treatment the pigs had a source of iron continually available. Next best, and in fact a close second, was powdered ferrous sulphate. Of lesser value as judged by the results of this experiment, were the treatments of reduced iron and the painting of the sows' udders with ferrous sulphate solution. Summing up the results, this experiment would in-

Why Aphids Amass.
Gardeners are frequently puzzled as to why aphids, or plant lice, amass so rapidly and are able to cause such serious damage in so short a time. The explanation is simple. Unlike most insects, particularly in the spring and late summer, aphids reproduce by giving birth to a living young. The offspring in about a week are themselves producing young. When this process is continued for some time, the number of aphids becomes tremendous and far outstrips the relatively slow increase of insects which reproduce only by depositing eggs.

Beekkeepers' Subsidy.
A subsidy of 50 cents per pound on all importations of live package bees, delivered to the importer in Canada during the period March 1st, 1945, to June 15th 1945, will be paid this year on the same basis as in 1944, according to a recent decision of the War-time Prices and Trade Board. The subsidy will be paid to beekkeepers, dealers, or any other persons who are importing bees for their own use or for sale. All applications for subsidy must be made to Commodity Prices Stabilization Corporation Ltd., 60 Rideau St., Ottawa.

dicate all of the treatments tried proved useful, but that the simple treatment of ferrous sulphate solution on sops daily to three weeks of age was found to be the best for the control of anemia.

Value of Carrots — How to Grow Them.

The ancient Greek and Roman physicians were fully aware of the medicinal and food qualities of the carrot, but, with the decay of agriculture and civilization in the dark ages, the properties of the carrot were forgotten, until eventually it became considered as fit only for horse feed. Once again the food value of the carrot is recognized and it is known to be an excellent source of vitamin A.

Carrots, to be appetizing, must be properly grown, stored and cooked, says W. M. Fleming, Dominion Experimental Station, Summerland, B.C. Good carrots have small cores. The first step in growing good carrots is to select good seed. Of the many varieties of carrots listed in seed catalogues five of the best are Chantenay, Danvers Half Long, Coreless, Nantes and Imperator. Choice among these varieties rests partly on personal preference and partly on local soil and climatic conditions. The safest plan is to secure the best possible seed of two or three of the varieties named and plant in rows side by side. The results will disclose the variety best suited to taste and local conditions.

Quality and tenderness in carrots are influenced largely by the time at which the seed is sown and the conditions under which the roots are grown. For best results at least two seedings should be made. The first should be sown as early in the spring as the ground can be worked to produce roots for summer use. The second should be made in June to provide roots for winter storage. While carrots will grow in a very wide range of soil and climatic conditions, they grow best in deep, fertile soil with good moisture-holding capacity. Where good care is given, a surprisingly large tonnage can be raised by a small area of ground, the rows may be planted as close as 16 inches apart and the roots thinned to only 1/4 inch apart in the row. When they reach a diameter of Canadian Food Production.

The most important factor in the improved food supply situation in Canada in 1944 has been "the tremendous increase in production on Canadian farms, according to a report of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

More than 1,350,000 cattle were slaughtered in inspected plants during 1944 compared to about 1,020,000 in 1943. Hog marketings were 8,850,000 in 1944 as compared with 7,035,000 in 1943, an increase of 23 per cent. Egg production was up 12 per cent, apple production up 22 per cent, potato production was up 10 per cent over 1943. The report adds that "these figures are even more remarkable when it is remembered that 1943 itself was a year of unusually high output."

Referring to the marketing of livestock the report submitted by Donald Gordon, Board chairman, states that the high levels of production made it possible to ship record quantities of livestock to the United Kingdom, as well as to ship to that country for the first time large quantities of beef, while meeting the requirements of the armed forces and filling all essential civilian demands.

half an inch every other one can be removed. At this stage they are very tasty served unpeeled as creamed carrots.

Where proper storage conditions are provided carrots can be retained in excellent condition throughout the winter. The essential factors to good storage are low temperature and moist atmosphere. Excellent results have been secured by storing carrots between layers of damp peat or old sawdust in a cellar where the temperatures run just above freezing.

Carrots should be cooked rapidly. It is important that a small amount of water be used and that this water be drained off for making soups and gravies, as it is rich in health giving minerals and vitamins.

The Biter Bit.

Lead arsenate is probably the safest and most generally recommended insecticide for use in gardens against biting insects. It can be used as a spray at the rate of one ounce to a gallon of water, or in dust form, diluted with four times its weight of hydrated lime, talc, or ordinary wheat flour. The lead arsenate is harmless to the most tender foliage, relatively cheap, and effective against most insects which feed by eating holes in the foliage of broad-leaved plants.

To Continue to Pay Milk Subsidies.

The Dominion Government will continue to pay the same subsidies on milk and milk products during the 12 months beginning May 1 as in the period, May 1, 1944—April 30, 1945, the Dominion Department of Agriculture announced.

The subsidy of 10 cents per pound of butterfat used in the manufacture of creamery butter and of 20 cents per 100 pounds on milk for cheese manufacture will be paid throughout the year. In authorized areas a subsidy of 35 cents per 100 pounds on fluid milk will be paid to producers from May 1, 1945 to September 30, 1945, and 55 cents per 100 pounds from October 1st, 1945, to April 30th, 1946, except in certain areas where it will continue at 25 cents. For milk used in the manufacture of concentrated milk products and of milk sugar, subsidy will be paid at the rate of 15 cents per 100 pounds from May 1st, 1945, to September 30th, 1945. This will be raised to the winter level of 30 cents per 100 pounds at October 1st, 1945.

Subsidies paid at present and up to April 30th are 10 cents per pound of butterfat used in the manufacture of creamery butter, 20 cents per 100 pounds on milk for cheese manufacture, 55 cents per 100 pounds for fluid milk — except in certain areas where it is 25 cents — and 30 cents per 100 pounds for milk used in the manufacture of concentrated milk products and milk sugar.

What every housewife should know... about SUGAR FOR CANNING

For tasty, nourishing and economical winter desserts, most Canadian housewives will again do some preserving this year... jams, jellies and all kinds of fresh fruits. Sugar is still very scarce. We must continue to conserve our supplies. This year, the allowance for home canning will be the same as in 1944—ten pounds per person. Be sure to use your ration sparingly.

HOW TO GET SUGAR FOR CANNING

Instead of special home canning sugar coupons, twenty extra preserves coupons in Ration Book No. 5 are being made available for the purchase of sugar for canning. These coupons are good for half a pound of sugar each or the stated value in commercial preserves, for they are the same as any of your preserves coupons. You may use any other valid preserves coupons to purchase sugar, also at half a pound each. No exchange is necessary. Your grocer will accept any valid preserves coupons when you purchase sugar for canning. There are now only two kinds of coupons for sugar. The regular sugar coupon, good for one pound of sugar, and the preserves coupon, worth half a pound of sugar.

USE ONLY AS REQUIRED

The twenty extra preserves coupons for sugar for canning will remain valid until declared invalid by the Ration Administration. You do not have to use them immediately. You will be given plenty of notice of their expiry date.

GUARD YOUR RATION BOOK

If you lose your ration book, the extra preserves coupons which have already been declared valid will not be replaced. It is up to each consumer to look after his or her ration book.

Life in Nazi Prison Camps is Not "Leisure Unlimited."

By J. E. Thompson.

"What a wonderful chance you must have had to study! Did you learn any German? What did you do with your time?"

These are typical questions fired at repatriated prisoners-of-war, and they illustrate an understandable, but nonetheless erroneous, concept of what life is like in the barbed-wire compounds of German prison camps.

Boredom is the chief complaint of prisoners-of-war who leads naturally to the conclusion that prisoners have little else to do with their time but to study or play.

But this does not apply at all to prisoners below the rank of commissioned or non-commissioned officers, the group classified in the army as "other ranks," who constitute the main body of the army and, by the same token, the largest group of army prisoners in Germany.

Under the terms of the Geneva convention, other ranks are required to do whatever work is assigned to them by their captors, provided only that it is not directly part of the war effort. Deprivation of this exception is difficult and can be obtained only by appeal to the protecting power. Hence Canadian prisoners-of-war in Germany who are not wounded or ill — and no officers or N.C.O.'s — work on farms and road building in factories and salt mines.

Their hours of work are long and the work usually very strenuous, so you would scarcely expect them to spend their few hours of relaxation in serious study. Yet the amazing fact is that these boys do hunger for the chance to spend these few hours studying, and that they welcomed the Canadian Legion Educational Services almost as much as any other group of prisoners.

These boys live in wooden huts when they are out on "commands" — the prison word for "work parties" — and hunger, cold and over-crowding are their normal companions. Their efforts to study under these conditions are a supreme testimony to their courage and strength of character.

But it is in the Oflogs where officers are confined, and in the Stalags where N.C.O.'s and men not on "commands" are kept, that the Legion educational services are most welcome.

Even here, hunger, cold and over-crowding create constant difficulties. Quite a considerable amount of the prisoner's time is consumed in other essential tasks — laundry, mending, housekeeping, cooking, etc., to say nothing, of course, of the "security" tasks which cannot be described.

In spite of these handicaps, in Stalag 333 — a typical camp — 2,373 prisoners out of a total population of 4,686 were attending school on October 1st, 1943. Classes were being conducted in 84 different subjects, ranging from accountancy and aerial survey to transport finance and welding, from chemistry and horticulture to motor engineering and applied mathematics.

One large building — unheated — had been partitioned (with Red Cross box wood) into seven rooms — still held from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

More than 50 out of 200 Canadians in one Lager (prison compound) at attending agricultural classes on swine Stalag Luft III in December, 1943, were breeding, dairy farming, sheep husbandry, bee-keeping, poultry and fruit farming, farm management and economics. And these were young men within a few months after leaving high school in Canada.

In crowded Oflogs I have seen officers studying under most difficult — and yet amusing — circumstances. In a diningroom about 35 feet wide and 60 feet deep, without partitions of any sort, 12 and 14 classes were conducted at one time. Singly, or on groups of two, three or four, other officers were studying or attending classes on stairways in window alcoves, on a plot of ground 20 by 60 feet which formed part of the "outfield" of the softball diamond, in wash-room cubbyholes — triple-decker wooden beds.

Yes, these prisoners appreciated the Canadian Legion Educational Services more, I think, than any other single effort on their behalf, with the exception always, of course of Red Cross food parcels. Man must eat even before he learns. They appreciated the educational services for what they offered in opportunities to improve themselves and prepare for their eventual rehabilitation, but most of all, perhaps, because they were concrete evidence that the folks at home understood one of the most critical problems of prison life and provide a most practical solution.

In the third and concluding article of this series I will give some examples of individual accomplishments by prisoners of war in the educational field, and tell how the Canadian Legion in particular, has assisted Canadian prisoners-of-war to help themselves.

Save the Young Pigs.

Losses of young pigs at the farrowing, nursing and weaning stages can be greatly reduced if some thought and foresight are given to the small details. These when overlooked frequently mean the difference between life and death to the young pigs and greater or reduced profits to the owner, says W. W. Cram, Dominion Experimental Farm, Indian Head, Sask.

In addition to the usual feeds and supplements, it is advisable to provide the sow with extra iodine during pregnancy as a safeguard against hairlessness or goitre in her new-born litter. This is easily and cheaply done by dissolving one ounce of potassium iodide in a gallon of water and giving each sow one tablespoonful of the solution in feed twice weekly during gestation.

Regular daily exercise and a healthy bowel condition of the pregnant or nursing sow and litter is important. Supplementary feeds of a laxative, cooling nature, such as green pasture, alfalfa hay or alfalfa meal, bran and roots, are valuable aids to health and thrift.

Being on the job at farrowing time will generally repay the owner many times over for time so spent. If the farrowing pen is equipped with heating facilities, guard rails and a creep, many deaths from chilling, crushing and under nourishment may be avoided.

Removal of the needle teeth from pigs at birth by the use of small side-cutting pliers will prevent injury to the sow's udder as well as to litter-mates, resulting in fewer losses and greater thrift in young pigs.

Anaemia in young pigs and resultant losses, can be avoided by providing fresh sows and extra iron to litters. As soon as litters are 4 or 5 days old each pig should receive, on the tongue, as much iron sulphate as can be held equal to a 10-cent piece, or reduced iron treatment is repeated once weekly until the pigs are eating well, two or three doses generally being sufficient.

Pigs that are well nourished and maintained under healthful conditions during nursing and weaning stages are the kind that grow most quickly and profitably into market pigs of top quality.

Tobacco Seedbeds for Steaming.

A good supply of uniform, healthy seedlings helps in saving labour at transplanting time and permits a good start toward a paying crop of fine cured tobacco. Patchy or uneven seedbeds are frequently the result of improper preparation and steaming, says F. A. Stinson, Officer-in-Charge, Dominion Experimental Sub-Station, Delhi, Ont.

To destroy disease organisms and weed seeds by steaming, the soil should be loose and just moist enough to crumble when moved. Ordinary steaming has little effect on frozen, wet, packed or very dry soil. Steam moves more freely through sand than

The greenhouse that has been open all winter should be closed about the third week of February to give it time to thaw out. If there is proper drainage the soil will be in condition to work up a few days after the frost is all out. In greenhouses that have been closed all winter it is well to water the beds thoroughly a few days before starting to prepare them. One of the benefits from improved soil-moisture conditions lies in starting germination of disease spores and weed seeds, thus making them more readily destroyed by heat. An accumulation of muck interferes with drainage, and any left from the previous season should be scraped off the bed before it is worked up.

Tests made at the Dominion Experimental sub-station at Delhi point to the importance of turning the soil over to a depth of from six to ten inches to loosen and mix it. Heat penetrates rapidly to the depth of spading and moves more slowly beyond there. These tests show the need for leaving the soil loose while levelling and putting on the muck. Any packing of the bed by tramping when preparing it or moving the pans, interfering with steaming in that area and may be noticed later by the poorer growth of seedlings.

A layer of muck, one to one and a half inches thick appears to be most satisfactory. Yellow patch and bed rot owing to poor drainage appears more often where too much muck is used.

Comparisons have shown that fertilizer is more effective when applied after steaming. Besides, substances that are injurious to seedlings are formed under some conditions where steaming follows the application of fertilizers in the bed.

In growing uniform seedlings preparation of the whole bed thoroughly and uniformly is important.

DUST IN MOTOR.

Dirt and dust allowed to collect around the air passages of an electric motor on the farm causes overheating. This is likely to result in serious damage if the air is kept from circulating through the coils. Electrical specialists suggest the use of a tire pump or hand bellows to blow dust out of the motor.

A gloom was cast over our community, last week-end, when Mr. and Mrs. Alex Allen received word that their only son, Pte. Alexander Deehan Allen had paid the supreme sacrifice with his life, that we might live in peace.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the bereaved family in their great loss.

Miss Lauretta Allen, of Detroit, spent the week-end with her father, Wm. Allen.

Attorney Alex Glick and wife, of Wyandotte, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Everett O. Cowan, of Kingsville, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Potter.

What would we give, her hand to clasp, Her patient face to see, To hear her voice, to see her smile, As in the days that used to be. But some sweet day we'll meet again, Beyond the toll and strife, And clasp each other's hand once more In Heaven that happy life.

Sadly missed by her son Harold, daughter-in-law Myrtle, and grandchildren Helen Pace and Harley Hyland.

In loving memory of Eva Hutzler Manley, who passed away four years ago, May 2nd, 1941.

Lovingly remembered by her family, grandchildren and great grandchildren.

In loving memory of Thomas Gerard, a loving father, who passed away seven years ago, April 23rd, 1938.

Seven years have passed and gone, Since one we loved so well, Was taken from our home on earth, With Jesus Christ to dwell.

The flowers we place upon his grave May wither and decay, But the love for him who sleeps beneath Shall never fade away.

Sadly missed by his loving children.

Buys New Herd Sire.

Norton Price, well-known Holstein breeder, whose farm is near McGregor, has purchased a 16-month-old pure bred Holstein bull, "Hayes Stepin Don," as sire for his herd of close to forty head, from Hayes & Company, of Calgary, Alta. This bull's dam, Dona Hebon Dekol, lead the honour roll across Canada, in the April list, for 5-year-olds, on 4 milkings a day for 364 days. She produced 21,489 lbs. of milk, 933 lbs. of butter fat, with a test of 4.57.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Jessie Beatrice Hyland, who passed away four years ago, April 23rd, 1941.

What would we give, her hand to clasp, Her patient face to see, To hear her voice, to see her smile, As in the days that used to be. But some sweet day we'll meet again, Beyond the toll and strife, And clasp each other's hand once more In Heaven that happy life.

Sadly missed by her son Harold, daughter-in-law Myrtle, and grandchildren Helen Pace and Harley Hyland.

In loving memory of Eva Hutzler Manley, who passed away four years ago, May 2nd, 1941.

Lovingly remembered by her family, grandchildren and great grandchildren.

In loving memory of Thomas Gerard, a loving father, who passed away seven years ago, April 23rd, 1938.

Seven years have passed and gone, Since one we loved so well, Was taken from our home on earth, With Jesus Christ to dwell.

The flowers we place upon his grave May wither and decay, But the love for him who sleeps beneath Shall never fade away.

Sadly missed by his loving children.

Boys Urgently Needed to Fill Camps on Farms.

A critical situation has developed in connection with the opening of the farm service camps for boys by the Ontario Farm Service Force, Alex McLaren, director, declared this week, in making an appeal for boys on farm work. The camp at Burlington was opened on Thursday of this week, but only eleven boys were available to wards meeting a quota of sixty for that camp. Fifty more boys are needed at once to fill the Burlington area. The early season has upset all the calculations made, and in several cases the opening dates for camps have had to be advanced on account of the urgent need for help for early spring work. The camps at Leamington and Harrow must be opened immediately, and will be opened as soon as sufficient boys are available. Other camps are due to open on May 1st, and the large camp at Holland Marsh, which was scheduled to open on May 24th, may have to be advanced to May 15th, on account of the early season.

"The situation is the most serious we have ever faced," said Mr. McLaren, "and we must secure boys somewhere to fill these camps. Secondary school principles and teachers can be of great help in releasing students at once to fill the camps, where the situation is really critical and the need is very urgent."

Applications from boys willing to go to Farm Service Camps will be welcomed, and should be made at once to the Ontario Farm Service Force, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

A.R.P. Director Praises Scouts.

On relinquishing his post as Director of Civil Defence recently, Brigadier General Alex Ross paid tribute to Canada's Boy Scouts in the A.R.P. organization. In a letter to Dominion Headquarters, Brig. Ross says: "I have visited Civil Defence units all over Canada and wherever I have gone I have found Boy Scouts performing them well. At all times we have received each merchant may adopt and carry from them the finest co-operation and out his own program with respect to these phases of his business."

Out of Our Abundance.

By Joseph Lister Rutledge.

This is our Eighth Victory Loan. Year after year we have subscribed with varying emotions. There were days when we did so, feeling almost that we were paying for life and liberty. Now we are asked to subscribe when we have a confident knowledge that victory is sure and not too distant.

There is encouragement in that change, but here is also ground for sober thought. As we come closer to victory the tempo and the destructiveness of war increase. With that increase there is a growing cost—a cost in dollars that we can afford; a cost in youth that is so gallantly offering itself has no delusions that victory is easy, or that the need for sacrifice will be over when the present fighting ends.

The tragedy would be if we or they should confuse the end of open fighting in Europe with a real and lasting peace, or that, having set our hands to so great a task, the first sign of victory should lead us to think that we had sacrificed enough. Germany's surrender cannot end the demands that face us. There is another war in the Pacific, and even when that war has ended, victory will still be distant. There can be no real victory until there is some shadow of peace in a war-torn world. There can be no lasting prosperity here while there is bitterness and despair abroad. Our narrowing world has made each one his brother's keeper, in his own selfish interests if for no higher reason. So our Victory Loans must assure us not only the success of arms but the larger and wiser success of peace. We are as much obligated and interested in paying for the one as we are in paying for the other.

There can be no comparison between one who offers his life and one who offers his money at interest. Yet, to most of us, the loaning of our money and the small, immediate doing with it, that this entails are almost the greatest contributions we can make for this war and for a lasting peace to follow.

What we Canadians have given in the past has been subscribed out of a growing abundance. The average personal income of every Canadian has doubled during the years of war. This is not because the wealthy have grown wealthier, as we are prone to believe. It is an abundance that we all have enjoyed, and especially the nine out of ten of us who make up that great mass of people who earn less than $2,500. For these people represent four out of every five dollars of our increased national income.

The obligation on us average people is that we shall not stop short of our complete effort to win the war that, materially at least, has benefited rather than harmed us. And if we are able to retain these benefits, the obligation is on us also to spend to secure a peace of equity and stability and justice for a world.

Once more we can subscribe for the peace honour and integrity of a world—for something in which we have believed, and for which our sons have suffered, and for which our sons have honour and in the assured hope that, doing so, we are protecting a generous pattern of life for their return.—Liberty Magazine, May 5th.

Sales and Deliveries of Goods.

Regulations forbidding the delivery of goods under a certain value and restrictions governing exchanges and refunds have been revoked by the War-time Prices and Trade Board, officials in the regional office reminded merchants and the public following the reporting of some confusion. Merchants are now free to effect their own policies regarding deliveries and exchanges or refunds. Under the previous regulations the delivery of articles valued at less than $1 were forbidden except in certain specified cases. Refunds were permitted provided the goods found Boy Scouts performing them well. At all times we have received each merchant may adopt and carry from them the finest co-operation and out his own program with respect to these phases of his business.

Labor for Sugar Beets.

Farm labour in Southwestern Ontario, particularly for sugar beet crops, will be more plentiful this year, James McKerrall, field representative for the Canada & Dominion Sugar Company said in Chatham this week.

Mr. McKerrall explained that during the past few days he had had an opportunity to visit other parts of the province where labor in certain industries was slackening off. These men, many of them experienced in farm work, expressed a desire to come to the various sugar beet districts in Southwestern Ontario as soon as called upon. Some, he said, would arrive within the next four weeks and will be available by the time sugar beets are ready for thinning and blocking.

Mr. McKerrall added that large groups of men had signed up for farm work in this district and they expressed the opinion that numerous others would be available within another few weeks. He said he left the district greatly impressed with the feeling of the men who appear anxious to take part in the work this summer.

Mr. McKerrall said that he had visited this same area for a number of years, and he stated the prospects are better for farm help this year than they have been for many years.

With this aspect of the labor situation, more promising and with prisoners-of-war help available, sugar beet growers therefore will have little difficulty in securing far malar when their crops are ready in various stages. Mr. McKerrall pointed out that some five hundred and fifty prisoners-of-war would be available from three nearby camps and two more camps would be opened if it was found necessary.

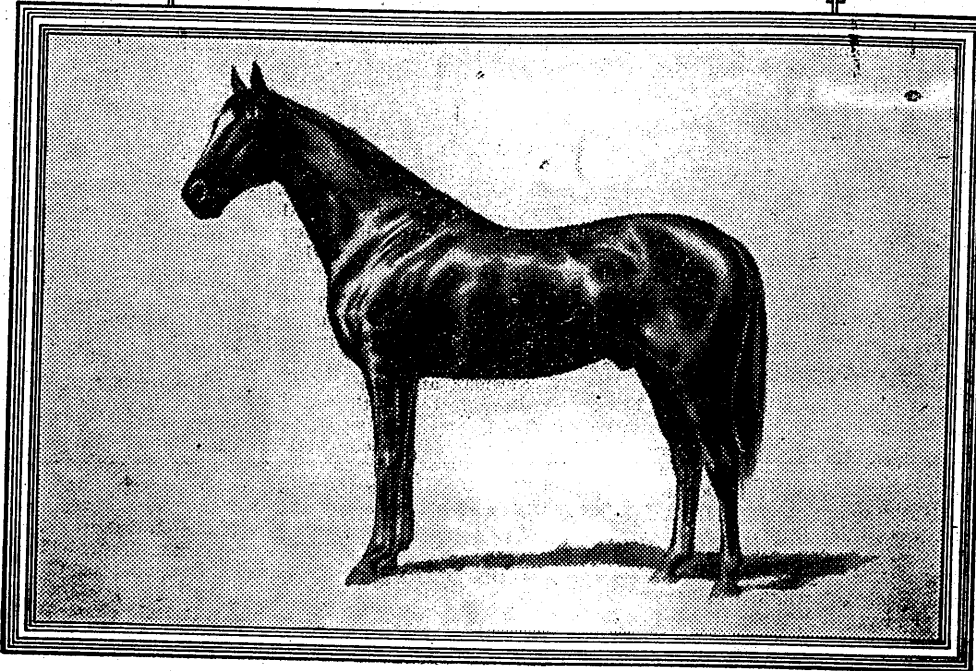

Worms in Lawns.

Earthworms in lawns and golf courses can be eliminated by treating the turf with corrosive sublimate. The poison should be diluted in water at the rate of one ounce to 10 gallons. The solution should be sprinkled liberally over the turf, and the area thus treated should then be thoroughly sprinkled by means of a garden hose to wash the poison down to the roots of the grass. Because corrosive sublimate corrodes metal, thereby losing much of its strength, glass, wooden or earthenware vessels should be used in mixing and applying the solution.

Farmers - Grow More Sugar Beets

(CANADA'S SUGAR RATION ALREADY HAS BEEN CUT THREE TIMES IN 1945)

S. R. Noble, Dominion Sugar Administrator, said last week:

"The war in Europe will soon be over but this will not mean a sugar surplus; on the contrary, it will undoubtedly increase the demand in relation to the supply.

The sugar situation is critical and sugar-beet production should be expanded to the limit."

All sugar-producing countries are being urged to step up production to the limit. This is our only means of staving off further cuts in sugar rationing. Doubling the acreage of sugar beets over 1944 will increase the sugar production to about 80,000,000 pounds. No surplus problem faces the Ontario sugar-beet growers because the sugar company guarantees two things: First, A CASH MARKET FOR ALL SUGAR BEETS HARVESTED and, second, A GUARANTEED FLOOR PRICE.

LABOR PROSPECTS BRIGHTER

1. Farm workers temporarily in industry are to be returned to the farms by National Selective Service.
2. Expected 35% reduction in war industry will turn flow of labor back to farms.
3. More and more of our boys are returning from Overseas. This movement home-ward should grow rapidly.
4. Prisoners of war camped in three or four handy places will be available for emergency needs. End of the European war will not change this programme.

THE war will not end when the last shot is fired in Europe or in Asia.

Still before us is the vital task of building the peace so dearly won on foundations that will endure.

Still before us is the task of the change-over from a wartime to a peacetime economy and the rehabilitation of the men of our fighting forces.

Until these tasks are finished, we dare not relax our efforts. The sacrifices already made must not have been in vain.

Each Has His Place.

The First Commandment of the Hebrew Decalogue is: "Thou shalt have no other gods before me" (Exodus 20:3).

This commandment requires us not only to put God first, but to recognize at all times His supremacy, His infinity, perfection, and all-power. Since there is no power but God, it would be a breach of this commandment to give credence to any idea endeavouring to compete with or to limit God's ever-present government.

In the first chapter of Genesis we find written "So God created man in His own image in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them."

In the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mary Baker Eddy, the author, writes: "God is the creator of man, and, the divine Principle of man, reflecting perfect, the divine idea or reflection, man, remains perfect. Man is the expression of God's being. If there ever was a moment when man did not express the divine perfection, then there was a moment when man did not express God, and consequently a time when Deity was unexpressed, that is, without entity." Then what a privilege and what a duty is ours.

Rate of Planting Corn.

During the 1944 season many farmers realized for the first time the importance of the rate of planting corn. This was demonstrated by the exceptionally dry weather during midsummer and fall.

Barren stalks were much in evidence last season in fields of hybrid corn. This was not the fault of the hybrids but rather the result of dry weather and too thick seeding. Under such conditions normal development of the corn plant is hindered by the lack of moisture. As a hybrid produces a larger root system, a sturdier plant and a higher yield than open-pollinated varieties there is more competition between plants and a heavier drain on soil moisture and fertility, says C. G. Mortimore, Dominion Experimental Station, Harrow, Ont. On moist soils, hills spaced at 42 inches will support three plants but if the spacing is 40 inches or less it is advisable to plant two kernels per hill. This will give the plants a better chance to develop and produce higher quality corn with no sacrifice in yield. Under adverse weather conditions as in 1944 this rate of seeding may often mean the difference between success and failure. However, an exceptionally fertile soil seeding may be slightly heavier and give excellent results.

The tendency has been even more common towards too thick seeding of ensilage corn than in the case of grain corn. To obtain ensilage of the highest feed value it is necessary to have the ears in the medium dough stage. Too thick planting will result in spindly plants on which the ears will not properly develop. For best results with drilled seeding the plants should be 10 to 12 inches apart in the row and the rows not closer than 36 inches. If planted in hills the same rate as for grain planting is recommended.

It is important to remember at all times that as children of God, reflecting His goodness in all our ways, we have infinite resources and unlimited possibilities. We are assured of this divine inheritance in the third chapter of 1 John: "Behold, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God" and "Beloved, now are we the sons of God." This assurance has no limitation. It belongs to all who read and understand. It goes beyond creed or denomination. It is ours to accept. How much better it is to know the truth about our divine sonship, and to rely always upon God's wisdom and direction, than it is to be self-willed, dictatorial, or vacillating and have to learn through suffering. — Christian Science Monitor.

Tighten Machinery Ration Rules.

Farmers are urged to continue to repair and keep in operation farm machines which they already own and are strongly advised to consult their nearest farm equipment rationing officer before disposing of the machinery they now own, with the thought of replacing it either immediately or at some later date.

Abuses in the distribution of farm machinery have necessitated an amendment to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board Order No. 47. The present provisions make it plain that a person disposes of machinery which he owns and is of a class or type which is rationed with the thought of replacing it later, without first having consulted the farm machinery rationing officer for his district, his application for new equipment will not be considered. A number of cases have been reported where the farmer finished some particular operation early in the season, sold his equipment to a neighbour, and later made application for new machinery, stating on his application that he had no machinery of that type.

Farm equipment supplies for Canadian farmers are equal to those being made available to American farmers in relation to the output in both countries during the years 1940 and 1941. In both the United States and Canada however, the supply which can be built under existing circumstances falls short of meeting the demand.

Musts in Soybean Production.

Soybeans are not a hard crop to grow, but there is a certain procedure and recognized practices in the production of this crop which must be followed for satisfactory results.

Soybeans vary widely in maturity, therefore careful attention must be given to the choice of a variety and one must be chosen that is adapted to the district in which it is to be grown says F. Dimmock, Division of Forage Plants, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Seeding must be done early, in most areas about the middle of May. Satisfactory growth and production cannot be expected from too late seeding. The seed must be inoculated with the proper culture before planting, particularly where the crop is to be grown on land which has never before produced soybeans.

Soybeans must be planted on land that is clean. The crop grows slowly in the early stages and is not a good weed competitor at this time. During the time the crop is from one to six inches high it must be gone over once or twice with a spike-tooth harrow or rotary hoe to destroy effectively small weeds.

Row cultivation must be level to avoid ridging of the rows, which interferes with harvesting operations. If harvesting operations are to be done with a combine the crop must be allowed to mature as completely as possible standing in the field in order to thresh satisfactory and to be dry enough to store well.

If harvesting is to be done with a binder, cutting must be done in the morning when the pods are damp with dew, in order to avoid shelling as much as possible.

To store large quantities of the threshed crop in bins, the beans must be dry and well matured and contain not over 14 per cent of moisture. If the moisture is higher than this, they must be turned over occasionally in order to avoid spoilage from heating.
